Form 990, Part III, Line 4a	Magee-Womens Research Institute (MWRI), the first and largest research institute in the U S devoted exclusively to women's health, is a recognized leader conducting unprecedented research and advancing clinical knowledge in many areas affecting women, including reproductive biology, breast cancer, ovarian cancer, genomics and personalized therapies, HIV immunization and prevention, fertility preservation, and pelvic floor research. Magee-Womens Research Institute is dedicated to the transformation of health research for the good of all humankind. Though women comprise 50% of the population, they give birth to 100% of future generations. As researchers, this fact has led us to the realization that women's health is the key to human wellness. Remarkable for its potential to revolutionize the art and science of medicine, this insight is the foundation of the Magee Movement. By embracing this new perspective, we will develop pragmatic solutions and prevent problems once considered inevitable. We envision a future in which all physicians and researchers routinely address the genetic and gestational causes of chronic and devastating developments like diabetes and cardiovascular disease in an attempt to prevent their occurrence. We believe that our best defense against infectious disease is to empower women. We are dedicated to fostering wellness by incorporating gender-based medicine. These tenets have motivated us to refocus our research in to three pillars. PILLAR 1 9-90 From conception onward, the first nine months of pregnancy contain the key to many of life's questions about health and well-being. Through our 9-90TM research, scientists investigate how the 9 months of pregnancy impact the next 90 years of life. The nine months in utero are so universally important because the moment of greatest plasticity - or the ability to be easily shaped or molded - is during pregnancy. It is during this time that factors such as environmental exposure, nutrition, and infection, as well as other influences, most greatly impact fetal development and leave a lasting mark. Studying this "human blueprint" allows scientists to better predict the conditions that will affect a person later in life and potentially change or cure those conditions. Areas of study in 9-90 are REPRODUCTIVE DEVELOPMENT. Uncovering the mechanisms that underlie genetic abnormalities is crucial to reducing birth defects and improving the health of infants. PREGNANCY & NEWBORNS. A healthy start in life is the key to a lifetime of well-being. Magee scientists continue to make lifesaving discoveries about key diseases such as preeclampsia, fetal growth abnormalities, preterm birth, prenatal genetics and the lifelong impact stemming from these diseases through research spanning fetal development, pregnancy and pregnancy outcomes that shape maternal and neonatal health. REPRODUCTIVE PHYSIOLOGY & FERTILITY. Infertility is heartbreaking to the couple who desperately wants a child to love. Our s

990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part III, Line 4a	Scientists study the fundamental mechanisms that govern germ cell biology and complex pathways that lead to human infertility, to discover means for restoring fertility to diverse populations including young cancer survivors. GENETICS Genetic studies of placental development are furthering medical science's understanding of how hormonal, nutritional and environmental signals in the womb influence genes that regulate all aspects of our physiology. PILLAR 2 GENDER SPECIFIC MEDICINE (GSM) For hundreds of years, scientists have been studying human disease processes while employing male research subjects almost exclusively. This approach has established a baseline for understanding, but truly effective human health research demands the study of both female and male responses to disease origin, prevention, and treatment. The differences between women and men and the distinctive ways they present with disease, respond to treatment, and recover can tell us much about how to ensure each patient receives the right treatment in the right way at the right time. Areas of study in GSM are WOMENS CANCERS At Magee, our response to Cancer is to find new and better ways to prevent and treat it. With recent breakthroughs in genomic discovery, we now have the tools to identify biomarkers for cancer risk, severity and prognosis. Through large scale clinical trials performed as a part of the national consortia, Magee scientists and physicians investigate ovarian and other pelvic cancers, examine the causes, prevention and treatment of breast cancer, and assess the impact cancer has on a woman's quality of life. UROGYNECOLOGY We are unyielding in our determination to find ways to improve patient care in the treatment of the female pelvic floor. We are set on finding better treatments for conditions that affect women of reproductive age through maturity. WOMENS HEALTH & WELLNESS An appalling one in four women will experience domestic abuse in her lifetime. Specific areas of focus include intimate partner violence, teen pregnancy, prenatal care and post partum depression. We also pinpoint gaps in the quality of health and healthcare across racial, ethnic and socioeconomic groups that result in higher incidence of chronic diseases, higher mortality and poorer health outcomes for women. PILLAR 3 INFECTIOUS DISEASES Magee is focusing its efforts on the global threat of infectious diseases and our clinical trials are yielding breakthrough results all over the world. Our organization receives more HIV&AIDS research funding from the NIH than any other research center in the country - and, in 2006, the NIH established the Microbicide Trials Network (MTN) at Magee-Womens Research Institute. Led by Sharon Hillier, PhD, the MTN is a worldwide collaborative clinical trials network focused on preventing the transmission of HIV. Today, eleven years later, the MTN operates more than 20 sites in Africa, Southeast Asia and the United States.

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part VIII, Line 6a	The research conducted at MWRIF occurs in a facility located at 204 Craft Avenue. UPMC owns this building and MWRIF is renting the space from them. Since the lease agreement with UPMC is long term (30 years), for accounting purposes it has to be recorded as a capital lease recognizing both an asset and a liability on MWRIF's books. The mortgage/note payable disclosed on Line 24 of Part X is the liability on this account. The lease agreement does not contain any terms implying that MWRIF will ever own or have the option to buy the building. The rental income disclosed in Part VIII is generated by subleases between MWRIF and several research labs that are part of the University of Pittsburgh, allowing them to occupy a portion of the space MWRIF is renting from UPMC. These particular University of Pittsburgh researchers collaborate with MWRIF researchers on a regular basis on large biomedical research projects where physical proximity facilitates the collaborative process and allows them to meet, share equipment and other resources as needed to make the collaboration more efficient and hopefully more successful. The objective in renting the space to the University of Pittsburgh is to facilitate the collaboration, not to generate profit. So the rental income disclosed in Part VIII is sublease income that offsets a portion of MWRIF's lease expense. MWRIF has no acquisition indebtedness which would require the rental income to be disclosed as unrelated business income.
