SCHEDULE A PAGE 2 PART II, SECTION C, LINE 17A	The Eleutherian Mills-Hagley Foundation, a nonstock, not-for-profit educational corporation was incorporated in the State of Delaware on November 3, 1952. Donations of property were made at that time and subsequently by eight different donors totaling approximately 235 acres. The Eleutherian Mills-Hagley Foundation gave notice of intent to terminate Private Foundation status under section 507(b)(1)(B) for a sixty month period beginning January 1, 1975 through December 31, 1980. Notification was received from the Internal Revenue Service on June 5, 1980 that the Foundation had been classified an organization described in Section 509 (a)(1) and 170 (b)(1)(A)(vi), "under the facts and circumstance test". Hagley's property has been an industrial site since at least the beginning of the nineteenth century, and contains approximately 85 buildings and 93 site structures of varying size and condition of repair, relating to industrial and residential life of the 19th and early 20th centuries. The Hagley Museum and Library was opened to the public in 1957 and since that time visitation has totaled 5,772,000. It is presently open to the public 363 days a year. Hagley Museum holds 60,000 objects, including a large collection of U.S. patent models, early American furniture and textiles, and a major collection of advertising art. Museum programs include special tours for school groups conducted by a corps of professionally trained guides. In June of 2014, Hagley became Delaware's first Smithsonian affiliate bringing increased national exposure to Hagley, its collections, its programs, and the museum empowering it to share our treasures with a larger audience. The Library at Hagley traces its origins to the old Longwood Library that was established by Pierre S. du Pont in 1954. In 1961 it merged with the Hagley Museum and moved to its present site on the banks of the Brandywine. Today its research collections hold the archives of more than 1,000 businesses in more than 38,000 linear feet of manuscript records, more than 290,000 published sources, more than 3 million audiovisual items, and more than 450,000 digital artifacts which preserve an invaluable record of American business, technological, and social development. Hagley's main strength is in the Middle Atlantic region, but in recent years the scope of its collecting has broadened to include records of and works about business organizations and companies with national impact. The Library's national stature was recognized in 1985, when it was granted membership in the Independent Research Libraries Association (IRLA). The Center for the History of Business, Technology, and Society, a department of the Library, was founded in 1975 to encourage and coordinate research in Hagley's areas of research and collecting interests. The Center sponsors conferences, colloquia, and seminars and it issues publications. Since 1977 it has awarded competitive research fellowships to more than 690 scholars from around the world.

SCHEDULE A PAGE 2 PART II, SECTION C, LINE 17A	d The Center continues a beneficial relationship with the University of Delaware. In early 2015, a Hagley Does History¹ course was offered through the University of Delaware's OSH ER program to 85 enrollees. Not long ago, the Hagley Oral History Project Office was created documenting the historical development of business organizations. The Foundation's principal support has historically come from endowments. Since 1978, with the formal creation of a development office, the Foundation has increased its fund-raising activities to include the active solicitation of individuals, corporations, foundations, as well as state and federal government agencies. The planning and coordination of all fund-raising programs for endowment operations and special projects are now centralized. A general membership program known as "Hagley Associates" was formed in 1975 to encourage further community support for the Foundation. A business membership program, known as "Corporate Associates", was formed in 1982. One of the benefits of being a corporate member is being able to rent Hagley's rooms and facilities for business meetings, as well as sponsor events raising funds for Hagley operations or special programs. The Foundation is governed by a board of fifteen trustees including not only leaders in the local community, but also specialists in several fields pertinent to Museum and Library operations.

Part III, Line 1a	Hagley does not capitalize donated collection items or recognize them as revenues or gains. Purchases of collection items are recorded as decreases in net assets without donor restrictions in the year in which the items are acquired or as decreases in net assets with donor restrictions if the assets used to purchase the items are restricted by donors. Proceeds from de-accessions or insurance recoveries are reflected as increases in the appropriate net asset class.

Supplemental Information

Part III, Line 4	The collections are held for public exhibition, education, or research in furtherance of public service rather than financial gain. Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part V, Line 4	Hagley has adopted investment and spending policies for endowment assets that attempt to provide a predictable stream of funding to programs supported by its endowment while seeking to maintain the purchasing power of the endowment assets. Under this policy, as approved by the Board of Trustees, the endowment assets are invested in a manner that is intended to maintain the level of financial support currently provided while assuming a moderate level of investment risk.
