

Welcome to Book of Alpha (Book of Resell LLC)

Book of Alpha is an online business education community focused on providing mentoring and coaching services related to reselling. Before proceeding, carefully review the following terms of service, which outline the conditions governing your use of our platform.

1. Educational Purpose Only

All information and services provided by Book of Alpha (Book of Resell LLC) are strictly for educational purposes. We do not issue certificates of completion or any form of accreditation. Book of Alpha (Book of Resell LLC) operates independently and is not affiliated with other education providers unless explicitly hired by us.

2. Your Membership

Upon joining Book of Alpha (Book of Resell LLC), your membership grants you access to an educational Discord server. This server serves as a community where individuals collaborate to network and learn about reselling. By purchasing, users acknowledge that there is no guaranteed profit or monetary gain from the server; its purpose is purely educational. The user understands the server does not promise any specific person or service during their duration of their membership. The user understands the server may and can at will change the server's layout, structure, members, staff at any time.

3. Rules and Policies

As a member of the educational community, the user agrees to always follow the rules of the community.

The user can not leak or source any information from the community to any outside sources. Any information including: course material, leads, or private info is to be kept within the community. There is zero toleration for any crude, racist, bigoted remarks within the community. Any disparaging or slanderous comments against the company or against members of the discord is strictly prohibited. The user agrees to only discuss amicably in the chats of the community and with direct messages of other community members. Any private info including addresses, names, phone numbers of other members or staff is not to be disclosed and is strictly prohibited.

Any violations of these policies, and any other egregious acts that Book of Resell LLC deem extreme behavior, are a one strike policy and grounds for permanent removal and access of the community. This removal is to be finalized and there will be no refund, partial refund or any sort of compensation back to the user.

The user agrees to adhere to these rules before purchasing.

Book of Resell LLC maintains the right to seek any legal action or recourse for any violations of the policy and any slanderous remarks.

4. Personal Information and Privacy

We prioritize the confidentiality of your personal information. We collect minimal data, limited to your username and email address, and do not share it with third parties. Your content, excluding credit card information, may be transmitted unencrypted. Access to credit card details is managed by our payment gateway providers (Stripe), and we commit not to store, sell, share, rent, or lease any credit/debit card details or personally identifiable information.
