COACHES

HEAD COACH TRAVIS SCOTT

Ask Travis Scott why he coaches and his answer is as simple as his coaching methods.

“I do it because I love it.”

Scott stresses the importance of fundamentals, and it has paid dividends over the last 21 seasons. Under his guidance, Angelo State has averaged 41 wins per season, hoisted six NCAA Division II South Central Region trophies and made six trips to the NCAA D-II National Championships. ASU won the national title in 2004 and finished as the national runner-up in 2017 under Scott’s guidance. Scott led ASU to eight LSC Conference Championships and Tournament in 2003. His teams also claimed a LSC championship in 2001 and finished as runners-up to ASU in 2003. Scott’s record at SOSU was 101-50-2 and earned LSC North Coach of the Year in 2002.

Scott’s coaching legacy took roots when he was the head baseball and softball coach at Lone Grove High School in Lone Grove, Okla. His softball teams posted a cumulative record of 165-62, including four 30-plus-win seasons, five district championships, four regional titles and two runner-up finishes in the Class 3A OSSAA State Tournament. Seven of his players garnered all-state recognition and 13 received college athletic scholarships.

SCOTT BY THE NUMBERS

six LSC South Division titles in the last 21 years.

During his reign, Scott has coached 32 ASU All-Americans, 59 NFCA All-Region players and 91 All-Lone Star Conference honorees. In addition, 20 Rambelles have been named Academic All-LSC team under Scott.

As a seven-time LSC Coach of the Year, Scott boasts an 972-363-3 career record for a .728 winning percentage. Scott had a 101-56-1 record while coaching at Southeastern Oklahoma State University.

As a high school baseball coach from 1993-2000, Scott posted a 131-74 record and numerous district championships and regional titles. His 1997 and 1998 teams were Class 4A state semi-finalists.

A skilled baseball player himself, Scott competed at Southeastern Oklahoma from 1990-92 and was the starting third baseman on the 1990 team that finished fourth at the NAIA College World Series, where he was named to the all-

His ASU record sits at 871-313-1 for a .735 winning percentage. He currently ranks 15th in NCAA DII in winning percentage among active coaches.

A native of Ardmore, Okla., Scott brought a winning tradition with him when he arrived at ASU. In his three previous seasons as head coach at Southeastern Oklahoma – his alma mater – Scott claimed three LSC North Division titles and guided the Lady Savages to the South Central Regional tournament team and was a Gold Glove recipient.

Scott holds a bachelor’s degree in health, physical education, recreation and dance and a master’s in secondary education-health/physical education from Southeastern Oklahoma. He is married to associate head coach Katie Scott and has four children, step-daughter Kenna Dawn Self and sons Mickey Ryan Scott, Gehrig Brooks Scott, and Taten James Scott.

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH KATIE SCOTT

Katie Scott is in her 16th season as part of the Angelo State Softball program and 8th as associate head coach.

While on the ASU coaching staff, the Rambelles have hoisted four NCAA Division II South Central Regional trophies with four trips to the NCAA DII National Championships. The 2017 team finished as the National Runner-Up. Katie helped guide ASU to six LSC Conference Championships in the past 13 years, working primarily with pitchers and outfielders. Under her guidance as pitching coach, ASU has had three All-American selections, 13 All-Region selections, four LSC Pitchers of the Year, one LSC Newcomer of the Year and 14 LSC All-Conference pitchers.

Katie, along with head coach Travis Scott, was honored as the NFCA Division II South Central Regional Coaching Staff of the Year in 2017 and 2018 after guiding the team to back-to-back national tournament appearances. She was also a part of the 2009 South Central Regional Coaching Staff of the Year.

Katie joined the Rambelles coaching staff prior to the 2008 season after a standout collegiate playing career at Florida Tech. In four seasons, the former Katie Naumoff posted a .351 career batting average and was a three-time All-Sunshine State Conference pick for the Panthers. During her junior season, she led the Panthers with a .409 batting average and was named first team All-South Region by the NFCA.

Scott was named to the SSC Silver Anniversary Softball Team, selected as one of the top 31 softball players over the Sunshine State Conference's first 25 years of competition in softball.

An excellent student at Florida Tech, Katie was also selected to the SSC Commissioner's Honor Roll for three seasons, and graduated cum laude.

A native of Poland, Ohio, she earned her bachelor's degree in psychology from Florida Tech in 2007 and master's degree from ASU in 2009. Katie is married to head softball coach Travis Scott, and they welcomed son Taten James Scott in July 2019.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES

MAYER FIELD

The Angelo State Rambelles compete at Mayer Field at the ASU Softball Complex, located on the corner of Johnson and Victory.

Hellas Construction completed over the span of two years the stadium project. The first project was an artificial turf playing surface. One year later a total renovation to the bleacher and press box was completed increasing seating from 128 to 400 seats elevated behind home plate.

The field features two dugout facilities that include team bathrooms and washrooms, team benches, bag and bat storage areas and an area for miscellaneous equipment. The field also includes a pressbox, a concession stand and a VIP suite and radio booth.

Fans are kept up to date with a complete sound and public address system and a deluxe inning-by-inning scoreboard. The field also has batting cages and warm-up bullpens for players to prepare for games, as well as a padded and wind-screened fence to provide an ideal playing facility.

The complex hosted the 2007, 2008, 2009, 2012, 2014 and 2017. NCAA Division II South Central Regional Tournaments.

The Rambelles also boast one of the finest locker room facilities in NCAA Division II softball in the state-of-the-art Junell Center/Stephens Arena.

The facility features deluxe lockers, a team meeting room and a study lounge. The oak-trimmed lockers have dressing lights, electrical outlets and a seating area for each player. The lounge area has flat screen television with a deluxe sound system. When the Rambelles aren't relaxing, they can watch game film in the meeting room, and there are Internet hookups in the lounge so they can work on homework or research while waiting for practice.

In addition, the area houses several of the awards and trophies the team and individuals have won throughout the brief history of the Rambelles program.

ONE FOR THE AGES

A LOOK BACK AT THE 2004 CHAMPIONSHIP RUN

Angelo State softball became one of the fastest programs to earn a national title in NCAA competition as the Rambelles claimed the national crown in 2004, just three years after the team's reinstatement. Below is a game-by-game recap of ASU's run for the 2004 NCAA Division II National Championship.

RAMBELLES WIN OPENER, 2-1

A sacrifice fly by senior outfielder Stacy Broman drove in the winning run as the Rambelles downed Shippensburg, 2-1, in the opening round.

Senior pitcher Claudia Lopez tossed a four-hit complete game striking out 12 Lady Raiders as ASU won its first-ever NCAA D-II World Series game. The contest was a scoreless battle until the top of the sixth inning, when Shippensburg capitalized on a base hit and a Rambelles error to take a 1-0 lead.

The Rambelles rebounded in the bottom of the inning as the top of the batting order responded to the call. Senior Alexis Wing reached on a single to shallow left field, stole second and scored a single by senior Michelle Hofmann. Hofmann advanced to third base after an outfield error by the Lady Raiders, and scored the go-ahead run later in the frame on Broman's deep fly out.

Lopez then retired the Shippensburg side in order in the seventh, collecting one strike out and a pair of ground outs to ice the victory.

ASU DEFEATS FLORIDA SOUTHERN, 2-1

The Rambelles held on to a late lead while dealing with Mother Nature in their 2-1 win over Florida Southern in second-round action.

ASU struck first on a bases-loaded ground out by Diana Faulkner that brought in Arin Spence. That lead was extended to 2-0 in the following frame as pinch runner Sarah Woodman scored from second base on an infield single by Spence.

The Moccasins picked up their only run of the game as Katie Brandon scored on an RBI single by Sarah Kohlbrenner in the bottom of the sixth inning.

A 20-minute rain delay added drama to the looming seventh inning. When action resumed, the Rambelles put the first two runners on base, but were unable to plate an insurance run.

Florida Southern had some late life as Stacy Gross reached on a one-out walk, but Spence retired the next two batters on a ground out and a pop up. Spence allowed just six hits to the Mocs while striking out four to pick up the victory.

FAULKNER BOOSTS ASU TO 4-2 WIN

Senior shortstop Diana Faulkner saved the day for ASU, hitting a towering three-run homer to left field that put the Rambelles up for good in the top of the seventh as they defeated St. Cloud State, 4-2.

The Rambelles took an early lead on a solo home run by senior center fielder Michelle Hofmann. Their hopes of a big first inning, however, were dashed with a ground out and pop out after three hits in the frame.

St. Cloud State rebounded quickly as the Huskies' leadoff hitter, Abby Velta, reached base on an infield single to left and advanced to second on an overthrow. She then stole third base and eventually scored on another ASU throwing error.

In the fourth inning, St. Cloud took a 2-1 lead on an RBI single by Megan Fuches. The Rambelles loaded the bases in the fifth inning in an attempt to respond, but a pair of ground outs thwarted the rally. An inning-ending double play in the sixth held ASU at bay for another frame, and then the Rambelles defense turned in a spectacular 1-6-3 double play in the bottom of the sixth to remain within one run.

In the top of the seventh, the drama ensued as senior right fielder Andrea Payan led off with a single to left. After a fielder's choice and a fly out, the Rambelles were down to their final out. Hofmann then singled to center field to set up Faulkner's go-ahead long ball.

The Huskies loaded the bases in the bottom of the seventh with a single and a pair of walks, but ASU relief pitcher Arin Spence dashed the hopes of a Huskies win and ended the game by inducing a ground out and a fly out to wrap up the dramatic victory.

MORENO HOMERS TO SECURE COMEBACK, 4-2

The comeback kids did it again as the Rambelles rebounded from a two-run deficit to defeat Shippensburg, 4-2, in a semifinal match up.

The Rambelles trailed early as the Lady Raiders capitalized on a pair of ASU fielding errors in the bottom of the first to take a 2-0 lead.

Shippensburg ace and first team All-American Kelly Tiesi limited ASU's scoring opportunities over the next four innings as the Rambelles could only muster one base runner. Arin Spence, however, answered the challenge as the Lady Raiders did not get a runner past second base during that same stretch.

The Rambelles opened the sixth inning with the top of the order, and senior Alexis Wing sparked the ASU rally with a lead-off single up the middle. Senior center fielder Michelle Hofmann then knotted the game, 2-2, with a two-run blast to right field. One out later, senior left fielder Stacy Broman pushed the Rambelles into the lead with a solo home run to left.

The Rambelles then escaped the sixth with the Lady Raiders stranding two aboard. With one out in the inning, Broman made a game-saving diving catch on a liner by Lady Raider Jamie Dacey.

The top of the seventh brought more drama for the Rambelles as senior designated player Cat Moreno stepped into the box with a 1-0 count and unleashed a 200-foot home run blast to deep left-center to add to the Rambelles' advantage.

The Lady Raiders earned a base runner on a walk in their half of the inning, but senior pitcher Claudia Lopez took over the circle and fanned two of the final three Shippensburg batters to preserve the win and earn the save.

HOFMANN DRIVES ASU TO CHAMPIONSHIP, 7-3

After dropping a 7-0 decision to Florida Southern, the Rambelles had a second chance at a national championship and took advantage with a 7-3 victory to claim the crown in the "if" game.

ASU's offense surged early, scoring efficiently in the top of the first. Senior Alexis Wing reached on a walk, stole second and scored on an FSC error. The Mocs replied with a run in the bottom of the first as leadoff hitter Krista Bradley reached on an error and later scored on a single. But, the Mocs stranded two runners, and the game was tied at the end of the first, 1-1.

The Rambelles started the second inning in style as on the first pitch Cat Moreno cranked a solo home run to deep center that bounced off the television truck. After a pair of singles by senior Andrea Payan and Wing, Hofmann—who was named tournament MVP—stretched the Rambelles lead to 5-1 with a three-run blast, her fourth home run during the World Series.

ASU opened up the fourth inning with a double by senior Jaime McGalliard. Three batters later, Wing knocked in McGalliard with a ground out giving the Rambelles a 6-1 cushion. Hofmann then drove in freshman Arin Spence with a single up the middle to complete ASU's scoring.

Florida Southern scored a run in the seventh inning, but senior pitcher Claudia Lopez closed out the game to bring the national championship to San Angelo.

Meet the President

LT. GEN. RONNIE HAWKINS

Retired U.S. Air Force Lt. Gen. Ronnie D. Hawkins Jr. was officially appointed to his new post as president of Angelo State University on August 17th, 2020.

The 11th president of Angelo State, Hawkins is the second ASU alum to serve as president, and the first Black president in the 92-year history of the institution.

A 1977 distinguished graduate, Hawkins attended ASU on a track and field scholarship and a Carr Scholarship. He earned a Bachelor of Business Administration in computer science and was a member of the Rams track and field teams that won Lone Star Conference Championships in 1974-75 and 1977. He went on to become the highest-ranking graduate of Angelo State's ROTC Detachment 847, and was named a Distinguished ROTC Alumnus in 2001.

During an outstanding Air Force career that spanned nearly four decades, Hawkins completed assignments with the Strategic Air Command, U.S. Air Force Academy, Air Combat Command, Headquarters Pacific Air Force, Headquarters Air Force and Joint Chiefs of Staff. His final assignment was as director of the Defense Information Systems Agency in Fort Meade, Md., where he led a $10.2 billion global organization of 14,000 military and civilian personnel.

Hawkins' many honors and awards include: Bronze Star; Legion of Merit; Defense Superior Service Medal; Secretary of the Air Force Leadership Award; "The Federal 100" by Federal Computer Weekly; North American Technology Leadership Award from the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association, Rocky Mountain Chapter

Following his Air Force retirement, Hawkins returned to San Angelo and became heavily involved in the community. He also taught leadership development courses as an adjunct visiting professor at ASU, and served as president and CEO of the Hawkins Group, a digital, information technology and cybersecurity firm. He and his wife, San Angelo native Maria Hawkins – who also attended ASU – were named the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce's 2019 co-Citizens of the Year.

The Hawkins have been married for 46 years and have two sons, Col. Ronnie Hawkins III and Lt. Col. Joshua Hawkins, and a daughter, Christine Honesty.

ATHLETIC STUDY CENTER

The goal of the Athletic Study Center is to act as the primary academic support contact for student-athletes. The center holds the office of the Athletic Academic Coordinator (ACC) for easy visibility and reach. The center houses laptop computers, printers, and individual and collaborative work stations.

ADVISING

All academic advising is provided through the individual colleges and academic departments.

ACADEMIC PROGRESS

During each semester, the ACC surveys the professors of each student-athlete three times. In each grade check, professors are asked to provide academic progress information such as attendance, current grade, at-risk or not, and any additional comments.

MENTORSHIP

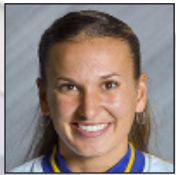

The ACC provides weekly sessions with mentors for student-athletes identified as "at-risk" based on ACC and coach recommendations. During the sessions, grade updates and upcoming assignments are discussed. Assignments are reviewed and study plans are implemented if necessary.

TUTORING

Free tutoring is available for student-athletes in Angelo State University's Tutor Center. In addition to having tutors available for nearly every general education class as well as many upper-level classes, specialized tutoring units include the Math lab, Writing Center, Modern Language tutoring, Accounting lab and Supplemental Instruction (SI). The SI program offers extracurricular peer tutoring groups for traditionally tough classes. Study sessions are led by students who have completed and earned high grades in the courses. SI sessions are conducted multiple times throughout the week.

LERMA

In 2004, senior outfielder Michelle Hofmann became ASU's first softball COSIDA Academic All-American with her third-team selection. The next season, senior shortstop Stephanie Fofi doubled ASU's Academic All-Americans with a second-team selection. Alix Dean, a two-time recipient, became the third player to garner Academic All-American honors in 2010 on the third team and 2011 on the first team. Morgan Spearman in 2014 was named to the third team, and the most recent additions for the Rambelles came in the form of Paxton Scheurer (First Team) and Ashlyn Lerma (Second Team) being named to the academic all-american teams in 2022 and 2023.

Hofmann was a first team All-Lone Star Conference South Division outfield selection in 2004, and named to the All-South Central Region first team from the NFCA. In addition, she was a first team Academic All-LSC South pick and Academic All-District VI selection with a 3.83 grade point average in kinesiology. Hofmann was named the NCAA Tournament MVP after batting .500 for the tournament (8-of-16) with three home runs, a double and seven runs batted in. She scored five runs in the tournament, and belted a three-run home run in the championship game against Florida Southern.

Fofi was a first team All-LSC South selection at shortstop in 2005 when she batted .311 with 11 doubles for the Rambelles. During her career, Fofi was a two-time winner of the ASU Athletic Academic Excellence Award, awarded to the upperclassman with the highest GPA among all sports, and also won the 2005 Holland's Award for softball. She was tabbed as the LSC South's Softball Academic Player of the Year in 2005 and Academic All-District VI with a 3.87 grade point average in biology.

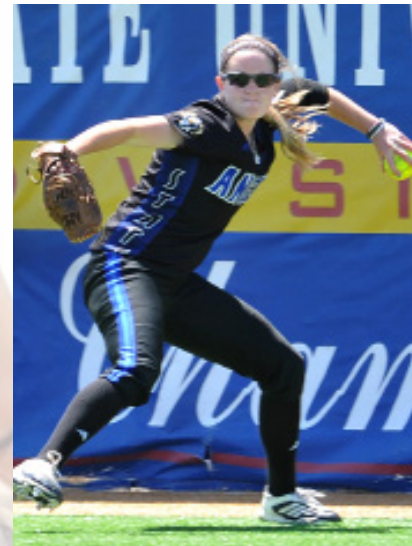

Dean finished her Rambelle softball career with a .366 batting average and 183 RBIs, while being a member of the second-winningest class in program history (193-51). The two-time All-American is ASU's career doubles leader with 65, and set the single-season record of 22 her junior year. Dean, the three-time LSC Academic Player of the Year, finished her academic career with a 3.97 GPA and majored in psychology.

Spearman, the LSC Player of the Year, scored 80 runs and set the ASU and LSC single season record. The 80 runs is the fifth most runs scored in a single season in NCAA Division II history. The senior maintained a 3.46 grade point average in exercise sports science. She hit .506 for the season with 19 doubles and 10 home runs. She drew 47 walks and stole 20 bases as well. Spearman set ASU single season record with a .622 on-base percentage.

Scheurer, the 2022 LSC Player and Academic Player of the Year, as well as the LSC Fred Jacoby Female Academic Athlete of the Year, was a consensus All-American at the hot corner, as she hit .370 with 23 home runs and 72 RBIs, both of which ranked her in the top three nationally.

Lerma, a first-team all-conference selection and the Golden Glove recipient at second base, hit .349 while recording a .489 on-base percentage. She drew 38 walks and stole 51 bases, both best in the LSC. In 2023, she earned second team all-american honors while earning the Golden Shoe award for stealing the most bases in Division II. She was named to the CSC Academic All-American Second Team for the second successive season.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

The Angelo State softball team regularly gives back to San Angelo and the Concho Valley through various community service programs.

In the past year alone, the Rambelles took time out of their hectic schedules to volunteer at the Concho Valley Regional Food Bank (below) as well as at the Sierra Vista United Methodist Church Pumpkin Patch (bottom right).

“We have great support from our community here in San Angelo, and we feel it’s important to do what we can to give back,” said head coach Travis Scott. “It’s important for our players to use their abilities as student-athletes to make a positive effect on a young person’s life.”

The Rambelles won the Golden Horn Award in the 2023-24 school year. The award is presented by the Angelo State Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and is based on a point system that awards success both on and off the field. The Rambelles contributed 817 volunteer hours, the most in the department, and carried a team GPA of 3.52.

The Rambelles also contributed the most items for the department’s beginning of the year food drive back in August (right).
