DELALIO ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

2004-2005

Math Matters! Department of Defense schools throughout the world challenged students to be #1 in math. Delalio was proud to host 3 After School Math Clubs to help students meet the challenge of improving math skills! Math counts in everything you do and the skills you learned this year will help you in every day life, now and when you are an adult!

"Challenges" was Delalio's theme for school year 2004 - 2005. In August students wrote goals about things to accomplish during the school year. Among the goals written were completing homework, reading at home each night, improving math skills, and striving to be a good citizen.

Delalio students had the Spirit! During September and October you learned about the election process as America prepared to elect a President! Delalio also had an election to choose the name of our dolphin mascot! Just like America's adults, you voted! And the winner was....."Spirit!"

A pat on the back for Delalio students! Why? Because you had the spirit to be good citizens every day! You were kind to your friends and respectful to your teachers. You treated everyone like you wished to be treated. You found lost items and turned these in to the office so the owner could be found. Your good deeds were recognized as you were the VIP & sat at a special lunch table and were recognized for your acts of kindness at the Good Citizen's assemblies.

The staff and I are proud to have the privilege to work with you who are the children of our brave military dads and moms who protect the freedoms of people around the world. We hope that we made a difference in your lives and that you will forever remember your time spent at Delalio.

I Know I Can Count On You "2" Be the Leaders of Tomorrow!

2004~~~~~

Four Hurricanes Hit Florida

Hurricanes Charley, Frances, Ivan, and Jeanne caused billions of dollars in damage and left at least 70 dead in Florida alone.

The War On Terror

More than a year after the fall of the Saddam Hussein regime, the U.S. and other coalition countries continued their battle against insurgents. The city of Falluja was a significant area that underwent intense fighting. Other cities also suffered attacks as insurgents continued with terrorist activities. President Bush worked with interim Iraqi president Ghazi al Yawer on various matters concerning the future of Iraq.

Devastating Tsunamis

The Indian Ocean earthquake that occurred on December 26th produced tsunamis that were among the deadliest natural disasters in modern history. The death toll was over 150,000 people in at least 11 countries. Indonesia, Sri Lanka, India and Thailand were hardest hit. Many people including tourists were missing and thousands left homeless. Relief agencies warned of thousands of more deaths as a result of disease and starvation. The magnitude 9 quake prompted a widespread humanitarian response.

Palestinian Leader Dies

75-year-old Yasser Arafat died in France. He was buried in Ramallah.

Mount St. Helens Activity

The Washington-state volcano had enough seismic activity to create some attention.

Russian School Hostage Crisis

An estimated 30 Chechen militants raided a school in Beslan, Russia, and took more than 1,000 people hostage. A bomb accidently went off and some 339 hostages were killed, half of them children.

Flu Vaccine Shortage

The United States lost nearly half of its anticipated influenza vaccine supply due to contamination. British regulators found widespread problems at the manufacturer, Chiron Corp. The CDC suggested only "high-risk" people should be able to receive a vaccination.

(270 Electoral Votes Needed To Win)

Popular Vote Count
Bush	59,459,765
Kerry	55,949,407
Other	905,333

In the largest voter turnout since 1968, George W. Bush won a second term as president. Challenger John Kerry conceded the hotly contested race only after Ohio finished counting votes early in the morning following the election. President Bush proclaimed it a "historic victory," and pledged to reunite the country.
