IN THE YEAR 2004-2005

On January 26, 2004, Afghan President Hamid Karzai, signed the new Afghanistan constitution into law, after weeks of trying to reach a consensus with the Loya Jirga, or grand council. The new constitution called for a democratic Islamic state, established a presidential system and granted equal rights to all citizens. It is the first legal constitution in two years and the eighth in Afghanistan's turbulent history.

On June 30, 2004, the Cassini-Huygen spacecraft began orbit of Saturn after a seven year, 2.2 billion mile journey from Cape Canaveral on Earth. The two-part spacecraft, Cassini Orbiter and Huygen Probe, will start a four-year data collecting mission to explore Saturn and its 31 moons. The Huygen Probe landed on Saturn's moon Titan, in January of 2005, while the Cassini Orbiter will continue to do close flybys of many of Saturn's other moons.

On March 11, 2004, Masterfoods USA, the makers of M&M'S® Chocolate Candies, announced the return of color to their candy with a bold new look. On New Year's Eve, 2003, the company started the Great Color Quest contest by distributing the normally colorful candies only in black and white. To win the contest, fans across the nation sought out six special packages containing only a single color of the candies.

On December 26, 2004, a 9.0 magnitude earthquake off the western coast of Sumatra, Indonesia, unleashed the deadliest tsunami wave in recorded history that hit virtually every country in the Indian Ocean and killed more than 200,000 people. The wave, in some areas over 50 feet high, destroyed entire villages along the coasts of Sumatra and Thailand. World aid organizations and the U.S. military rushed to help the survivors of the disaster to prevent further loss of life.

On November 2, 2004, Americans went to the polls in an election marked by high voter turnout. After a close race, President George W. Bush was re-elected president of the United States over Democratic candidate Senator John Kerry. Bush won by only 2.5% of the popular vote, the smallest margin in history for a sitting president. And after nearly two months and two recounts, Democratic candidate Christine Gregoire won the election for governor of the state of Washington concluding the closest election in state history.

MAKING OSCAR HISTORY

13-year-old Keisha Castle-Hughes is the youngest person to ever be nominated for a Best Actress Academy Award for her work in the film "Whale Rider". Keisha was only 11 years old when she was cast for the role.

STAKING THEIR CLAIM

After starting their acting careers as toddlers, Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen have built a media empire. A few months before their 18th birthday, the girls were given their own star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

BEST ACTOR & ACTRESS IN A DRAMA

Hilary Swank (left) was awarded the Best Performance By An Actress in A Motion Picture - Drama in January of 2005 for her performance as a female boxer in the movie Million Dollar Baby. Leonardo DiCaprio (right) was awarded Best Performance By An Actor in the same category as Swank, for his portrayal of aviation pioneer, Howard Hughes in The Aviator. Aviator also took home the Best Motion Picture Award.

ONCE UPON A TIME...

An ogre and a princess fell in love and starred in an animated feature length film that was the highest grossing movie of 2004- not to mention the 3rd highest grossing movie of all time (to date). Shrek 2 took the movie world by storm in May of 2004 raking in $436,471,036 by year's end. Who says movie sequels are never as good as their originals?

BEST ACTOR - COMEDY OR MUSICAL

Comedian, Jamie Foxx, walked away from the Golden Globes with a Best Actor Performance Award for his portrayal of the late Ray Charles in the never-before-told musical biographical drama of the music legend. Ray was also nominated for best picture.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Where Did All The Hockey Go? For the second time in ten years the NHL has closed its doors. In September of 2004, NHL owners locked out teams after players rejected a proposal for price caps on player salaries. As of February of 2005, two-thirds of the season had already been lost and there was no compromise in sight. No professional sports league has ever lost an entire season due to a labor dispute.

Michael Phelps: Golden Boy. On August 13, 2004, the Summer Olympics opened in Athens, Greece, the original home of the Olympic Games. For the first time, the Olympic Flame traveled to all continents. American swimmer, Michael Phelps, was the most decorated athlete winning six gold and two bronze medals. In overall medal standings, USA ranked first, China second and Russia third.

- Professional cyclist, Lance Armstrong wins the Tour De France for the sixth consecutive time!
- The Boston Red Sox beat the St. Louis Cardinals in the World Series: 4-0.
- The Detroit Pistons took the NBA Championship with a game 5 win over the L.A. Lakers: 100-87
- The WNBA championship was taken by the Seattle Storm in game 3. The Storm beat the Connecticut Sun: 74-60.
- The New England Patriots beat the Philadelphia Eagles in Superbowl XXXIX: 24-21.

A New Species of People?

On an isolated island of Indonesia, anthropologists found skeletal remains of a hobbit-sized, 30 year-old adult female. In the same limestone cave, there were also remains of a Komodo dragon, stone tools and a dwarf elephant. Subsequent finds of similarly sized 3-foot-tall humans with brains the size of grapefruit suggest the 18,000 year-old remains weren't a 'quirk', but part of an entire species of miniature people whose existence overlapped with that of modern Homo sapiens. This species of humans likely left no descendants, and therefore no mark on modern day human biology. Scientists say this is the first documentation of an entirely new species of people that apparently adapted and lived for thousands of years in caves on the isolated island.

Camera Shy!

Astronomers have found evidence of more than 125 planets around other stars in the universe, but no one has ever seen one directly. Scientists have relied on indirect clues to pinpoint locations of other planets. The European Southern Observatory believes it has captured the first picture of an extrasolar planet. It orbits a star 230 light years from earth and appears to be HUGE. From what astronomers can tell, it looks to be about five times the size of Jupiter. That's around fifty-five times the size of the Earth!

Save the Frogs!

In October of 2004, a study was released stating that nearly 33% of the world's amphibian population are near extinction. Over the last three years, 500 scientists have been studying the frog, toad and salamander populations in over 60 countries. Of the 5,743 species known, 1,856 are now considered threatened with extinction. Another 1,300 are nearing the "threatened" mark. At least nine species have become extinct since 1980 and a mere 1% are increasing their numbers while only 27% are considered stable.

The World is Freer!

According to the United Nations, 70% of the world's nations are holding multi-party elections. 58% of the world lives under a fully democratic system of governance where the people have a say in their nation's leaders.

America is healthier!

Life expectancy in the U.S. is at an all-time high. Women and men of all ethnic backgrounds are expected to live longer than ever before in U.S. history. Due to advances in medicine and science and increased awareness and prevention methods; heart disease, cardiovascular disease, cancer and stroke have decreased significantly in the past decade.

Tourists on the Moon?

On October 4, 2004, SpaceShipOne rocketed into history, becoming the first private, manned spacecraft to exceed an altitude of 328,000 feet twice within the span of a 14 day period, claiming the ten million dollar Ansari X-Prize. SpaceShipOne was built by Mojave Aerospace Ventures, a company backed by aircraft designer Burt Rutan and billionaire Paul Allen. The spacecraft was piloted by Mike Melvill who has almost 20 years behind him as an experimental test pilot. A company in Britain is planning on partnering with Mojave to offer 2-hour tourist trips out to the edge of our atmosphere and back. The company hopes to be taking customers into space as early as 2011!

BYE BYE BATTERIES?

Today's gadgets continue to become smaller and smaller. The only thing holding many back from miniaturizing even more are their batteries. The solution? Fuel cell battery technology. In the next few years, expect to see portable electronics powered by fuel cells using methanol as their primary power source. When the fuel runs out, simply replace the empty cell with a full one. Scientists estimate that methanol has 40-60 times the energy efficiency of lithium.

LIFE ON MARS? Scientists have discovered that for a prolonged period of time, Mars was a watery, habitable place. This is the only other place in the universe that scientists have found where life could once have existed. Two Mars rovers confirmed what scientists have suspected for a long time: Many years ago, enough water pooled on the planet's surface long enough to allow the possibility of life. Small organisms that need only very basic elements to survive may have once existed on the 'red planet'.

SEE THROUGH CEMENT?

A wall made of a breakthrough material allegedly has the strength of traditional concrete but, thanks to an embedded array of glass fibers, can display a view of the outside world, such as the shadow of a tree, for example. The hope is that the new material, called LitraCon will transform the interior look of concrete buildings, making them light and airy by letting natural light in.
