FEATURES

The iconic Clark Building, 633 W. Wisconsin Ave., is ideally situated on one of Milwaukee's busiest corridors and is completely surrounded by dining, retail, and hospitality in bustling West Town. Named for Emory Clark, founder of Clark Oil, the building is well known for its rooftop Miller Lite sign.

J. Jeffers & Company's, one of Milwaukee's most hands-on local developers, acquired the property in 2017 and ushered in a new era for the building -- completing immediate renovations including the first floor common conference facility, an upgraded lobby, updated corridors, and more. The building offers on-site security, 24/7 key card access, touch screen tenant directory, rooftop solar panels, and attached, covered parking. Future renovations include a fitness center, solar power carports, tenant lounge, and additional corridor upgrades.
