Your Guide to the MUI Process at Summit DD

Summit DD, like each County Board in Ohio, is responsible for ensuring the health and safety of those we serve. Occasionally there are circumstances that can pose a threat to the health, safety or wellbeing of an individual with a developmental disability; we refer to these incidents as Unusual Incidents (UI) or Major Unusual Incidents (MUI).

When a possible MUI is identified, Summit DD has dedicated staff who look into allegations. They will determine what happened (investigation), what caused the event (cause and contributing factors), and work with individuals and their teams to put preventive measures in place to avoid future risk in similar circumstances (prevention plan). In instances of suspected criminal nature, Summit DD staff will also refer cases to local law enforcement.

About MUIs and UIs

What is an MUI?

An MUI, or Major Unusual Incident, is any alleged, suspected or actual incident that negatively affects the health, safety or welfare of an individual eligible for Summit DD services. These incidents can include allegations of abuse, neglect, theft and other potentially serious incidents, as outlined by Ohio Administrative Code.

What is a UI?

A UI, or an Unusual Incident, is an alleged, suspected or actual incident that is not consistent with policies, procedures or an individual's care, but does not have the heightened risk to an individual's health and safety as an MUI. Common examples of UIs include:

- Dental injuries
- Falls (not from neglect or resulting in a significant injury)
- Minor injuries that do not meet the definition of an MUI
- Medication errors without a likely risk to health/welfare
- Peer to peer incidents that aren't choking and don't result in an injury
- Rights code violations without a risk to health/welfare
- Program implementation incident: A UI involving the failure to carry out a person-centered plan which involves minimal/no risk
- Emergency room/urgent care visits

In situations where UIs occur, providers will look into contributing factors that led up to the incident and work with people and their teams to create a prevention plan.

Investigation

What happens during an MUI investigation?

Based on the information provided, cases that meet the MUI criteria (as outlined by the state MUI rule and detailed below) will be opened. The case is then assigned to a member of Summit DD's MUI department called an Investigative Agent (IA). The IA then begins an administrative investigation.

He or she will interview those involved, or who may have witnessed the alleged incident, gather facts, and review any relevant documentation. The goal of an investigation is to determine if there is evidence to suggest the allegation occurred, find out causes or contributing factors, and then work with an individual's team to develop a prevention plan.

It's important to remember that MUI investigations are not meant as punishment. They are simply an objective way to determine if an individual's safety or welfare is at risk and then recommend measures to prevent harm to that person in the future.

While Summit DD's staff cannot charge a person with a crime, or remove them from their home, they do work closely with local law enforcement. If evidence found during an MUI investigation suggests that a crime was committed against a person receiving services through Summit DD, the IA will turn the case over to local law enforcement to investigate the situation criminally.

REPORTING

Who should report an MUI or UI?

- All Summit DD and DODD staff
