Our Hit Single

This year, 1984, we A.M.S want to dedicate this memory book to a very special person. This person served our school for many years. He tried his best to teach us the right way. He was a very good example for all of us to follow. His name is Mr. Weiss. We hope that he can enjoy his retirement, and we also hope he can have a very good memory of the students and teachers from A.M.S. We wish you a very nice retirement and we have a very special word for you, THANKS.

An Ode to Mr. Weiss

Screaming, shouting, yelling at us, demanding we students should discuss,
 turning in checkpoints and getting "✓+."
 "I have mountains of homework" is what you think on the bus,
 but, Mr. Weiss, just why did you leave us?
 After you resigned, Mr. Greeley said to leave all memories of you behind.
 But how can we forget
 a teacher that started to fret
 about all due homework
 and made us not shirk
 where our cover sheets may lurk.
 And showing us the danger of the third world war and pronouncing nuclear, NUKULÄR.
 And showing us "The Day After"
 and the consequences of nuclear war.
 And this considerate and concerned man,
 may he have a long life span!
 And in the years to come,
 may he remember us as daughters and sons.
 So this is my ode to Mr. Weiss, an old man whose heart has no price.

--Karlo Yeager

In Memory Of

Mr. Joseph Conway

A man of principle, a man of thought
 A voice against injustice, no stranger to advisory and ill fortune
 An objective and fresh look at reality feelings run deep
 A friend, an advocate of right for its own sake
 A conscience, an awareness
 There is no champion without struggle
 There is the strange yet well balanced counter-wieght of pride and humility that makes a message clear and noteworthy and meaningful.
 A respect for one's fellow man (and woman), an empathy for thier struggle, a sharing,an understanding.
 But feelings run deep.
 What are mere words? What comfort are they to meet the sands of eternity thrown into the abyss?
 No answer has this writer, only the question put forth.
 What is friendship, but a fleeting thing?
 What is our time, but a fleeting thing?
 A few short years...
 But hope springs eternal in the hearts of those of principle.
 Memories are comfort and strength in time of advisory.
 Lives are the things of which memories are made Lives are but grains of sand in an ever-decimating hourglass of time tenuous shields against eternity and infinity.
 So much strongsr must be memories and feelings left behind. They are the peace and solace that we must treasure. They help us say "good-bye" without "farewell".
