The Peach Belt Conference

The Peach Belt Conference is committed to providing, through its dependent collegiate members, a forum for student participation in athletic, academic and co-curricular events under the auspices of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, Division II.

We will exemplify the characteristics of a premier intercollegiate conference that prides itself on the inclusion of students of all demographic groups who wish to participate in a well-rounded sports program. Our institutions, our academic goals, our athletic aspirations reflect a communality of purpose and a commitment to excellence in the classroom and on the playing field.

This is USC Aiken

The University of South Carolina Aiken was chartered in 1961 after entering into an agreement with the University of South Carolina to establish a two-year center in Aiken.

The Aiken Center opened its doors in September 1961 to 139 students. Temporarily housed in Banksia, a renovated mansion in Aiken, the Center consisted of three full-time faculty members (one of whom served as Director of the Center).

In 1968, the Center underwent an institutional self-study and was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools as a branch of the University of South Carolina and as a junior college. The first associate degrees were awarded in June 1968.

The campus of USC Aiken moved from Banksia to its present site in 1972 and physical changes began to occur rapidly. At first, the permanent campus consisted of 100 acres and one multipurpose building which housed all university operations. A library was completed in 1975, and additional land was donated that increased the campus to 144 acres. In October 1977, the Student Activities Center was opened. A classroom building was occupied in 1978, and one year later, an auxiliary services building was added.

An apartment complex for students, Pacer Downs, was ready for occupancy in the fall of 1984. More construction additions to the campus included completion of the Etherredge Center, Ruth Patrick Science Education Center, the Business and Education Building, and the Alan B. Miller Nursing Building. Additional land was acquired increasing the campus to 400 acres.

Academic and organizational changes also occurred rapidly. The faculty formalized its organizational structure and redefined its role in the governance of the institution in 1974-75. Also, the students reorganized their governing body and more precisely defined their role on campus; the administration and staff structures were overhauled and expanded to meet the demands of the growing academic programs.

When the full-time equivalent student enrollment reached 1,066 in the fall of 1975, the USC Aiken campus was permitted to plan for senior level courses and to create a number of baccalaureate degree programs. In that same year, USCA received approval as a four-year branch campus by the Board of Trustees of the University of South Carolina, and USCA was designated a Recognized Candidate for Senior College Accreditation. In September 1976, the Board of Trustees granted academic autonomy to the Aiken Campus. The first bachelor's degrees were granted in May 1977, and USCA became a fully accredited senior college.

Presently, the college community is comprised of more than 3,200 students, over 100 full-time faculty, approximately 110 staff members, and 28 administrators. USCA awards bachelor's degrees in more than 20 major areas of study, master's degrees in two areas, and offers a varied program of continuing education courses for the wider community.

Today USC Aiken offers students a liberal education designed to develop an understanding of human experience which will equip them for life in a free society. To accomplish this, the University provides students with an opportunity to discover learning processes which enable them to grow personally and socially.

It promotes students' interaction within a community of active scholars and artists, and it encourages students to use the knowledge which they gain to deal with the problems of a rapidly changing world.

Team Preview

After narrowly missing out on the 2015 NCAA Tournament, head coach Kenny Thomas has his team primed and ready for a run through the ever-tough Peach Belt Conference en route to earning a bid to the prestigious postseason tournament.

The University of South Carolina Aiken baseball team had two juniors drafted a season ago in Sean Miller and Tyler Moore while heralded senior Ty Barkell inked a free agent deal. Despite the talented losses, Thomas added an abundance of talent and is prepared for the season.

"We have a lot of new faces," Thomas said. "This year, our team is truly balanced. We have a lot of talented players but they will have to make themselves into super-star status."

Thomas will carry 17 pitchers on the roster. With a solid core returning from last year, it should be one of the strengths of the 2016 team.

The weekend starters could feature two players that are new to the roster. Brooks Calvo, Connor Riley and Trevor Hutto could take the mound every weekend. Nick Yobbi and Erik Davis could each start or come out of the very talented bullpen that features returners Jared Felix, Hunter Hubbard, Cole Lee, James Lynch and Joe Marlow, among other talented players.

"Our first through 12 guys are all really experienced," Thomas stated. "The bullpen is really strong and we hope it is as good as we think it is. Our starters should be good and our pitching staff could be a real positive part of the team."

USC Aiken has four really experienced catchers on the roster.

"It is tough to clog up the roster with four catchers, but all four are very good," Thomas said. "Someone will have to play somewhere else and that could be Zach Moon, who has seen time in the outfield and at first base. He should be able to play multiple positions for us."

The infield lost a couple of valuable cogs in the line-up in Barkell and Miller, but the Pacers have a wealth of talent to replace everyone.

"Brian Parreira is a sophomore transfer from Mount Saint Mary's," Thomas stated. "He came here as a catcher but is a good defensive first baseman. Brian is a great addition to the team.

"Joey Smithers could be one of the only freshmen in the line-up," Thomas continued. "Skylar Mercado could also see time at second or third base. Jonathan Banks and David Lankster are juniors that are very experienced. Tyler Ammerman could replace Miller at shortstop. He makes all the plays and has a chance to be a great player."

The outfield lost all three everyday starters from a season ago, but the Pacers have bolstered the team with moving some pieces around.

"We moved Chaz Pal to left field," Thomas stated. "It is a good move for him and our team. He has worked hard on learning to play the position. Mitchell Price can play center field and can cover a lot of ground for us. Last year, Nile Goings was injured during his first start but he has all the ability in the world. Luke Westerbeg is a transfer that could play all three positions. He was a good hitter in junior college so Goings or Westerberg could fill out the line-up there."

SCHEDULE

"This is the toughest February I've ever had," Thomas said. "I like to play tough games so the schedule is always challenging and this year with be no exception. The PBC is really tough and several teams could be near the top of the league."

The Pacers have 33 home games this year, but fans at home and away will see USC Aiken face off against a tough schedule from the first regular-season game until the last one.

Thomas' team opens the year with a three-game homestand against Lincoln Memorial starting Feb. 5. The team entertains Emmanuel in a mid-week clash before opening PBC play the following weekend with a three-game stint against the Pirates of Armstrong State.

USC Aiken hosts Wingate Feb. 17 before completing its long homestand with a league series against Lander (Feb. 19-21).

The Pacers hit the road for the first time in 2016 against the team that put them out of the 2015 PBC Tournament when they make the trek to Georgia College (Feb. 26-28).

USC Aiken returns home for six straight games starting with a mid-week contest against Paine (March 2). The Pacers take on Georgia Southwestern (March 4-5) before closing the homestand with a pair of games against region foe Chowan (March 8-9).

After a trip to Francis Marion (March 11-13), Thomas' squad returns home for nine straight games. The team hosts Emmanuel (March 15), North Georgia (March 18-20), Paine (March 23), Montevallo (March 25-26) and Albany State (March 29).

The slate stays tough with a stretch of seven road games over a 13-day period. The Pacers travel to UNC Pembroke (Apr. 1-3) before making the trip to Newberry (Apr. 6). USC Aiken takes on Augusta (Apr. 8-10) but returns home to square off against the Wolves (Apr. 13).

USC Aiken steps out of league play for a weekend series against Florida Southern (Apr. 15-17). Thomas' team plays at Catawba (Apr. 20) before embarking on a trip to Flagler (Apr. 22-24). The Pacers come home for a two-game set against Southern Wesleyan (Apr. 29-30) before closing out the regular season with Catawba (May 7).

With the gauntlet the Pacers have to face throughout the regular season, the squad should be well tested for postseason play.

The Coaches

Kenny Thomas

Head Coach

In 16 seasons as head coach of the USC Aiken baseball program, Kenny Thomas has re-established the Pacers as a force in the Peach Belt Conference and a perennial top-25 team in NCAA Division II.

During the 2010 season, Thomas became the winningest coach in USC Aiken baseball history. Thomas heads into the 2016 campaign with 579 wins in his time as the head Pacer skipper.

Thomas also surpassed the 1,000-win plateau as a college head coach in USC Aiken's win over Flagler on March 2, 2013. Thomas earned his 500th victory guiding the Pacers in a three-game road sweep over then 10th-ranked Lander.

Thomas is presently 1,099-547 in 28 seasons as a head coach. He is currently in the top-40 among active NCAA Division II coaches for wins. His .637 winning percentage as the Pacer skipper places him in the top-30 among active NCAA Division II head coaches.

In 2015, Thomas led the team to a berth in the PBC Tournament semifinals as his team battled an abundance of injuries throughout the year. Thomas' squad tied six school records and Forrest Koumas set the school record for most strikeouts in a game with 18 against Georgia Southwestern. He coached second-team all-conference selection Sean Miller and several of his student-athletes were near the top of the PBC statistical rankings at the end of the year.

During the 2014 campaign, Thomas' team once again was ranked for the majority of the season en route to a 36-17 record and a berth in the NCAA Tournament. His team posted wins over two top-five programs and also broke four school records. He coached first-team all-conference selection Derek Beasley and had several players near the top of the national statistical rankings at the conclusion of the season.

The 2013 season saw a number of milestones for Thomas and the Pacers as he led the team to a 42-13 overall record. The Pacers won the Peach Belt Conference regular season championship. Thomas was selected the Peach Belt Conference and National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association Southeast Region Coach of the Year for the 2013 season. The PBC Coach of the Year honor is the second of Thomas' career (also 2009).

The Pacers were nationally ranked in every poll during the year, reaching as high as No. 1 nationally. The Pacers were ranked in the Top-30 in 32 straight national polls dating back to 2012. USC Aiken also was chosen as the second seed in the Southeast Region of the 2013 NCAA Division II Baseball Championship.

Thomas has led the Pacers to seven NCAA Tournament appearances (2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2013 and 2014) in the last 10 seasons.

The 2012 season saw USC Aiken finish at 37-18 while finishing the year ranked 16th nationally after being ranked as high as third during the season. The 2012 season marked the 11th time in the past 12 years that the Pacers have won at least 30 games.

The Pacers encountered some tough luck in being left out of the Southeast Regional after being dropped by Lander one game from the PBC Tournament Championship. The Pacers went 27-6 at home on the year and saw many players receive individual accolades as they enjoyed another successful year.

The 2011 USC Aiken baseball team was ranked as high as 16th nationally. USC Aiken concluded its year with a record of 29-21. The 2010 Pacer baseball team was ranked as high as sixth nationally at one point during the regular season.

The Pacers finished the year with a record of 32-19.

USC Aiken's 2009 baseball team ended the season tied for 10th in the final Collegiate Baseball NCAA Division II Top 30 poll. The final ranking of 10th was the highest for the Pacers under Thomas, who was chosen as PBC Conference Coach of the Year for his mentoring of the 2009 Pacers. USC Aiken ended the 2008 season ranked 11th, while they concluded the 2005 season 12th. The Pacers reached as high as No. 2 nationally in 2009 en route to their second ever Peach Belt Conference regular season championship. The Pacers' prowess during the regular season helped USC Aiken earn top honors in the Southeast Region, enabling the program to host its second ever NCAA Division II Tournament regional.

The Pacers advanced to the regional final for the second consecutive season before bowing out to NCAA Division II Baseball Championship semifinalist and Conference Carolinas Tournament champion Belmont Abbey in the first game of the championship round.

USC Aiken (42-19) concluded its season having been a part of its fifth consecutive NCAA Division II Baseball regional.

In 2008, Thomas and his staff guided the Pacers to a school-record 47 wins and a second-place finish in the NCAA South Atlantic Regional. USCA went 47-17 overall and 18-9 in the Peach Belt Conference, finishing just one win behind PBC champion Columbus State.

It was April 23, 2006 when USC Aiken knocked off sixth-ranked Francis Marion 5-2 in Aiken to notch Thomas' 200th victory at the helm of the Pacers. The Pacers went 45-19 that season, at the time the most wins in Thomas' USCA tenure.

In 2005, Thomas' Pacers went 40-19 including a 16-14 mark in PBC play to advance to the program's first NCAA South Atlantic Regional in a dozen years.

On February 12, 2002, USC Aiken knocked off Limestone College 14-8 to hand Thomas his 100th victory at USC Aiken while his 50th win came on April 4, 2001 in a dramatic 8-6 victory over Newberry in 10 innings.

In 2004, the Pacers opened the 1,000-seat Roberto Hernandez Stadium of which Thomas and Athletic Director Randy Warrick were instrumental in securing a one million dollar donation from the 16-year Major League Baseball veteran.

Since the stadium's opening, USCA is 194-73 at the state-of-the-art ballpark for a .727 winning percentage. In addition, USC Aiken hosted the 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2014 Peach Belt Conference Baseball Tournaments.

In addition to being chosen as the PBC Coach of the Year in 2009, Thomas was named Coach of the Year in 1989, 1993-96, and 1998 by his fellow coaches and was selected in 1995 and 1999 as the National Junior College Athletic Association Eastern District Coach of the Year.

Thomas' success has not gone unnoticed by the community. Over the past seven seasons, the Pacers have finished in the top 15 in Division II in home attendance. As part of Thomas' annual Pack-the-Park day promotion a school record 1,806 fans attended Roberto Hernandez Stadium on April 15, 2012 to watch USC Aiken take on the UNC Pembroke Braves.

Thomas has also instilled in his team the confidence needed to win the big games as the Pacers have won 102 games played against ranked opponents in the past 12 seasons, including 53 games in the last five seasons. The Pacers posted 17 wins over ranked opponents in 2009.

As a player, Thomas earned NAIA All-American honors his senior year as a catcher while at Trevecca Nazarene University in Nashville, Tenn.

Following his graduation in 1978, Thomas began coaching a Stan Musial summer league team. In nine summers, he led his team to a national championship (1985), a runner-up finish (1986) and a third place finish (1984).

Thomas also became a local scout for the New York Yankees (1980-81), Cincinnati Reds (1981-82), and St. Louis Cardinals (1982-88).

After becoming head coach at Volunteer State, Thomas remained with the Cardinals organization in a part time capacity until 1995.

Thomas has coached 62 players who have gone on to be drafted in professional baseball drafts (two more signed as free agents after the draft), 96 All-Conference players, six conference Players of the Year, 16 All-Americans, one Southeast Region Player of the Year and one National Player of the Year. In the summer of 2012, the San Diego Padres drafted former USC Aiken standout Stephen Carmon in the 10th Round of the Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft. Also, the 2008 Daktronics Player of the Year and 2008 Peach Belt Conference Player of the Year Chad Jacobsen was drafted in the 18th round of the 2008 Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft by the Colorado Rockies.

Thomas is also involved in the local community. His work with the Aiken AMBUCS club has garnered him honors by that organization that serves to award college scholarships to physically handicapped high school students.

Team Review

The University of South Carolina Aiken baseball team wrapped up its season with a berth in the Peach Belt Conference semifinals and narrowly missed out on making the NCAA Tournament despite facing an abundance of injuries throughout the season.

The Pacers completed the season with a 34-17 overall record, including an 18-12 mark against league foes under the direction of head coach Kenny Thomas. The squad finished fifth in the PBC regular season, but upended the Pitcher of the Year and Flagler in the opening round of the conference tournament.

The Pacers opened the season in fine fashion, winning its first six contests. In similar fashion to past years, USC Aiken started its campaign with Lincoln Memorial. Opening day was moved to Jan. 30, marking the earliest the team had taken the field. Thomas' team came out strong against the Railsplitters, rattling off 11 runs in the opener. The high-powered offense continued to make things work by posting 15 and eight runs, respectively, in the final two victories of the series.

USC Aiken upped its record to 6-0 after sweeping Thomas' alma mater, Trevecca Nazarene. During the three-game series, the Pacers amassed 43 runs.

The Pacers lost their next four games, including three to Armstrong State. However, the squad bounced back for a 17-11 victory over Paine. The win over the Lions helped jumpstart the team. The squad stayed hot, winning the series against Lander and Georgia College before sweeping Georgia Southwestern. After a pair of non-conference wins against Chowan, USC Aiken went back to work, taking the series from Francis Marion, pushing the record to 18-7.

Against the Bobcats, Trevor Hutto shined, throwing eight innings without allowing a run while James Lynch closed the door in the 1-0 win. The pitching continued to be dominant in the series opener against the Hurricanes as Forrest Koumas established a school record by registering 18 strikeouts in the 2-0 victory. His effort not only allowed him to be named PBC Pitcher of the Week, but also NCBWA Region Pitcher of the Week.

The Pacers dropped the series to PBC regular-season champion North Georgia, but came right back with a pair of road wins at Montevallo. After the series with the Falcons, USC Aiken returned home for a non-conference game against Paine and won 12-4.

The offensive firepower was just getting started as the Pacers erupted for a season-best 24 runs in the opening game against UNC Pembroke, winning 24-6. In the win, senior Kody Belcher tied school records with three home runs and eight RBI. For good measure, Matt Bosse drove in five in the contest.

USC Aiken won the series against the Braves and ended up posting 12 wins in the month of April, including nine straight.

The winning streak started with a nearly four-hour 13-10 win over rival GRU Augusta. The Pacers slipped past the Jaguars 4-3 in the middle game before finishing off the foe with a 10-4 victory in the series finale.

USC Aiken stepped out of conference for a pair of wins against Emmanuel and one against Paine while also securing a non-conference victory over GRU Augusta on the road.

In the final weekend of PBC play, USC Aiken bested Flagler in the first two outings before dropping the final contest. However, for the first time in Thomas' career, the same player recorded back-to-back walk-off hits while driving in the same player with the winning run. TJ Costen supplied the offensive fireworks as he drove in Ty Barkell both days.

The Pacers lost a pair of games to the region's top team Catawba and needed to make a deep run in the PBC Tournament for a chance to play in the postseason. USC Aiken fell behind 3-0 to the Saints in the opening round, but rattled off nine straight runs, including a six-run third inning, in the 10-8 victory. Koumas picked up the win while Joe Marlow recorded the three-inning save.

Although the win against Flagler marked the last victory of the season for the Pacers, the team's ability to overcome several injuries proved how good the team could be.

Barkell, a key cog in the line-up during his four years, missed 19 games while Tyler Moore missed 10. Bosse missed the final 17 games of his career. The injuries not only hurt the team's chances of making the postseason, but also weakened the student-athletes chances for earning postseason honors. Despite the fact of missing so many games, the trio still put up impressive numbers – as they have throughout their careers. Barkell led the team with a .444 batting average and was second on the team with 46 RBI while Moore batted .362 and was second with 16 stolen bases. Bosse batted over .300 and was second on the squad with seven round-trippers.

Team Review

However, the season was about much more than just the three that missed time. Chaz Pal put together one of the most prolific offensive seasons in recent history, finishing with a .393 average and a team-high 58 RBI. Randy Luckett stepped up and played in 39 games, totaling a .384 batting average. Costen was solid n center field while Zach Moon stepped in as an everyday player, tallying 17 extra-base hits. Sean Miller earned all-conference honors and posted a team-best 131 assists. Belcher led the team in homers with nine while Douglas Ard, Cory Bryant, Max Schoen and Rob Youngblood all stepped up.

The pitching staff was one by committee, but a solid committee at that. The group combined for a 5.13 ERA and held opponents to a .282 batting average while striking out 427 batters in 454 innings of work. Koumas and Hutto shared team-high honors with six wins apiece while Lynch accounted for seven of the team's eight saves. Marlow and Hunter Hubbard held opponents to under a .200 batting average among the everyday pitchers. Cole Lee was used in a variety of ways as was Nick Yobbi. Sam Daniel turned in some impressive performances as did Erik Davis. Matt Hissong returned to his freshman form as it got later into the season while Jared Felix caused problems with several teams with his delivery. Ben Black saw six starts, but played well in a wealth of ways and finished with a 3-1 mark.

Several players tied school records this season, including most hits in a game, RBI in a game, home runs in a game and most times hit by a pitch in a game.

At the end of the day, the 2015 team will not be remembered for the 34-17 record or for tying school records, but for leaving it all out on the field. Day in and day out players stepped up at different times, helping the squad overcome obstacles and put itself in a position to succeed. If nothing else, this year's squad will leave a lasting impression on future squads about coming together as a team.
