

Refund Policy

Effective Date: 01-01-2025

AdRevival LLC ("we," "us," or "our") provides digital products and services. Due to the nature of these offerings, all sales are final, and refunds are generally not available. Please review our refund policy below.

1. No Refunds on Digital Products

Once a product or service is delivered, it is considered fulfilled. Delivery is defined as granting access to the digital assets or services purchased.

- Digital Nature: Digital products are non-returnable and irreversible; therefore, no refunds can be issued.
 - Successful Delivery: If access to a product or service is provided, the transaction is considered completed.

2. Subscription Payments

- Subscriptions are billed every 30 days via credit card on the Whop.io platform.
 - Failed Payments: If a payment fails, access to digital assets is suspended. A 2-3 day grace period may be allowed for users to update payment details, but this is not guaranteed.
 - Refunds for subscription payments will not be issued once the billing cycle begins, even if access is later suspended due to non-payment.

3. Guarantee of Service Functionality

AdRevival guarantees that all delivered digital products and services will function as described on the homepage or product pages.

- Resolution of Issues: If an asset is restricted or banned for reasons outside the user's control (e.g., platform policy changes), AdRevival will replace or restore the asset at no additional cost, provided the user adheres to all policies and terms.
 - Policy Violations: Refunds are not available if a ban or restriction occurs due to the user's violation of AdRevival policies or Facebook platform guidelines.

4. Exemptions from Refunds

Refunds will not be issued under the following conditions:

- User errors or misuse of delivered digital assets (e.g., logging in outside the setup or altering configurations).
 - Violations of prohibited activities outlined in our Terms of Service.
 - Changes to a user's circumstances (e.g., no longer needing the service).
