To the Music

Music. It helps you through the tough times, and it helps you through the hard times. When you are happy, it can bring you more happiness. Music can also change your mind about love, heartbreak and life.

Living in Germany, we sometimes feel alienated and stranded. Music can change our mood. It can make us feel happy or sad — especially when we have to deal with deployments, saying goodbye and being 5,000 miles away from home. On top of all this, we still have to live a normal middle school life. And is middle school ever normal?

Middle school can be described in many songs: I Don't Mean It, Fallin' Apart, I Miss You, Someday, Still Waiting and many, many more.

No matter what comes our way, a song can make it all okay. That's why we dedicate the 2003-2004 school year to the music.

Faculty: “Our Hearts Will Go On”

We teach the future—
sharing knowledge with the world. We’re doing what we were created to do...mold minds...shape outcomes and make
every day in young lives count. We are the educators, the ones who make men and women who are become. As our students grow, change and succeed, our hearts go on...”

near far wherever you are. You’ll be here in my heart and my heart will go on and on...”

“Belonging”

It's hard to start a new school. You meet new people and have completely new rules. Sometimes it's hard to feel you belong. You were once at the top as fifth graders, and now you must start all over again. But once you fall into the pattern of things, it's really not so hard to progress, and in the end, you see that you've past the test of middle school. Finally.....you belong.

8th Grade: "In the End"

Eighth grade is like a merry-go-round. There are ups and downs, twists and turns. Sometimes it's fun and sometimes boring. New people get on, and old friends get off. Eventually, the music will stop and ride is over. But the ride will start all over again in another time and in another place.
