PART III, LINE 1a	The Museum's collections are made up of art objects, artifacts of historical significance and rare books. The collections are maintained for public exhibition, education and research in furtherance of public service, rather than for financial gain. Each of the items is cataloged, preserved, and cared for, and activities verifying their existence and assessing their condition are performed. The collections are subject to a policy that requires proceeds from their sales to be used to acquire other items for collections. The museum's collections have been acquired through purchases, contributions, and other acquisitions since the Museum's inception and are not recognized as assets in the accompanying statement of financial position. Purchases of collection items are recorded as decreases in net assets in the year in which the items are acquired. If the assets used to purchase the items were restricted by the donors, the Museum recognizes corresponding net assets released from restriction. Proceeds from deaccessions or insurance recoveries are reflected as increases in the appropriate net asset classes.

PART III, LINE 4	The Crystal Bridges art collection offers a superb overview of American art. The galleries include American masterworks and surprising lesser-known gems from the colonial era to today, spanning five centuries of American art. Sculptures grace both interior galleries and outdoor trails. The museum's permanent collection galleries are refreshed regularly. New acquisitions and works from the museum's vaults are displayed on a rotating basis. In addition, familiar guest favorites and a changing array of special focus groupings and temporary installations of light-sensitive works offer the opportunity for further exploration into art, architecture, and nature. The permanent collection, which continues to grow through a strategic acquisition plan, is on view year-round with no cost for admission. In addition, an annual array of special exhibitions ensures that there is always something new to see at the museum. Guests may also browse selections from the Crystal Bridges permanent collection online through eMuseum, and view gallery highlights via the museum's free app, CBMuseum, downloadable to Apple or Android devices.
