THE CATALYSTS

For a bevy of reasons, America's global financial reign is rapidly coming to a close. It's not a question of if, but when. No dynasty lasts forever, and the US is proving to be no exception to this rule.

Blame—or thank, depending on your point of view—a diverse set of powerful catalysts. They include American political dysfunction, the invention of cryptocurrencies and decentralized finance, the rise of nationalism, and others. Any one of these forces alone would challenge the mightiest of empires. Their combination, however, is accelerating the birth of a new financial world order.

SPIRALING UPWARD

Women are in the majority of the college-educated talent pool and are increasingly represented in positions of leadership in business and society. Why then are women withdrawing from top-tier positions in unprecedented numbers? We are not designed for the straight and narrow path.

The Spiral Up method teaches women in the workplace to become the leaders of their own lives by cultivating the five co-creative powers—Energy, Thoughts, Feelings, Speech, and Action. These fundamentals of self-creation help female-identified leaders redefine success, become positive change agents, and re-author their lives.

THE BEST I CAN DO

Cheryl thought she knew her husband. Nine years after marrying her college sweetheart, the middle-class woman wondered if his odd episodes of paranoia were more than just work stress. But when his condition worsened significantly after being laid off, she made a surprising discovery that revealed the depth of his mental deterioration.

Stunned when he vanished without a word, Cheryl was left with a pile of guilt and empty bank-accounts and being forced to live in her car. As she looked back on their past, their moments of bliss fought with the gut-wrenching despair of his downswings and launched her on an emotionally draining roller coaster.

GRAPPLING WITH GHOSTS

From time as a child in an orphanage to writing speeches for presidents, James Harvey traveled a rocky road to live out the American dream. In this memoir of his childhood, Harvey recreates the strange and remote realities of the daily struggles of life in post-war rural Ireland and bomb-shattered London.

This engaging memoir grounds the struggles of the Harveys in both Irish history and British snobbery as the family fought for a place in the world amidst the alcohol-fueled domestic violence so common in Ireland's "33rd county," the Kilburn area bordering London's Paddington and St. John's Wood neighborhoods.

"Harvey possesses what many historians lack: storytelling prowess. That scene of escaping to an orphanage is a page-turner, and there are a dozen more just as gripping. Also fascinating is how James evokes postwar Ireland and England." —BlueInk Review

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

GUESTHOUSE FOR GANESHA

In 1923, seventeen-year-old Esther Grünspan arrives in Köln "with a hardened heart as her sole luggage." Thus begins a twenty-two-year journey, woven against the backdrops of the European Holocaust and the Hindu Kali Yuga (the "Age of Darkness" when human civilization degenerates spiritually), in search of a place of sanctuary. Throughout her travails Esther relies on her masterful tailoring skills to help mask her Jewish heritage, navigate war-torn Europe, and emigrate to India.

Weaving Eastern beliefs and perspectives with Western realities and pragmatism, Guesthouse for Ganesha is a tale of love, loss, and spirit reclaimed.

A FABLE OF LIBERTY LOST AND FOUND

The parable opening Common Sense inspires this parody of a free society falling into tyranny, awakening at last, and uniting to rebuild democracy. Written in the satiric spirit of Thomas Paine with winks to Swift and Orwell, the novella has two parts: Part I tells of conscious people escaping dystopia on a remote island. They shift from anarchy to democracy to a corrupt republic, which slides into dictatorship, leading to collapse. The interwoven fates of two families bring the universal fable to life. Part II offers an optimistic alternative ending as people arise and emerge into an enlightened society.
