Form 990 (2018)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

The FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) directly served approximately 95,000 high school students on 3,802 teams. Working with mentors, each team builds a robot in six weeks from a kit of common parts, designing it to meet this year's game challenge, "DESTINATION DEEP SPACE." Each team participated in one or more 2 to 3-day events at 173 locations, competing for awards for game scores, safety practices, teamwork and other qualitative achievements, stressing the values of cooperation and inclusion. Award winning teams participated in an annual Championship event in either Houston, TX or Detroit, MI. The FRC Program provided students with the experience of applying science and technology to achieve a specific challenge under a time constraint. (Narrative continued on Schedule O, pg. 174) This experience developed students' technical skills, teamwork and the ability to deal with the satisfactions and disappointments of a real engineering project. Participation in FRC has inspired many students to go on to college, pursuing careers in science, technology, engineering, and math. Many FRC coaches and mentors work in these fields and help the students develop bonds within their communities and connections to the workforce development pipeline. Students in the FRC program are eligible for college scholarships through the FIRST Scholarship Program.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

The FIRST LEGO League (FLL) reached approximately 281,000 students aged 9-16, on 35,140 teams in 103 countries. The year's challenge was called "INTO ORBIT." Teams worked on game challenges using LEGO Mindstorms technology, applying science and engineering to identify a physical or social problem faced by humans during long duration space exploration within our Sun's solar system and propose a solution. In April 2019, teams from around the world met in either Houston, TX or Detroit, MI for the FLL World Festival competition and celebration. The FIRST LEGO League Junior (FLL Jr) program served over 130,300 students aged 6-9, on 21,718 teams through a web-based game challenge called "MISSION MOON." (Narrative continued on Schedule O, pgs 174-175) Participation in FLL and FLL Jr has engaged students in a comprehensive experience developing confidence in their ability to address serious issues, enhancing their education in science and math, and exposing them to a STEM career. By progressing through each program and ultimately to FRC, students gain a full suite of technical skills and ongoing encouragement, making it more likely that they will pursue careers in science, technology, engineering and math.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

The FIRST Tech Challenge (FTC) served approximately 68,000 youths from ages 12-18 on 6,022 teams. Like the FRC Program, FTC is a design and build experience, but uses a smaller kit and less complicated game challenge. In this year's game, "ROVER RUCKUS," each team built a robot and participated in a regional tournament. FTC provides an experience similar to the FRC Program, but is more readily accessible to a broader audience of educators and students, in part because of its lower cost. The FTC experience simulates the excitement as well as the pressure of a real-life engineering project, developing not only the students' technical know-how, but also leadership, cooperation, ability to plan, patience, and teamwork. (Narrative continued on Schedule O, pg. 175) Like the FRC Program, FTC enriches the participating students' ability to deal with the satisfactions and disappointments of a real engineering project. The FTC experience expands students' interest in science, technology, engineering and math, and inspires many to go on to a higher education. Like the FRC participants, students in the FTC program are eligible for some of the college scholarships through the FIRST Scholarship Program. By progressing through each program and ultimately FRC, students gain a full suite of technical skills and ongoing encouragement, making it more likely that they will pursue careers in science and technology. Award winning teams participated in an annual World Championship event in either Houston, TX or Detroit, MI.

Form 990, Schedule G, Part II, line 9 - Other Direct Expenses	Other direct expenses include $500,000 paid to NYC FIRST, a separate independent 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, as their share of the net fundraising proceeds as the Gala is a shared event with this organization. In addition, a total of $235,275 in STEM Equity Grants were paid to eight recipient organizations for the purpose of providing diverse and disadvantaged students and communities with hands-on learning opportunities and outlets for creative problem solving. Grants range from $5,000 to $80,000, with an average of $50,000, and evaluation criteria include community need, demographics, increases in diversity, execution strength, track record of reaching targeted students, and the value of the activities proposed. While the funds for the STEM Equity Grants were received during the Gala and reported as part of special event revenue, the funds paid out by FIRST to the recipient organizations are reported on Form 990, Part IX, line 1 and Schedule I Part II as applicable.

Part I, Column (b)	The kit of parts and on-line resources provided to each FRC and FLL team included components having significant value donated by many suppliers. To the extent fair market value can be determined, it is reported as revenue in the fiscal year. In addition, FIRST received a multitude of in-kind contributions of services essential to carrying out its events and programs. Support services have also been donated including building maintenance, marketing, distribution, information technology, engineering, and administrative services. The number and value of these in-kind contributions cannot be determined but were a substantial part of the resources necessary to deliver FIRST's program services during the year.
Part I, Line 32b	FIRST does not use third parties or related organizations to solicit, process, or sell non-cash donations, except for the sale of donations of publicly traded securities. These are sold through a third party broker not related to FIRST.
