The Island

My eyes open and I see the sky. The night is nearly over. It is almost light. I arrived on an island by my self-completely alone.

Why am I here?

How much time has passed? I actually cannot remember the details.

Then I remember: My boat sank. I had to swim in the ocean. I swam and floated on a board a long time, but finally, I got to the island. I suppose I am the only one who remains. I press the fence back down.
