

The Catfish Institute's New South Catfish Feed
Southern Foodways Symposium
October 22, 2010
Taylor Grocery

Eddie Huang

Fresh Off the Boat Wok-Cooked Catfish-Peanut Delight

A native of the Washington, DC, area, raised in Florida by Taiwanese parents, Huang is chef and proprietor of the restaurants Bauouhaus and Xiao Ye, both in New York City.

Suvir Saran

Catfish-Crab Cakes with Cilantro-Mint Aioli

Suvir Saran, author of American Masala, is a native of New Delhi, India. He speaks fluent okra. And cornbread.
And fried chicken.

Lynn Hewlett

U.S. Farm-raised Catfish

He's the Grand Poobah of fried catfish. Enough said.

Fullsteam Brewing

Based in Raleigh, NC, Fullsteam Brewery, driven by Sean Lilly Wilson and Brooks Hamaker, crafts plow-to-pint beers.
Tonight lemongrass flavors come to the fore.

McRitchie Winery and Ciderworks

In the Yadkin Valley of North Carolina, in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, Patricia and Sean McRitchie grow grapes and make wines and hard ciders.

The buses will depart Taylor Grocery at 9:30 and 10:00 p.m., returning guests to the Powerhouse, the Downtown Inn, and the Inn at Ole Miss. The restaurant will close when the last bus leaves. If you drive your own car, do not block the fire station driveway.
