DEDIGATION

WE, THE 1983-1984 RECUERDOS STAFF, ARE DOUBLY PLEASED TO DEDICATE OUR YEARBOOK TO A PAIR OF EXTREMELY DESERVING MEMBERS OF OUR SCHOOL FAMILY: MRS. KATIE YATES AND MR. CRAIG MOUSSEAU.

MRS. KATIE YATES HAS BEEN WITH THE FACULTY AS AN EDUCATIONAL TECHNICIAN FOR MANY YEARS. HER CHEERFUL PERSONALITY HAS FORESTED AN ATMOSPHERE OF FRIENDLINESS AT RAMEY THAT IS NOTICEABLE TO ALL WHO VISIT, WORK, AND STUDY HERE. SHE RECEIVES TOO LITTLE RECOGNITION FOR HER HARD WORK BECAUSE SHE DOES IT IN SUCH AN EFFORTLESS FASHION. KATIE, WE SALUTE YOU!

VARSITY

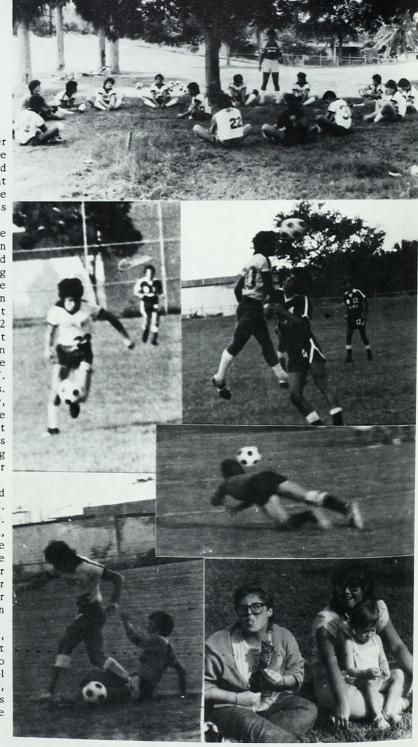

SOGGER

This years soccer teams exhibited the kind of style and determination that impressed even the opposing teams coaches.

The varsity came away from the season with a 10, 4, and record. placing them a respectable second among B division schools. The fact that soccer is a 2 year old sport at Ramey didn't seem to cramp the style of either the J.V. or the Varsity teams. On the contrary, there were some plays that made it look like the teams had been playing together all their lives.

In addition to a solid Varsity, the J.V. seemed unbeatable. It almost was unbeaten, suffering only one loss all season. The two teams put together to send 9 all-star players to the all-star games, more than any other school.

To put it modestly, Ramey, the smallest school in the Puerto Rican High School Athletic Alliance, definitely made its presence felt in the sport of soccer.

Love those shades my man.

Neck and neck at the last hurdle.

Sleep running?

How'd you place, Lin?

Take this you stupid judge.

Guillermo does some high steppin'.

Alright, who's the joker that tied my laces together.

Poor Patty's positively pooped.

Victor and his friends play Choo-Choo.

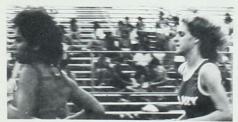

There's nothing to these.

And they're off!

That distinctive Badillo form.

Miss Sipes awaits her chance to pull ahead.

Marvelous Mike makes a mark.

BANG!

When can I get rid of this dumb baton?

Step aside son. I'm in overdrive.

Hey, that's my pillow Brenda!

Boy, I got a craving for an empanadilla.

Look at that mightly munchkin go.

I'd rather be home watching a scary movie.

Lord, please help my butt clear the bar.

EDITOR'S NOTE

I have decided to include an editor's note in this years book in order to acknowledge a pair of outstanding individuals who contributed far beyond the call of duty.

This year I was fortunate enough to have on the staff both Cathy Rutherford and Bryan Cranston. Cathy started out as co-editor of the senior section. After Kristin left for the Presidential classroom. She did the final paste-up of that section, and did an excellent job. When the second half of the book was coming due, we were suddenly hit with a real dilemma. Our Business editor had been forced to quit because of an increasing workload and a decreasing amount of time, and neither Greg nor I had time to take on the whole All we could do was vegetate in the darkroom and hope it got done somehow. It was about this time when Cathy agreed to take on the position in addition to the volleyball and softball sections she was already working on. the business staff organized and over the period of the next two weeks managed to pull together almost all of the ads you see in the advertising section. Although it required a tremendous amount of time and effort, Cathy gave of herself willingly, and got the section finished. Cathy.

The End

Bryan, like Cathy, started out small. Wandering into a yearbook meeting one day, he expected no more than to be assigned a few pages to paste up and be done with it. Little did he know. Since the beginning of the year, the vearbook had been short of photographers, relying on Greg to take most of the pictures. When we appealed to the staff for volunteers, Bryan agreed to "try it". By the time the first deadline rolled around Bryan was a dark room regular, spending most of his extra time developing and printing. Through no fault of his own, he was promoted to assistant editor. Although already committed to three spring sports, Bryan joined Greg and I on many a long night, working on unfinished sections and printing a good number of the pictures you see on these pages. His superhuman effort really left its trademark on the quality of this book. Many thanks Bryan.

But let's not forget the rest of the staff. Putting together this yearbook was a monumental task, and it could not have been done without the entire staff's dedicated and inspired assistance. It really was a team effort. My thanks to all of you.

Although it is impossible to portray all the moods and feelings of a school year, our staff has worked very hard to encompass in this book as many of the attitudes and activities of the year as we could. I hope that you enjoy this book as much as we enjoyed putting it together.
