Hanau, Germany

Argonner Elementary School

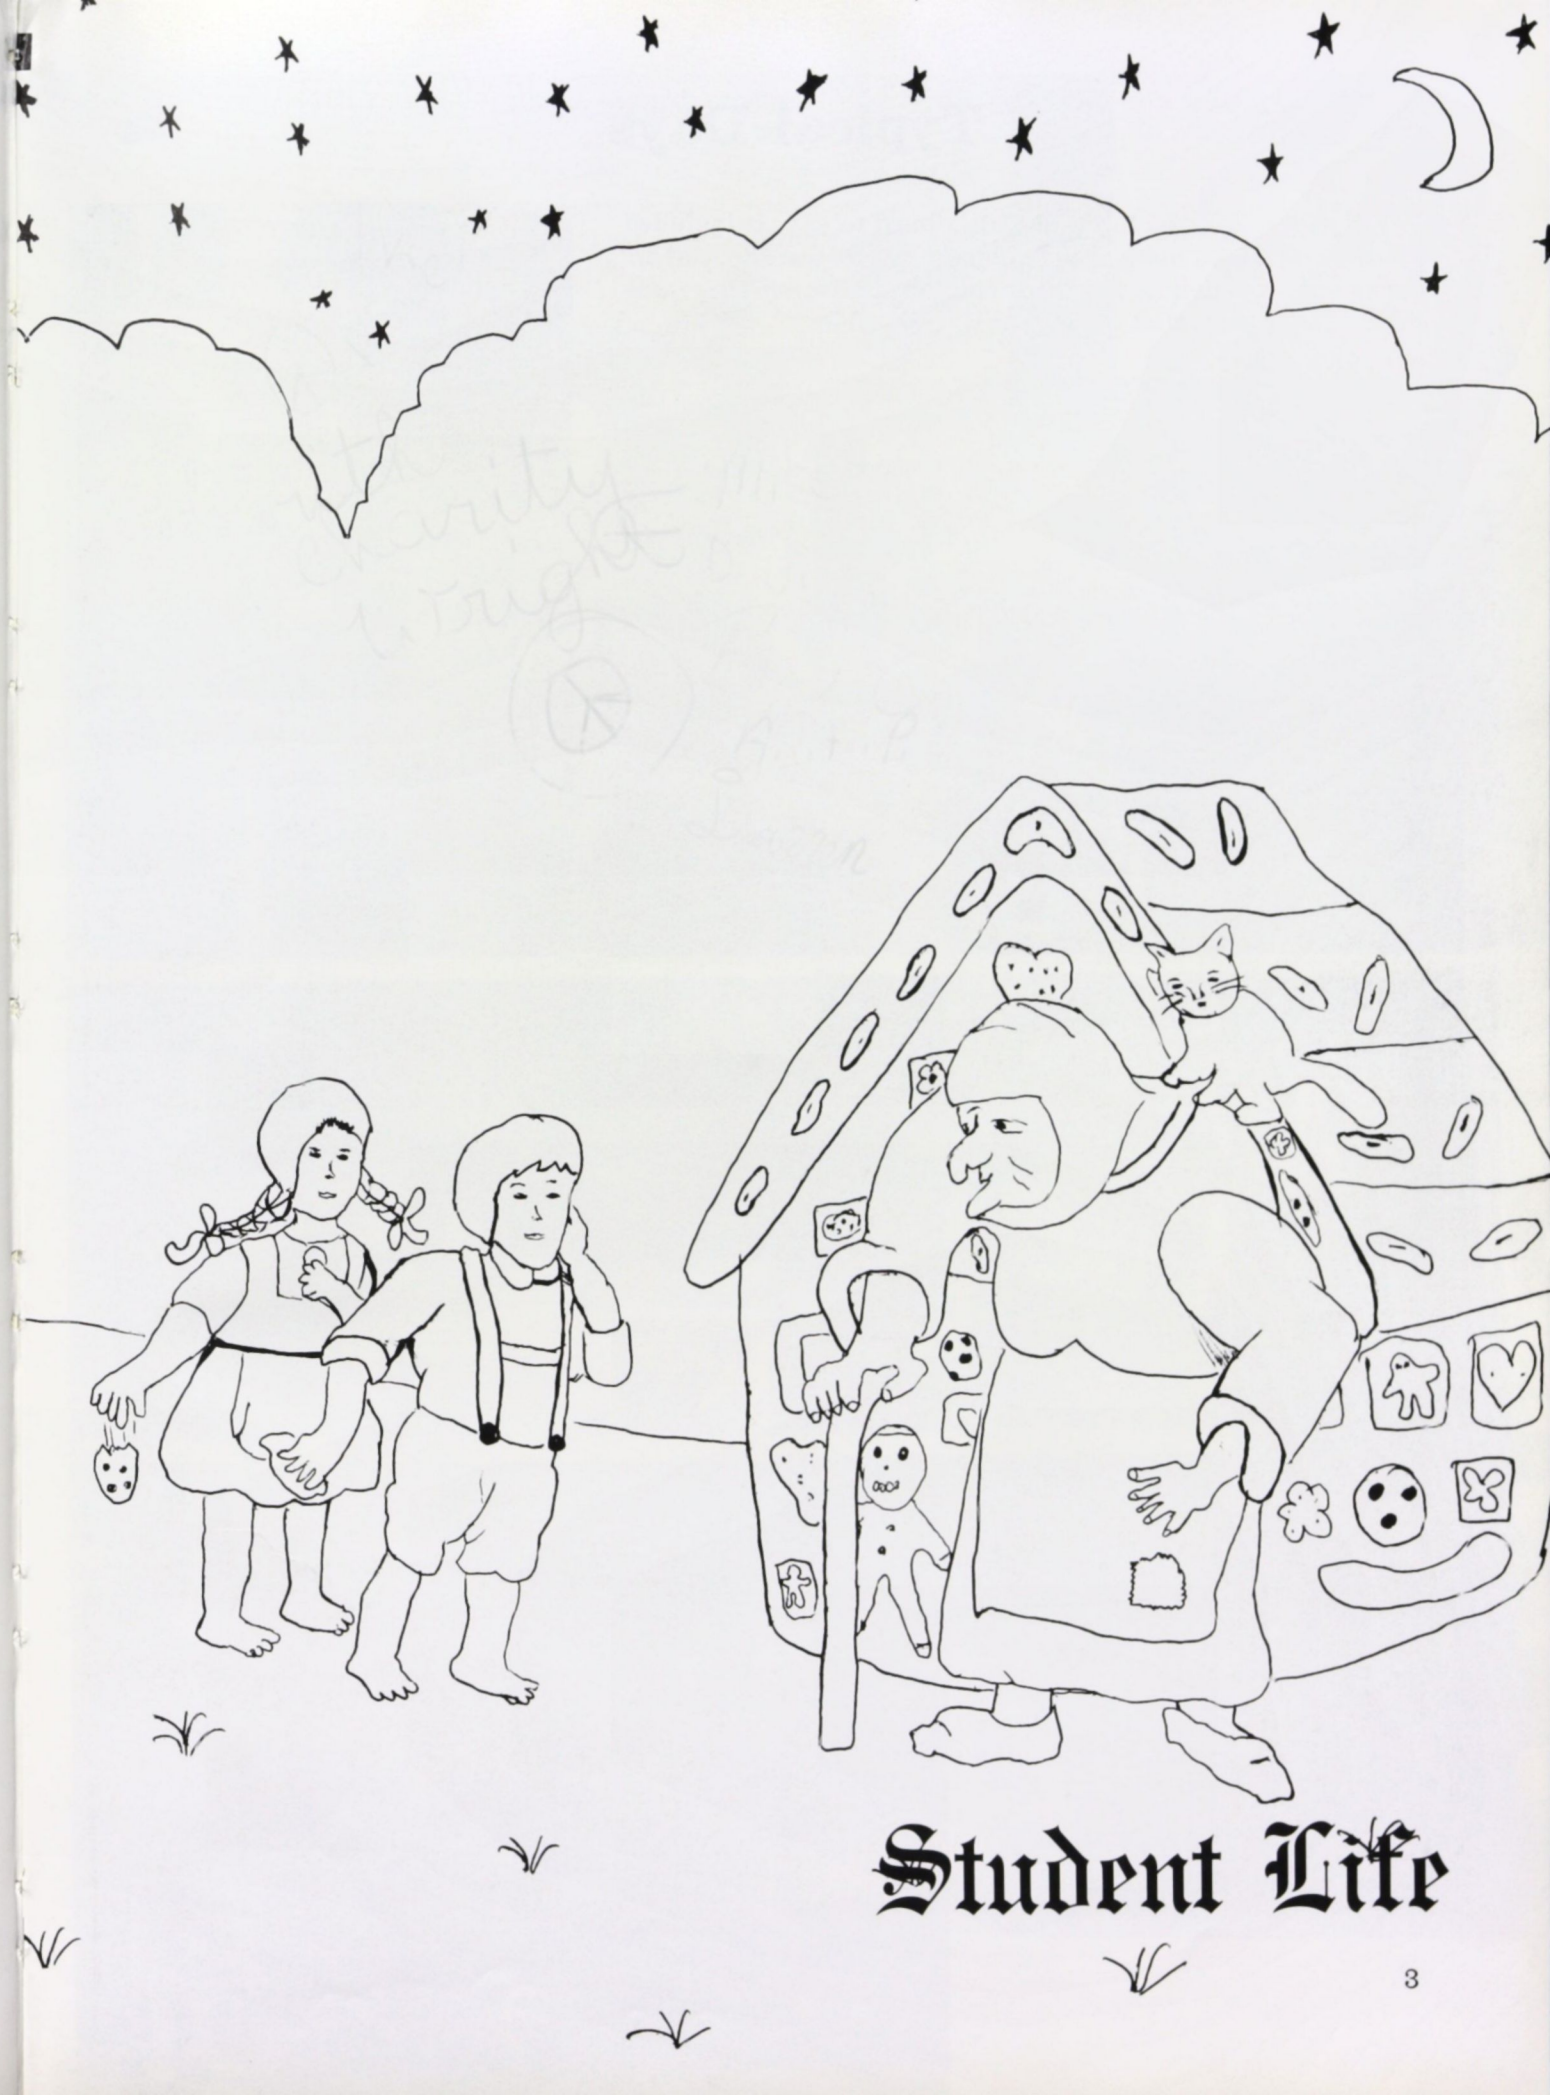

Once upon a time in a land called Germany, there was a city named Hanau. Hanau was famous for being the birthplace of Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm. The Brothers Grimm wrote many fairy tales still loved by people today.

Hanau was also known as being the home of Argonner School where many American children learned how to read and write and get along with others. And this is where our story begins . . .

... It was the year the Berlin Wall came down - a year of great historical importance for the world. What an exciting time to live in and experience Germany!

Student Life

Typical Days

What was a typical day like? It's hard to say. It included reading, math, and many other subjects. There were special activities such as choir and student council. Of course, there was recess. Other than that, anything was possible!

Beyond the Textbooks

Experience is the best teacher, they say. If that is true, Argonner students must be brilliant! Field trips were taken to museums, zoos, Christmas markets, and the fire station. Students found out how a helicopter works and what it was like to ride a train. The annual volkshochschule was tiring, but the medal received at the end made it all worth while. Much spice was added to school days by visiting places in Germany.

... and so the year drew to a close. Lockers and desks were cleaned out. Textbooks were put away, ready to be used next year. Teachers and students said their good-byes. The excitement of summer was too much to bear. And everyone lived happily ever after.
