About Heather

Heather began her career as a fashion designer in San Francisco, where she combined her sense of style with her love for textiles. Traveling the globe & working closely with textile studios & manufacturers her love for prints & graphics bloomed. In 2000 she followed her passion by launching her surface design brand. Heather swapped coasts & now lives in the picturesque seaside town of Kennebunk, Maine. She starts every morning walking the beach with her dog, soaking up inspiration before settling into her vintage farmhouse studio to create new designs.

Press Coverage

Heather's art has been featured in a variety of international publications, blogs and design books.
