The adrenaline rush experienced by each student fulfills our souls with excitement, pride and extreme elation that are exerted by Bahrain School. May we only look back at this year with happiness and with the capability of cherishing these precious memories in our hearts. We have gained new friendships, learned new lessons, and above all, experienced an enjoyable year. As the seniors rock at the top, the youngest members of our school begin their climb. As this year comes to an end, we look forth to the future with curiosity that was once looked upon at this present year. Hence, may the following years complement 2003 with as much exhilaration and pride attainable. With hope, this yearbook presents a grand picture of such treasured moments to be carried with us, wherever we go.

We would like to thank Ms. Habeeb for her patience and guidance throughout this special production. In addition, each and every yearbook staff member who has contributed their time and effort into making this book possible; including John Tullis and our senior section editors, Mohammed Jamsheer and Nadine Zein. Also, we appreciate the kind cooperation of Seagull for allowing us to include this year's unique background.

El Himdilah Rab El A'alameen

First and foremost I want to thank Allah for the gift of life. I thank Him for blessing me with all that I have, and for watching over me with guidance and unconditional love, and helping me overcome and surpass each and every obstacle. Without Allah, I'd have no direction in life. Secondly I would like to show gratitude and appreciation to my wonderful parents who have bestowed upon me everything a growing girl could ask for. Mama, your strength is what I admire most about you. Your patience, love, and understanding has helped me become a better person with each day that passes. If I could be half the woman you are, I would consider my life a complete success. Baba, I am very grateful for the strong values and beliefs that you have engraved in me. You are a wonderful father and I am very appreciative for all that you have done for me. You have made my life a fairy tale. I feel strong and secure today and that's all because of you. To my little baby brother Rashed, I hope you become the good man you promise to become someday and may god bless you. My sister, Dareen, I'm thankful to god and our parents for allowing us to be sisters. You're one major reason why my life is at ease. I love you.

To the rest of my family, may god bless all of you and repay you for all that you have done for me in my life. To my friends; there's no needs to be specific...just know the spaces you occupy in my heart. I wish all the best for all of you, just how you all have been the best for me. To the class of 2003, realize your dreams, and make them dreams no more. Allah ma3kom.

First of all, I would like to thank Allah for all he has blessed me with. In return, I try very hard to show him the best of me. Ilhamdillah. Mama & Baba: Thank you for making all my dreams come true. Your love and support has made me become the person that I am today. How am I to thank you for everything you have given me? Because of you, I believe that "perfect" does exist. Dalal & Mohammed: Aren't you guys going to miss me? I know you love me. I'm glad I have you. To my cousins: You guys are my number one source of happiness. Thank you for everything. I love you all dearly. To all my wonderful friends: I am sorry I couldn't mention each and everyone of you individually. I was too afraid I would forget to mention someone. But what can I possibly say? Each and every one of you holds a special place in my heart. You were the people that made me smile. Each one of you is unique in his or her own way. You provided my days with the greatest joy. You will never be forgotten. I hope that all of you understand how much you mean to me. I hope that I made a difference in your lives. You have shown me that this world is not as cruel as they say it is. You are all beautiful people that deserve happiness. I love you all. Thank you for making my life perfect. Thank you.

Class of 2003- Don't take life too seriously, nobody gets out alive anyway.

Thank you for being the greatest people. Be happy and don't frown.

Good luck in the future.

Graduation, the year has finally come where I can say that I'm out of here. I've had my fun, but it is now time for me to move on with my life. And doing so, I would like to thank those who are my friends that have influenced the way I live and see my life. I call many people friends, but these people I'm talking about now, are more than friends, they are like family. I would trust them with my life, even though others would think I'm crazy, but aren't we all a bit crazy. I know that they would be there for me when needed to be; I would be there for them if needed.. I would list their names but that alone would take a page or two itself. So I say now, "Thank You."

Wow! It is hard to believe that my high school years have gone by so quickly. It seemed like only yesterday that I began my freshman year. I have enjoyed it thoroughly, the experiences and the people I have met. It seemed that when I got to this point I would know exactly what to say, of course it seems a bit harder now. It is always hard to thank everyone without leaving anyone out. First I want to thank God for getting me through school, there were some tough times but I always seemed to get through. I want to thank my parents for always being there for me, in good times and bad. To my friends, good luck wherever you may go. As they say in the Navy "Fair winds and fair seas." To Omar Tarek and Danny: Respect! Ryota: We made it, Good luck! To the members of Troop 826 and all those who have helped me on my path to Eagle: Thank you! We all have our own paths that we must follow and all good things must come to an end. So I say farewell to this school and another chapter in the road of life.

"How far you go in life is determined by how tender you are with the young, compassionate with the aged, sympathetic with those striving, and tolerant with the weak and strong, because some day in life you will have been all of them."

To all of my school buddies, I love each and everyone one of you, you are the jewel makers of my memories, and I will forever adorn them in my heart and they will forever adorn my heart. Thank you very much for all the times we have shared whether they be good times, sad times, times of pain and frustration. And thank you most of all for being by my side.

To the Class of 2003, Good Luck!

My sister graduated from Bahrain School in 1999. I attended the ceremony that year, and each one from that year on. It hardly seems real that now, it's my turn to be up there at the stage.

That I will be able to graduate will hardly be because of my own accomplishments, but rather because Allah SWT allowed me to able to. I cannot imagine having gone through the countless struggles and unending pressures without the mercy and kindness shown by Him. He made everything possible for me, and at the same time, blessed me with the perfect parents. My parents have a major role in whatever success I have achieved. Always the driving force, the ones to believe in my abilities, the ones to instill in me my confidence, and the ones to always comfort me. When they were not around, my homies took over. Farrukh, Saif, and Yasser... sounds kinda big just by naming them. Farrukh – bhaisab! if I had 50 MB left on my computer, I would fill it with bhanga remixes Saif – Kashmir is in OUR blood! And don't worry, we all love your urdu. Yasser – you can take my chemistry anytime... even if we do get caught. The rest of the gang know who you are, including the junior guys. Well, I like to think of it all as a cricket game. Bahrain School the venue, fate against me, my friends and family in the crowd cheering for me, one ball left, trailing by five runs, nine wickets down, and I'm facing a bowler on hat trick..... HOWZZAT?!! Well, THAT was an amazing three years of my life.

When I was just a naive young boy living in a little isolated village in Holland I used to watch movies about American high schools. I especially liked the graduation and prom because they were symbols and milestones in the journey through maturity. I always imagined graduating like those people I saw on the silver screen filled with ambition and hope. In Holland graduation is not as well celebrated as it is in the United States. But when my family and I moved I was suddenly transported to a world which mirrored the ceremonies that I longed to participate in. This American school, although I have not been here long, has changed the direction of my life, and has given me the chance to meet enthusiastic and interesting people. It has given me a chance to have experiences that would otherwise seem impossible. I never imagined myself actually wearing that cap and gown standing on stage in front of numerous people receiving my diploma. But here I am just as in the movies with hope and ambition directed toward the future. I wish you all the best of luck and perhaps our paths will cross again. Thank you to all those that have helped me to become the person I am today.

There is no way to be original in this, so I'll just leave a couple of words to those that are important to me. Mumma and Dad: You already know what you mean to me, but sorry if I have ever disappointed you in any way. And yes sambaby is older now and going off to college. Usama: I'm supposedly exactly like you, but let's hope that changes soon... kidding... thanks for everything. Sumi: Dork I miss you when you are gone, so come live with me, maybe now that I'm announcing this to the world you'll consider it. Asfia and Uzair: You guys are the perfect addition to the family. Well to my friends: Muzna, Luke, and Shoubs (and Amal in RT...haha) you guys mean a lot to me, no need to say anything here... u guys already know. And to the rest of my friends: I've had a great time with you guys at the dorm and at school. Good luck in university and take care of yourselves. Although I have spent a very short time here (one year), I find that this is a wonderful class. This senior year has been amazing. I have met wonderful people that I will cherish for years to come, and I owe each and every one of the people in Bahrain School a big THANKS for everything they have done to make me fit in as fast as possible. Moving from Ecuador to Russia and to Bahrain in less than nine months was a challenge, and you made it easier for me. If there is anything I can do to make it up to you, please let me know. I will always be there if you need me. Now a piece of advice to the younger generations in school now: trust the staff and trust your friends. They are here to help you, and I assure you they can do a great job. These are the people that make Bahrain School unique and contribute to its success. Oh! And be certain to enjoy your years in school. They might seem a burden, but these are some of the few years you will remember for the rest of your life.

And so this little story ends with me, the most talkative (and argumentative) guy that this school had to offer with little words to say. Yet it do be custom at an end of an event such as this to thank those extraordinary people that made this time truly special, the ones that allowed me to get through the longest day where even the endless jugs of coffee did not seem to help, thank you. You are indeed angels sent from the heavens to walk this earth and will forever remain so wherever the winds of time and distance may have blown you. So with an endnote to two of the greatest angels there are, mom, dad, thanks for putting up with me, heaven will only ever know how you did it. Good luck to all of you, where ever you may fare, and have fun.

Dear friends, Marvin, Ryota, Salman, Fareed, Mohammed and all of you seniors. It was very fun being a classmate with you guys plus the enjoyments we had in the trips we went to. We really made funny jokes on one another and truly got good laughs out of it. I also would like to thank Bahrain School for all what it taught me about life and about learning to live in a world with different people having different nationalities, ethnic groups, and religions; I frankly had wonderful experiences and unforgettable times during my past four years of attending Bahrain School. To you all, and to all of Bahrain School I'll miss you all a lot, and those times will remain in my memories forever. To my Mom, I love you a lot and I thank you very much for all your support for me to get the best education and the best life during Dad's absence. As to my Dad, I'm nearly going to graduate and you won't be there but I always feel that you're close anywhere I go; God bless your soul and may he place you in Heaven where pious, martyrs, and people of great integrity live in. Thank you all buddies for all the good times and I wish you all the best success in your lives.

Then the man suddenly came to his senses and realized that he would rather live than sit and be consumed by this mongrel that was gnawing diligently away at his exposed abdomen. He swatted the dog away and using his extensive knowledge of human anatomy performed surgery upon himself. He went home to preach to all seniors that writing a proper senior quote is better than writing one that no one got about a man and a dog. Rest assured he lived happily ever after...

One of his many disciples realized the truth in his words and heeded them with caution. What truly defines a senior quote? Surely it would communicate the many thoughts and emotions she held within her to the various people who had touched the waters of her life: the ripples, the ones who plunged whole-heartedly, and the ones who merely gargled. Yet as she attempted to frame the thoughts into the often-misunderstood words, she found they obstinately refused to fit nicely. She wrestled with them to no avail, the phrases leaked endlessly and always, like a cup filling up, some overflowed in the place of others. The thoughts were incongruent; they refused to bend into the genuine emotions that she wanted to stir within her readers, her friends and companions. So she simply wrote "although it may seem trite and painfully cliché, I tried and tried to let you know what I desperately needed you to know, but I couldn't individually. But if you know who you are, then you are. And know this also, sometimes when I feel devoid of anything and hallow, I know that my heart is never empty, as it is lined with your friendship and so I am filled." Then she added as a forethought... "Don't be foolio's! you know I love all you alloo gobi's, despite the foolish Casanovas, (shut up, shut up) So whathedealio fooligan! Funions forever, yours Anzum. ~ Diogenes Om bhur bhava swaha; Tut sur vitra varay niyam; Bhargo dev vasya Dhi Mahi; Dhiyo yo nah pracho dayat.

Mama: My loyal & best friend! I loved you, I love you, and I shall continue to love you. Thank you for your guidance and trust. They shall prevail over all my thoughts and actions. My blossoming rose, my sweet pea...your Nannu & Rafiq. Papa: Thank you for being the best dad in the world! I love you dearly and respect you even more. You have given me strength through you wise words. Hopefully I shall use them and one day make you proud. "Papa's Priya!" Ruhi: My loving sister. I have never thanked you enough or even at all. You were always there when I needed to be heard. You looked out for me when I failed to look ahead. Stay strong in all times as your Bumso will be there for you. Loving you eternally. Lubi: Oh, great one! Boonu, keep on smiling and making the world smile with you. Keep your chin high and stay proud. I will forever love you. Your Chonu as always! Friends: Keep smiling and good luck. GRT (Siamese twin); MHMAHM (Got it!); YK & SEM (Flute duo); UP (Artist). Class of 2003: We made it...Bonne Chance! "If at first you don't succeed...get new batteries..." Everyone: Thank you!

"Art is art, isn't it? Still, on the other hand, water is water! And east is east and west is west and if you take cranberries and stew them like applesauce they taste much more like prunes than rhubarb does. Now, uh... Now you tell me what you know."
- Groucho Marx

That's completely me right now. I don't know what to say. I know though that this isn't the time or place to pen my thoughts wondering why there aren't many poems written about cheese. This is about gratitude and the unexpressed emotions of high school. I think I'll skip the latter (repressed hostility, you see) and just stay with the gratitude aspect. To my family: Love you all! Thanks for everything! You were always there for me when I needed you. Whether by a carrot on a stick or a leash around my neck, you kept me on track. Well, not so much Tups on that last one. Tups, you went on the track with me, making fun of the way I ran and giving me glucose-filled drinks. Ok. Extended metaphor gone far enough. Moving on! To all my friends (you know who you are): Unleash the power because we're finally here! About time, too. I couldn't have made it w/o you...for many reasons: I needed someone who could relate to my issues that I could vent to, someone who'd tell me when a certain outfit made me look like a water buffalo, someone to copy homework from, someone... you get the general idea. Nutshell: I love you guys. To my teachers: Thanks for it all. For the recommendations, for the putting-it-nicely to my parents, for everything. Most of all though, thank you for accepting late work!

Well... writing this has inspired new waves of gratitude in me, so I'm going to go revise my future Grammy acceptance speech. Toodles.

When I'm older and look back at my senior yearbook I want to remember exactly how I feel at this exact time; So here goes...

How much my Allah means to me. I see u in everything, especially my family who are my most favourite people in the world. Mama & Baba: I hope that if and when I have kids, I will have the same magic that you gave me [and my siblings]. I know Allah loves me when I see the two angels he gave me as parents. Everything I do and think and accomplish is 4 u because to make u proud is the least I can do to repay u 4 what u've done 4 me. Mahmoud: ur kindness and patience cross my mind everyday. U have no idea how lucky I am that a person like u is my bro. Rani:U have a heart of gold. I pick on u cuz I love u so much and I want u 2 shine. You are perfect in every way, u just need to make sure every1 knows it. Maya: MY LOVE! I'll always be grateful that my wish 4 a sister came true. When mama & baba brought u home, I fell in luv with u. We'll be 2gether 4ever Inshallah! Sherine: another member of my family. I shtea Edo0 4ever and u know it. There r no words to describe u cuz u surpass all words. Lana: eventhough u're never here, just the thought of u can make my day. God, how I love my family, soooooo000 MUCH! I would die for any of u anyway. Mr. Woolson, Mr. Steponic, Ms. Berger, Ms. Wells, Maliha, Sarah, Deena, Mimi, Ruby, Muzna, Yousif, Samiyah, Issa, Saman, Jesse, Shameel, Farrukh, Mo, Nabeel, Saif, Evan, Dez, Yasser and the Class of 2003, I have so much 2 tell each of u so....read my will please!! You can't do everything, but you can do anything. The most important relationship of all is that with God, followed by that with yourself, followed by that with others. Love alone can reawaken love. Men do not lack strength, they lack willpower. Only the wisest man can begin to comprehend how truly ignorant he is. Vanity goes hand in hand with a fear of inferiority, but self confidence goes hand in hand with humility. The gray areas of right and wrong are nothing but diluted black. If you almost do the right thing, you almost get the rewards. Pain is the feeling you get when weakness leaves. A rock may seem solid, but the apparently weak and volatile river will eventually destroy it. Weapons are enemies to their owners. One raindrop raises the sea. One of the most important blessings you get from climbing a mountain is being able to see what mountains are higher. God does not want a person who has completed certain acts, but rather he wants a certain type of person. An argument is a small version of a war. Sometimes you must drop a few questions before you pick up answers. When measuring importance, the most basic division is what can think and feel and what cannot. It is important to accept who you are, but it is also important to change who you are. A good knight should seek out dragons to slay and damsels to rescue. What you do on Friday night will affect you for eternity. Rhythm is the eternal mix of consistency and change. Think, feel, and act with honesty. To find yourself, you must lose yourself in others.
