EL MORRO
 El Morro, meaning "headland" in English, is a six-level fortress built by the Spaniards, which guards the entrance to San Juan Bay.

Its impregnable walls measure 140 feet high and 18 feet thick, augmented by a maze of tunnels, dungeons, barracks, outposts and ramps. El Morro withstood the forces of Sir Francis Drake in 1595, and was taken only once, in 1538, by the Earl of Cumberland.

CAPILLA DEL CRISTO
 In 1753, a man was racing his horse down Cristo Street and, barely before plunging off the edge of the cliff, the horse miraculously stopped. "This miracle is Jesus Christ's doing," the man said, and in Christ's honor, he built a small chapel at the end of the street. Originally just a tiny niche with a figure of Christ, the chapel now features a delicate silver altar that has become a symbol of the city.

Song and Dance: "Agueybaná"

El Yunque: Forest of the Gods

Long before Christopher Columbus set foot on Puerto Rico five hundred years ago, the Taíno Indians lived on the island, surrounded by the lush tropical landscape. Taínos believed that their gods lived high on the mountains and identified the Luquillo mountain range, especially El Yunque, the highest of them all, as the home of Yuquiyú, the Good God that protected them from all evil.

foobie, the Million Dollar Machine visits AMS

The Million Dollar Machine Cheer!

"Who's the Million Dollar Machine?" ME!
 "How many Million Dollar Machines do you get?" ONE!
 "Who controls your Million Dollar Machine?" ME!
 "If someone wants you to hurt your body, What are you going to say?" NO WAY, JOSE!
 "Are you going to keep a clean machine?" YES!

AUTOGRAPHS

Remember, You and your Million Dollar Machine can accomplish anything!
