The Association provides grants, scholarships and targeted youth programs for persons with diabetes. Each summer, thousands of children have the opportunity to spend time at Diabetes Camp, meeting other children with diabetes and sharing their experiences, challenges, hopes, and dreams. In 2018, the American Diabetes Association hosted 79 camp sessions in 25 states serving over 6,000 campers with Type I. Type 2, and at risk for Type 2 diabetes. In addition, more than 2,000 volunteers made camp possible by donating their time and expertise. Camp provides an outdoor recreational experience in which the child for children with diabetes ages 4 to 17 can develop as a person while including informal education about the management of diabetes. Children are carefully supervised by a staff of doctors, nurses, dietitians, and other volunteers and staff. Program Evaluation and outcome measurement provide valuable data to the Association regarding camp programs and how to improve them. An assessment/planning meeting including camp volunteers and staff leadership is held within two months of the conclusion of the camp season. At this time, camp results are evaluated and compared to goals. The strengths and weaknesses of the camp program, opportunities for growth and improvement, emerging issues and needs and the viability of continuation/initiation of new programs are evaluated

Part II Line 2 Related to Education The American Diabetes Association is committed to preventing diabetes. The Diabetes Prevention Program DPP was a major multicenter clinical research study, funded in part by the American Diabetes Association, aimed at discovering whether modest weight loss through dietary changes and increased physical activity or treatment with the oral diabetes drug metformin Glucophage could prevent or delay the onset of type 2 diabetes in study participants. The DPP found that participants who lost a modest amount of weight through dietary changes and increased physical activity sharply reduced their chances of developing diabetes. Taking metformin also reduced risk, although less dramatically. The DPPs results indicate that millions of high-risk people can delay or avoid developing type 2 diabetes by losing weight through regular physical activity and a diet low in fat and calories. Weight loss and physical activity lower the risk of diabetes by improving the bodys ability to use insulin and process glucose. The DPP contributed to a better understanding of how diabetes develops in people at risk and how they can prevent or delay the development of diabetes by making behavioral changes leading to weight loss. These findings are reflected in recommendations from the American Diabetes. Association for the prevention or delay of type 2 diabetes, which stress the importance of lifestyle changes and weight loss. Building on the success of the DPP, the Centers for Disease Control CDC led National Diabetes Prevention Program is an evidence-based lifestyle change program for preventing type 2 diabetes. The year-long program helps participants make real lifestyle changes such as eating healthier, including physical activity into their daily lives, and improving problem-solving and copina skills Part III Line 1.2 Each year, the American Diabetes Association recognizes the outstanding contributions of individuals in the service of the diabetes community through its National Achievement Awards These awards are among the Associations most noteworthy and coveted recognition opportunities, celebrating those whose significant contributions to our cause have been national in scope and impact. Past recipients represent individuals or groups that have never faltered in their efforts to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Today, more than 100 million Americans in the United States have diabetes or prediabetes an invasive, unrelenting and debilitating disease that spans all ages, geography and educational levels. This chronic disease targets children, the elderly and minority populations more than others and costs the United States 327 billion dollars each year in lost productivity. It is a global epidemic that contributes to heart disease, stroke, nerve and kidney disease and vision loss. The American Diabetes Association is the only organization dedicated specifically to the research, education and advocacy required to improve the lives of the 30-3 million adults and children in the U.S. with diabetes and the 84-1 million people with prediabetes. For 78 years, we have been working on the frontlines to educate at risk populations, protect the rights of people with diabetes at work, school and other aspects of daily life, pioneer clinical and research breakthroughs and foster a pipeline of the best and brightest scientists. From research labs to the halls of the Capitol to the offices of health care practitioners to communities nationwide, we are there. We are bending the curve to help people living with diabetes and their families thrive. Why Because we envision a life free of diabetes and all its burdens, which is fueled by our mission to prevent and cure diabetes and to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes. |

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Diabetes is an extremely complex disease, caused by a combination of various genetic and environmental factors that progressively lead to an inability to produce or effectively utilize insulin. The complexity of causes conspiring to diminish the bodys production or response to insulin, leading to high blood glucose and eventual development of diabetes, makes finding a single cure particularly difficult. While a cure has been elusive, critical research efforts in recent decades have led to significantly improved patient care, resulting in fewer complications and better health outcomes for individuals with diabetes. As a leader in diabetes research, and the only organization dedicated specifically to the research, education and advocacy required to improve the lives of all people with diabetes, the American Diabetes Association funds critical, innovative diabetes research and invests in promising scientists early in their careers. Our direct involvement in diabetes research extends back to the 1940s when Dr. Charles H. Best, one of four scientists credited with discovering insulin, provided the ADA with the framework and early leadership for a formalized diabetes research program. |

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Since our Research Programs inception in 1952, we have been the leader in funding cutting edge diabetes research, supporting nearly 4,800 research projects and investing more than 834.4 million in diabetes research. In 2018, the ADA supported 318 new and continuing research projects at 104 leading research institutions across the United States. The projects cover the broad spectrum of research approaches, including basic, clinical and translational science and address all types of diabetes, diabetes related disease states and complications. The primary goals of the ADAs Research Program are to Support the highest quality science across the broad spectrum of diabetes research, Support investigators early in their careers to encourage them to dedicate their efforts to diabetes research, Support innovative research with a high potential to have a significant impact for patients with diabetes. |

by individuals who are experts in the field or peers of the individual submitting the grant. ADA grant applications all undergo peer review by three or more volunteer experts who are themselves diabetes researchers. Reviewers provide both a score and detailed comments regarding the strengths and weaknesses of each grant they review. Scores from all reviewers for each grant are averaged to arrive at a composite merit score that is then used to determine which grants to support.

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | The ADA hosted a research symposium on the Use of Real-World Data to Improve the Prevention and Care of Diabetes-Related Outcomes in Washington D.C. in November of 2018. The symposium offered presentations and discussion with the goal of driving consensus to accelerate guidance on the design and use of real-world data to improve the prevention and care of diabetes-related outcomes. ADA-supported researchers made significant progress in understanding how diabetes develops and progresses, and in identifying new ways to combat the disease. Notable advances include assessing the potential of community programs to combat health disparities in type 2 diabetes a novel therapy to prevent type 1 diabetes leading to a better understanding of why the immune system attacks insulin-producing beta-cells in type 1 diabetes and preserving eyesight in people with diabetes by studying a unique molecule that seems to play an important role in the development of diabetic retinopathy, a progressive complication of diabetes that affects nearly 100 million people worldwide and leads to blindness. |

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Pathway to Stop Diabetes Launched in 2013, the American Diabetes Associations Pathway to Stop Diabetes initiative aims to inspire a new generation of diabetes researchers who are early in their career or are established but would like to expand their focus on diabetes research. Through awards of 1 625 million over the course of five to seven years, the program allows researchers to have the time and focus needed to explore new ideas. With a goal of funding 100 new diabetes researchers over the next decade, Pathway provides crucial support to individuals focusing on innovative ideas and transformational approaches that will lead to new discoveries in diabetes prevention and treatment. Importantly, Pathway is in addition to ongoing ADA research activities and is significantly expanding our research efforts. Six new Pathway awardees began their research projects in January 2018. During the 2018 calendar year these new awardees, along with the 23 Pathway scientists who were continuing in their terms of Pathway funding, collectively published 30 high impact original research manuscripts and seven reviews. They delivered 151 presentations at scientific meetings. Through 2018, eight Pathway Initiator award recipients of nine funded to date have secured their first independent faculty positions. Ten patent applications have been filed by Pathway awardees to date. These outcomes demonstrate that the Pathway initiative continues to exceed its objectives and progress toward our vision of bringing 100 brilliant scientists to diabetes research. |

The sixth annual Pathway to Stop Diabetes grant competition was held in 2018. The Mentor Advisory Group reviewed 89 outstanding nominations and selected three new Pathway awardees who began their grants in January 2018. With selection of these new awardees, the Pathway program has supported 32 outstanding investigators in total 2018, the first group of scientists completed their terms of Pathway funding, which had started in 2014. These scientists, Kathleen Page, MD, of the University of Southern California Wolfgang Peti, PhD, of the University of Arizona and Joshua P. | Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Youth, Young Adult and Family Initiatives Reaching Type 1 and Type 2 Diabetes Families. For children living with type 1 diabetes, the everyday challenges of being a kid must be balanced with the management of a disease that is constant, demanding and scary. They walk a tightrope between blood glucose levels that are too high and those that are too low both of which can be life threatening. Because type 1 diabetes is a life-long disease and challenges vary at every stage of life, the American Diabetes. Association strives to reach those with type 1 diabetes with relevant programs throughout their life from early diagnosis through adulthood and advanced management. The Youth, Young Adult and Family Initiatives team hosted a conference in October 2018 to examine and address the needs of rapidly advancing medical technology and data with the support of The Leona M and Harry B. Helmsley Charitable Trust. At the conference, 41 stakeholders, including leaders from the ADAs camp network, the Diabetes Education and Camping Association DECA, industry representatives, ADA Youth and Family Initiative staff, and The Helmsley Charitable Trust convened in Arlington, Virginia to plan for the future. | Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Diabetes Camps The American Diabetes Association continues to be the worlds largest provider of camps for children with diabetes. Our Diabetes Camps have become one of the most powerful and life changing avenues to improve the lives of children affected by diabetes. Offered each summer to nearly 6,000 youth with diabetes across the U.S., the overarching purpose of our Diabetes Camps is to promote diabetes self care in an environment thats fun, peer oriented and medically safe. Since 1947, these camps have provided a traditional summer camp experience while giving children the chance to master basic diabetes self management skills. At camp, children connect with peers facing the same daily struggles, build their confidence and overcome feelings of isolation and despair. Some campers learn how to inject insulin and count their own carbohydrates for the first time, while others advance their skills in insulin pump use. 2018 Diabetes Camp Highlights. The ADA hosted 80 Camp and Retreat sessions serving 6,677 children and teens and more than 10,000 of their loved ones. 2,019 campers were new in 2018. 2,661 volunteers made these programs possible. 1,553 trained medical professionals served as medical, dietary and social work staff during the summer season. The ADA also held five family retreats throughout the year, engaging parents and children who are newly diagnosed or new to the Camp community. The ADA continues to be the worlds largest provider of camps for children with diabetes. 5,689 of our 6,677 campers have type 1 diabetes. All camps offer camp fee subsidies for participants of 50 percent or more. In addition to this subsidy, 24 percent of our campers received need based financial aid and 535,974 dollars was awarded in 2018. This program ensures that the cost of camp is not a barrier for any family. |

We conduct professional education activities directed toward enhancing knowledge, competence, advancing skills and apprising health care professionals of the latest developments in diabetes research and clinical practice. The American Diabetes Association has been accredited to provide continuing education to health care professionals for more than 30 years and is accredited by seven accrediting boards. The ADA remains in exemplary standing with each accrediting board proving our compliance with the continuing education guidelines. The ADA continues to be at the forefront of professional continuing education for the diabetes community as an accredited provider of continuing education credit for all health care professionals on the diabetes management team. In November of 2018, Professional Services Department received Joint Accreditation for Interprofessional Continuing Education for health care professionals, and the ability to offer Maintenance of Certification MOC credit to physicians through the American Board of Internal Medicine AIBM. The ADA was awarded Joint Accreditation for Continuing Interprofessional Education through the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education, the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education, and the American Nurses Credentialing Center. This designation allows the ADA to offer continuing education credit for physicians, nurses, pharmacists, physician assistants, psychologists and social workers. The intensive 18-month accreditation process included a self-study, an audit of the ADA and select programs, and an interprofessional interview with leaders of our Professional Education team and the accrediting boards. Explanation

National Application allows a virtual DSMES service to apply for DSMES Recognition in all 50 states with a single application versus 50 separate applications. This also streamlines the annual status reporting processes to one annual report rather than 50 separate reports. National DSMES R ecognition follows the same DSMES standards application requirements as traditional

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Professional Journals The ADA continued to publish the leading scientific and medical journals related to the prevention and treatment of diabetes and diabetes complications. In 2018, Diabetes, Diabetes Care, Clinical Diabetes and Diabetes Spectrum reached more than 40,000 health care professionals, including researchers, physicians and diabetes educators, with information on cutting edge diabetes research, state of the art treatment advances and clinical treatment guidelines. The ADAs professional journals at www diabetesjournals org received more than 10 million visits and 20 million page views, and studies published in ADA journals were cited more than 120,000 times by studies published in other science and medical publications. The 2017 impact factors for Diabetes and Diabetes Care were released in July 2018. Diabetes Care achieved the highest impact factor ever recorded for an ADA journal 13.4 and Diabetes achieved an impact factor of 7.3. The two journals rank 5th and 9th, respectively, of 138 publications in the field of endocrinology/metabolism. In addition, according to Eigenfactor, a measure of a journals total importance to the scientific community, Diabetes Care and Diabetes are the top two journals devoted to diabetes research, and ranked 1st and 3rd, respectively, among the 143 journals indexed in the broader field of endocrinology and metabolism. In January 2018, the ADA published the Standards of Medial Care in Diabetes and the abridged version of the Standards of Care for primary care physicians in Diabetes Care and Clinical Diabetes, respectively. In addition to these critical resources for diabetes health care professionals, numerous ADA position and other professional papers were published in Diabetes. | Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | Diabetes Forecast The ADAs consumer magazine, Diabetes Forecast, published six issues in 2018, reaching nearly 6 million readers. It reaches people where they are at home with the print magazine, in their inboxes with a biweekly e newsletter, and wherever on the web. The magazine covered topics of interest to those living with diabetes and their families, including eating healthfully, staying active, preventing complications, and learning to best manage day to day diabetes related activities. In 2018, Diabetes Forecast magazine celebrated its 70th year of providing people with diabetes with relevant, accurate, and engaging information that helps them better manage their diabetes. Each issue throughout the year highlighted people with diabetes who have lived long lives with diabetes, focusing on topics like how diabetes treatment has changed in the past several decades, from medication advancements to new technology to innovations in diabetes education and awareness. In addition, Diabetes Forecast content was packaged into mini, advertiser backed supplements and included in select issues of the magazine. These supplements focused on topics of relevance to the Diabetes Forecast audience retinopathy, continuous glucose monitors, and pneumococcal vaccination. The magazine took first steps to integrate its recipe content with the ADAs Food Hub. In the print edition of Diabetes Forecast, the food section has been rebranded as Food Hub, and the Food Hub logo reinforces the connection between the two products. |

The affiliate sites have worked to increase referrals from health care providers, increasing awareness and enrollment, improving retention rates, and developing agreements to cover the CDC-recognized lifestyle change program. In 2018, the ADA was instrumental in helping five affiliate sites apply for recognition with the CDC. Affiliate sites enrolled more than 600 new participants into lifestyle change programs, reached more than 138,600 people with messages of awareness and recruitment, and developed referral agreements with seven health care providers in their community. The cooperative agreement runs from September 30, 2017 through September 29, 2022 |

| Form 990, Part III, Line 4 | American Diabetes Month Observed every November, American Diabetes Month ADM is an important element in the efforts of the ADA to focus the nations attention on diabetes and the tens of millions of people affected by it. Through the ADAs flagship awareness campaign, the ADA speaks directly to constituents and rally them to increase awareness and understanding of the prevalence of diabetes and the burden it places on individual lives. In 2018, the ADA partnered with Colgate Total and CVS. Pharmacy to raise a unified voice for diabetes awareness through an integrated marketing and communications strategy. The result was a powerfully themed campaign Everyday Reality with messaging illustrating the everyday realities from the perspective of the person carring for or living with diabetes. The individuals shared their Everyday Reality to help people understand the daily management required for diabetes, but more importantly, to make them feel that diabetes is personally relevant and connected to them. The team promoted the campaign using paid media, earned media, ADA channels, and partner outreach. The campaign was incredibly successful with more than 472,000 in Facebook donations during November, the highest ever received through that channel. Additionally, the campaign garnered nearly 60,000 pageviews to the ADM landing page, and more than 3.5 million impressions through social media. |

Achieved goal of congressional hearing on insulin affordability and delivered testimony to the Senate Special Committee on Aging about the rising cost of this lifesaving drug. Published a white paper with conclusions and recommendations to address this issue and a public policy statement outlining steps state and federal legislators and regulators can take to address rising insulin costs. Secured an additional 181,000 signatures for ADAs insulin affordability petition for a total of over 432,000 signatures. This ongoing campaign included the launch of a new animated video to explain the complexities of the insulin supply chain. Achieved 37 state level wins protecting or improving health care for millions of people with diabetes in states across the country. Continued efforts to protect the Affordable Care Act ACA by filing an amicus friend of the court brief defending the ACA against a lawsuit challenging the laws constitutionality. The brief, which was jointly filed with four other patient advocacy organizations, brought to the courts attention the ADAs significant interest in protecting the ACA for Americans impacted by diabetes. Introduced in the House and Senate for the first time the Expanding Access to Diabetes Self Management Training Act, which would remove barriers to Diabetes Self Management Education and Support in Medicare and encourage beneficiaries to participate in such programs. Educated and inspired action among our 525,000 advocates in more than 70 federal, state and legal advocacy calls to action throughout the year.
