Explanation:

Foundation Purpose

The mission of Young Americans Education Foundation (the "Foundation") is to further the economic education of young people so that they will be competent and knowledgeable in managing their financial affairs and may prosper in the free enterprise system. The Foundation strives to include young people from all social, economic and educational backgrounds.

The Foundation accomplishes its mission primarily through its wholly-owned bank subsidiary, Young Americans Bank (the "Bank"). The Bank provides youth financial education through hands-on experience in banking transactions and money management. The Bank offers hands-on, age-appropriate banking products, and maintains minimum balance requirements and service charges that are significantly lower than other banks to ensure the broadest possible participation of youth. All Bank customers must be under the age of 22. Unlike other financial institutions, the Bank's deposit base consists primarily of very small balances. More than 3,146 accounts have a balance under $100. Although the provision of responsible professional banking services is a mandatory element of Bank operations, the real purpose of operating the Bank is to provide financial education to youth and to encourage savings. As of December 31, 2018 the Bank had customers throughout the Denver metropolitan area, nearly all 50 states, and in numerous foreign countries. As of December 31, 2018 the Bank had 14,010 youth savings accounts, 1,256 youth certificates of deposit, 3,397 youth checking accounts, 22 youth installment loans, 339 youth credit cards, and 1,752 customers enrolled in online banking. Since the Bank's inception, over 87,684 youth deposit accounts have been opened.

The Foundation also accomplishes its mission through its wholly-controlled affiliate, Young Americans Center for Financial Education (the "Center"), a 501(c)(3) charitable organization. The Center is committed to developing the financial literacy of young people through real-life experiences and hands-on programs purposefully designed to enable them to prosper in the free enterprise system. The Center conducts financial literacy programs such as Young AmeriTowne, International Towne, Rural AmeriTowne, and YouthBiz.

The Foundation also maintains a Youth Advisory Board to advise it with respect to Bank and Center matters and to assist Management in having a better understanding of the needs of young people. The Youth Advisory Board is made up of youth ages 12 to 21. This Board reviews products and services offered by the Bank and the Center, analyzes marketing concepts, reviews the educational components of the Bank and the Center, and assists Management in having a better understanding of the needs of young people.

Background of the Foundation

The Bank was founded by Bill Daniels in 1987 as a Colorado state chartered bank for children. The Bank was formed as a stock corporation because state banking officials are unable to authorize a nonprofit corporation to conduct banking activities. From the beginning, however, the Bank was designed and operated exclusively as an educational program for young people, to teach them greater financial understanding and responsibility. The Bank has never operated on a commercial basis.

The Foundation was formed in 1988 to build on the educational platform of the Bank and create a vehicle through which third parties and the general public could support an expanding set of collateral financial education programs. The most notable of these programs include: (i) Young AmeriTowne, in which 5th grade students learn economic concepts, run a simulated town and experience the free enterprise system. The mobile version of this program, On-the-Road Young AmeriTowne, has broadened the reach of students to schools that are too small (25-55 students) to attend our brick and mortar sites as well as schools that are too far away to travel; (ii) International Towne, a similar program format with a global economics theme for 7th grade students; (iii) Rural AmeriTowne, which provides youth from smaller rural school districts in eastern Colorado with hands-on curriculum and a program format similar to the Young AmeriTowne program, but customized for their rural community and economy, and (iv) YouthBiz, which provides programs and hands-on opportunities for youth exploring, experiencing and growing their own small businesses.

In December 1990, Mr. Daniels donated his 100% interest in the Bank to the Foundation. The transfer of ownership was approved by the Federal Reserve Bank of Washington, D.C., which regulates the Foundation as a bank-holding company, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the State of Colorado, each of which regulates the Bank. The Internal Revenue Service also approved the Bank as a program-related investment of the Foundation by private letter ruling dated December 17, 1990. The Bank is economically dependent upon continuing capital contributions by the Foundation to maintain the minimum required level of regulatory capital.

In 2001, the Foundation determined that its fundraising efforts would be enhanced by separating the Bank operations from the other financial educational programs. Accordingly, the Foundation created the Center and transferred the bulk of its educational programs mentioned above to the Center. The Foundation actively continues to exercise supervision and control over Bank operations (as the Bank's sole shareholder) and the educational programs (as a wholly controlled entity).

The building that houses the Center, the Bank, and the Foundation's administrative offices is owned by the Foundation. The Foundation leases space totaling 60% and 29% of the headquarters building to the Center and the Bank, respectively, at either no charge or below-market rates. The Foundation also leases space in Lakewood, CO to both the Center and the Bank totaling 90% and 10% of the total building expenses, respectively. In addition, the Foundation also leases to the Center at no charge the facilities used in its Rural programs located in Wray, Colorado.
