ADMINISTRATION, HOST NATION and MILITARY LETTERS to the COMMUNITY

The administration and faculty are proud of the endeavors and accomplishments of the students of Sigonella Middle/High School. These accomplishments could not be achieved without the hard work of everyone involved – students, teachers, and parents. The efforts of all are recorded in this Yearbook and a reminder of the challenges and rewards of each. From sports to academics, we strive to provide a well-rounded educational program for all.

Ms. Phyllis Fuglaar
High School Principal

Thank you to all for what you have done to make Sigonella Middle/High School a place to be proud you have lived. Each school year we are met with a variety of new challenges at Sigonella MHS. SY 2016/17 has been no exception with the implementation of the College and Career Readiness Standards in Mathematics and Literacy, not to mention all of the transitions for many of our new faculty members, and students who have joined our wonderful community. I can assure you Ms. Fuglaar and I have worked very hard to make sure teachers are given the resources, support and the professional development opportunities to help change the quality of instruction in the classroom and make the greatest impact on every student's learning potential. Living in Sicily can be challenging, but there are always more days of sunshine than rain, and we know that it is the rain in our lives that make us grow and appreciate the sunshine. This is a great analogy for our experience this year. We have experienced mid-year retirement, and many of our especially loved students PCS to other parts of the globe, we get to travel around Europe playing sports and visiting the primary sources of our local antiquity, learning the sometimes frustrating language of Italian, but always meeting new and exciting people. Our school is full of our future's greatest potential, and although homework, quizzes and projects are those mundane things required of us, the sunshine is more regular than the rain. We experienced great highs this year watching the exciting home athletics, bringing home a Championship, and no doubt the celebration of Graduation will be the capstone of our year's accomplishment and the bridging of life's new challenges for this year's seniors. Memories of living in Sicily and serving here at as the assistant principal at Sigonella MHS are certainly precious in my mind, and I hope to see many of you again in the fall ready for another year of sunshine.

Mr. Richard Dye
High School Assistant Principal

Ciao ragazzi! As the representative of the Italian Culture at Sigonella MHS I hope you had a memorable experience in living part of your life in Italy. Some of you will stay and some of you will be ready for another adventure somewhere else in the world. Wherever you will go I'm sure you will bring in your heart the unforgettable memories you lived in Italy: a sport's trip in Rome or Venice, a walk through the Catania Market, a school exchange you participated at, a night at the Bellini Opera... All of this will relive any time you leaf through your Yearbook.

Arrivederci!

Mr. Salvatore Iozzia,
Host Nation and Italian Language Teacher

Congratulations Jaguar class of 2017, and to all of our Sigonella Middle/High School students on completing the 2016/17 school year! The completion of each school year represents a milestone in your academic career, bringing you one step closer to becoming a responsible adult and citizen of our great nation. It also represents an advance in the ongoing evolution of our education system, our country and our global community as the achievements of your generation will propel the human species to a higher existence.

You have been given a gift. As a military child living overseas, you have gained an international perspective which has given you many advantages over your peers entrenched in the relative comforts and norms back home in the continental United States. You have been exposed to a variety of customs and traditions, as well as seen places that others only read about in books. Some of you have learned new languages or gotten to know people of various origins. In today's world, an open mind and an international perspective are the key to fostering tolerance, inclusion and global peace.

These experiences have most likely made you more outgoing, more resilient to change, more understanding, more empathetic, and more appreciative of what you have. You are also now better equipped to adapt to new surroundings and survive in the world, regardless of location or institution. If you had a certain view of the world we live in at the beginning of this school year, there is a good chance your aperture has been widened. There is a wisdom in all of you which will not brush off these new traits as meaningless, using them as tools for self-improvement in order to stay ahead of the pack and not let stagnation take root over the coming years.

Citizenship is something which should never stagnate. Don't take your citizenship for granted; strive to earn it every day. America is the land of the free because of the brave. Our freedom was earned by the sweat, blood and tears of all citizens to ensure what was founded continued for all, and for always. Remember, "E Pluribus Unum," or "Out of many, One." The contributions of all citizens have produced one great nation. You wouldn't plant a seed, and then walk away expecting it to grow into something beautiful. No, you would nurture the seed into a sprout, then a plant. The resulting plant must then be maintained, including pruning every once in a while to encourage new growth. Our country is no different. You are no different. You need to continue nurturing your growth and education. Our country needs advanced thinkers and people like you, taking action to propel it further.

The world can be a battlefield of competition. Like a foot race, getting a good start is important to staying ahead. However, competitors must continually strive for excellence, lest their performance diminish, allowing them to be overtaken by a more dedicated, harder worker. Through it all, it is important to maintain high self-standards, and not betray your values for quick and easy gratification. As part of virtually any society, your value may be based on trustworthiness. Trust usually must be earned over time, with profound effort. It is easily lost, in an instant. Depending on the circumstances, recovery may be impossible and always never to 100% of what it was. Better to be trusted, than not.

Our small community has invested a lot in each of you. Beginning with your parents, and including your institution, instructors, mentors, coaches, neighbors and friends. Revel in your accomplishments. Take pride in the hard work you have invested to get to this point. Look to the future with excitement and awe, because the world truly is yours. But before you part ways, do something you won't regret by taking the time to thank the people who have invested in you. You could not have done it without them.

Today you stand at a crossroad. You will soon leave the comforts of home, and embark on your new journey as a young adult. As you make this transition, I offer some parting guidance from great leaders: be sure to fill each day with your best effort, lead yourself exceptionally well, create opportunities for others to succeed, have a positive attitude, make smart and informed decisions, always know and accept the consequences to risks you may take, and finally, make every day a masterpiece. Congratulations and best wishes to the Class of 2017!

THIS IS OUR YEAR
DEAL WITH IT

Congratulations Carson!

What do proud parents say to a young man about to embark on a new journey in life, except...SCHOOLS OUT! Although we know you could not wait for this day to get here (and often us), it will be these times (High School) that you remember fondly. You will always recall those long overnight bus rides to play sports, sleeping on gym floors, working in the booster room, pretending you were a Senator, and vacationing in Europe. Those memories will always fill your heart full of joy when you need a "pick-me up" on a rough day...hang onto them.

Words can't begin to express how we feel, except we are extremely proud of you and all of your achievements! Continue to pursue your dreams and never let anyone tell you it is impossible. Because as we know, beating the impossible is what you do best! Now that High School is in your rearview mirror, go out into the world and make history!!!

*Love always,
Mom & Dad*

Aryn McCarter

My little Angel,
How proud we are! My heart and my dreams go with you as you start this new adventure and I inhale with anticipation to see where it takes you (us)! :)
My love always,
Me

Aryn,
I've watched you grow so much over the years, and I'm so excited to have you graduate this year--it's something I've been waiting on for seven years!! :) Now you can join me in the adult world! Woo! I'm so proud of all the things you've doone, from writing to drama to film and everything in between. You're not only my sister, but also one of my best friends, and I can't wait to see all the things you accomplish from here on out. I love you so much, boo!

A large collage of photographs featuring Kendra Layne Van Wynsberghe from childhood to adulthood. The photos show her in various settings: as a young girl playing sports (baseball, soccer), climbing, and dancing; as a teenager swimming and performing; and as a young woman in formal wear, holding trophies, and posing. Family members, including parents and siblings, are also featured in several photos, such as a family portrait and a photo of her with her mother and father. The collage is set against a dark background with a blue border.

THE REAL MVP

Since you came into the world, our lives have never been the same, and for that we are so grateful. As a little girl, you constantly amazed us, and as a young woman, you have continued to do the same. From watching you navigate through the ups and downs of the world, dominate on every field and court you step on and love on across countries, to overcoming and overcoming every challenge that you've faced, we continue to make us proud. Although the clock is winding down on the 2nd quarter, and we're preparing to launch you into the 2nd half, we know that you are more than ready for whatever challenges are thrown your way. You have everything that it takes to win this game called life, and we can't wait to watch. We're proud being your coaches over the years, but no other title has made us more proud than simply being your parents. We love you and are so proud of you!

Love, Mom & Dad

I'm gonna miss you next year. There will be nobody to do the chores around the house and make room yell less. It's gonna be hard. I've been with you for 13 years of my life and I know its gonna suck just being away from you for 1.

Love, Averi

No matter where you go, or what you do, know that I will always be right there to laugh at you, laugh with you, cry for you, cry with you, and be the biggest supporter of all shenanigans, ratchetry, pettiness, and everything else that makes us great. Thank you for being the best Baby Ratch that a girl could ever ask for! You've made me the proudest big sister in the history of the universe, and I can't wait to live in your guest house with awesome back splash. BE GREAT, BABY SIS!!!

SARANGHAEEYYO OOOOOOOOOO <3

Love, Ash
