Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Early Childhood Development (ECD) often serves as the entry point for families to the JCC and is our first opportunity to develop relationships across the lifetime continuum. Our focus is developmental (educationally and socially) for the child and his/her family. We provide services from infant care to pre-kindergarten enrichment, following guidelines developed by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), and the Pennsylvania Keystone STARS initiative. ECD utilizes all JCC departments to incorporate gym skills, motor skills, music, art, and emotional and spiritual development into the natural part of a young child's day. As a result, the child routinely spends part of his/her day outside the classroom, throughout the JCC facility. In all, roughly 320 children are currently enrolled in our ECD program at our Squirrel Hill and South Hills locations, one of the largest programs in western Pennsylvania. An additional component of both ECD programs is Family Place, providing structured wellness and parenting classes and unstructured play activities in a specially designated area for parents and their young children. This program began roughly 20 years ago and over 250 families are actively engaged in activities. From elementary school through high school, the JCC plays an active role in the development of our youth. We address the needs of children ages 5 to 18 - from the time they leave pre-school until they graduate from high school. We also relate to the needs of families with children. For elementary aged children, services for children in Kindergarten through 6th grade focus on our Clubhouse after-school program. The 112 children in the program are comprised primarily from single-parent families or two working parent households who depend on this "wrap-around" service. The enrichment-oriented program combines free play, organized activities, self-directed specialties and homework time. Full-day programs are also available during school breaks and snow days. A Teen Center program serves 11 adolescents with developmental and physical disabilities after school and is the only model of its kind in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area. Beyond social/recreational, athletic, and cultural programs for teenagers, we take tremendous pride in a long overlooked area of teen services - employment. In the past fiscal year, over 400 teens were provided part-time or seasonal work experiences at the JCC, making us one of the larger teen employers in the area. While we are well known as a primary provider of early childhood, after school, and camping programs for thousands of children, we often provide former program participants with their first employment opportunity based on these experiences. The importance of providing employment to teenagers was recently validated through a study by University of Minnesota researcher, Dr. Jeylan Mortimer. She concluded what many field practitioners already know implicitly - that high school students who work part-time demonstrate increased confidence, and better time management skills, thereby enhancing subsequent academic success.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

JCC day and resident camps are designed to promote self-esteem, encourage group skills and teamwork, foster trust, and build Jewish identity. Camping is also highly developmental and encompasses life skills education in an informal and pleasurable atmosphere. These life skills are nurtured through the age continuum and take advantage of the outdoor/natural environment unique to each camp and the over 2,000 children who participate in them. These life skills take on new meaning as many campers become part of our Counselor-in-Training (CIT), Junior Counselor, Senior Counselor, and Unit Head programs. Camp begins at age 2 (age 7 for overnight camp) and continues through age 16 with the Counselor In Training program. While individual specialties are offered, the operating philosophy of JCC camping is communal and group-oriented. As such, while hundreds of children participate in each camp, the camper's experience is focused on 10 to 12 individuals in each group/bunk. Our operating philosophy is increasingly challenged by a specialty-oriented society and a competitive specialty camp environment. We continue to grow our specialties to compete in the marketplace, but will not sacrifice the general experience. The unique features of each program are: 1) James & Rachel (J&R) Levinson Day Camp which has grown from 125 campers in 1970 to almost 400 children today. J&R programming focuses on children ages 4-14 interacting with the natural environment of a 100-acre wooded setting in Monroeville, 2) Early Childhood Camps at both branches cater to 2 to 5-year-olds, 3) Performing Arts Camps for older children in both Squirrel Hill and South Hills culminates in a musical theater production, 4) South Hills Day Camps provide a generalist camp experience for children age 2 through grade 4, with sports and traveling camp experiences for older children, and 5) Emma Kaufmann Camp (EKC) outside of Morgantown, West Virginia, now in its 109TH year, offers two- three- and four-week overnight camp sessions as well as one-week First Experience opportunities for children to be away from home in a protected environment, 6) and inclusion opportunities for children with development disabilities are an integral element of our day and resident camping programs, with new program elements added annually.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

A JCC core service program, Health/ Physical Education /Wellness is among our most widely known activities. This department follows the JCC operating philosophy of inclusion and its structure provides experiences for individuals throughout the life span. In general, approximately one-third of our physical space in our year-round facilities are dedicated toward this purpose which serves an estimated 12,000 individuals annually. Fitness and Wellness activities range from aquatics, to martial arts, basketball to yoga, beginning with children as young as six months to older adults in their 90's in both Squirrel Hill and South Hills. In the past five years, the JCC has begun innovative partnership with two health oriented providers to build capacity in this area. The JCC piloted a Phase III cardio-vascular rehabilitation services in our Squirrel Hill branch that includes a former UPMC cardiac nursing specialist who now works at the JCC. In addition, the JCC launched the "We Can" program for adolescents struggling with obesity in conjunction with UPMC Health Plan. The program has already reached over 100 pre-teens and adolescents. In the South Hills, the JCC has held an Arthritis Exercise Aquatic Program for over 15 years. Both branches hold numerous support group programs for individuals with disabilities, including an active Stroke Survivors group. This wide level of community based programs supports an earlier study by the Jewish Healthcare Foundation who found the JCC a "leader in recognition and usage" by the region's most vulnerable populations - the poor, the aged, and those with disabilities. Within the area of older adults, our primary objective - to keep seniors active, healthy and independent - reduces the likelihood of higher cost/less attractive alternatives. Within this realm, a major component of our program focuses on senior health/wellness - offering senior fitness classes, educational programs and medical screenings. Within both locations, the JCC provides over 40 regularly scheduled older adult health and wellness classes that can serve over 1,600 individuals weekly. Recent surveys concluded that 95% of program participants report increased confidence in performing Activities of Daily Living (ADL) skills, and an increased awareness of medical conditions that affect older adults. Another 65% of participants report taking preventative steps to avoid serious medical conditions, and 50% identified medical conditions through health screenings. The JCC's focus in this area derived from findings of the National Institute on Aging's 2003 study that "2/3 of older adults do not engage in regular physical activity that provide the greatest opportunity to extend years of active independent life, reduce disability, and improve the quality of life for older persons." In the past years, Health and Wellness programs continue to be the most utilized service and the largest entry point for the JCC's older adult services. Between our respective Squirrel Hill and South Hills venues, we added approximately 400 new enrollees to senior health and wellness programs. In all, the total of new participants is more than double the projected number for the three year total for outcomes ranging from increasing the number of seniors engaged in any physical activity to more specific measures of strength, endurance, and flexibility.
