Job Outlook

• Employment of human resources specialists is projected to grow 6 percent from 2022 to 2032, about as fast as the average for all occupations. Human resources specialists will be needed to handle increasingly complex employment laws and healthcare coverage options. Most growth is projected to be in the professional, scientific, and technical services industry.

• Employment of compensation, benefits, and job analysis specialists is projected to grow 7 percent from 2022 to 2032, about as fast as the average for all occupations. Job prospects should be best for candidates with a bachelor’s degree, work experience performing compensation analysis or benefits administration, and related human resources work.

• Employment of training and development specialists is projected to grow 6 percent from 2022 to 2032, faster than the average for all occupations. Job prospects should be best for those with experience developing online and mobile training programs.
