Part I Summary

1 Briefly describe the organization's mission or most significant activities
 (See Schedule O) The Feather River Land Trust has as its mission to conserve the lands and waters of the Feather River region and steward their ecological, cultural and educational values for current and future generations. The Land Trust carries out its mission by creating a legacy of protected lands either by purchasing property outright or by acquiring conservation easements. The organization then provides stewardship of these protected lands. The organization also provides outreach programs that inform people of all ages about the importance of local flora and fauna, natural systems, cultural heritage, and related human well being. Funding is provided through a combination of donations, grants, and membership dues.

Supplemental Information

| Return Reference | Explanation |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| Part II, Line 5 Summarized Policy | FRLT fundraises an endowment before an easement or purchase is made. These monies and current contributions pay for monitoring, management and improvements on conservation easements. Monitoring is always stipulated in contracts. |

Supplemental Information

| Return Reference | Explanation |
|--|--|
| Part II, Line 9 Organization Reporting of conservation easements | As the easements are under stewardship only, with no actual ownership, no easement costs are capitalized and included in the Statement of Financial Position. The footnote in the audited financial statements states, "The Trust owns and manages several conservation easements, which are not reflected on the balance sheet due to a lack of future economic value." The donations received to purchase easements as well as the costs of purchase and oversight are reflected in the Statement of Activities. |
