Form and Line Reference	Explanation
PART V, SECTION B, LINE 11	The priority health needs described in the September 2019 CHNA report that will be focused upon in the next three years are 1) Behavioral health and substance use disorder which includes Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome, 2) chronic disease prevention and management, with emphasis on diabetes, heart disease, and tobacco use/lung disease, and 3) continuation of access to care and eliminating health disparities through cross-cutting strategies for the health system. These priorities are very similar to the past. Although we have made great strides in these areas, there continues to be further needs to be addressed. During the fiscal year 2019, the third annual Regional Health Summit was held in Huntington, WV. The theme of this summit was "Shaping Stronger Communities." This Summit is where the actual priorities were discussed and the informants were able to cast their votes as to what they felt needed addressed the most. Using this information, Mountain Health Network, Inc., Cabell Huntington Hospital, Inc., and St. Mary's Medical Center developed their strategies and implementation plans. The significant needs for Cabell Huntington Hospital, Inc. are as follows: 1) Behavioral Health and Substance Use Disorder - In the hospital service area, substance use, including alcohol, prescription drug use, and illicit drug use is above the national levels. Cabell County, West Virginia has been one of the hardest hit by the opioid epidemic. Community partners have collaborated to address the opioid epidemic and have positioned themselves as national pioneers in opioid solutions. These efforts have resulted in declines in both nonfatal and fatal overdoses in the County in 2017 and 2018. Addiction impacts not only the person experiencing substance use disorder, but also their loved ones. Babies exposed to opiates in the womb, who present with symptoms of withdrawal after birth, are diagnosed with Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS). Cabell Huntington Hospital, Inc. has a Neonatal Unit and a Children's Hospital. This makes them the logical choice to address NAS. Across the region the hospital serves approximately 2-4% of babies who were born with NAS in recent years. Cabell Huntington Hospital can provide a Neonatal Therapeutic Unit that provides a therapeutic environment and medication to treat withdrawal symptoms. The hospital will coordinate services with Lily's place, a non-profit leader in NAS, to care for drug-exposed newborns and their families. They will also collaborate with other addiction programs in the region. The hospital continues its Moms (maternal opioid medications support) Program that was developed in 2018 to provide addiction treatment services to post partum women, not currently in a treatment program, while their babies are recovering from NAS. The goal is to provide medication stabilization, psychological and medical treatment, education, and training that will create a solid foundation for a healthy, productive lifestyle that will benefit the

PART V, SECTION B, LINE 11	mother as well as the family network. In November 2018, the hospital implemented 'Project Engage' for adult inpatients with symptomatic opioid withdrawal. This program is supported by the Hospitalists and hopes to find a "reachable moment" for possible intervention. A model from ChristianaCare has provided our Hospitalists tools for identifying and guidelines for addressing the needs of a patient with addiction. As of June 2019, 'Project Engage' had engaged 359 patients in the program. 2) Chronic Disease Prevention and Management - Help to reduce the burden of chronic disease through prevention, detection, and treatment of risk factors, while improving the quality of life for people living with these diseases. The hospital will partner with Marshall Health, a university-based health system, to provide pre and post-acute home care for homebound patients age 18 and over throughout the service area. They will provide education about healthy lifestyles and chronic disease prevention through Huntington's Kitchen and various other community events. Support will be given to the FaithHealth Appalachia program that serves the faith-based community and community at large, by providing health training, and engaging faith leaders in new cooperative efforts for earlier prevention of chronic disease and healthier outcomes. The hospital will work with the Marshall Health Chertow Diabetes Center for more diabetes education and services. Four times a year, the hospital will offer a program named 'Know Your Numbers', which is a significantly discounted priced lab testing program. 3) Access to care - Cabell Huntington Hospital continuously strives to make access to healthcare a priority. They have initiated along with Marshall Health the Telemedicine practice of medicine which allows the doctor to communicate with the patient over a distance for some basic care. The Cancer Center within the hospital was awarded a grant from the American Cancer Society to help provide transportation to cancer patients who need it to get to and from facilities for care and treatment. The hospital continues to offer financial assistance to patients who cannot afford proper medical care.
