Eighth Graders,

You'll soon celebrate one of the happiest days of your life! You'll not only be facing the transition into high school, but a transition into adulthood as well. During this period of your lives, you'll learn in-depth aspects of responsibility you may not have known. Life will require more of you. The world will tug at you from all sides. What/whom you become will be determined by whether or not you listen to, or give in to those voices. Listen to the voice of truth, of wisdom, of reason, of intellect; not the voice of failure, neglect, and deception. Work hard at all you do and skip the easy road. Take part Robert Frost's "The Road Not Taken" for a life of discovery and adventure. In whatever you do or become, give your all.

Make a statement, make an impact, and change your world through positive contributions. Talk less and listen more - especially to what others can teach you.

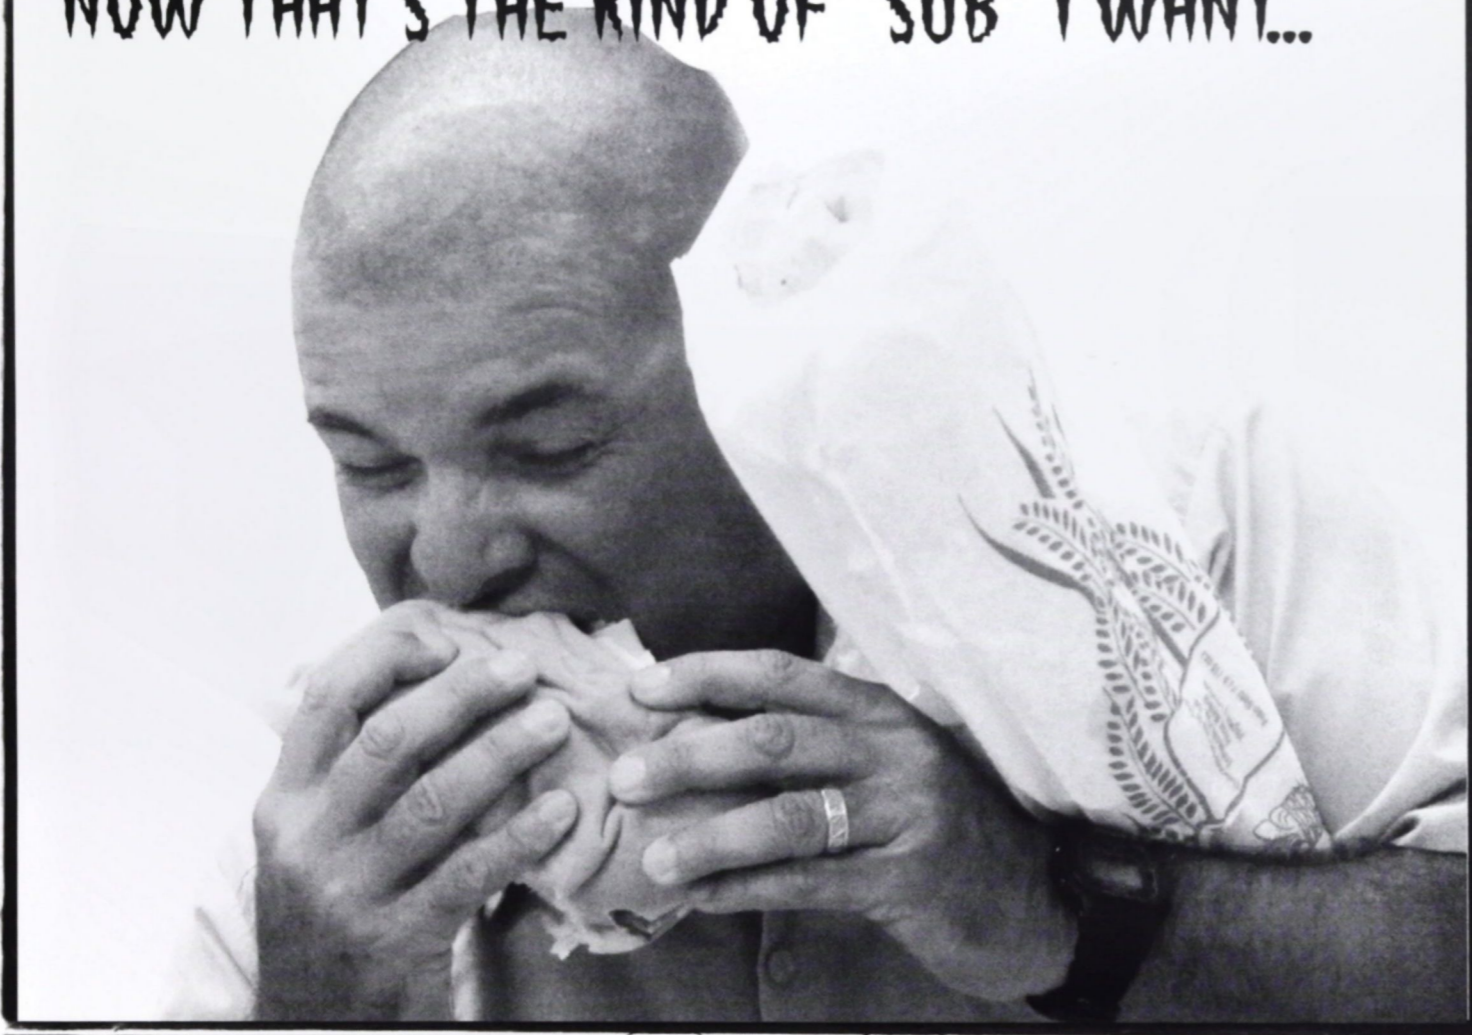

Some of you I recently met, while most of you I've known since 2nd or 3rd grade. It's been great working with you and watching you grow! Some of you have changed a little, but some haven't. Our studious students are still "hitting the books," while talkers are still talking away! Fortunately, life goes on. You'll be greatly missed - especially those leaving the system. To all of you, when life gives you lemons - make lemonade! When life gets you down, look up! How much time do we have?

Not much! Enjoy it!

Congratulations!
With Love,
Mr. Cruz

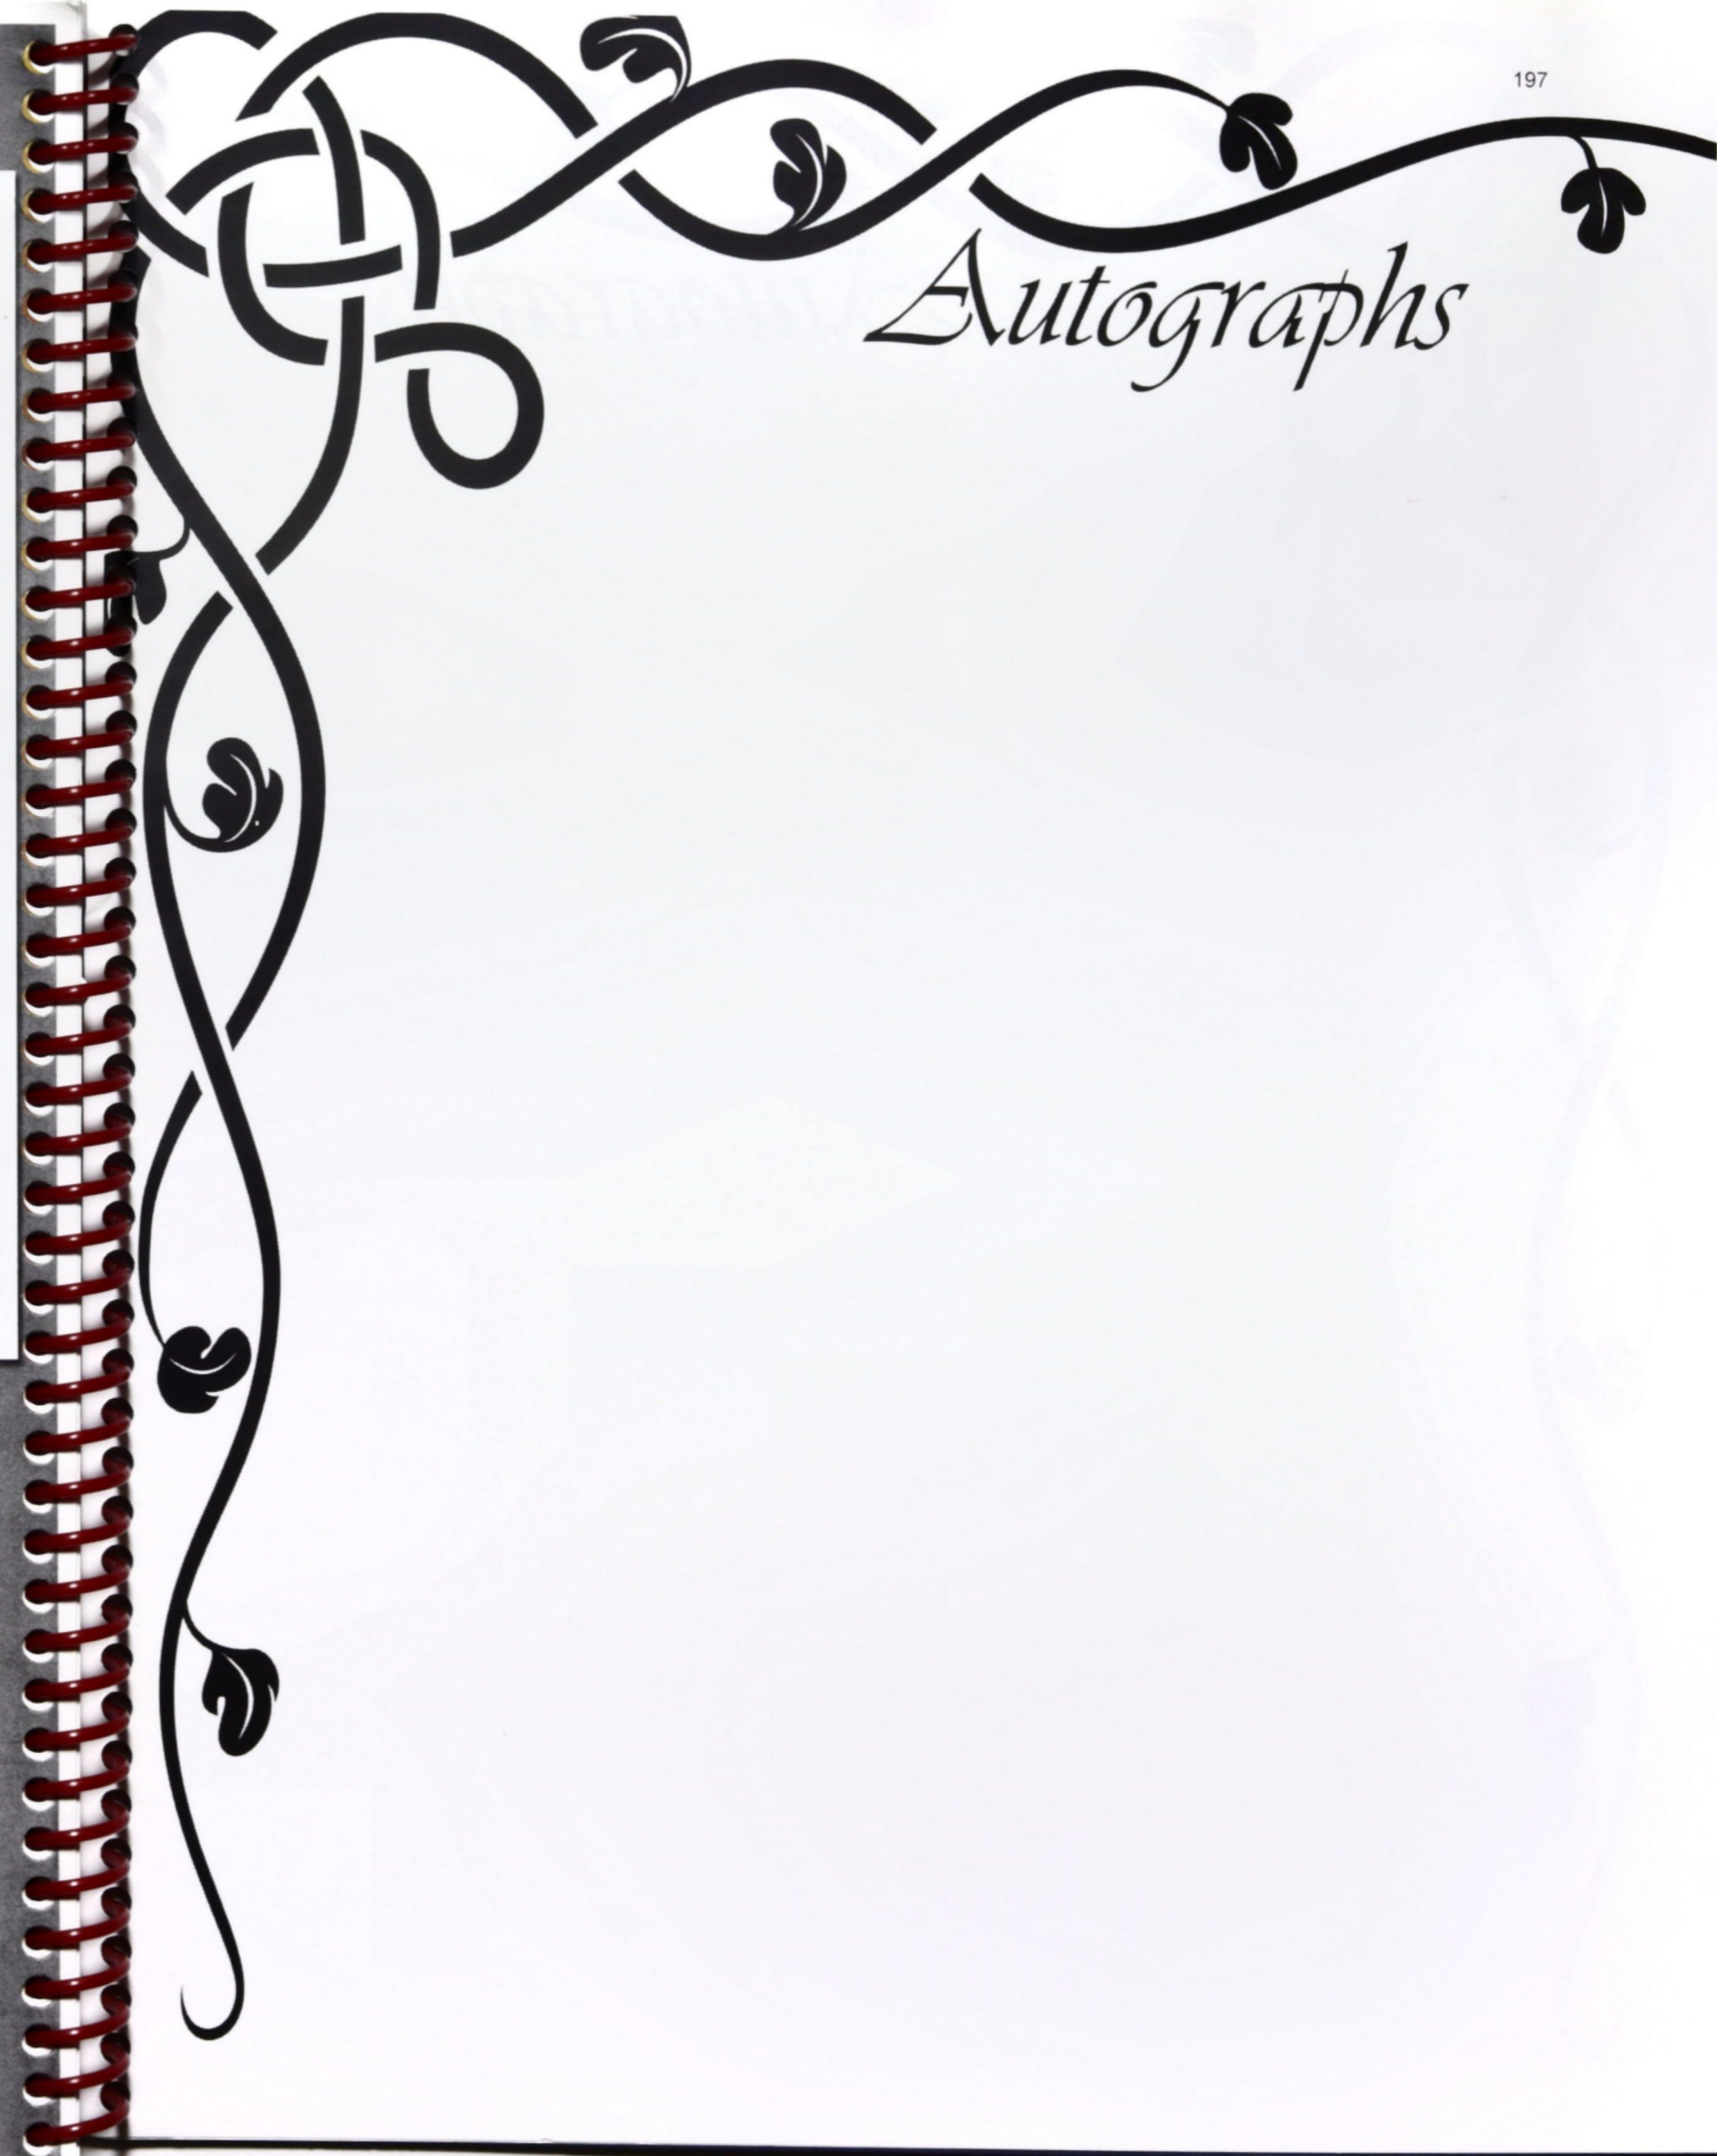

NOW THAT'S THE KIND OF "SUB" I WANT...

See the rest of you
"subs" next year!!!
