Our peanut processing story

It all begins with 100%
US-grown peanuts...

Peanuts are an essential part of the recommended plant-forward way of eating.<sup>1</sup>

Our technical team engages with the peanut industry at all levels—shellers, seed breeders at the University of Georgia, researchers, and farmers.

Oh,
my!

Once we buy from the shellers, peanuts are brought by train to 1 of 3 US facilities.

We choo-choo-choose rail shipping because it's more fuel efficient than trucking.

Fun
sustainability
fact:

5-gal water
=
1 oz peanuts
while 80-gal water
=
1 oz almonds<sup>2</sup>

We clean, roast, and prepare the peanuts—controlling the process at every step.

After the peanuts are perfectly roasted to maximum flavor, they're turned into peanut butter. Oh, yummm!

We use raw shelled peanuts to control the entire process as well as reduce risk and control flavor and quality.

We never use drum peanut butter—making vegetarian-friendly, kid-approved products like Smucker's Uncrustables® sandwiches and Jif® Peanut Butter eligible for Raw, Shelled Peanut Commodity Dollars (110700).

Did you know...

We source nearly 1 in every 4
edible peanuts
grown in the US

Our
cleaning
process
doesn't use
any water

Peanuts have more
cost-effective
protein
than any nut (7g per serving)
