AAMU Athletics

The Home of Champions

The Alabama A&M Athletics Department sponsors 17 varsity sports - football, volleyball, bowling, baseball, softball, men's/women's tennis, men's golf, men's/women's soccer, men's/women's basketball, women's cross country, and men's/women's track and field (indoor and outdoor).

Since 1911, the University has fielded at least one varsity sport. Through the course of its 97-year history, the Bulldogs have won numerous national and conference championships.

The program gained nationwide acclaim when the 1977 and 1979 men's soccer teams won the NCAA Division II title under coach Salah Yousif. The spotlight remained as the women's track program won four NCAA Championships under coach Joe Henderson. The 2005 men's basketball team qualified for "March Madness" in the NCAA Tournament. In 2006, the women's bowling team finished as the NCAA Division I national runner-up appearing on ESPN in the championship match.

In 1998, A&M moved from Division II to Division I, joining the SWAC, adding two women's sports - softball and bowling. A year later, women's soccer was added to the varsity list.

THE BULLDOG CREED

I am a "Bulldog"
I am proud to be a "Bulldog"
We are a family that can depend on each other
I will respect my school,
My teammates,
My coaches and myself
This team is as solid as I am
And I will do everything I can
To keep it that way.

DEPARTMENT MISSION STATEMENT

The Department of Athletics fully embraces the University's mission and enacts its policies, procedures, and initiatives with both the letter and spirit of "Service is Sovereignty."

The administration and staff of the Department of Athletics espouses a student-centered philosophy, which ranks academic achievement as the number one priority for its student-athletes. Toward this end, the Department of Athletics is committed to providing a comprehensive and inclusive intercollegiate and intramural athletics program for men and women, which further promotes the academic, sportsmanship, and total development of the student-athletes.

Further, the Department is committed to working cooperatively with other constituents of the University to ensure the production of competent and ethical contributing graduates who are capable of making the transition from university life to the workplace and into today's multicultural society.

Embodied within this mission is the concept of an effective athletics program which values success in competition, success in academic and personal development of student-athletes, success in graduating student-athletes, success in fully maintaining compliance with the rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC), and Title IX.

The University is further committed to a program of staff development in providing minorities the opportunity for full employment and development in the athletics program.

Director of Athletics Betty K. Austin

Betty Kelly Austin was named Alabama A&M Director of Athletics in March 2007. Based on a recommendation from a search committee comprised of coaches, faculty, staff, undergraduate and graduate students, alumni and the presidents of both booster clubs, Austin was elevated to director of athletics following a year where she had been serving in the position on an interim basis.

Austin's stellar resume includes being one of the top volleyball coaches in the country, finishing with over 600 career victories. Coach Austin's teams won six-straight Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) volleyball titles from 2000-05 and 11 more Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC) conference titles in her 30 years as head coach. Austin was named SWAC Coach of the Year in each of her six championship seasons. Austin retired her coaching duties following the 2006 season, ending her volleyball career with a 603-235 record. She also served six years as the head women's basketball coach at Alabama A&M from the 1977-78 to 1981-82 seasons.

Since taking over the director of athletics role, Austin has strengthened the athletic program's systems and processes, including filing and meeting all NCAA regulations and reporting guidelines. She has personally increased revenue generation for the athletic programs and implemented a plan to increase use of the Louis Crews Stadium to include special group nights at each of the home football games.

Events at Louis Crews Stadium under her tenure include the Louis Crews Classic, a FIFA international soccer match, the Alabama High School Football All-Star Game, home to the Alabama Renegades women's football team, and the Huntsville Black Arts Festival, to name a few. Austin's tenure also includes the development of the student-athlete academic resource center and opening of a new sports medicine treatment facility. In the summer of 2008 she completed renovations to Elmore Gymnasium to include new reserved seating in the arena's lower level.

Austin is active with the NCAA and its women and minority leadership development initiatives. She is a member of several professional athletic associations, including still being an active member of the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA).

A 1974 graduate of Alabama A&M University, Austin received a master's degree in physical education from the University of Michigan in 1975. She is a native Huntsvillian graduating from Buckhorn High

AAMU At A Glance

Small, Historic, Student-Friendly, Community-Focused

Reflecting its heritage as a traditional 1890 land-grant institution, Alabama A&M University (AAMU) functions as a teaching, research, and public service institution, including extension. AAMU is a dynamic and progressive institution with a strong commitment to academic excellence. The serene, intimate campus is situated on "The Hill," only a short distance from downtown Huntsville, the site of the school's founding.

Our History

The President

Dr. Andrew Hugine, Jr.

President * Dr. Andrew Hugine, Jr.

DR. ANDREW HUGINE, JR.
President

Dr. Andrew Hugine, Jr. is a native of Green Pond, South Carolina, a small rural community in the Low Country of South Carolina. He is the son of an A.M.E. Minister, Rev. Andrew Hugine, Sr. and an elementary school teacher, Irene S. Hugine.

Following his graduation from Colleton High School as an honor student, he enrolled in South Carolina State University where he earned the Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics followed by the Master of Education degree in mathematics education. His doctorate in higher education/institutional research was completed at Michigan State University. His lengthy and productive career began as an instructor at Beaufort High School in Beaufort, South Carolina from 1971-72. He returned to serve his Alma Mater for three years in the capacities of director of the Special Services Program (1972-73) and director of the University Year for Action Program (1972-75).

While pursuing his doctoral studies at Michigan State University, Hugine concurrently served as a teaching assistant (1975-76) and later as an institutional research analyst/assistant professor (1976-78).

Hugine returned to South Carolina State University and nobly served in the following positions: Research Fellow, 1978-79; Assistant Director of the Self-Study, 1978-79; Director of the Institutional Self-Study, 1979-80; Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs, 1980-86; Professor of Mathematics, 1986-2003; and Interim Executive Vice President (2002-03), a position in which he served as the chief operating officer for the university.

During the period 2003-08, Dr. Hugine culminated his 30-year affiliation in higher education as president of his alma mater, South Carolina State University. Among the major highlights of Hugine's administration at SCSU was the acquisition by the institution of the first debate of the 2008 Democratic Party Presidential Candidate Debate Series at the campus' Martin Luther King Auditorium. The event also marked the first such distinction for a historically black college or university.

Under the leadership of Dr. Andrew Hugine, Jr., significant improvements were made to the physical facilities including the construction of a new $42 million residence hall, the largest in South Carolina at the time of construction. The residence hall, The Andrew Hugine, Jr. Living/Learning Complex, is named in his honor. Additionally, $33 million was obtained to complete the addition to the science building and construct a new engineering building.

Dr. Andrew Hugine, Jr. was appointed as the 11th president of Alabama Agricultural & Mechanical University (AAMU) on July 16, 2009. As the 11th President, Hugine joins a distinguished group of ten previous leaders and four interim administrators who have served in the coveted post since the founding of Alabama A&M University in 1875.

Hugine holds membership in a number of civic and professional organizations. He maintains membership in his home church of Jerusalem African Methodist Episcopal Church in Green Pond, South Carolina and is an active affiliate member of St. John African Methodist Episcopal Church in Huntsville, Alabama. Other memberships include the Huntsville Rotary; Huntsville/Madison County Chamber of Commerce, Board of Directors; Xi Omicron Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and Life Member of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity; Edisto Lodge #39 Free and Accepted Masons; 100 Black Men of America, Huntsville Chapter; Epsilon Kappa Boulé of Sigma Pi Phi Fraternity; life member of the NAACP; Alabama Council of Presidents; and the Alabama School for Science and Mathematics Board of Directors.

Dr. Hugine and his wife Abbiegail have an adult son, Andrew Hugine, III; a daughter, Akilah Hugine-Elmore; and a son-in-law, Quincy Elmore.

Bulldogs picked to finish third in the SWAC

The Alabama A&M women's basketball team is enthusiastic about the 2011-12 season. With the addition of some key freshman and the returnees, this year's squad should be one of the most experienced and skilled teams in recent years. This young but spirited group should have plenty of leadership and direction to work with.

Coach Warmley places a high premium on hard work and dedication to the task at hand. Fans should expect a high pace of play combined with an array of defensive sets that are designed to create an exciting brand of basketball to watch.

Alabama A&M was picked to finish fifth, in the Southwestern Athletic Conference's pre-season men's and women's basketball polls. The Lady Bulldogs, under 10th-year coach Altherias Warmley, were picked to finish fifth behind defending regular season champion Southern, defending tournament champion Prairie View, Alcorn State and Mississippi Valley State.

A&M picked up two first-place votes and 64 points, finishing ahead of Grambling, Alabama State, Jackson State, Texas Southern and Arkansas-Pine Bluff.

"I think most people looked at how we finished last year," said Warmley, whose team opened league play 6-2 before going 5-5 the rest of the way and lost in the first round of the tournament. "Southern and Prairie View lost a lot of starters, but the last five or six years they've dominated the conference and you have to give them their respect. Alcorn State and MVSU have done a great job and they have everybody back."

Whiquitta Tobar, a first-team All-SWAC performer a year ago, was named Co-Player of the Year along with Alcorn State guard Kiara Ruffin, the reigning Player of the Year.

Tobar led the league in scoring (18.1) and finished in the top 10 in five other statistical categories, including steals, free throw percentage, assists, minutes and rebounding.

"She's one of the top players in the conference and she's proven herself against the top teams out of conference," Warmley said.

Center Gabrielle Williams was named to the second team.

One of the best players in the Southwestern Athletic Conference, Alabama A&M guard Whiquitta Tobar was a first-team All-SWAC selection last season after averaging a league-high 18.1 points per game.

If the Bulldogs are going to be successful this season, coach Altherias Warmley said Tobar has to have a better supporting cast.

The league's preseason Player of the Year got very little help from her teammates a year ago, but Warmley believes that will change after watching her team the last month.

"We have eight solid players and we signed one of the best recruiting classes since I've been here," said Warmley, who begins her 10th season Friday when A&M visits Vanderbilt. "Whiquitta was all of our offensive production last year, but we've got some other players that are ready to step up."

Senior Nefayia Watkins, juniors Shundray Davis and Danielle Oneal and sophomore Brittney Stickland will be counted on to take some pressure off of Tobar in the backcourt.

Davis, a transfer from Gadsden State Community College, will start at point guard and Tobar and Watkins, who was hampered by a knee injury a year ago, will round out A&M's three-guard offense.

"Watkins was not full speed last year," Warmley said. "She did what she could for us. She's completely healthy now and she will help us with her versatility. Not only is she a defensive stopper, she's a good rebounder and she can get to the basket."

"Davis gives us a point guard with experience and Brittney got some valuable experience last year. Oneal started some last year, too. Taylor Sippial, who we signed out of Montgomery, should be able to help us as well."

Davis, a first-team All-State selection, averaged 12 points, four rebounds, four assists and two steals per game at Gadsden State, while Sippial poured in 22 points per game to go along with five rebounds, five assists and four steals at Montgomery's St. Jude High School.

Inside, senior Gabrielle Williams and junior NaDra Robertson will split time at center, while sophomores Jasmine Sanders and Clarissa Moore and freshmen Shatavia Farris and Kiersten Fauntleroy will split time at power forward. Moore will join the team after volleyball season is over.

Williams, a second-team All-SWAC preseason pick, and Robertson, who are 6-foot-2 and 6-foot-3, respectively, have to become bigger factors this season, Warmley says.

"I'm confident in the way they've worked this summer they can take up the slack even though our strength is in the guard position," Warmley said. "I think this is going to be Gabby's year. She had a decent sophomore year, but she struggled last year. She stayed this summer and got stronger and now she's able to take the banging."

Robertson, who played in all 29 games last year while starting 15, averaged 5.4 points, 3.4 rebounds and led the team with 28 blocks.

"NaDra was practicing three times a day this summer," Tobar said. "She was working on a 15-foot jump shot that she was knocking down. Gabby has also shown some great strides. They're going to be ready."

Head Coach Altherias Warmley

Altherias Warmley is entering her tenth season as head coach for Alabama A&M with an overall record of 109-120.

During the 2009-10 season, the Bulldogs finished with a an 16-13 overall mark, and 11-7 in the SWAC for a third place finish.

During the 2008-09 season, The Bulldogs finished with a an 11-18 overall mark, and an even 9-9 in the SWAC for a sixth place finish. A&M also hosted nationally ranked Auburn at Elmore Gym - its first time hosting an SEC team in program history.

In 2007-08 campaign, the Bulldogs were just one of three teams to defeat the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, and only suffered a five point loss to SEC opponent Alabama. The team finished with a 14-14 overall record, and 12-6 in the Southwestern Athletic Conference. Warmley graduated seven seniors - all with honors.

The 2006-07 season finished with a 17-13 mark and a 13-5 record in the SWAC. The team won its first 11 conference games and was considered one of the favorites entering the 2007-08 campaign. The 2005-06 season ended with the Bulldogs making a run in the SWAC Tournament. As the sixth seed, the Bulldogs upset Mississippi Valley State in the opening round and had eventual champion Southern on the ropes before falling on a controversial ending in overtime. Her 2004-05 team finished the regular season tied for second place in the conference. Her teams have averaged a 3.0 GPA in each of her first five seasons as head coach. She is just the fourth head coach in the 26-year history of women's basketball at AAMU. In addition, Warmley had five former players to play professionally.

Warmley arrived to "the Hill" after spending eight seasons with Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. Her first three seasons she assisted Lewis Bivens, former MTSU head coach. The last five years she spent as the number one assistant and recruiting coordinator for Stephany Smith, who moved from MTSU to become the head coach at Alabama.

During her tenure in Murfreesboro, the Lady Raiders posted a 140-94 record, won two Ohio Valley Conference titles, and earned two trips to the NCAA Tournament as well as two trips to the NWIT (National Women's Invitational Tournament).

Warmley is a native of Bessemer, Alabama, where she starred in both volleyball and basketball at Jess Lanier High School. In 1986, she enrolled at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, walked on for the Lady Blazers in 1987, and went on to letter for three seasons (1987-1990). She also spent her summers working in the mayor's office with the Birmingham Youth Games. After graduating from UAB, she served one season at Wenonah High School in Birmingham, Alabama, as a volunteer assistant coach. One year later she joined the Lady Blazers coaching staff as the second assistant. Her main duties included recruiting, scouting, promotions, on-the-floor coaching, and coordinating team travel.

In 1994, after three seasons with the Lady Blazers, Warmley headed north to join the staff at Middle Tennessee State University where she became known as an outstanding recruiter. She coached three OVC Freshman of the Year, the former South Carolina Player of the Year, and several All-State performers. The All-Star Girls Report rated the 2001 signing class for MTSU one of the Top 50 in the nation. Her other duties at MTSU included scheduling, budgeting, on-the-floor coaching, and scouting.

Assistant Coaches

Dorianne Johnson - 10th season

Dorianne Johnson is entering her tenth season at Alabama A&M after coming to The Hill from the University of South Alabama and Kansas City (Kan.) Community College.

She came to coaching after an outstanding playing career at Ole Miss that established her leadership qualities. A 1997 graduate, Johnson was a three-year starter for the Lady Rebels under Van Chancellor, also head coach of the 2004 U.S. Olympic team and three-time WNBA champion Houston Comets. Johnson helped Ole Miss to two Sweet 16 appearances and several top-15 rankings.

Her leadership also extended to serving as captain for two seasons and receiving the Eugene O'Conner Award. She also served on the SEC and NCAA student-athlete advisory committees.

With the Bulldogs, she is responsible for developing post players, team offense, academic progress, and enhancing the community relations. Her duties also include assisting with film exchange, junior recruiting coordinator, co-director of summer camps, and advisor of the AAMU chapter of FCA. A native of Cleveland, Miss., she is a 1992 graduate of East Side High School.

Melvin Williams - 2nd season

Melvin Williams enters his second year at Alabama A&M, but this year in the full-time capacity as the assistant women's basketball coach.

Williams's most recent stint was at Georgia Perimeter as an assistant and has 17 years of experience as a college coach. The former Blue Raider has collected a 206-88 record as a collegiate head coach.

He most recently served as head coach at Tennessee Temple University 2007-2009, and one year as an assistant at Cumberland College in 2006. He then joined the staff at Tennessee State for two years 2004-2006, and began his head coaching tenure at Chattanooga State Community College in 1999.

Having to coach both the men's and women's teams his Chattanooga State men's team reached the semifinals of the Tennessee Junior College Athletic Association Tournament in three consecutive seasons 2002, 2003 and 2004. In 2002 the Lady Tigers finished fourth in the NJCAA national tournament with a 30-5 record. Williams was named Region 7 Coach of the Year that season.

After graduating from high school Williams entered the Naval Academy and played on the All-Navy team for four years 1983-1987. In 1985 he was named to the All-Tournament team after his squad won the Naval Academy championship.

A graduate of Middle Tennessee, Williams earned his bachelor's degree in engineering technology.

He is married to Gale Williams and they have an eleven-year-old daughter, Lauren.

Sports Medicine - Athletic Training

Jessie Zucnick-Kimbugwe

Jessie is entering her third year as Head Athletic Trainer at Alabama A&M University after being promoted to the position in May 2009, but her eighth year overall with the program. Prior to being promoted as Head Athletic Trainer she served as assistant athletic trainer, where her primary sport responsibilities included coverage of the men's soccer and baseball teams. In addition to her sports coverage she is also the Insurance Coordinator for the Alabama A&M Sport Medicine Department, as well as overseeing the overall direction of the program and supervising Assistant Athletic Trainers, Graduate Assistant and Student Athletic Trainers.

Zucnick-Kimbugwe graduated from Stetson University in May 2003 with a B.S. in Athletic Training and a minor in Russian Studies. While at Stetson, she gained a majority of her student athletic training experience working with Men's Soccer and Baseball, as well as gaining additional experience with the men's basketball, men's and women's tennis, volleyball, crew, and cross country teams. In addition to her athletic training work, Jessie also took a semester to study abroad in Russia.

In Fall 2004, Jessie came to Alabama A&M to begin work as a Graduate Assistant Athletic Trainer. She worked primarily with men's soccer, baseball, softball, and women's soccer. In May 2007 she received her M.S. in Rehabilitation Counseling.

Jessie is a NATABOC certified athletic trainer and a member of the NATA and SEATA organizations. She is also licensed in the state of Alabama. For all her dedication to the A&M Sports Medicine Department Jessie was awarded the 2007 Employee of the Year award by Huntsville Hospital Sports Center.

In her spare time, the Huntsville resident enjoys Tae kwon do, where she is a second degree black belt, reading, horseback riding, spending times with friends and family, and watching movies. Jessie is married to Brian Kimbugwe.

Mike Dye

Michael Dye joined the Alabama A&M family as part of the athletic training staff in the summer of 2009.

Michael is a Huntsville native, but traveled back and forth between Huntsville and Taegu, Korea due to his father's 27 year career with the U.S. Army. Michael graduated from The University of Alabama, in Tuscaloosa with a Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training in 1994, and The University of Alabama-Birmingham with a Master's of Arts in Education degree in Sports Administration in 1997.

As a student athletic trainer at The University of Alabama, Michael was part of the athletic training staff for football that won the 1992 National Championship under Coach Gene Stallings. As a Graduate Assistant at UAB, he covered high schools with the Birmingham City Schools system. Michael then spent the next 11 years working for Bethesda Memorial Hospital, in Boynton Beach, Florida, where he worked in an outpatient physical therapy clinic and outreached to Atlantic Community High School, in Delray Beach. The physical therapy clinic was in the top 10 in the country under the Focus On Therapeutic Outcomes study out of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and the Atlantic High School football team had reached the playoffs the last 9 years that he covered them. While in Florida, he also helped cover Spring Fling Women's College Lacrosse, and USA Baseball 16U Baseball Tournament.

Since returning to Huntsville, Michael has covered football at Hazel Green High School, basketball, baseball, and softball at J.O. Johnson High School, and helped cover the first part of the 2009 season with the Tennessee Valley Vipers Arena 2 football team.

Michael is married to Elizabeth Dye, and they have one daughter, Mary Jane.

Strength and Conditioning

James Hester

James Hester arrived on “The Hill” in January of 2002, having been the assistant strength and conditioning coach at South Carolina. He serves as strength and conditioning coach for football, men’s and women’s basketball, and softball.

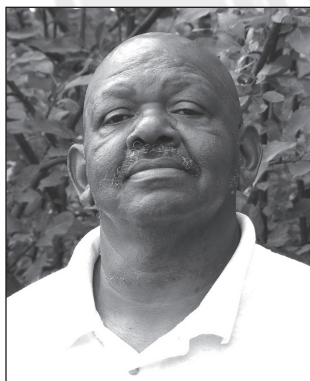

Hester, a native of Durham, N.C., got his start in 1994 as the assistant strength and conditioning coach at South Carolina State. After four seasons, he moved on to South Carolina. At USC, he assisted with the football team, and was in charge of women’s golf and men’s and women’s cheerleading.

Hester also served as a personal trainer for three years for NFL running back Duce Staley.

As an athlete, Hester played free safety at South Carolina State. While there, he was named first-team all-conference and team captain. In 1993, Hester was also named a Sheridan Black College All-American and honorable mention NCAA I-AA All-American. While he was at USC, the Gamecocks won back-to-back Outback Bowl titles over Ohio State.

Hester is a certified strength and conditioning coach and a member of the Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches Association.

Andrew Lee

Andrew Lee enters his 17th season as the Bulldogs agilities and strength conditioning coordinator. Lee, a former offensive line coach for the Bulldogs, was a standout player under former A&M coach Louis Crews. Lee also lettered in basketball while a student-athlete at A&M.

In addition to coaching at Alabama A&M, the Fairfield, Ala., native has also coached at Maryland-Eastern Shore and Texas Southern. Lee has coached several All-American linemen during his career, including Dino Wynn and Howard Ballard. Ballard was named the SIAC Offensive Lineman of the Year and later drafted by the Buffalo Bills and helped anchor the offensive line during Buffalo’s four straight trips to the Super Bowl.

Always with a smile and willing to take time out of his day for the student-athletes and other staff members, Lee is one of the most popular members of the Bulldog Athletics staff.

T.M. Elmore Gymnasium

T.M. Elmore Gymnasium has been the permanent home of Alabama A&M women's basketball since it was built in 1974. Over the years, the Bulldogs have made this one of the toughest places in the country for visiting teams to come away with a victory.

The basketball team has earned a remarkable following in the community and on campus. It is not uncommon for Bulldog fans to pack the 6,000-seat arena to a near-capacity for home games. And those fans are vocal, loudly cheering on their maroon and white to another home victory.

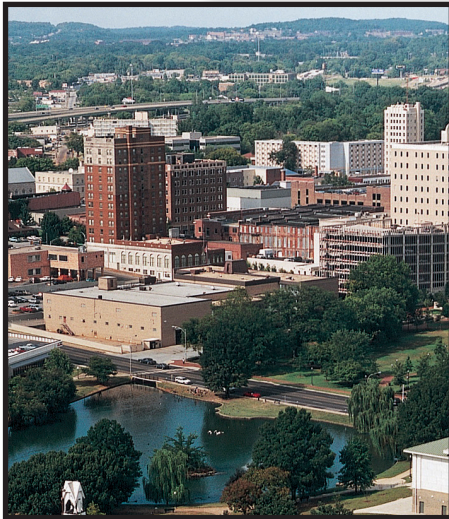

The T.M. Elmore Gymnasium and Health Sciences Complex is home to the Bulldog volleyball team also, as well as numerous other civic and institutional activities from concerts and pep rallies, to guest speakers and convocations. The building also houses classrooms, office space, training facilities and the Physical Education department.

Huntsville, Ala. • America's Space

One of the fastest-growing cities in the Southeast, and home to one of the highest per capita income levels in the country, the high-tech city of Huntsville, Alabama, which sprawls in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, is equally at home in the 19th century or the 21st. Huntsville's tourist attractions reflect the heritage of Alabama's first English-speaking city, the strife of the American Civil War, and the accomplishments of America's rocket scientists.

With the influence of NASA, Redstone Arsenal, and hundreds of high-tech government industries, Huntsville's population truly reflects international cultures. Of the nearly 200,000 city residents, more than 10 percent are natives of other countries. More than 100 languages and dialects are spoken here.

Visitors who want to be "astronauts for a day" can sample astronaut training activities at the sprawling U.S. Space and Rocket Center. The hands-on showcase of space technology is the state's largest tourist attraction. It is home to the internationally known U.S. Space Camp, which has franchise operations in Japan, Belgium and Canada. A variety of city museums downtown and an outstanding symphony orchestra offer rich cultural opportunities involving the arts. The legendary Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail, which encompasses 21 courses in eight cities in Alabama, begins here at the 54-hole Hampton Cove Golf Course.

Hampton Cove features two championship courses surrounded by mountains and lakes. Alabama now ranks fifth in the nation for public golf courses per resident.

The Birthplace of Alabama

Pioneer John Hunt, for whom the city is named, occupied a cabin alongside a spring here in 1805. A town soon flourished and was the largest in the Alabama Territory by 1819. That year the leaders of the Alabama Territory met to petition the U.S. Congress to grant Alabama statehood. The recreated 1819 Alabama Constitution Village, a block from courthouse square, commemorates the historic events with tours given by costumed guides.

Huntsville was the cotton trading center of the Tennessee Valley during the 1840s and '50s when planters and merchants originally from Virginia and the Carolinas built impressive town homes. Walking tours of the Twickenham historic district, with the state's largest collection of pre-Civil War homes, are popular year-round. Because many wealthy businessmen remained loyal to the Union at the start of the Civil War, the town was spared the destruction by occupying armies.

America's Space Capital

Huntsville was still a cotton market town of 16,437 people in 1950 when U.S. Sen. John Sparkman (who lived in Huntsville's historic Twickenham neighborhood) brought a band of German rocket scientists to Redstone Arsenal to develop rockets for the U.S. Army. By the end of the decade, Wernher von Braun's team had developed the rocket which orbited America's first satellite. They eventually put the first American in space and transported the first astronauts to the moon.

Redstone Arsenal is one of the U.S. Army's most important strategic posts. It is responsible for research, development, production and worldwide support of missiles, aviation, rockets and related programs. The influx of engineers, scientists and other technical specialists has transformed the small town into a cosmopolitan community which nonetheless maintains its heritage and reputation for hospitality.

A legacy of the space program which benefits visitors is the renowned U.S. Space & Rocket Center. Guests can experience astronaut-training activities, feel simulated weightlessness and view large-screen movies filmed by astronauts in space. The Center's U.S. Space Camp attracts young people from throughout the world who spend a week experiencing space flight training and participate in mock space missions. It was Von Braun himself who inspired Space Camp. He suggested that the space museum develop an intensive youth science program to stimulate children's interest in math and science.

Huntsville is home to the Marshall Space Flight Center, Davidson Center for Space Exploration, and Redstone Arsenal

In 1920, eight men representing six colleges from the state of Texas met to discuss collegiate athletics and the many challenges that face their respective institutions. By the time the session in Houston had concluded, they had founded an athletic league that has slowly become one of the leading sports associations in the world of collegiate athletics, the Southwestern Athletic Conference

The founding fathers of the original "Super Six" were C.H. Fuller of Bishop College, Red Randolph and C.H. Patterson of Paul Quinn, E.G. Evans, H.J. Evans and H.J. Starns of Prairie View A&M, D.C. Fuller of Texas College and G. Whitte Jordan of Wiley College.

BULLDOG CREED

I am a "Bulldog".

I am proud to be a "Bulldog".

We are a family that can depend on each other.

I will respect my school,

My teammates,

My coaches and myself.

This team is as solid as I am

And I will do everthing I can

To keep it that way.
