WESLEYAN BASEBALL

DRESSER DIAMOND AT ANDRUS FIELD

"You will be playing on a field that has seen, among others, two National Football League coaches, Major League Baseball players, Gold Medal-winning Olympic athletes and two Presidents of the United States."

JOHN BIDDISCOMBE
WESLEYAN ATHLETIC DIRECTOR - 1988-2012

Wesleyan Baseball has the fortune of playing on the oldest baseball field still in use today. Since 1874, the Cardinals have played on Andrus Field, which is tucked into the middle of campus, symbolizing its importance in the school community. The central location helps the Cardinals routinely draw more fans per game than every other team in the Northeast.

The Wesleyan Baseball Experience

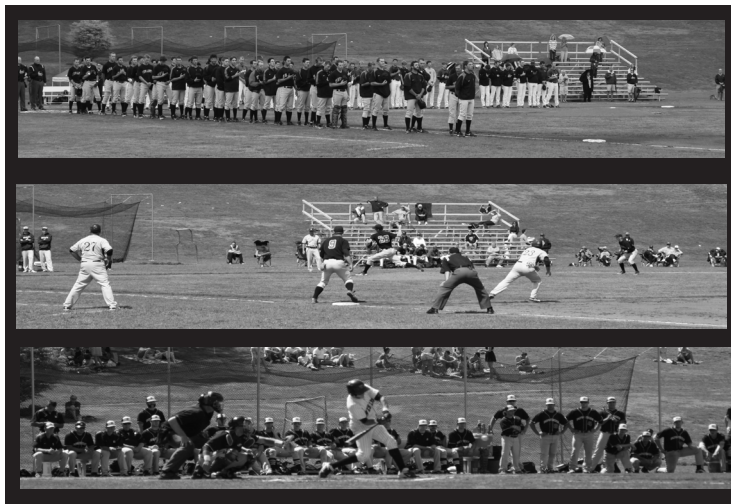

TRADITION. TEAMWORK.
WORK ETHIC. FOCUS
COMPETING. WINNING.

The Wesleyan University baseball program combines these elements with an elite academic education, forging an exciting, high-level baseball experience.

Featuring a comprehensive baseball learning environment and exceptional facilities, Wesleyan allows team members to reach their full potential while participating on an historically successful team.

• TRADITION •

Beginning with its first baseball game in 1865 against Yale, Wesleyan baseball has created a tradition of excellence on the field and off. In a fierce rivalry for the coveted Little Three title with Amherst and Williams, Wesleyan has won the last four titles, and most recently, won the NESCAC conference in 2014 and 2015. In addition, the Cardinals were the No. 1 team in New England in 2015, as well as in 1994, posting a best-ever 30-8 record. Wesleyan continued on to the NCAA Division III World Series in Battle Creek, Mich. and placed second to Wisconsin-Oshkosh, losing in the championship game to current Major League all-star pitcher Jarrod Washburn.

• SUCCESS •

The Cardinals have had numerous All-NESCAC, All-New England and All-America recipients over the years, including Craig Brewer '95 who set a national record for consecutive pitching victories with 21. More recently, Bill Robinson '03 set eight school offensive records, Jeff Maier '06 set the school record for career hits, and Drew Dominguez '09 set the record for hits in a season twice. Donnie Cimino '15 shattered many of those and holds five school records, while Nick Cooney '15 holds career and season strike-out records. Dominguez, Cimino, Cooney, Mike Barsotti '12 and Gavin Pittore '16 all went on to play professional baseball.

• SPRING TRIP •

The Cardinals' spring trip is truly unique and one-of-a-kind in college baseball. A two-week trip to Arizona and California features 15 games against opponents from around the country, while creating a team chemistry that resonates for the rest of the player's lives.

• PRACTICE •

Wesleyan's practices are centered around live on-field hitting and fielding, and are spread out to eliminate academic conflicts. Through this, a focus is placed on the players learning responsibility, resulting in improvement throughout the season and the ability to play relaxed, confident baseball at a highly focused level.

• ANDRUS FIELD •

Wesleyan baseball plays its home games on the oldest baseball field in the world still in use, dating back to at least 1874. Its natural amphitheater setting amidst Olin Library and Foss Hill fosters a popular place for students, parents and fans to watch games. With outdoor and indoor batting cages, as well as a full-size field house for practices and scrimmages, the team is able to work on its skills independent of weather.

• NESCAC •

Once back east following spring break, Wesleyan contends for both the traditional Little Three title, as well as the NESCAC title, which gives the winner an automatic bid to the NCAA Division III tournament.

• EXPERIENCE •

The Wesleyan baseball experience is combined with studying alongside the best minds of today's generation from professors to students to alumni. With its elite academic reputation and its beautiful campus and facilities on top of the hill overlooking the Connecticut River, Wesleyan baseball players are privy to an extraordinary, multi-faceted experience.

LEARNING BASEBALL AT WESLEYAN

Wesleyan baseball players have experienced extraordinary improvement in their baseball skills because of a positive learning environment.

The Wesleyan baseball coaching staff teach the concept of awareness as the master skill in order to perform well in all these elements. Awareness is defined as paying attention to what is happening in the present moment. When a player is truly aware in the moment, then he plays without doubt or fear and lets his body do what it's trained to do. In order to incorporate awareness into their games, the emphasis is on the players' learning to focus, to feel what their bodies are doing, to create a plan, and to work hard. With these four pillars – Focus, Feel, Plan, and Hard Work – players can bring their success in practice into the game.

These are all taught by innovative drills, slow-motion video analysis, experimentation, and self-coaching. The result is players learn the mark of greatness – making minute adjustments at high-speed in the heat of competition. In turn, they are able to have consistent success, therefore trusting themselves, and therefore always playing with confidence.

Mark Woodworth, a 1994 graduate of Wesleyan University, enters his 22nd season as Wesleyan's head baseball coach and member of the faculty in 2023. He is part of a unique tradition as he is only the third coach at the school in the last 83 years. An adjunct professor of physical education, he has been named NESCAC Coach of the year four times and led Wesleyan baseball to NESCAC titles in 2014 and 2015.

In 2022, his teams won the Little Three for the fifth time in the last nine seasons. In 2015, he was named the NESCAC Coach of the Year for the third consecutive season for Wesleyan winning back-to-back NESCAC championships and reaching the NCAA regional tournament. The Cardinals recorded 30 wins for the second-straight year, had the best ERA and fielding percentages in school history, and led the nation in WHIP. In 2016, the Cardinals won their fourth-straight Little Three title and finished tops in the NESCAC West for the fourth-straight time.

Wesleyan has appeared in the NESCAC Final Four tournament nine times, including seven of the last 12 seasons. During that time, Woodworth has sent seven players on to professional baseball, including three from the 2015 team.

Woodworth brings a wealth of experience accrued over 30 years of baseball coaching, including 28 at the college level. Before his stint as head coach at Wesleyan, he served as an assistant coach at Amherst College, as well as the head baseball coach at Wentworth Institute of Technology. From 1996-97, he was an assistant coach at Wesleyan, while earning his Master of Arts in Liberal Studies degree.

In 1995, he coached four future major leaguers as an assistant for the Falmouth Commodores in the Cape Cod League, after playing in the Cape League for the Wareham Gatemen in 1993. He helped run the annual tryout for the Cape League for 20 years, and has placed eight Wesleyan players in the Cape. Additionally, eight of his former players now work in front offices of Major League baseball teams.

At Wesleyan, Woodworth also teaches and serves as the Director of Intramurals, as well as assists the football team in various capacities. He is also the New England coordinator for the Div. III national coaches poll.

As a player at Wesleyan, Woodworth was a four-year starter at shortstop, graduating as the all-time Wesleyan leader in games played, and sixth in career hits. He was captain of the 1994 Wesleyan team which broke school records en route to winning the NCAA New England title, before playing in the NCAA Division III World Series. The Cardinals finished their run with a berth in the national championship game, finishing runner-up, while posting a previously best-ever 30-8 record. In November 2009, the 1994 team was inducted into the Wesleyan Athletics Hall of Fame.

Woodworth is a native of Norwell, Mass. and a 1990 graduate of Norwell High School. He was a three-sport captain, earning All-South Shore League honors in baseball, soccer and basketball, and was named the South Shore League Small Athlete-of-the-Year in 1990 by WATD-FM. He also participated in numerous summer baseball leagues including American Legion, the Cranberry League, and the Boston Park League.

Woodworth's purpose as a coach is to teach the lifetime skills of focus and being in the moment through the medium of baseball, which in turn gives baseball great value. An emphasis is placed on enjoying the game, learning to improve technique, creating and implementing a plan, and working hard with inspiring teammates. The result for players who love the game is playing relaxed, confident and aggressive baseball while competing under pressure.

As a supplement to his baseball teachings, Woodworth has combined his two previous books, The Rhythm of Baseball, and The Code of the Game into the Wesleyan Baseball Playbook, about technique, feel and the mental game.

He is married to Robin (McLellan) Woodworth, a 1997 graduate of Wesleyan University and captain of the women's ice hockey team. They have a 16-year-old daughter, Lily Grace Woodworth, and a 14-year-old son, Dylan Samuel Stiles Woodworth.

Bob Wojick • Third Base Coach/Defensive Coordinator

Bob Wojick enters his 11th season as an instrumental member of the Wesleyan coaching staff in 2023. In his 46 years of coaching college baseball, his teams have won 1,399 games with only one season with a non-winning record.

Prior to joining the Cardinals, he served 36 years as an assistant coach at Eastern Connecticut State University, including serving as associate head coach from 1996 to 2012.

His experience at all facets of the game was a prime reason his teams won the Div. III National Championship four times, appeared in the College World Series 12 times, and played in a regional 31 times.

In 2005, he was named the National Assistant Coach-of-the-Year by the American Baseball Coaches Association and Baseball America magazine. He is the only non-Division I coach to receive the award. In 2009, he was also named the New England Assistant Coach-of-the-Year by the New England Intercollegiate Baseball Association.

In 2003, he helped coach as Eastern Conn. represented USA in the World Port Tournament in Rotterdam, Netherlands. His team came in fourth place against teams from Cuba, Chinese Taipei and South Africa.

He was one of the founders of the Thread City Tides in Willimantic, Conn. during the inaugural season of the New England Collegiate Baseball League, serving during the entire 10 years of the franchise. He also started and played for the Superior Ford summer league baseball team from 1970-1986, which played in the Norwich, New London, Willimantic and Hartford Twilight Leagues.

A three-year letterwinner as an outfielder at Eastern Conn., he served as captain in 1971 before joining the coaching staff the following year. He took five years off to spend more time with his family, before returning in 1995. He was inducted into the Eastern Conn. Hall-of-Fame in 1992.

A 1971 graduate of Eastern Conn. St. with a B.A. in Applied Social Relations, he also received his M.A. in Industrial Education from Central Connecticut State University. He retired after 35 years teaching in the Hartford Public Schools system. He and his wife Sandy have two children, Kimberlee and Brian.

Nick Greenwood • Pitching Coach

Nick Greenwood has served as the Wesleyan Baseball pitching coach since 2020, following a nine-year professional career that included pitching in the major leagues for the St. Louis Cardinals.

He made his major league debut vs. the Mets on June 16, 2014, earning the win and striking out David Wright. He retired the first 10 batters he faced against the Phillies, threw four scoreless innings in relief vs. the Dodgers, and threw three scoreless innings in his first career start against the Diamondbacks. He had success against some of the sport's elite hitters, including striking out Christian Yelich, Manny Machado, Evan Longoria, and Chase Utley, among others.

Nick was drafted in the 14th round in the 2009 draft by the San Diego Padres and in 2010, was involved in a three-way-trade along with future Cy Young winner Corey Kluber. In the minors, he was named a Northwest League All-Star, Double-A All-Star, and in 2015, led the Triple-A Pacific Coast League in wins with 13. For his pro career, he pitched in 314 games over 870.1 innings, while striking out 513 and only walking 195.

Nick had a successful career pitching for the University of Rhode Island, including going 7-3 with a 3.61 ERA in 92.1 innings as a junior. He was awarded the ABCA Rawlings Gold Glove award for the top fielding pitcher in the nation. As a sophomore, he had a 3.73 ERA and led the Atlantic-10 with 95 strikeouts in 92 innings.

A native of Cromwell, Conn., Nick attended Xavier High where he went 16-6 and was team MVP as a junior. He was named All-State and All-New England in soccer, as well as played on the basketball team. In American Legion baseball, he struck out 18 in a game for the Rocky Hill-Cromwell-Portland Legion team.

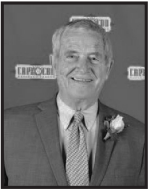

Giulio Gallarotti • Faculty Advisor

Giulio enters his 14th season in 2023 as a Faculty Advisor to the Wesleyan baseball team. His presence with the team on its annual spring trip to Arizona is a key component of the integration of academics and athletics at the Wesleyan. He is a Professor of Government and a Tutor in the College of Social Studies. He has been a visiting professor at the University of Rome, and has published numerous books and articles.

Giulio received his B.A. from Hunter College, and his PhD from Columbia University. A standout intercollegiate tennis player, he played tournament tennis in the northeastern United States.

Tom Yankus • Special Advisor to the Program

Tom enters his 13th season as a member of the Wesleyan baseball program, following an amazing 52 years coaching baseball at Choate Rosemary Hall, one of the best private high schools in the country.

An alum of Choate, Tom attended Williams College, graduating in 1956 as President of his class. He has since been named to the Williams College All-Time Baseball Team. After graduation, he played professional baseball in the New York Yankees system in leagues from Montana to Washington to North Carolina. He also pitched in the prestigious Cape Cod League, and served as manager of the Orleans Cardinals for nine seasons, coaching, among others, Todd Helton, Nomar Garciaparra and Frank Thomas. The Orleans Cardinals' annual Thomas Yankus Pitching Award is named after him. In November, 2017, he was inducted into the Cape Cod League Hall of Fame.

A long-time English teacher at Choate, he was inducted into the Choate Athletics Hall of Fame in 1996 and in 2014, the baseball field was named after him. He and his wife Julie Oxborough have two daughters, Annie and Alex.

Tom Yankus • Special Advisor to the Program

Tom continues with Wesleyan Baseball as a Special Advisor to the program. An outstanding former player for the Cardinals, he also was a long-time coach of West Hartford American Legion baseball.

Tom was inducted into the Wesleyan Baseball Wall of Fame in 2017 for an outstanding career as a four-year starter for the Cardinals. A second-baseman, Tom led the team in hitting his senior year with a .352 average, and his Cardinal teams won both the Little Three and ECAC titles his junior year. As a senior, he won the MacNaughten Award for excellence in baseball. Both his sons played baseball at Wesleyan, with Tommy Jr. '12 hitting a home run in his first career at-bat, and Nick '17 being named All-NESCAC as a stand-out pitcher and catcher for the Cardinals.

Tom received his Ph.D. in Economics from Brown, and is a Professor of Economics at the University of Connecticut.

Distinction in Baseball Class

John Vrooman '65 John was a standout centerfielder and the lead-off hitter on three Little Three champions teams including a standout 14-2 team in 1964. He hit .375 and .348 in his sophomore and junior seasons. He founded the Coastal Carolina baseball program, serving as its head coach for 13 seasons, from 1974-77 and from 1987-1995. His teams won six-straight Big South Conference regular season titles, and he brought Coastal to its first NCAA tournament in 1991. He was named conference Coach-of-the-Year three times.

Paul Gallo '89 Paul pitched in 41 games for the Cardinals over four years, starting 26, and throwing 192 innings. He had 15 career wins on the mound, including going 7-3 as a senior with a 2.83 ERA and 66 strikeouts in 86 innings. His teams won two Little Three titles and participated in three ECAC tournaments. He has dedicated his life after Wesleyan to coaching and mentoring baseball players on many levels, including serving as the head coach at Malibu High School, and coaching five major leaguers in his current role at national power Harvard-Westlake School.

Rob Coughlin '07 Rob was a four-year starting outfielder for the Cardinals, and had the unique honor of being voted Head Captain by his classmates as a senior. Rob had 117 career hits for the Cardinals, including 44 as a sophomore. He received the Norm Daniels Award for loyalty and devotion to Wesleyan Baseball in 2007. Rob is in his 12th year working in various roles for the Cincinnati Reds and is currently the Director of Pro Scouting.

Fred Stone '59 – ABCA All-American 1959 A third baseman, Fred hit .414 his senior year. In three seasons, he had a .342 career average. In 1959, the Cardinals went 11-2-1 and won Little Three titles in both his junior and senior years.

Jeff Hopkins '66 – MLB Draft-N.Y. Yankees 1966 A standout pitcher and left-fielder, he is the only player ever drafted by a Major League Baseball organization in Wesleyan's history. Jeff hit .366 his senior year and the Cardinals won Little Three titles in all three of his seasons.

Peter Hicks '72 – Academic All-American 1972 Peter had a standout senior year at third base, and combined with his outstanding academic work, earned Academic All-America honors. In 1972, he hit .377 with only one strikeout in 61 at-bats and helped the Cardinals to a 10-5 record.

Rick Burpee '75 – ABCA All-American 1975 Rick was a two-time winner of Wesleyan's MacNaughten Award. His junior year, he led all of college baseball with 1.5 RBI's per game and the Cardinals won the ECAC championship.

Mark Anderson '81 – ABCA All-American 1980 A shortstop, Mark was named All-America as a junior after hitting .375 with eight doubles and three home runs. He had a career .333 batting average and led the Cardinals to two ECAC tournament appearances and a Little Three title.

Craig Brewer '95 – ABCA All-American 1994 Craig went 12-0 with a 2.09 ERA and won two games in the Division III College World Series his junior year. He finished his career with a 29-4 record and a 2.94 ERA. His Cardinal teams won four straight Little Three titles.

Pete Kostacopoulos – Coach 1974-2001 New England Coach of the Year in 1983 and 1994, he led Wesleyan to 11 Little Three titles, as well as the Division III NCAA World Series championship game in 1994.

2015 Class

Dave Darling '59 A standout first baseman on great teams that won Little Three titles his junior and senior years and went 24-4-1 over those two seasons.

Peter Sipples '64 Peter helped lead his teams to two Little Three titles, hitting .375 as a sophomore, .333 as a senior, and only struck out once in 66 at-bats.

Dave Durian '75 A left-handed pitcher, Dave had an amazing 1.93 career ERA, winning 16 games, and getting the save in the ECAC championship game.

Jim Lukowski '89 A four-year starter at third and a four-year starting pitcher, Jim also was a four-year starting quarterback. He graduated with Wesleyan's career batting average record (.383), and he recorded 21 wins on the mound with a 3.21 ERA.

Mark Consorte '92 Mark was named first-team All-New England and is Wesleyan's all-time home run king with 22 career homers. He is third all-time in career batting average (.380) and hit .410 with 5 HR's in his senior year as Wesleyan won the ECAC title.

Bill Robinson '03 Bill graduated as Wesleyan's career hits leader with 168, achieving the record in his final at-bat with a double off the fence. He had a .352 career batting average with 45 doubles and 16 home runs.

Norm Daniels - Coach 1941-1973 Norm was a three-sport athlete at Michigan (Football, Basketball, Baseball), and starting at Wesleyan in 1934, was the football coach for 19 years, and the baseball coach for 33 seasons. His teams won 10 Little Three titles, and he was also a vanguard in civil rights before it was fashionable to do so, refusing to play an opponent when they balked at the race of one of Wesleyan's players.

2016 Class

Tom Young '59 Tom was captain and catcher for a great Class of 1959 team that went 24-4-1 his last two years and won two Little Three titles.

Phil Rockwell '65 Phil was an ace left-handed pitcher and co-captain for the Cardinals and was part of two Little Three champion teams including a 14-2 squad in 1964. He went 8-1 in his career with a 3.03 ERA, including 5-1 with a 2.35 ERA as a senior.

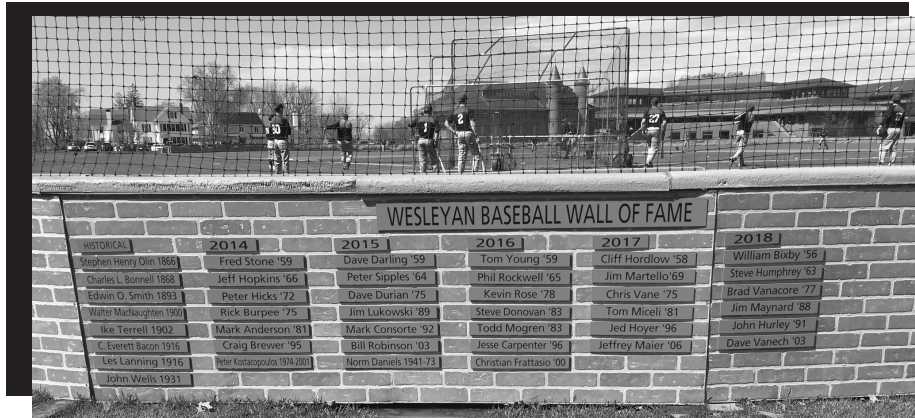

Kevin Rose '78 Kevin had a storied career at the plate for Wesleyan, culminating in being named First-Team All-New England as a senior. He had a .352 career batting average and his .442 average as a sophomore is the second-best season ever. He had seven career home runs and six triples in his senior year.

Steve Donovan '83 Steve graduated as Wesleyan's all-time hit leader; he had a .346 career batting average with 152 hits, 32 doubles, eight triples and 10 home runs. His senior year, he hit .393 with five home runs.

Todd Mogren '83 Todd was named First-Team All-New England as a senior, and still holds two Wesleyan records - for appearances in a season (20) and career innings (289.1). In his senior year, he went 11-1 with a 2.57 ERA in 84 innings.

Jesse Carpenter '96 Jesse has the highest single-season batting average in Wesleyan history at .446, and was named First-Team All-New England in 1995. A third baseman, his career batting average of .379 is third all-time in school history, and he finished with 30 doubles, four triples, and seven home runs.

Christian Frattasio '00 Christian was a four-year starter for the Cardinals and had a sparkling .354 career batting average, and graduated fourth all-time in career hits with 146. He had 38 career doubles, as well as six triples and six home runs. He was named First-Team All-NESCAC as a senior.

Cliff Hordlow '58 Cliff went 7-and-0 with a 1.39 ERA in his senior, beating, both Amherst and Williams twice, as well as UConn and Yale. The Cardinals won the Little Three title his senior year and he joins his classmates from the Class of 1959, Tom Young, Dave Darling and Fred Stone, in the Wall of Fame.

Jim Martello '69 Jim had a career 2.14 ERA with 193 strikeouts in 223 innings. He saved his best for Amherst and Williams though, going an amazing 8-1 over three years with a 0.72 ERA with 71 strikeouts in 88 innings. The highlight was a complete-game 16 shutout innings, in a 1-0 Wesleyan victory.

Chris Vane '75 A four-year starting centerfielder, Chris was the rare player who batted third in the lineup as a freshman. An on-base machine, he had a career .442 on-base-percentage and incredibly only struck out 26 times in 258 at-bats. His junior year, he hit .346 with 24 walks and only four strikeouts.

Tom Miceli '81 Tom was an outstanding hitter and four-year starter for the Cardinals, including leading the team in hitting his senior year with a .352 average. Tom's Cardinal teams won both the Little Three and ECAC titles his junior year. His sons Tommy Jr. '12 and Nick '17 also played for Wesleyan.

Jed Hoyer '96 Jed had a career .364 batting average, including batting .424 his junior year at shortstop. As a pitcher, he had a career 2.46 ERA, a record of 7-1, and 11 career saves, including seven in his senior year. His Cardinal teams won four-straight Little Three titles, and he also played in the Cape Cod League.

Jeffrey Maier '06 A four-year starter, Jeff graduated as Wesleyan's all-time leader in hits with 189. He batted over .400 twice, including a standout sophomore year where he hit .403 with five home runs, his senior year where he hit .409 with an exceptional .472 on-base-percentage.

William Bixby '56 Bill was the definitive ace on the mound for three years for the Cardinals, leading them to two Little Three titles. He stood out against Amherst and Williams, beating them a combined seven times. As a sophomore, he had a 0.87 ERA with a 6-3 record in 93 innings with seven complete games.

Steve Humphrey '63 A star in both football and baseball, he had a career 3.02 ERA on the mound, including a fantastic senior season, as he was 10th in the nation in all divisions with a 1.69 ERA over 41 innings. He helped lead a dominant Cardinal team in 1963 that had an 11-3 record and won the Little Three title.

Brad Vanacore '77 Brad was the starting quarterback for three seasons. In baseball, he had a .348 career batting average, including hitting .418 as a junior. He also had a 3.33 career ERA in 43 innings pitched. A versatile athlete, he was primarily a catcher, he started games at shortstop, catcher, pitcher and outfield.

Jim Maynard '88 – ABCA All-American 1988 On the short-list of one of the best hitters in Wesleyan history, Jim had a career .355 batting average, graduating as Wesleyan's career hit leader. He hit .394 as a junior, and .403 with seven home runs as a senior. For his outstanding senior season in 1988, he was named a third-team All-American, as well as first-team All-New England. His teams won two Little Three titles.

John Hurley '91 John was a workhorse and dominant pitcher for Wesleyan, throwing more than 280 innings in 52 games, with 20 complete games. He recorded 23 wins, second-best all-time in Wesleyan history. John pitched in the Cape Cod League and won the Little Three title as a senior.

Dave Vanech '03 A four-year starting left-handed pitcher, Dave also started 88 games at first base. He threw 165 innings, with seven complete games, and had a .344 career batting average. As a senior, he helped lead the Cardinals to the Little Three title, going 3-1 with a 3.44 ERA, while also hitting .384.

Roy Fazendeiro '65 Roy was a standout infielder for the Cardinals, starting three seasons at both shortstop and third base. He only made five errors in 45 career games, helping the Cardinals to three Little Three championships.

Pat Kiley '79 Pat was a durable ace of the Wesleyan pitching staff for four years, facing off against the very best pitchers and opponents in New England. He was named the co-winner of the 1979 MacNaughten Award for excellence in baseball.

Joe Grasso '86 Joe was an elite catcher and top pitcher for the Cardinals, helping lead his teams to two Little Three titles and two ECAC tournaments. Joe had a career 3.61 ERA, as well as a career .319 batting average with nine home runs. He was the winner of the 1986 MacNaughten Award.

Will Brandenburg '95 Will is Wesleyan's career batting average leader with a .388 average. He stole 64 career bases and graduated as sixth in all-time hits at Wesleyan with 124. He was on four Little Three championship teams and was instrumental as the Cardinals went to the Div. III World Series in 1994.

Drew Dominguez '09 Drew was four-year starter at shortstop and was named All-NESCAC twice, graduating second in career hits with 174. He played three years in the Boston Red Sox system, making it to Double-A. He was both a baseball and football captain and won the 2009 MacNaughten Award.

Bill Trapp '65 Bill was an outstanding hitter on very successful teams. He had a career .358 batting average, including an even .400 average his senior season. Primarily an outfielder, he was part of two Little Three champion squads, including his junior year when Wesleyan was a dominant 14-2 on the season.

Alan Poon '76 Alan was a deeply respected hitter who hit above .300 three times, and finished his career with a .328 average. He hit .342 his senior season, but it was his .392 average his sophomore year that helped Wesleyan win the ECAC championship and the Little Three title.

Bob Barringer '84 A career .328 hitter, Bob hit 14 home runs, 14 doubles, seven triples and stole 26 bases. A captain for the baseball team, he also stood out as a wide receiver and captain for the football team. He graduated with eight school records between the two sports.

Derek Butts '94 Derek was a four-year starting catcher on teams that won four-straight Little Three championships, an ECAC championship, a New England title, and an appearance in the national championship game at the College World Series. An outstanding defensive catcher, he threw out 40% of runners.

Will James '02 Will had a fantastic career on the mound for the Cardinals as a leading pitcher all four seasons, including on two Little Three championship teams. He appeared in 50 games on the mound over his career, starting 29 of them. He had a stellar junior season where he was named All-NESCAC.

The Legacy of Wesleyan Baseball

159 years of Wesleyan Baseball. Just five months after the the Civil War ended, the Cardinals faced-off against Yale in New Haven. The Cardinals have been playing on Andrus Field since then, and here we are in 2023 and still going. This legacy is important because it is a quiet foundation of everything else. Being connected to that first 1865 team is meaningful because it symbolizes the connections and bonds that are being made in the present between teammates, coaches, professors and classmates, as well as connections to help with future opportunities. And the skills forged on the field are intricately tied to this idea of being connected to something bigger than yourself.

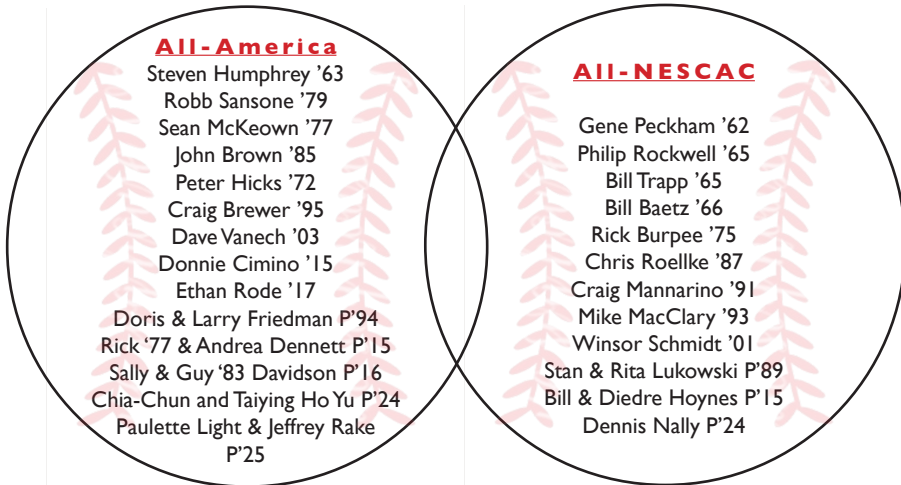

I believe that we are celebrating this legacy each day on Andrus Field; each practice and game; each journey on the spring trip; with the Wall of Fame tradition; and with the continuous support that comes from the Wesleyan Baseball family. I see daily the direct impact this support has on the legacy of the program: It's there when an assistant coach gives a piece of advice that transforms a player's game; When we get to step on the bright grass for the first time in Arizona; When we show up at an opponent's field proudly wearing the Wesleyan name; And in the post-game huddle after winning the Little Three.

Thank you to everyone for being an integral part of making this happen.

Wesleyan Beats Yale, 6-3, in 150th Anniversary Game

The Wesleyan baseball team beat Yale University, 6-3, on Saturday night, Sept. 28, 2016, in a special, commemorative game honoring the 150th anniversary of both programs. In front of 1,000 people and in their throwback uniforms under the lights of historic Yale Field, the Cardinals used clutch defense, and some timely hitting in the 10th inning to bring home the victory.

More than 50 Wesleyan baseball alumni attended the game at Yale, 150 years after both teams initially squared off on Sept. 30, 1865 in a 39-13 Yale win.

Wesleyan coach Mark Woodworth and Yale coach John Stuper both made opening comments in a ceremony which preceded the contest, followed by remarks by two special guests: Wesleyan's Jim Dresser '63 and Yale's Fay Vincent '63. Vincent, a graduate of Yale Law School, served as the Commissioner of Major League Baseball from 1989 to 1992. Dresser, for whom Wesleyan's baseball field is named, is a former chairman of Wesleyan Board of Trustees. Dresser and Yale President Peter Salovey threw out the ceremonial first pitches.

THE 1994 COLLEGE WORLD SERIES TEAM

One of Wesleyan baseball's proudest achievements was its runner-up appearance in the 1994 NCAA Division III World Series and school-best final national ranking of No. 2 in the nation. The team was inducted into the Wesleyan Athletics Hall of Fame in November of 2009.

With a 24-6 regular season, which included the Cardinals' fourth of six straight Little Three titles and the top rank in New England, Wesleyan hosted the New England Regionals at Palmer Field in Middletown. Led by New England Coach of the Year Peter Kostacopoulos and All-American hurler Craig Brewer '95, the Cardinals swept through UMass Dartmouth and powerful Southern Maine twice in earning its World Series berth.

In the World Series in Battle Creek, Mich., the winning continued. In topping the College of Wooster (Ohio) and Carthage (Wisc.), the Cardinals used a familiar formula for success: great pitching, error-free defense and clutch hitting. After Wesleyan fell short against Wisconsin-Oshkosh in the winner's bracket final, Brewer collected his second World Series victory in beating UC-San Diego, earning Wesleyan another shot at Oshkosh. In Wesleyan's final ballgame of an amazing season, Oshkosh freshman Jarrod Washburn (and future major league all-star) spread out nine hits in leading his squad to a 6-2 win that closed out the national title. For the Cardinals, they posted a 30-8 record and a season to remember.

A Spring Trip Tradition

A Wesleyan baseball tradition is the team's annual spring trip in March. Thanks to a two-week break from school, the Cardinals get the opportunity to play 15 games over 16 days without concern for missing any classes or academic work.

Wesleyan baseball was an innovator in making treks to warmer climates, starting with Jack Blott and Norm Daniels as the first northern coaches to take their teams on spring-break trips. In 1939, the Cardinals took their first trip to Washington, D.C. and Richmond, Va. Soon after, Wesleyan started going to the Miami, Fla. area, a tradition that continued until 2003.

The present-day trip features a focus on going out west. Since 2004, the Cardinals have gone to California and Arizona, with the current squad spending most of its time in Arizona, including playing many games on the spring training fields of Major League teams.

Key elements of the trip include the shaping of the team on both the physical and mental level, in order to be prepared for conference play. The team not only gets tested in games against some of the best Division III teams in the nation, but meshes together through diligent practice and focus on the mind-set essential for success in baseball.

There are many highlights of the trip every year in addition to the thrill of competition. Over the years, Wesleyan baseball has had alumni games on its spring trip, been hosted by numerous families, and experienced the region, including attending spring training and college baseball games, as well as having team functions and trips to the ocean and surrounding areas.

The Wesleyan baseball spring trip has been a special tradition for over 80 seasons. The team has traveled to Arizona, California, and Florida over recent years.

Kosty Award

Presented annually to an alumni of Wesleyan baseball who has shown a continued commitment and passion for continuing the excellence of the Wesleyan baseball program. Named in honor of coach Peter "Kosty" Kostacopoulos who coached Wesleyan baseball from 1973 to 2001.

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

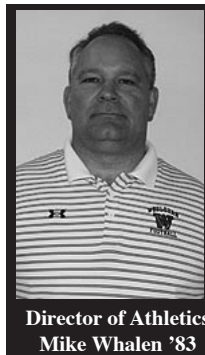

Wesleyan is a coeducational, private university of the liberal arts and sciences. Serving 2,900 undergraduates and 200 full-time graduate students, Wesleyan is located in Middletown, Conn., alongside the Connecticut River midway between Hartford and New Haven.

Wesleyan offers a challenging academic environment that promotes independent thought and action. The intellectual atmosphere encourages students to think critically, to express their thoughts clearly, and to value the ideas and opinions of others.

Wesleyan offers majors in 44 fields, and a student-faculty ratio of 9:1. Students hail from all 50 states and more than 45 foreign countries.

Wesleyan's approach to education is at once highly individualistic and academically rigorous. The University does not require that freshmen take certain prescribed courses. Rather, students develop their own unique programs of study, programs that reflect each student's own interests and are created with the help and encouragement of Wesleyan faculty.

Wesleyan has described a set of guiding principles that define its approach to liberal education. These principles are summed up in ten essential capabilities that the faculty believe every undergraduate should possess when he or she graduates from Wesleyan. The University also maintains a set of general education expectations in the arts and humanities, the social sciences, and the natural sciences.

TEN ESSENTIAL CAPABILITIES

Writing

The ability to write coherently and effectively. This skill implies the ability to reflect on the writing process and to choose a style, tone, and method of argumentation appropriate to the intended audience.

Speaking

The ability to speak clearly and effectively. This skill involves the ability to articulate and advocate for ideas, to listen, to express in words the nature and import of artistic works, and to participate effectively in public forums, choosing the level of discourse appropriate to the occasion.

Interpretation

The ability to understand, evaluate, and contextualize meaningful forms, including written texts, objects, practices, performances, and sites. This includes (but is not limited to) qualitative responses to subjects, whether in language or in a non-verbal artistic or scientific medium.

Quantitative Reasoning

The ability to understand and use numerical ideas and methods to describe and analyze quantifiable properties of the world. Quantitative reasoning involves skills such as making reliable measurements, using statistical reasoning, modeling empirical data, formulating mathematical descriptions and theories, and using mathematical techniques to explain data and predict outcomes.

Logical Reasoning

The ability to make, recognize, and assess logical arguments. This skill involves extracting or extending knowledge on the basis of existing knowledge through deductive inference and inductive reasoning.

Designing, Creating, and Realizing

The ability to design, create, and build. This skill might be demonstrated through scientific experimentation to realize a research endeavor, a theater or dance production, or creation of works such as a painting, a film, or a musical composition.

Ethical Reasoning

The ability to reflect on moral issues in the abstract and in historical narratives within particular traditions. Ethical reasoning is the ability to identify, assess, and develop ethical arguments from a variety of ethical positions.

Intercultural Literacy

The ability to understand diverse cultural formations in relation to their wider historical and social contexts and environments. Intercultural literacy also implies the ability to understand and respect another point of view. Study of a language not one's own, contemporary or classical, is central to this skill. The study of a language embedded in a different cultural context, whether in North America or abroad, may also contribute to this ability.

Information Literacy

The ability to locate, evaluate, and effectively use various sources of information for a specific purpose. Information literacy implies the ability to judge the relevance and reliability of information sources as well as to present a line of investigation in an appropriate format.

Effective Citizenship

The ability to analyze and develop informed opinions on the political and social life of one's local community, one's country, and the global community, and to engage in constructive action if appropriate. As with Intercultural Literacy, study abroad or in a different cultural context within North America may contribute to a firm grasp of this ability.

ATHLETICS AT WESLEYAN

Athletics at Wesleyan are recognized as a contributing factor in the overall education of the student. The presentation of a diversified program is in harmony with an academic philosophy designed to offer each student a variety of options for a meaningful liberal arts education.

Wesleyan University has a long and rich athletic tradition dating back to the Agalian Baseball Club formed in 1865. In June 1974, Wesleyan graduated its first class of women since 1912, and the athletic program has grown, now featuring 29 varsity sports.

Wesleyan has had numerous athletes named to the CoSida Academic All-America team since its inception in 1972, and has sent teams to the NCAA tournament in 11 team sports. Highlights include a second-place finish in the 1994 NCAA Division III World Series by the baseball team, the 2018 National Championship by the men's lacrosse team, and the 2019 National Championship by the women's tennis team. Individual athletes in swimming, track, tennis and wrestling have also had national success, including national championships to their credit. Five Wesleyan women have won Division III national championships including Eudice Chong '18 who won four straight years in women's tennis.

Wesleyan athletes have also made their mark outside of intercollegiate competition, most notably Amby Burfoot '68, who won the Boston Marathon as a senior at Wesleyan, and Bill Belichick '75, head coach of the New England Patriots, who has won six Super Bowl titles as a head coach. Eric Mangini '94, his former assistant with the Patriots, was the head coach of the New York Jets and the Cleveland Browns. Former baseball player Jed Hoyer '96 is currently the President of the Chicago Cubs and has won three World Series as an executive. Kathy Keeler '78 helped the United States win a gold medal in rowing at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles as part of the women's open eight. In addition, Bill Rodgers '70 won numerous Boston and New York Marathons, Jeff Wilner '94 played in the NFL for the Green Bay Packers and New England Patriots, and Amos Magee '93 played MLS soccer.

THE NESCAC

Founded in 1971, the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESAC), a group of eleven highly selective liberal arts colleges and universities, share a similar philosophy for intercollegiate athletics. The conference was created out of a concern for the direction of intercollegiate athletic programs, and remains committed to maintaining athletics as an integral part of a liberal education.

NESAC student-athletes are not only prominent for their academic accomplishments, but have been incredibly successful on the field. NESAC teams have won 135 national team championships while 265 women and 138 men have won individual national titles.

Members of the NESAC are Amherst, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Connecticut, Hamilton, Middlebury, Trinity and Williams College, and Tufts and Wesleyan University.

THE LITTLE THREE

The fierce Little Three rivalry between Wesleyan, Williams and Amherst is believed to be America's oldest, continuous intercollegiate athletic conference without a membership change. Little Three championships are contested in 26 sports throughout the academic year.

The three schools first formally banded together in 1899 as the Triangular League. In 1905, the Williams Athletic Council voted to consider the football games with Amherst and Wesleyan as championship contests. When Wesleyan and Amherst re-established competition in 1910, the present rivalry was underway. Since then, it has continued virtually unbroken and is considered a focal point of the season for the three teams.

“Notice how the library faces the gym across Andrus Field like the mind over against the body, or how the observatory on Foss Hill, where astronomers view the stars, is balanced by North and South colleges, where deans and presidents observe more mundane phenomena like the behavior of students or the stock market.”
