2010 - 2011

I Am A Military Child

By the time I will be eighteen
I will have lived in many places
Experienced so much
And seen so many faces

But that's okay, I am a military child

I will grow up much quicker
I will grow up much stronger
I will feel older than my years
Although I may be younger

But that's okay, I am a military child

My mom or dad , I may not see for a year
they will miss my birthdays, and be absent to calm my fears.

But that's okay, I am a military child

I am very proud of my parent the one who has sacrificed so much
I cherish every moment we have together their love, their laughter, their touch.

Do you see why I feel special?
Why I walk around with a smile?
It is because I feel so lucky to be a military child.

WELCOME

Dear Johnson Primary Students,

It gives me great joy to see how you've grown academically and socially this school year. You have accomplished so many things this year. You've published excellent writings; you've learned all of your letters, shapes and numbers. You also developed your critical thinking skills through various learning activities. Johnson Primary School students do S.O.A.R. You are Super Problem Solvers, Outstanding Writers, Accomplished Readers and Ready for Success.

Nothing in life worth having comes easy. You have given your best everyday and when things became hard you persevered. You never gave up and that is commendable.

Your future is very bright and you are destined to do great things. Continue to do your best and learn all you can. I hope you have a wonderful and exciting summer that is filled with all kinds of adventure. I count it an honor to be your principal and avid cheerleader.

With Love,
Cassandra B. White

WE DID IT!

School Of Infantry

At the start of the school year Johnson Primary School was proudly adopted by the Marine Corps School of Infantry. Pictured above is a small representation of the Marines that came in weekly to assist the staff and students of Johnson Primary. Without their generous support every week we would not be able to accomplish all the task we strive to complete each week. We thank the School of Infantry for their support of the students, teachers, staff, and PTA.
