Why Columbia, S.C.?

As South Carolina's capitol city, Columbia is home to the South Carolina General Assembly and the offices of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of South Carolina. Columbia is centrally located in relation to three major interstates, including I-20, I-26, and I-77, with easy access to I-85. Atlanta, Charlotte, Charleston, and the Upstate of South Carolina are all highly accessible from Columbia's central location.

Government and Professional Services consistently lead in terms of employment with the area boasting an overall unemployment rate of 2.4% (January 2020), significantly lower than the national rate of 3.6%.

Columbia is home to the University of South Carolina, the state's flagship university, which offers more than 350 programs of study to approximately 52,000 students statewide. The main Columbia campus hosts more than 35,000 students as of fall 2019 - making it the largest University in the Carolinas.

Columbia is also home to Fort Jackson, the largest and most active initial entry training center in the U.S. Army. Training 50 percent of all soldiers and 60 percent of the women entering the Army each year, more than 12,000 military families make Fort Jackson their home. Fort Jackson's primary mission is to provide the Army with new soldiers, and it sees 35,000 potential soldiers attend basic training and 8,000 advanced individual training soldiers annually.
