PREPARING FOR Homecoming 2003

Homecoming 2003 couldn't have taken place without outstanding behind the scenes efforts of Kinnick's class council and student council members. Throughout the weeks full of preparation for homecoming, class council members and students who weren't even part of student government, got together to build floats and banners. They came in after school and on weekends just to be sure their floats would be perfect for judging. Many of the classes actually worked together to help each other. Although their individual plans for floats and banners were top secret, they supported each other and showed sportsmanship by lending supplies whenever needed. Seniors and Juniors even had a bonding barbecue complete with hotdogs and hamburgers! This year's preparations for homecoming proved the power of Kinnick's spirited students coming together to accomplish a task. Finally, the long hours spent on hard work eventually paid off. The result of their teamwork and unity was an unforgettable homecoming for everyone to remember as one of their best.

Homecoming 2003

This year's Homecoming was definitely a memorable one and a great example of how much unity Kinnick High School has. The whole week was full of spirit, hard work, and fun. It started out with Spirit Week, begining on October 27, with Pajama Day, Twin Day, Tacky Wacky Day, and Idol Day. The whole school participated and showed their class spirit in games during lunch. Also, the carnival was another successful event that included fun games, great food, and memories that will last a lifetime. During the Homecoming Day the band, flag team, cheerleaders, and of course the football players prepared for the big game. Everyone did their part in making homecoming the success that it was. The Senior class's hard work throughout the week paid off in the end as they took first place in the banner and float building competition. Overall, homecoming week will be remembered in the minds of Kinnick students, especially the seniors

An Endless Run

Getting to the finish line can seem like an endless task, but if anyone can do it, Michael Sturgell, below, can.

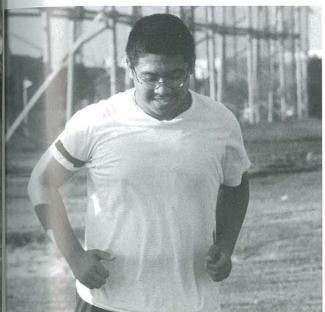

We All Run

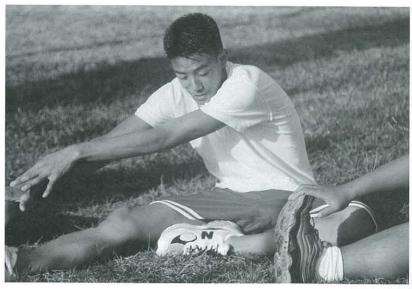

To Win

Beginning the year with only nine runners, the KHS Cross Country team still seemed to really enjoy the season. They put a lot of effort and dedication into their sport no matter how exhausted they were. The team practiced every day after school from 3:00 until 5:00 and still managed to keep up with their school work. They got up at 4:00 AM on Saturday mornings to run in meets at Tama Hills. At home, the team would spend practices running the infamous Weather Hill to prepare themselves for future meets.

According to the coach, the team had a lot of enthusiam and a really positive attitude. Oveall the team felt that they gave their best this season. "I am really sad that the season is over. I had a lot of fun," said senior Chris Boe. Junior Eri Eveland said, "We had to forfeit some meets because only a few girls had joined the team, but we managed to work with what we had." "I like cross country because I can keep in shape and get to meet new people," said senior Brian Bowers.

Aiming High

The 2003 Kinnick High School Tennis team, coached by Nico Hindie, a fifth grade teacher at Sullivans Elementary School, had many goals for the 2003 season. Throughout the season they practiced hard at improving their technique, endurance, and relationship with their teammates. To increase their endurance, they spent time every practice running and doing conditioning. This year, the girls team had no returning varsity players, and the boys only had a couple. With all the fresh faces, the team was required to help each other throughout the season to have a worthwhile season. As the season passed, all eighteen members of the team, JV, Varsity, girls, and boys, all developed a bond. This especially helped at the far east competition, held in Okinawa, Japan. Although they were faced with the obstacle of finding and training many new players this year, the team pulled through and overall had a very successful season.

COACH'S CORNER

Judy Scarbrough

Judy Scarbrough has been coaching the Red Devil Volleyball team for three seasons now. As a middle school physical education and health teacher, she has dedicated her time coaching and assisting the girls in becoming better volleyball players. Although this will be her last year coaching, she has made many contributions to the team. She has spent numerous hours coaching, preparing fundraisers, and ordering volleyball attire for the volleyball team, as well as for their fans. From home games to long weekend trips, she has been not only a great coach, but also a great friend to the girls. The girls have had many memorable seasons with Coach Scarbrough, and she will be remembered by us all. With all of her effort, the volleyball team has understood the true meaning of being a TEAM.

The football cheerleaders formed one varsity team consisting of fourteen girls. Coach Rimstidt, a first time coach here at Kinnick, did an awesome job. The squad, with five seniors and seven returnees, had great leadership and was able to successfully lead the crowd in supporting Kinnick football. These athletes practiced hard 4 times a week and cheered during the junior varsity and varsity football games. Practice for these girls included elaborate stretching, memorization of cheers and chants, muscle-building stunts, and even practicing their "bring it on" attitudes. Through all their hard work and cheesy smiles came crowd-pleasing perfomances, selfsatisfaction, and a strong bond between all the cheerleaders and within the squad. Ten cheerleaders have the opportunity to take all their developed skills to the Far East cheerleading camp held in Misawa this year. The cheerleaders had an amazing season and never forgot to "bring it."

The cheerleaders had an awesome season, especially with the leadership of their five senior captains: Anna Linatoc, Barbara Petrucci, Jackie Jimenez, Rhea Soriano, and Samantha Delarosa. All five captains have a season of experience and have contributed to the growth of the team. Jackie Jimenez and Rhea Soriano are returning basketball cheerleaders, and Anna Linatoc, Barbara Petrucci, and Samantha Delarosa are returning from football season cheer. After returning from cheer far east and with new additions to the team, these cheerleaders were ready to show off their new skills and lasting enthusiasm. After lots of practice and numerous basketball games, the girls have been able to produce challenging stunts, amazing half-time routines, and newfound friendships. As seniors, the captains made a positive impression and a great example to be followed in the seasons to come. This season, full or memories, will stay in the everlasting spirits of the captains throughout their lives.

Everyone loves to watch a good game of basketball, and the KHS Varsity Boys Basketball Team did not fail to entertain us. The season started off in November of 2003, with vigorous tryouts and demanding practices. Many talented players tried out, but only the best were selected.

With Coach Brewster as their new coach, the KHS Devils started off the season with a win. Throughout the season, the boys played hard, winning many victories for the Kinnick Devils. They played against rival schools such as Zama American High, Yokota High, and even scored a victory against the top team from the previous season, St. Mary's. Of course the season wasn't all just work. Besides practicing hard to bring Kinnick many wins, the boys had fun just playing their favorite sport as part of a team. "All for one and one for all" can definitely describe this season's varsity boys basketball team

The Boys Kinnick JV team has proven itself as the best in the Kanto Plain League. The team has won the majority of their games, and that is due to Coach Ekmark's "stressing defense, which is very important." In addition to good defense, they also have great offense, and leadership. Compared to last year, their advantage lies in having more "depth and size."

"This season has gone really well, and I think it's the best JV team we've ever had," explains an enthusiastic Coach Ekmark.

All For The Gold

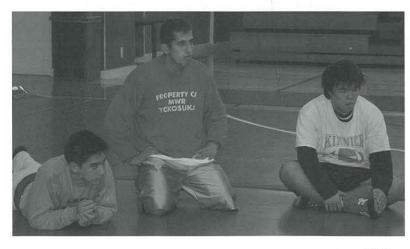

From beginning to end, the wrestlers have striven for and have achieved their best. Introducing a new head coach, Robby Rhineheart, assisted by Steven Means, and Ryan Hopp, along with a lineup of first-year wrestlers waiting to be trained by experienced returnees, there were to be big shoes to fill for the six year consecutive Kanto Plain Champions.

Co-captains, Kenneth Cardwell, Tairiku Tejada, and Joey Wood were committed to making the team fit and ready for a battle every time they entered the ring. On the other hand, Kinnick High School graduate Ryan Hopp was excited to be back on a Kinnick wrestling mat again, but this time from a different point of view; he was a coach. Coach Hopp says, "It was a new experience to coach wrestlers and to show them the moves I used to win matches. I'm proud of the team as I first handedly watched wrestlers improve and make a name for themselves." According to the new head coach, Robby Rhineheart, "I wasn't just showing them what to do, but the wrestlers were also teaching me a new style of wrestling. It was fun learning moves and techniques from the wrestlers." All in all, the wrestling team shed sweat and tears to earn second place for Team Dual Competition and third place for Individual Competition during the Far East Tournament.

Brenden Lynce and Zach Weight, below, listen attentavily during the constitutional meeting and give their suggestions about the different ammendments being discussed.

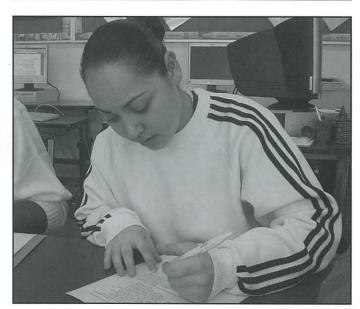

The Year of the KHS Renassiance

This year was one of the most exciting years for student council. The year began with the Homecoming game, parade, and dance, all of which were commended by students and faculty alike. Soon following was the Student Council's joint participation with Yokosuka City Hall for the Foreign Language Speech festival of 2004, and at the end of the year is Yo-Hi Day. In-between all of these events, Student Council works closely with the class councils on foreign exchange student projects, fundraisers, and the Constitutional Convention, which is amending the Student Council constitution for next year. Mr. Ulmer, the Student Council advisor has successfully lead his officers into a very productive year of change and improvement.

National Honor Society

Striving For Better

The National Honor Society represents scholarship, service, leadership, and character. Throughout the year, they have worked to demonstate these qualities inside Kinnick and in the Yokosuka community. The NHS visited an orphanage where they donated toys and played with children. The members of this society uphold their positions as leaders by maintaining exceptional grades, lending a hand to those in need, and having a positive attitude in all their endevours. Not only do they exemplify academic excellence, but they also set a positive image for all other students to follow.

Given an amount of hours they are expected to meet, the students are required to volunteer at various places. They also helped many mothers out by babysitting during community events. They all believe that it is a fulfilling and great feeling to be able to be on a community service group.

Though the club was very small this year, the group had a good time learning about different cultures. Headed by Ms. Klimas, Mr. Martinez, and Ms. Kumada, the club had many opportunities to learn more about the current language they were studying. Students studying French had the chance to speak to a native speaker, and the students in the Japanese Club continued to enhance their knowledge on the Japanese culture.

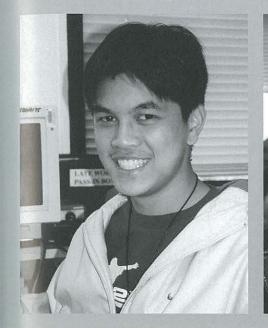

Together, the club enjoyed many events together, such as a field trip to a Monet exhibit in Tokyo and putting together the first annual Foreign Language Night.

"I commend you on your yearbook theme, 'All for one; one for all.' To me that very powerful statement evokes a sense of unity and closeness, a life-long commitment to never giving up, a goal of being successful at everything you do, and the knowledge and understanding that you have the support of your parents, teachers, and friends to help you reach those goals in life. While all the students are special, this year's graduating class is especially dear to me because many of you started Kinnick when I 'started' Kinnick. And, because of this, it will be especially difficult for me to say goodbye to you at the end of this school year. I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your support, your kindness, your thoughtfulness, and for your years of commitment (whether it be one, two, three, or four). And, as you have so appropriately said, 'All for one; one for all!'"

"Thanks to a lot of hard work from some very dedicated people (students, parents, faculty, staff, and base officials), we've managed to do so many things this year. Remember that no matter how much you do, someone, somewhere will always want more-- I am positive that the faculty, staff and Kinnick community has provided the 'more' for all of the students making the decision to accept the 'more.' It is my belief that we (students, faculty, and staff) epitomize the spirit of 'one for all and all for one.' A huge thank you to everyone for giving your talents, your energy, your dedication, and your hearts to the Kinnick community. It's the lives we share with you that make it possible for us to accomplish the 'one for all and all for one' spirit. We keep on achieving good results, and the reason for that is no secret--community involvement and school spirit. And what that all adds up to is this: we might not be the biggest of all, but the way we work and the way we succeed means that we have good reason to say we're the best. GO DEVILS!!"

Kylie, thank you for teaching us to love you unconditionally! We have always known your beauty and aloha. Even as the fiery passion in your heart and soil you rise above the challenges you have faced. We have always known your tenderness. Your smile can still melt the world's glaciers and warm the saddest hearts. Your family and true friends know the value of your love and loyally. There will come soft rains, or lightning and thunder, but you have alway embraced that passion in your heart, a passion that many in this world may never know. And your hope and newfound wings will soon carry you on to gentler breezes. See are so very proud of all you have accomplished! We are there with you as you shape your hopes into realities. Kulia I ka nu'u me ka malama pone (strive for the highest as you stay right in spiril). Dear George, Congradulations, you continue to make us proud with everything you do and accomplish in life. Soon you will be in college and a whole new world awaits you. You mother and I have all the faith in the world in you. You are the greatest son parents could ever hope for. Thank you for your hard work, your love, and for making us both smile with pride. From the happiest parents in the world!

Love Dad, Mom, and Lisa

Ewin Mercado

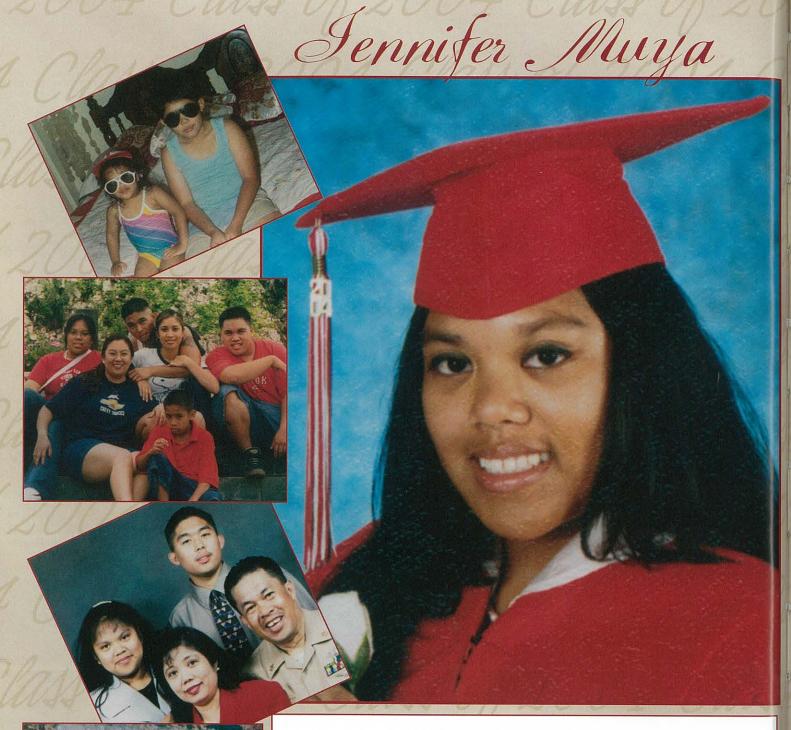

Dear Ervin,

Congradulations!!! You have completed the first part of your life and heading to a new beginning. Your accomplishments gave us more joy you can imagine and really proud to have you. We have faith in you, that you'll have a bright and successful future waiting for you. Aust do everything with courage, self confidence and keep in mind, that nothing is impossible. Always have faith in the GOOD LORD abd remember that we'll be with you all the way. Again, congradulations you've done well enough and deserve the very best.

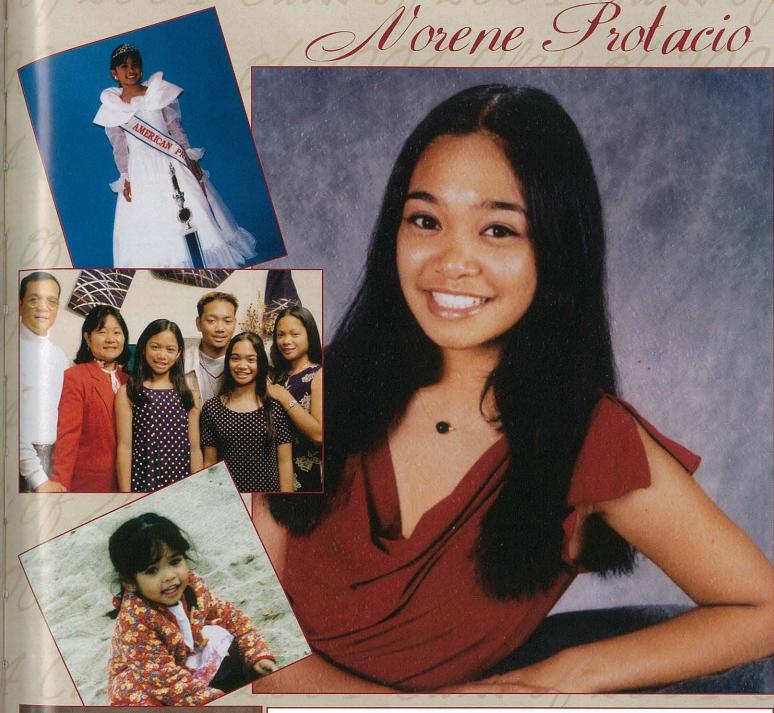

Your Loving Family, Mom, Dad, Lizelle, and Stacey

Co Tennifer,

You finally made it after all these years. Congradulation on you're accomplishment! Now onto the bigger and better things in life. As you move on into your education we know you'll succeed to better yourself in life. No matter how far or near or whatever you do in life with good reason mom, dad, and your brother will always be there for you. We're so proud of you and that you came so far now live every moment of your life with many more accomplishments so we can smile more about you. God bless!

Love, Mom, Dad, and Quya Sean

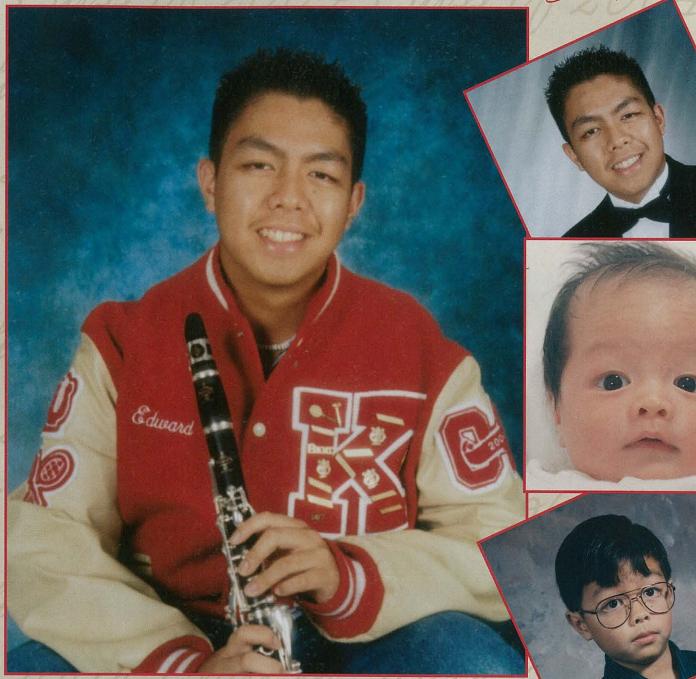

Dear Grace,

You've already proven that you have the ability to change things and people around you. As you move on to college, keep your head high, and don't let any negative influence affect your focus. Keep faith with the lord and success will be within your reach. Stay confident, and remember that we'll always be by your side.

Joeanna C. B. Ecklund

Years have passed but I still remember the day when I first took you to school, you threw up there because you didn't want me to leave you. Oh how time flies by so quickly because look at you now, you have grown up to be a very loving, sweet, caring, and thoughtful young lady every parents dreamed about for their daughter to become. See are so proud of you I weethead. You have never given us headaches or troubles of any kind though we may have had some misunderstanding and arguments, its all normal. Don't ever think that you failed us. See are proud pf you in so many ways. It is our joy and pride for having a daughter like you and being a good sister to your brother. You are going to college and leaving us pretty soon. We may not be able to hold and hug you then but always remember that we are always holding you in our hearts forever. Inst keep your feel on the ground and make all your dreams come true. I weetheart we love you and will always be here for you. Congradulations!

Love, Mom, Dad, and & Say

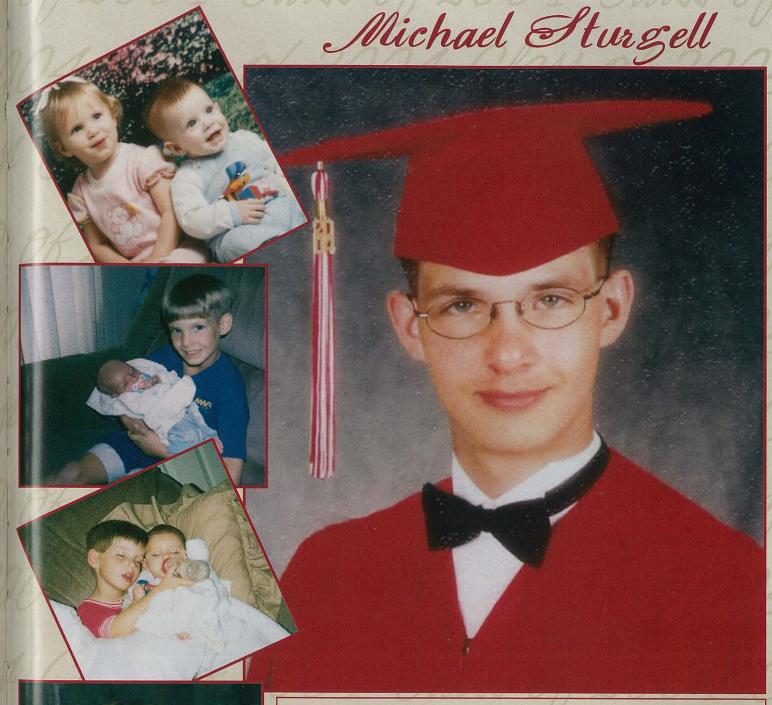

Stuart Van Deventer - Lotspeich

How can we say all that is in our hearts as you prepare to graduate? From a little "Rowdie" on the soccer field to a most "Princely" presence on the stage, you have grown and changed. As you embark upon the next stage of your life, remember to apply all you have learned and discovered, for truly, "we know what we are, but not what we may become." So love you.

Mom, Dad, Carolyn

Dear Michael,

When you were young you were marked as Boo Bear, it just seemed to fit. You were always tagging along being curious about what we were doing and how you could help us. You were always adventurous like crashing your walker into a mud puddles or taking apart your stereo. Your tenderness showed through when you held your brothers for the first time.

Early on we could see your desire for knowledge as you sal on Grandma's lap reading the newspaper with her. Always remember to look into your heart and remember that things were both happy and sad as well as curious, fascinating and scary. See wish you all the best as you continue on in your journey of life and love. Remember we will always be there for you and God Bless you!

Love Dad, Mom, and Townie

Alexis Zukowski

Dear Alexis Min Zuhowski,

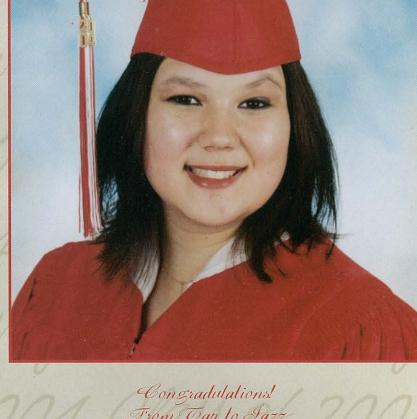

You earn your right to take your rightful place in this world; the world doesn't once you anything and don't look for free lunches, there are none. For the past seventeen years we watch you grow and develop into a wonderful human being. We watched you win and loose swimming championships and experiencing the joys and disappointments of individual compition; we watched you win and loose soccer matches and sharing the joys and agonies with your team mates; we watched you awed with wonder as the secrets of the universe through music, art and writing. You earned your place in your world with waking up at "oh" dark-thirty for swim training and "oh" my knees! Foccer practices and "Oh" what a great movoie that you didn't see because you made the lough choice between homework and movies. Kigh school was lunch; let's see what you do at supper...

Gregory St. Dietrich

Dear Greggi

Through the years you have always known how to make us laugh how to make us think, and occasionally how to keep us on our loes (God only knows!). See hope you will ALBS AGE know how VERY proud we are of you now, and how we look forward! watching you grow, day by day, and year by year, as you step of into the world of Tomorrow.

Kenneth Cardwell

I am proud of you son. You've worked hard all this way. I still remember when you were just a little mommy's boy, but now you are all grown up. I take a look at the past 18 years and I can say it was hard but I had a great time having you as a son. The best thing I love about you is that you never gave up in school or in sports. I've all I hope for you is to make the right choices in life and for you to follow your dreams. I will always be there to support you I un.

Love always, Mom

Into The Light

It is truly amazing what you have had to overcome during your high school years. You did it with grace, perserverance, and a positive altitude. Everyone, who has been supporting you and praying for you is so proud of you and what you have accomplished. You are a remarkable person and we have been blessed to have had you in our lives. The future which lies ahead of you is full of hope and fulfillment. As you pursue your dreams,

We Love You, Mom, Dad, and Jocelyn

ASe are so proud of you!!! ASe count our blessings each and everyday wondering how lucky we are to have such a beautiful, smart, and wonderful daughter like you. You worked hard and we always believed in you!! Always know that whatever you do and wherever you go we will always there for you!!

Congratulations Jenine!!

To our dear Roanne,

Always remember not to put limits on yourself. So many dieams are waiting to be realized...Decisions are too important to leave to chance. Pleach for your goals, your peak, your prize... Count your blessings, not your troubles. We know you'll make it through whatever comes along.... Have courage and be strong...we will always stand on accomplishing your first step in life. See are so proud of you...Good luck on your future endeavors.

Love always, Dad, Mom, Aisa, and Stain

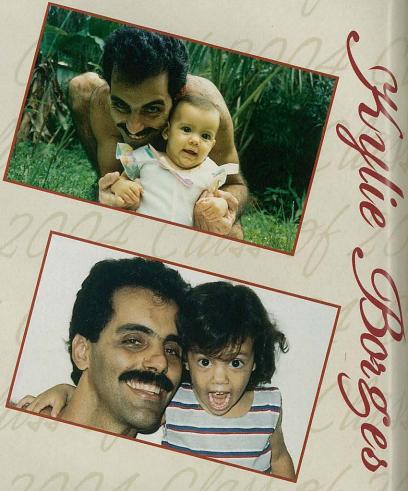

Dear Kylie,

Be a leader now for following others will only take you where they want to go. Honey, with all my heart, I am so very proud of you arriving at this day in one lovable piece. To the stars and back is not only how much I love you, but how far forward your sights should now be set.

All my love, Dad

From Mount Etna to Mount Fuji

Dear Natalie, your life has spanned the globe, with stops in Italy, California, Virginia, and Iapan. You first lived in the shadow of Italy's majestic active volcano, Mount Etna. Kow fitting that you end this first stage of life in the shadow of Mount Fuji, another beautiful, soaring landmark. You have accomplished so much and have such tremendous potential -- you can do anything you want, be anything you desire in life. See admire your splendid character, warm, caring, and loving personality, and zest for life. See know that you are ready to lackle the world, we wish you the very best. May God bless and keep you. All of our love, Mom, Dad, Caroline, Elise, and Emma

Dear Zach,

The movie (F. 74) is the movie (F. 74) is the movie (F. 74) is of you. You make valching sports on TO? more enjoyable and your encyclopedia knowledge of movies (down to who the key grip was in the movie IF. B) is dizzying. One thing we will miss most is your performance on stage (SVéll catch you on Broadway). You started making noise the minute you were born and haven't stopped since. So e can always count on you to express your opinion (even when we don't want it). You should be proud of what you did at Kinnick. Few students get involved with their school to the level you did. You are an activist and even when you don't get all you seek (what politician does?), you continue to be engaged in the dialogue. Go forth to college and life with the same activist allitude and you will make a difference. Love, Mom and Dad

Love, Dad, Mom,

Model United Nations

"Working towards a brighter future"

This year, the Model United Nations class and club put in long hours preparing for January's M.U.N. Far East Conference in Tokyo. Co-hosting along with Yokota High School meant spending many hours both in and out of school planning and researching. Try outs were held to choose delegates to represent the French Republic and the role of NGO's which was a new concept this year. Overall M.U.N. allows students to learn more about world affairs, work on public speaking skills and develop long lasting friendships with everybody involved. In December the delegates held a mock conference and increased relations with international students from Japanese schools. According to Patrick Harrington his favorite aspect of M.U.N is "getting to know other schools point of views about the issues that plague the world and how we all are willing to work towards a brighter future." Zach Weight also a delegate enjoyed "the close interaction between the represented countries in a common goal of peace and overcoming language barriers."

One Lost Page Before It's All Over.

The 300 copies of the 56th edition of Nile C. Kinnick High School's Krimson K were published by Jostens in Visalia California. Campus Photography took all the seniors and underclass photos.

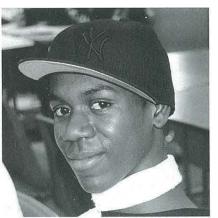

The pages and copy were created using Microsoft Word and Adobe PageMaker. The copy for stories were printed in 10 point Palatino, with captions at 8 point Palatino and headlines at 36 point Palatino. The film for all the pictures were purchased and developed at the Yokosuka Navy Exchange.

Thank you, Ms. Mary VanDeventer for teaching us how to create a yearbook, for taking the time to proof all the copy and layouts that the staff created, for giving up hours of your free time and making your classroom available after school and on weekends so that the staff did not miss a deadline. We will always be grateful of your support and help.

Of course a heart felt thanks to the teachers and students of Nile C. Kinnick High School for letting the staff take pictures of them in order to create a yearbook depicting the life of the people in this school. Without you, the completion of this publication would not have been accomplished.

Red Devil Track and Field

This year 40 high school students, 14 girls and 26 boys, make up the Kinnick Track and Field team competing in 14 various events: the high jump, long jump, discus, eight different running events and two relays. Lasting for two months from early February to mid-May there are a total of seven meets held in Tokyo. Coach Martinez, coach for two years, is confident in teh team's ablility to suceed based on his belief that "we have a talented group of core athletes with the potential to be very competitive in Okinawa and the finals." Helping to contribute to the team's strength and determination are the seven captains: Brenden Lynce, Jake Parker, Jasmine Jordan, Brian Bowers, Lenny Lynce, Joel Pettigrew and Eri Eveland. Together they help motivate the participants to expand their boundaries and reach new levels.

Putting those muscles to work Jake Parker demonstrates the strength and concentration it takes to throw the 12 pound shotput.

What experiences unified the team to be "all for one, one for all?"

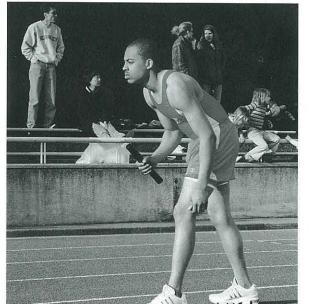

Justin Nietes: "Hanging out together with each other outside of track practices and meets.

"Representing Kinnick in our matching warm-ups gave us the feeling of unity."

Brian Bowers: "Learning how to do Red Devils jumping jacks like the football

Buy me some peanuts and crackerjack..."

"Take me out to the ball game!" The baseball team is back in full swing. After a tough season last year, the team is looking forward to a fresh start with the help of a new lineup. Stepping up to the plate as rookies, Coach Kevin Spollen and Coach Dan Haley assist Head Coach Danel MacWhyte to transform this year's team into a strong, fundamental and skillful team.

Following long hours of pratice and showing the commitment for the love of the game proves that everything they work hard for is worth it at the end. "The team is a lot better than last year," says Daniel Adams, manager of the baseball team. The team showed their dedication by showing up to the long hours of practice. Even the fans showed the team that their hardships paid off by showing up at the games and rooting for them all the way.

Even though the game can be taken seriously, the team players know how to have fun with it. They make the best of it even though in the end, they may have lost by a couple of runs. The team doesn't let losing put them down because they know that they tried to succeed at winning. "Even though I don't understand baseball all that well, they make it look so much fun and interesting," says Frances Leone. All in all, the baseball team shows others what a team is made of.

Because the team continues to improve in all skill areas, this is definitely a team that is a force to reckon with in the Kanto Plain League.

Batter Up!!!

The 2004 Kinnick High School softball team consists of fifteen determined, motivated, and skilled athletes. Although the team has plenty of new faces, the Lady Red Devils can only expect positive contributions from their new players. This allows the more experienced players the opportunity to show their leadership skills by helping the less experienced players in learning the rules of the game.

The Lady Red Devils are coached by Mr. Davis and assisted by Ms. Scarbrough. Anna Linatoc, 3rd base, says "Softball is a tough sport especially since I'm a rookie, but confidence and hard work is all it takes to succeed." This player definitely has a positive outlook for the season. Alyssa "Hat" Gilson, 1st base returnee, says "This season is going to be difficult because of all the new players, but we are definately going to excel at the sport by the end of the season. Jackie Jimenez, 2nd base, says "It takes a lot of enthusiasm and teamwork to make a good team, as Mr. Davis says, "We win as a team and lose as a team." Coach Davis is not only proud of his team on the field, but academically as well. A quotation that he went by in high school was, "Your cap and gown is the most important uniform you can ever wear." This should remind us to be aggressive in the sports and in school.

Boys Soccer 2004

Led by captains Richie Korth and Trey Davis, Kinnick Boys Soccer has shown great unity and teamwork as they took on the other teams confidently. In comparison with last year's season, the Devils have shown great improvement. The team has six dedicated seniors who have created a strong foundation to build off of and have set standards to which the rest of the team can live up to. The seniors have taught their teammates valuable lessons in offense, defense, and even team leadership. Coach Schofield has been the boys soccer coach for two years. Coach Schofield describes this year's team as "contenders for Far East." The team has an impressive record, winning most of their games and proving to be the team to beat at this year's Far East Tournament in Yokota.

COACH'S CORNER

When the weather starts to get warmer and the days become longer, basketball and wrestling end while soccer season starts! Being a popular outdoor sport, many girls tried out and the result was the formation of a successful team. Coach Hindie, who has been coaching girls' soccer for two years, expected his team to go far especially with many experienced and returnee players such as Jenine Clements, Alexis Zukowski, Robyn Hopp, Brenda Welding, Christensen Javier, Lisa Murray, Airamy Rivera, Ashley Melin, and Nikki Fulton – and he was right in predicting that his team would be victorious. The Kinnick girls' soccer team ended up winning the majority of their games throughout the season.
