IMPORTANT NOTE: All of the following information in this record book has at least one source of verification. However, due to the lack of reliable computerized records prior to the 21st century, there may be gaps or discrepancies within. If you have any information that would help add to the volume of this record book or fill in any gaps, your assistance would be greatly appreciated. Please contact Oglethorpe's sports information office at dmanget@oglethorpe.edu.

Further, due to rules and restrictions on allowable contests, season length, etc. within the NCAA, this record book focuses primarily on Oglethorpe's NCAA Division III era, which began in fall 1988. Oglethorpe previously competed intermittently in the NAIA and NCAA, but any records set prior to 1988 will not be reflected unless otherwise noted.

Conference History

Southern Athletic Association (SAA), 2012-present

Oglethorpe in the SAA: Oglethorpe became a founding member of the Southern Athletic Association when the league was formed in 2012.

About the SAA: The Southern Athletic Association is committed to fostering athletic competition and cooperation among academically selective, residential liberal arts colleges located in the southeastern region of the United States. The geographic focus will result in reduced travel time and fewer missed classes, while still allowing for a strong conference of like-minded institutions, all of which integrate competitive athletics into the whole of the student's educational experience.

SAA Membership: The SAA is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III. The SAA core members include Berry College, Centre College, Millsaps College, Oglethorpe University, Rhodes College, Southwestern University, Trinity University and the University of the South.

Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference (SCAC), 1991-2011

About the SCAC: The Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference (SCAC) was founded and began operation on September 1, 1962, as the College Athletic Conference (CAC). Following membership changes throughout the 1970s and 1980s, the conference went through restructuring and renaming, eventually becoming the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference in 1991 with the addition of Oglethorpe that same year.

Oglethorpe competed in the SCAC for 21 seasons.

Departing the SCAC: After the conclusion of the June 7, 2011 SCAC Presidents' meeting, the conference announced that seven of its twelve member institutions would be leaving to form a new conference effective at the conclusion of the 2011-12 academic year. The schools departing included founding CAC/SCAC members Centre College, Sewanee-The University of the South, and Rhodes College, in addition to Birmingham-Southern College, Hendrix College, Millsaps College, and Oglethorpe University.
