The Class of 2010

The seventh graders had a fun year even though it was the first year for them at the brand new Hohenfels Middle/High School. Changing classes, longer lunch, and the extra break was a fun change from the elementary school for the beginners. And even though new, they felt like they were at home.

Mrs. De Laughter's Eighth Grade U.S. History class sponsored a school-wide election.

Students 'man' the voting booth for the election.

Kin Howard, Angel Reinick and Sam Oberlin make signs for their favorite candidate

Every four years the citizens of the United States have an opportunity to choose who will lead their country for the next four years.
This year the students of Hohenfels M/HS participated in a Mock Election. Just like a 'real' election, the several were given an opportunity to register to vote.
These students were put in a data file and the list was taken by the students to the polling place.

As the students came to vote, their name was checked against the roster of registered voters. Only those who had registared were allowed to vote. When the polls closed, the srudents gathered to count the votes. As in a real election, the votes had to be counted twice for accuracy. The election results were: G. W. Bush received $63 \%$ of the votes, John Kerry received $34 \%$, and Ralph Nader received 3\%.

The students learned much about how our electoral system works and all felt it was well worth the time spent.

World Languages

Ms. Sell

The class was small and I enjoyed the small environment where I could work hands on.'

Courteney Green Spanish III

Hallo lieve leser,
Learning to speak another's language means taking one's place in the human community. It means reaching out to others across cultural and linguistic boundaries. Language is far more than a system to be explained. It is our most important link to the world around us. Language is culture in motion. It is people interacting with people. But remember that an empire is not built in one day and with just one strategy. It takes time and effort to accomplish mastering a foreign language. Viel glueck! At this point I'd like to greet and compliment all my students at Hohenfels high school for hacking their way through syntactical thickets, vocabulary, and linguistic functions, for trusting relationship, cultural empathy and tolerance as well as for their ideas and insights they generously shared with me. When my students started to refer to German language and culture as "interesting" rather than "weird, I knew they had taken the first step in developing a personal responsibility as a global citizen.
-Dankeschon und servus! Frau O

Model United States Senate

Have you ever wondered what is going to happen to this great country of ours 20 years from now? Well, I can tell you that it will be OK. The members of Model United States Senate will see to that. This group of students study the laws of the country, research the senators and the issues that we face now and write bills that will help solve the problems.

MUSS is definitely not all fun. For the four days these young men and women are at MUSS, they write bills, meet in committees, urge people to support their bill, and get a good grasp of what running a country such as the United States entails. Since MUSS is much like the real thing, there are also members of the Press Corps who interview the president, vice president and other members of the cabinet and senate. They produce three issues of the Capitol Press, just like the senate.

Christina Reynolds searches for information left by one of the lobbyists.

Amanda Spoon and Mary Beth Graham take one last look at the facts before they take their bill before the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Lyndy Axon and Courtney Green discusss the merits of the bill they are writing during Odyssey of the Mind is a creative problem-solving origination for students to expand their knowledge using innovative resolutions.

The program utilizies a variety of intellectual giftedness: inventive, mechanical ability and constructive ability as well as spontaneity, verbal creativity, creative writing, dramatics and problem solving.
The 2004 OM season was comprised of two five member teams ranging from 7 th to 12 th grade who were given a long term problem to solve.

The final culmination of all their hard work was their competition in Garmisch Germany where the teams presented their solution to their respective long term problems they been working on all year as as a spontaneous activity for which they would be scored.

The team
"Get the Message won their division and qualified for World's in Boulder, Colorado.

It was a great year and all participants formed bonds that will last a lifetime!

A major service project for NHS and NJHS was the "Treats for Troops" project. Members collected donations of money, toiletry items and towels for military troops injured in the war in Iraq and sent them to Iraqi hospitals in Baghdad. The hospitals do not provide these items to thier patients. The project received great support from the Hohenfels community.

FBLA

FBLA stands for Future Business Leaders of America. FBLA provides the business leaders of tomorrow with the necessary skills to successfully compete in the job market. On October 28. eleven members of FBLA attended the Fall Leadership Conference in Heidelberg for the first time. The Spring Leadership conference took place in Garmisch March 25-27 with over 200 members participating. This year in FBLA the group accomplished many things. They helped make the Winter Bazaar a huge success by volunteering to do odd jobs. The group also organized a school supply store. A childrens home in the Czech Republic received supplies donated by FBLA. The members in FBLA look forward to next year. as they continue paving the road to their success.

A mother mouse and a baby mouse are walking along, when all of a sudden, a cat attacks them. The mother goes, "BARK!" and the cat runs away. "See?" says the mow do you see why it's ner baby "Now important to learn a foreign language?"

Liebe Schulerinnen und Schuler,

Before we close this school I cannot leave without a word about Mark Twain--American writer, scholar and world traveler-who-at first had no love for the German language. More than a century ago he observed "German ought to be gently and reverently set aside among the dead languages, for only the dead have time to learn it." He calculated that "a gifted person ought to learn English (barring spelling and pronouncing) in 30 hours, French in 30 days and German in 30 years."

Sorry Herr Twain, my students will prove you wrong, and they're not masochistic either! Bringing language to life is our motto! At this point I'd like to greet and compliment all my students at Hohenfels High School for hacking their way through syntactical thickets, vocabulary, and linguistic functions, for the trusting relationship, cultural empathy and tolerance as well as for their ideas and insights they generously shared with me. When you started to refer to German language and culture as 'interesting' rather than "Weird" I knew you had taken the first step in developing a personal responsibility as a global citizen.
Dankeschoen!
