Part II, Line 5 - Summarized Policy

Possible easement violations may be discovered in the course of annual monitoring inspections, or as reported by neighbors, landowners, new property owners, or other third parties. Steps to be followed by the CTPR's staff in the case of a potential violation are as follows:

Review the Easement Terms.

The superintendent of the Region in which the conservation easement is located, should review the easement document, baseline documentation report, and monitoring reports to determine if an easement violation has occurred, its exact nature, and when it took place. The violation should be notified to the General Manager of Natural Protected Areas and CTPR's Legal Counsel.

Schedule D (Form 990) 2018

Document the Violation.

The superintendent of the Region in which the conservation easement is located, or a staff assigned by him, should visit the site to inspect and carefully document the violation. The violation must be described in detail, including location and extent. Photos keyed to a photomap should be taken, signed and dated by the photographer. Quantitative measurements of the violation should be noted as appropriate, e.g. area of impact, number of trees damaged. Field notes should be signed and dated by the person conducting the inspection.

Contact the Landowner.

The superintendent of the Region in which the conservation easement is located should meet with the landowner, in person if possible, to discuss the violation, if the landowner is unaware of the situation. Listen to the landowner's explanation, ask questions, take notes, and ask them to voluntarily correct the violation, or at least to cease any further work until the matter can be reviewed by CTPR's Land Acquisition Committee. Document all meetings and write a follow-up letter (send certified - return receipt requested) or e-mail to the landowner confirming any agreements made on site about the restoration of the property and compliance dates.

If the landowner agrees to restore the property.

If the landowner agrees to restore the Property, the superintendent of the Region in which the conservation easement is located should send a follow up letter as soon as possible reflecting the agreement and the timetable for completion. The site should be revisited on the deadline date, and the restoration work should be documented with photographs, narrative description, and quantitative measurements. Send the landowner a follow-up letter (send certified - return receipt requested) attesting to the satisfactory completion of the work, or otherwise as appropriate.

If the landowner refuses to voluntarily restore the property.

If the landowner refuses to voluntarily restore the property, the superintendent of the Region in which the conservation easement is located shall consult with the CTPR's Legal Counsel to further discuss the violation and determine an enforcement strategy.

Part II Line 5 - The trust has policies for each Conservation Easement developed under PR Act 183, of December 27, 2001. One of the policies establishes the property conditions at the moment of subscription, and requires at least one annual documented inspection visit.
