Izmir, Turkey

Cover Design:

The Arabic Sultan Seal was a symbol of the Ottoman Empire "kings." Each Sultan had a unique seal. It was used as their signature on documents, letters, and papers. The seal on our cover is the signature of the Sultan Ahmet.

Inside Cover:

Many of the students have visited Pamukkale, the ancient site of Hieropolis. The white cliffs are formed by calcium deposited by the cooling water from hot springs. Pamukkale translated to English means "cotton castle".

Humanities Class Visits Bodrum

For the past two years Bodrum was visited by Izmir's Humanities class. The purpose of the trip was to meet the people and see the places that the class had read and studied about in their underwater archeology unit. The activities of the trip included visiting museums and historic sites. The Bodrum museum of Underwater Archeology, a Roman theater and The Mausoleum of King Mausolus — the site of one of the seven wonders of the world.

The first Physics Olympics for the American Schools in Turkey was held in Ankara. Physics teachers Ralph Babcock of Incirlik, Roger Larson of Izmir, and Nick Zingaro of Ankara organized and planned the academic competition. The Physics classes from these three places participated in five events: laser shoot, projectile launch, matchstick bridge building, computer programing competition and a slow bike race. Mr. Richard Painter organized a computer assisted problem solving and graphics challenge. The students enjoyed competing in academic events. They thought it was as much fun as athletic games, and hope to have a 1984 Physic Olympics.

1,2,3 . . . Did it hit the target?

Annette, Danny, and Kris waiting for the results from the bridge building competition.

Danny, how slow can you go?

Annette and Kris perform calculations for laser target practice.

On October 14, 1983 sixty sportsers traveled to Incirlik. The rest of the school discovered Notion, Claros, and Kolophone.

Mr. Taylor "grabs" everyone's attention while discussing the importance of Claros.

All right! We made it to the top of the hill! Now where is Notion?

Mrs. Larson and Mr. Taylor enjoying the view of ancient Notion.

Catching a Pan Am connection at New York is really rather simple.

Because the Pan Am Worldport® is the only terminal with international and domestic fares under one roof.

So as your next gate is so near, you may like to include some refreshment on your itinerary.

Then you just stroll onto the plane, because your boarding pass will already have been issued in Frankfurt.

Not So With Other Airlines

Not so with other airlines.

Other airlines make catching a connection a lot more involved.

You arrive at one terminal, then you have to struggle to another for your domestic flight.

Which usually means waiting for a bus or cab to take you round the airport.

Of course if you want to miss out on scenes like this, fly Pan Am. The experience is somewhat different.

Under one roof you can connect to all these Pan Am cities.
