WAMS of the Past and what we'll leave Behind

1990 2005

W.A.M.S. has not been around for as long as you may have thought. In fact, W.A.M.S. was opened in the year of 1990! We asked some of the teachers that were here when the school first opened a few questions about the changes in W.A.M.S.

"I got older, my philosophy changed! Hair today, gone tomorrow." -- William Macmillan (arrived in 1992)

When you first arrived at this school, what was it like?

"Six periods a day, 45 minutes each, no advisory, one study period at the beginning the day." -- Mrs. Fisher (arrived in 1991)

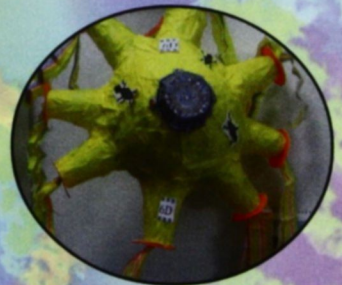

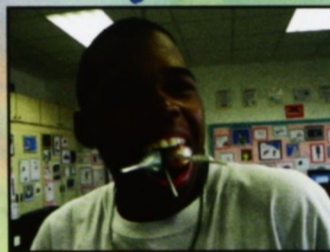

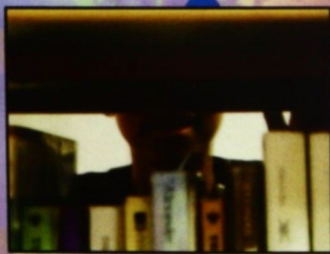

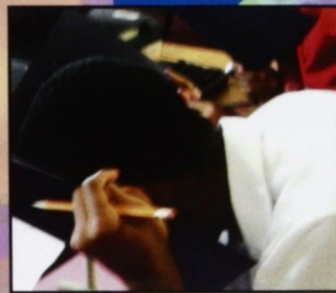

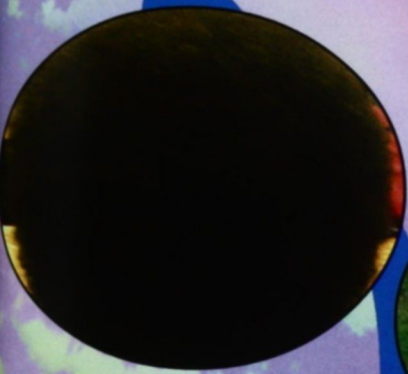

We came to this conclusion: Every year has new kids, every year is a new year, a new beginning, and a new opportunity to learn different things, and meet new people. Even teachers learn new things!

8th Grade Wills!!

Since the 8th grade won't be here next year, we asked a few of them to write wills. What would they leave behind? Here are some of the answers we received...

- I, Logan Lehman, leave the school my idea of making a statue out of Jello of me.
- I, Jordan Roberts, leave to the next kid that has locker #167, a personal shrine of me. There will be places with my nicknames, maybe even a picture (if you're lucky). lol. Cherish it and look at it and remember me.....Jordie.
- I, Sierra Davis, would like to leave my lunch table to my little buddy Pookie.
- I, Kyle Canale, leave my fortune ($1.00) to Matt Clidas because he never has any money to buy lunch.
- I, Christian Boodoosingh, leave my ability of turning in homework.
- I, Anne Goho, leave anyone who wants it, my tutorial spot. Have fun!
- I, Kayle Helton, leave my favorite blue pen to my friend Samantha Dela Cruz.
- I, Lauren Kolenda, leave my cheerleading talents to all the people who want to cheer.
