Part I Line 2 The school's practice is to offer financial aid to those who demonstrate need. Financial data is collected and reviewed by an independent organization who provides the school with a financial score and rating for each applicant. This, along with other pertinent data and comments relating to one's ability to pay tuition, are reviewed by a committee made up of administrative staff. No full financial aid awards are made, as the school maintains a minimum tuition which all must pay. Above the minimum amount, differing portions of tuition are awarded from the monies designated by the Board and from the endowments and gifts for these purposes. Financial aid awards are only made one school year at a time. All applying students are reviewed each year.
