DARMSTADT DRAGON 1970

DARMSTADT ELEMENTARY AND JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

DARMSTADT, GERMANY

A DAY IN THE LIFE . . .

ADMINISTRATION

MR. ROBERT J. PLATENBERG PRINCIPAL

Our purpose in producing this, the 1970 Darmstadt Dragon, is two-fold: First, that our students, their parents and the faculty members have a book full of memories of their friends and their days spent in Germany. And, second, that we communicate to the community a valid picture of their child -- his school day labors and activities.

We have chosen "A DAY IN THE LIFE . . ." -- a day in the life of our school as the theme of this book. Miss Harvey, the yearbook advisor, and her staff have worked hard to produce this book. Our thanks to them and all others who cooperated in making this book a success.

SCHOOL LIFE

EACH MORNING BUSES

IS RAISED . . . BELLS
RING . . . AND STUDENTS
RUSH TO START ANOTHER DAY . . .

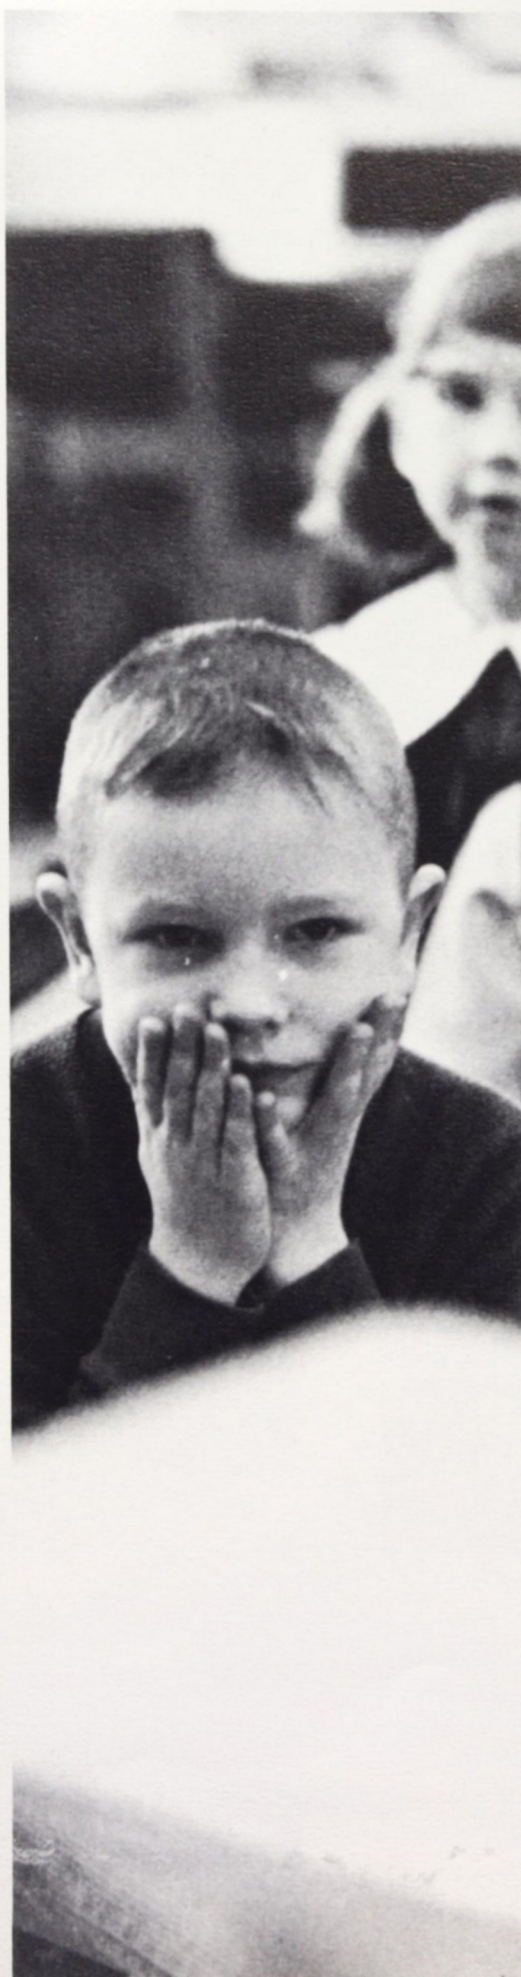

Our school day includes instruction in both academic and non-academic subjects. Language arts, social studies, mathematics and science are approached at every level from first through ninth grades. Daily instruction in the German language starts in the second grade and is taught by host nation teachers. In addition, each elementary teacher includes periods for art, music, health and physical education in the weekly schedule. Junior high students have classes in art, physical education, health, group guidance and basic business.

Our day is busy, exciting, interesting, taxing and . . . fun!

The faculty members of Darmstadt American school represent 30 states and include wives of personnel stationed in Darmstadt as well as teachers hired in the states. Although this is the first overseas teaching assignment for many of the staff, several have taught in such places as Japan, Okinawa, the Azores, Spain, England, Turkey, France and Libya. The staff also includes German teachers and secretaries who are natives of our host nation.

Our attention to a student's individual needs starts at the Kindergarten level, where we endeavor to help children obtain a positive and enjoyable attitude toward school as well as to acquire certain academic concepts and basic skills, and continues straight through the ninth grade. This attention is never confined solely to academic needs but attempts to interest and enlighten in a variety of areas.

AND A LIVING BY-WORD . . . ATTENTION TO INDIVIDUAL NEEDS.
