To the Class of 1997

I have been here at Camp Darby long enough to have seen your class for two years, as you have matured scholastically, physically and morally. And having seen you and gotten to know you and your accomplishments, I, along with your parents, teachers and the whole Community, am enormously proud of you. When you graduate you will carry part of Camp Darby and its people with you. You have been privileged to live in a special place with special people - not a perfect place, but one in which you could develop a unique closeness to each other and to the other people of our community. You have had to develop a tolerance, and flexibility and resilience that others have not. And, as I hope you either appreciate now or come to appreciate later in life, you have spent some time in one of the most beautiful and interesting places to which a family could be assigned.

I am utterly confident that as a result of who you are and the education that you received here, both in school and in the values and experiences of the people who you met here, you will be able to accomplish whatever goal you truly seek and commit yourself to achieve. And I am equally confident that you will provide our country more than just your knowledge and energy, but also the moral courage and commitment which is required for our country to remain a great nation.

I and every member of our Community rejoice in your achievements here and look forward to the even greater ones ahead. I wish you Godspeed and all blessing which a great nation and people can provide in your lives ahead.

".... No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea. Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were, as well as if a manor of thy friend's or of thine own were. Any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in mankind, and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls, it tolls for thee..."

The Class of 1998

The Class of 1998 entered the school year eager and ready to go. They accepted the responsibility of funding the Jr.-Sr. Prom and worked hard to make the necessary money.

They held a Halloween Dance, Valentine's Day Dance, sold grams, manned the Nutrition Break Center and. in general, showed themselves able to take up the reins at the end of this year.

Class of 1999

The Sophomore Class left nothing to chance. They started the year determined to make this a good year and worked very hard to accomplish this.

Whenever there was some activity at the school, you would find members of this class involved. Their enthusiasm was infectious and other class members also became involved. Although they may be the 'last' class of this century, you can bet your bottom dollar, this class is one that will be heard of in the future.

Class of 2000

The Class of 2000 has much to look forward to. They will be the first class to graduate in the 21st Century and as such, the forerunners of the new world. Our best wishes to them as they begin their educational conquest.

The Entertaining Eighth Graders

Talk about go-getters. This Eighth Grade class has not lost the enthusiasm they showed last year and, if anything, are even more eager to succeed then ever.

Their class officers have worked hard to guide them and deserve much credit for their success. They have sold snacks during Nutritioon Break, made different grams and worked in other ways to add money to their coffers. A hearty congratulations to this group of students.

Class Flirts Joe Clark and Katrina Rogers were not surprised by the honor.

The Sociable Seventh

If any word were to describe this year's seventh graders, sociable would be the word. They talk, joke, laugh, and even fight among themselves but have a good time while they are doing it.

Whether it is in the classroom, the mess hall, or in PE, they have definitely not lost their social skills.

Morgan Moody and Norman Cabillles were chosen Class Clowns by the Seventh Grade.

Student Council

The Student Council of Livorno Unit School is the most important student organization. All motions for change of student activities must be presented to the Student Council before being made to the administration and the student body.

This year the members of the student council kept in constant touch with their teachers and the administration through the use of cc:mail. This made life much simplier. We can thank the Student Council for many of our benefits.

Demetrius Morris explains his motion to the Student Council Board.

Student Council Officers for 1996-1997 Katrina Rogers, Jr. High Rep; Shannon Boyce, High School Rep; Nick Stephens, Vice President; Tamara Rinker, Spirit and Advertising Rep; Loni Aurbeck, Treasurer; Rhiannon Hood, StuCo Advisor; Taiss Lewis, Parliamentarian; Jasmine Lewis, President; Demetrius Morris, Secretary.

> Jasmine Lewis demonstrates those traits that won her the vote for President.

Jennifer Paz, Tamara Rinker, and the representative from YS consider the motion.

Jasmine Lewis points out the merits of the proposal as Nick listens.

Loni Aurbeck, you are suppose to be paying attention to the motions.

Candi Martin, Jennifer Paz, Jessica Bates, Shannon Boyce, and Natalie Marquez use their lunch to attend the meetings.

BAND AND CHOIR

Jessica Newton certainly proves that great things come in small packages.

James Portis shows his expertise on all percussion instruments.

Go Green, Go White -YS Cheerleaders

When the students voted not to have a cheerleading squad, the YS took over the responsibility. These girls worked hard every evening to improve their routines. They were able to perform at the home games.

Jessica Estrada leads the group with a little bit of help of Dominique Barrow.

Dominique Barrows knows the routines very well.

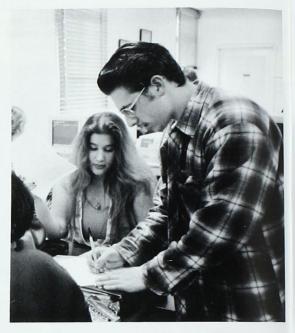

Amanda Kerins, Kerstin Santiago, Jessica Estrada, Morgan Moody and Taiss Lewis lead the student body in a cheer during the Pep Rally.

Taiss Lewis purchases a treat from Tamara Rinker.

Knowledge Bowl

You need a broad base of knowledge to participate in life. This is especially true if you want to be in Knowledge Bowl. Each of the students who participated this year brought with them their own fund of information. Maybe next year will be your turn.

Loni Aurbeck and Jasmine use the computer to help them learn different facts.

Jessica Newton and Shannon Boyce playa tennis to relax from their tedious studies.

Jasmine Lewis and Nick Stephens check their math facts before leaving for Knowledge Bowl.

Our Students Study.....

Studying is an individual thing. There are some students who must have absolute quiet to study while others can only study if their radio is blaring away. Others need food to keep up their energy level and some actually pay attention in class.

Anthony Banks, Cliff Collier, and Ryan Orme are eager to learn about Home Pages.

Hiding behind those pages is an effective way to sleep in class, until the paper falls down.

Jennifer Paz and Will Messing finish their lunches before starting on their geometry.

Here are some very interesting ways of studying.

.....then they Reap the Awards

The Quarterly Awards Assembly is a favorite for the students. It is nice to see your hard work rewarded. The momentary embarassment of walking to the front is slight when compared to the joy. The teachers say nice things about you and your friends admire you.

Congratulations to all the winners this year.

Mr. Boyce congratulates Loni Aurbeck, Jasmine Lewis, and Shannon Boyce for their achievements in American History.

Very Important

CAPT Algaze spoke with the AVID classes on goals. CAPT Algaze was a refugee from Cuba and was the top pilot in the U.S. Air Force at one time.

He was also the youngest person to receive a commercial pilot's license. He was in Italy with the Air National Guard flying with the Operation Joint Endeavor.

CAPT Isaac Algaze and Thumper visit with students at Livorno Unit School.

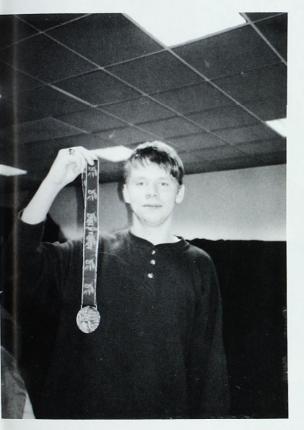

D. J. visits the Leaning Tower with his hostess, Jessica Estrada, during his stay at Camp Darby.

People Visit Livorno

Nick Stephens dreams of thing to come as he holds the medal.

Have you ever gotten to hold a Bronze Medal from the Olympics? Students at Livorno Unit School got to and they also got autographs and pictures. William Carlucci, head rower on the United States Rowing Team visited the school and spent the afternoon telling the students of the difficulties that had to be overcome before he could stand in the Winner's Circle.

Mr. Carlucci fields questions from the students about his Olympic career.

Nick Stephens, Nikki Foster and Joe Clark see how the medal will look on them.

Computers -

Computers, are everywhere. You can't take a class that computers do not impact on it in some way. Students use computers to do their math, to access the INTERNET, to design buildings, to key in their essays, and to play games.

Like it or not, computers are here to stay.

Jessica Donelson and Jessica Newton listen as Mrs Alberti teaches them how to use a new program.

Using the computer for their personal correspondence is a favorite with Amanda Kerins and Amber Yeager.

What ever it was, I don't think it was what Jasmine Lewis wanted.

The Way of the Future

Loni Aurbeck has learned to make music using a computer.

Debbie Khan, Dan Noel, and Nick Higgins are very interesting in the job possibilities for those who can do Home

Mr. Brown helps Stephen Wells and Angie Messing design their cars using the CAD system.

Will Messing and Anthony Banks use the computer to relax while Pat Wells checks to see if he got 'that' message

As you look at our pictures, what is your perspective.

Congregating in the Home Ec Room has become a habit during Nutrition Break

Why A Nutrition Break?

The two class periods we have on the block schedule can get mighty long at times. Members of the NHS petitioned to have a Nutrition Break between the two morning blocks. They were granted the break but only on a trial basis.

The members of NHS police the situation and school organizations are responsible for the break during different weeks. This is a good fund raiser for them and insures that food will be available.

Mrs. Hall serves all types of goodies during Nutrition Break

Lockers -

Jennifer Paz takes the time to arrange her books neatly in her locker.

Loni Aurbeck and Jasmine Lewis discuss the homework for the next day at their locker.

Some students use the lockers as a resting place

Nick Stephens decides which photo to put in his locker first

Lockers

It seems such a simple thing, but to the high school student, their locker is not just a place to put their books and hang their coat, it is an expression of themselves.

They build locker shelves to keep the locker neat and place pictures all over the inside. Their lockers are also a social place, somewhat reminescent of the cracker barrel at the old time general store.

Lockers are essential to the high school student. Just ask any student here who had to do without his/her locker for two months.

Loni Aurbeck stops by Mrs. D's room to get her books from her 'locker'

Jacque Zink, Taiss Lewis, and Jessica Bates discuss Freshman Class problems at their lockers

Spirit Week

One of the most eagerly awaited weeks of school is Spirit Week. Each day is a different, exciting type of day. This year we had Pajama Day (even some of the teachers came in their pajamas), Nerd Day (boy you should have seen some of the nerds), Back to the Future Day (Mrs. D was a 1890's teacher and didn't look any different), and Class Color Day.

Many of the students participated and it was interesting to see what each day brought.
