ABOUT COLORADO COLLEGE

President Jill Tiefenthaler

Jill Tiefenthaler became Colorado College's 13th president on July 1, 2011.

During her first two years, President Tiefenthaler began the extensive process that led to the strategic plan titled "The Colorado College Plan: Building on the Block." Over the course of her first 12 months, which she referred to as "The Year of Listening," she met with students, faculty, staff, and community members, and heard from hundreds of alumni and parents nationwide about their aspirations for the college. In year two, President Tiefenthaler worked with the campus and Board of Trustees to finalize a strategic plan that focuses primarily on providing additional support to realize the potential of the college's pioneering Block Plan, strengthening the college's profile as a distinctive place of learning, and extending the reach of the college.

Her third and fourth years at Colorado College revolved around implementing the initiatives of the strategic plan. Tiefenthaler worked with the college's community to launch programming for a new center for immersive learning and engaged teaching; to envision an innovation space that will support students as they put the liberal arts into action; to design a new library that will serve as the campus' academic hub; and to revamp Half Block and summer programs focused on helping students develop valuable skills and professional experiences prior to graduation. Additionally, she has moved to diversify the increasingly selective student body, faculty, and staff; to bring distinguished scholars, artists and innovators as visitors to campus; and to develop a Campus Master Plan. President Tiefenthaler's fundraising for these initiatives has led to historic accomplishments. The four years under her leadership have been the most successful fundraising stretch in CC's history, including $23M in new gifts to the endowment and record years in total and annual giving.

Tiefenthaler is a leading scholar in the field of the economics of higher education, and is also regularly called on to speak about the value of the liberal arts. Her essay on the economic challenges for liberal arts colleges appears in "Remaking College: Innovation and the Liberal Arts" (Johns Hopkins University Press, October 2013), and she has offered her expertise on this issue in numerous presentations across the country. Tiefenthaler's talks on the importance of the liberal arts includes her speech, "Innovation and Collaboration: A Liberal Arts Education as a Catalyst for New Ideas," which she has delivered to several universities throughout China. As professor of economics at the college, she regularly teaches a class in the department of economics.

After receiving her Ph.D. in economics from Duke University, she joined the faculty of Colgate University in 1991, also serving as department chair, associate dean of the faculty, and senior adviser to the president. Before becoming president of Colorado College, she served as provost and professor of economics at Wake Forest University, where she led the implementation of the university's strategic plan and key initiatives, including diversity in admission, establishing new models for enhanced interdisciplinary research and collaboration, and integrating the university's undergraduate and graduate business schools.

President Tiefenthaler is originally from Iowa, where she grew up on a farm and worked for her family's popcorn business before attending Saint Mary's College in South Bend, Indiana. She is married to Kevin Rask, a research professor in economics at Colorado College. They have two teenaged children, Olivia and Owen.

ABOUT COLORADO COLLEGE

On paper, Colorado College is a classic liberal arts school with a quirky academic schedule. You can feel the difference the moment you arrive. The culturally diverse, naturally resplendent campus practically hums with energy... and it comes from the students.

Nestled on 90 acres at the intersection of nature's call and urban sprawl, just north of downtown Colorado Springs near the base of the 14,115-foot Pikes Peak, CC is within three hours of 10 ski resorts and less than a day's drive from seven national parks. It's the only college of its kind in the Rocky Mountain region and one of only a handful of its type located in a metropolitan area.

Adopted in 1970, Colorado College's "Block Plan" is a uniquely intensive academic schedule that allows students to plunge into a different subject every three and a half weeks rather than balancing several throughout a semester. Students take one course at a time and professors teach one, with each block covering the same amount of material as a semester system. There are four blocks per semester, eight per year, plus two optional half blocks.

The result? You can study the film industry on location in Hollywood, find Jupiter during evening labs in Barnes observatory, or traverse the natural wonders of the Southwest as a field archaeologist. Classes are small, hands-on and highly focused, never in a jam-packed lecture hall.

A full spectrum of the performing arts, special interest clubs and organizations, student publications and intramural and intercollegiate athletics compliments 42 majors and 33 minors in rounding out the rigorous academic program at CC. The college encourages freedom of expression through an independent student press, as well as student and faculty forums on current issues and programs representing widely ranging viewpoints, often presented by distinguished visitors.

More About the Block Plan

The hands-on spirit of the Block Plan encourages interaction between students and their surroundings. Field zoology students peer through binoculars for elk in Rocky Mountain National Park. Sociology classes walk downtown to the courthouse for social justice observation.

With an enrollment of barely 2,000 and a nine-to-one ratio with faculty, our students get to know accomplished instructors who teach first and foremost – all in seminar-style classes. They may choose to work on a student/faculty collaborative research project or create their own independent study, while learning to venture their own opinions and begin the process of shaping their own direction and destiny.

Since 1874, CC students have bustled to and from class in the foreground of the Rocky Mountain foothills.

ABOUT COLORADO COLLEGE

The student body typically is composed of men and women from all 50 states and more than two dozen foreign countries. A large majority hails from states other than Colorado. A significant percent are either American ethnic minority or international students, and most live on campus. All but a very small percent participate in community service, play intramural sports or study abroad at some point during their collegiate career.

Speaking of Athletics

Colorado College has a long and proud tradition of intercollegiate athletics and today offers competition in eight varsity sports for men and nine for women. That includes NCAA Division I soccer for women in addition to ice hockey for men. Otherwise, the Tigers compete at the Division III level.

While the hockey team plays and practices at The Broadmoor World Arena, located six miles from campus, all other intercollegiate, intramural and recreational athletics programs are centered in an easily accessible area consisting of the spectacular El Pomar Sports Center, Washburn and Stewart Fields, and Honnen Ice Rink.

The Kellogg Climbing Wall (right) also underwent major renovations. Now part of the Adam F. Press Fitness Center (below), it is open to the entire campus community.

Among the many dazzling features at the renovated El Pomar Sports Center is the Ingersoll Shooting Room, where CC players can tune their skills away from the rink.

The El Pomar Sports Center, whose $27 million renovation and expansion project was completed early in 2013, houses the athletics department offices as well as Reid Arena, home court for the CC basketball and volleyball teams, and Schlessman Natatorium. Other state-of-the-art facilities within the building, now available to all Colorado College students, faculty, college administrators and their immediate families, include the Adam F. Press Fitness Center; a cardio conditioning room and strength area; separate space for varsity training; a yoga studio; squash courts; two auxiliary gyms; expanded physical therapy space; indoor and outdoor lounge spaces for socializing and separate locker rooms for students, faculty and staff.

Washburn Field serves as the home stadium for men's lacrosse and the track and field teams, as well as an occasional venue for the men's and women's intercollegiate soccer squads. A six-lane, quarter-mile, latex track borders the perimeter, lights accommodate night activities and bleacher seating allows for 2,500 spectators. Adjacent to Washburn lies Stewart Field, primary home to the soccer teams as well as women's lacrosse.

Participation in athletics is integral to a well-balanced liberal arts education. To that end Colorado College is committed to supporting a vibrant athletics program consisting of varsity, club, and intramural sports in which the pursuit of excellence in a safe, supportive, ethical and sportsmanlike manner is an important component of competition. Athletic success and academic success are not mutually exclusive; rather the two, when balanced properly, augment each other.

In addition the Department of Athletics supports opportunities in casual recreation and fitness, and partners with the Outdoor Education Department to provide a foundation for faculty, staff and students to pursue health, wellness and positive social interaction through physical activity.

ABOUT COLORADO COLLEGE

Patrons of the new Adam F. Press Fitness Center enjoy state-of-the-art conditioning equipment along with a spectacular view of the mountains west of campus.

Shaping Tomorrow's Leaders

A number of Colorado College alumni have been tapped by President Obama for positions in his administration. They include:

- Former Colorado Senator Ken Salazar '77, who served as secretary of the interior through March 2013
- Jane Lubchenco '69, head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
- Lori Garver '83, deputy administrator of NASA
- Marcia McNutt '74, former director of the U.S. Geological Survey
- Harris Sherman '64, former agriculture undersecretary for natural resources and environment

These individuals are among the long list of notable CC alums that also includes William J. Hybl '64, past president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, member of the International Olympic Committee, and nominated delegate to the United Nations General Assembly; Lynne Cheney '63, news commentator and wife of former Vice President Dick Cheney; Tara Nott Cunningham '94, the United States' first Olympic gold medalist in women's weightlifting (2000 Games); Olympic gold medalist Peggy Fleming '70; Olympic cyclist and World Mountain Bike Champion Alison Dunlap '91; William "Bro" Adams '69, Colby College's 19th president and former president of Bucknell University; Neal Baer '78, an executive producer/writer for "ER" and "Law & Order SVU"; Jay Engeln '74, 2000 National High School Principal of the Year and formerly CC's director of alumni & parent relations; U.S. Congresswoman Diana DeGette '79; Glenna Goodacre '61, a sculptor who designed the image of Sacagawea on the golden U.S. dollar coin and Peter Neupert '78, Microsoft executive and founder of Drugstore.com.

Other features of El Pomar Sports Center's recent facelift include a sun-lit Great Hall (right) just inside the main entry, as well as private classrooms (below) where CC's athletics staff and varsity teams can hold uninterrupted meetings.

Cutler Hall, built circa 1878, is the oldest building on the Colorado College campus.

THE PIKES PEAK REGION

Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak Region

When our city's founder, Civil War General William Jackson Palmer, first gazed upon Pikes Peak and the region at its base, he knew that he wanted to call Colorado Springs home. He believed Colorado Springs and the surrounding area was a place worthy of development and also of preservation. Since that time, the city has been a bright shining star throughout all of Colorado. Indeed, President Teddy Roosevelt once said it bankrupts the English language to describe the Colorado Springs area, as it is a place of such exceptional beauty, opportunity and recreation.

Every year, nearly six million people visit this area for a variety of reasons. Families come here for vacations that are fun and affordable. Business people from all over the country attend meetings and conventions and often stay a little longer to enjoy the breathtaking scenery. Group tours head our way to experience the many attractions and historical sites. Ski enthusiasts have only a short drive from Colorado Springs to the surrounding ski resorts. Golf can be enjoyed almost year-round on the 12 public courses available throughout the city.

Even Colorado residents choose Colorado Springs as a place to visit on weekends. For decades, military personnel assigned to duty here have decided to return and make Colorado Springs their permanent residence. And, thousands more have moved mountains to live at the foot of our mountain, Pikes Peak.

Our area is well known for its spectacular natural beauty and outdoor scenery. From the 14,115-foot summit of Pikes Peak to the incredible sandstone rock formations of the Garden of the Gods, our spacious landscape serves as a stage for many outdoor recreation opportunities, including mountain biking, trail hiking, horseback riding, rafting, fishing and picnicking, or just napping on a sun-drenched rock amid a backdrop of pine trees, wildflowers and trickling streams. Our climate – mild, sunny and dry most of the year – gives visitors a large window of opportunity when planning a vacation.

Our region's rich historical, cultural and architectural points of interest attract many visitors every year. We honor our city's founders by preserving and maintaining the structures that make up our community, including beautiful Victorian homes, churches and businesses that were built decades ago, and historical districts in downtown Colorado Springs and Old Colorado City. Just an hour's drive away are historic Cripple Creek and Victor, mining ghost towns brought back to life by limited-stakes gambling.

A wide range of cultural programs are available to our residents and guests, including sculpture and painting exhibits, plays, operas, symphony concerts, film festivals and dance recitals. Our local government works to develop the region while preserving those parts of our city that remind us of our earliest beginnings and the spirit in which this community was founded. General Palmer and the early residents most assuredly knew they were polishing a diamond in the rough.

— Paraphrased courtesy of the Convention & Visitors Bureau

More than 17 years after opening its doors as CC’s new home in January of 1998, the recently renamed The Broadmoor World Arena in Colorado Springs remains one of the finest college hockey facilities anywhere. It has been on national display as site of the 2004 and 2008 NCAA West Regionals, and played host to the annual Ice Breaker Invitational in 2005. The Tigers, meanwhile, have compiled a .666 winning percentage (245-117-24) there entering the 2015-16 season, and aim to continue taking full advantage of their state-of-the-art surroundings for years to come.

Everything about the facility is first class, and the Colorado College program is a major benefactor of the amenities. Part of a $58.8 million complex located in the southern end of the city’s business district off Interstate 25, the main arena features an Olympic-size sheet of ice (100 by 200 feet) and now seats 7,380 spectators for hockey. The complex also includes an ice hall with two additional sheets of ice that have been in operation since summer of 1995, giving CC the option of practicing on a smaller NHL-size rink in preparation for any upcoming opponent.

Tiger Hockey is one of the top attended winter collegiate events in the entire state of Colorado, outdrawing Air Force basketball and hockey, University of Denver hockey and Colorado State University basketball Colorado College boasted a .666 winning percentage (245-117-24) in 386 all-time games at the World Arena entering the 2015-16 season.

THE BROADMOOR WORLD ARENA

From a fan’s perspective, The Broadmoor World Arena earns high marks as every seat features an unobstructed view. The rise per row of the stands helps everyone feel right on top of the action, with concessions and restrooms conveniently nearby, whether you’re in the lower or upper level. Of course, accommodations for the media are top-notch. Hanging from the ceiling above the ice are large banners commemorating Colorado College’s championships and NCAA tournament appearances. The outer concourse is adorned with beautiful tiles as well as murals and additional memorabilia honoring CC’s rich hockey history. Sellouts are common, and the large crowds have plenty to experience in addition to action on the ice.

Under the stands, the Tigers enjoy their own custom facilities including an oversized locker room that leads directly to the ice and home team’s bench. Adjacent to the locker room at opposite ends are spacious areas for the medical staff and equipment storage and maintenance. Just across the hall, head coach Mike Haviland and his assistants occupy private offices with a door leading directly to a team meeting room.

In addition to showcasing Colorado College Hockey, the technically equipped, multi-use World Arena serves as host for a wide variety of other indoor sporting and public events. As the facility’s anchor tenant, however, CC has established a presence there rivaled by none. Certainly, when one sees or thinks of The Broadmoor World Arena, the Tigers also are likely to come to mind.

Exceeding 2.5 Million

In 386 home dates since opening The Broadmoor World Arena midway through the 1997-98 season, the Tigers have attracted more than 2.5 million spectators, with an average attendance of 6,594 per outing. Ranked fourth nationally their first full season (1998-99) when they drew more than 160,000 fans, they have sustained the momentum while finishing no lower than ninth in total attendance the last 16 campaigns. In 2013-14, the average attendance for 18 NCAA home games was 87 percent of capacity. HEAD COACH MIKE HAVILAND

Mike Haviland enters his second season at the helm of the Colorado College hockey team after taking over as the 14th head coach in the history of the program on May 9, 2014.

Haviland, a highly regarded veteran coach with experience at the NCAA, ECHL, AHL and NHL levels, brought more than 20 years of hockey coaching experience to Colorado Springs, most recently as head coach of the Hershey Bears in 2013. Prior to arriving at Hershey, he served as associate head coach of the Norfolk Admirals in 2012-13 and an assistant coach with the Chicago Blackhawks from 2008-12. During his four-year span in Chicago, he helped guide the Blackhawks to a cumulative mark of 187-101-40, a Central Division title in 2009-10 and the 2010 Stanley Cup championship.

“In Mike Haviland we hired one of the most successful and widely respected coaches in the industry,” said Colorado College Athletic Director Ken Ralph. “Mike has won championships at multiple levels and has always produced winning programs. He has a deep understanding of the values of a liberal arts education and respect for the position of this program in the Colorado Springs community. We [Colorado College] have aspirations of winning national championships, and I am confident we have found the right coach to turn our vision into reality.”

In his first season at CC, Haviland helped 11 Tigers achieve a career-high in points and defenseman Jaccob Slavin earn a first-team all-NCHC selection. Four Tigers from last year’s team, including Slavin with the Carolina Hurricanes, signed professional contracts during the summer.

From 2005 through 2007, Haviland was head coach at Norfolk, then the top affiliate of the Blackhawks, and guided the Admirals to a record of 93-51-10-6. In those two seasons, the Admirals broke the franchise’s single-season records for wins and points, an achievement that earned Haviland the 2007 Louis A.R. Pieri Memorial Award as AHL Coach of the Year. He then went on to lead the Blackhawks’ new AHL affiliate in Rockford during the 2007-08 campaign to a record of 44-26-4-6 and into two rounds of postseason play.

Prior to his time in the AHL and NHL, Haviland spent four seasons with the ECHL’s Trenton Titans (2004-05) and Atlantic City Boardwalk Bullies (2001-04). He led the Boardwalk Bullies to a Kelly Cup championship in 2003, and just two years later, hoisted the trophy as the Titans’ bench boss. His cumulative record in four ECHL seasons was 172-81-35.

Haviland also had success at the college level. As an assistant coach at his alma mater, Elmira College, he helped guide the team to a record of 51-12-2 and two ECAC championships from 1996-1998. As a player, he was a four-year member of the Elmira College men’s ice hockey team, from 1986-90, and remains one of the best point producers in the school’s history. He accumulated 152 points in his four-year career, which is 12th all-time, and is tied for ninth all-time in career goals scored with 68. Haviland was a first-team All-America selection in 1989-90 after scoring 39 goals and adding 33 assists for 72 points in 33 games. He won two ECAC West Championships as a player (1987-88 and 1989-90) and helped the Soaring Eagles make two NCAA Division III Tournament appearances, including a national runner-up finish in 1987-’88.

Following his time as a student, Haviland was originally selected by the New Jersey Devils in the 1990 NHL Entry Draft. His experience includes AHL time with the Binghamton Whalers (1989-90) and in the ECHL with the Richmond Renegades and the Winston-Salem Thunderbirds in 1990-91.

Haviland, 48, was born in Manhattan and grew up in Middletown, N.J. He and his wife, Kristin, have a blended family of six children.

ASSISTANT COACHES

GENE REILLY

ASSISTANT COACH

Gene Reilly begins his second season as an assistant coach for Colorado College in 2015-16. Reilly brought nearly 30 years of collegiate, international and professional coaching experience to Colorado Springs, most recently as a professional scout with the National Hockey League's Carolina Hurricanes.

Prior to his stint with Carolina, Reilly was a coach and director of player development with EC Red Bull Salzburg of the Austrian Hockey League. During his four seasons in Salzburg, Red Bull won back-to-back national championships in 2010 and 2011, as well as the IIHF Continental Cup title in 2010.

After playing professionally for two seasons in Sweden, Reilly launched his coaching career with the Springfield Olympics of the Eastern Junior Hockey League in 1988. He was an assistant for two seasons then served as co-head coach from 1990 through 1993 and head coach until the end of the 1998 campaign. Reilly's teams compiled a combined record of 131-15-8 and claimed the EJHL regular-season and tournament crowns during each of his final three seasons in Springfield.

Over 50 of Reilly's junior hockey players went on to play at Division I programs or were drafted to play in the pros, including first-round selections Bill Guerin, Scott Lachance and Ron Hainsey. He also coached Dan LaCouture, a second-round draftee, and Chris Clark, a third-round selection. In addition, a handful of his players have represented the United States in international competition, ranging from the World Junior Championships to the Olympic Games.

Reilly began a three-year stint as an assistant coach at the University of Maine in 1998, helping the Black Bears capture the 1999 NCAA Division I national championship under legendary head coach Shawn Walsh. He also served as interim head coach at the start of the 1999-2000 campaign when Walsh was undergoing medical treatments. In Reilly's three seasons, Maine never missed the NCAA Tournament and won seven Hockey East tournaments in addition to the NCAA title.

In 2001, Reilly departed for the American Hockey League (AHL) where he spent two seasons in the Ottawa Senators organization in Grand Rapids and Binghamton. As an assistant at Grand Rapids, he helped the Griffins to a 42-27-11 record and capture the AHL's West Division title. For his efforts, he earned a spot as an assistant coach for the AHL All-Star game. The following season at Binghamton, the Senators won the East Division crown and advanced to the conference finals.

Reilly returned to the college game as an assistant coach at Harvard (2003-04) and helped guide the Crimson to the ECAC championship. The following year, he moved to the other side of the Charles River to spend four seasons at Northeastern University (2004-08). His collegiate resume includes coaching two Hobey Baker finalists in Steve Kariya (Maine) and Brad Theissen (Northeastern).

He has also achieved success on the international level as well, leading the U.S. Under-17 team to gold medals at the Five Nations Tournament in the summer of 2002 in Slovakia and 2003 in the Czech Republic.

A 1986 graduate of Elmira College, Reilly was a four-year letterwinner for the Soaring Eagles. He helped the team to a 74-36-1 record during his four seasons and captained the team as a senior, when Elmira held a No. 1 national ranking and advanced to the NCAA Division III quarterfinals. Following his graduation, he played two seasons for the Ange Ishockey Klubb in Sweden.

R.J. ENGA

ASSISTANT COACH

R.J. Enga, who played in 158 games for Colorado College from 1991-95, begins the second season of his second stint as an assistant coach with the Tigers. Enga, who served as an assistant coach during the 2008-09 campaign, became the first member of Mike Haviland's coaching staff on June 16, 2014.

Prior to rejoining the CC staff, Enga spent three seasons with the Chicago Steel of the United States Hockey League, serving as assistant coach and director of player development. During his tenure in the Windy City, he coached a pair of current Tigers – junior forwards Christian Heil and Alex Roos.

Enga's on-ice responsibilities at CC include working with the forwards and power play unit. He is also heavily involved in the program's recruiting efforts.

Enga struck for 61 goals and added 82 assists during his four seasons at Colorado College. The right winger still is tied for 37th place on the program's all-time point list with Clare Smith (1953-56).

During his senior year, Enga set career highs with 23 goals and 46 points while leading the Tigers to the championship game of the Western Collegiate Hockey Conference Tournament and a berth in the NCAA Division I Ice Hockey Championship.

Enga, a member of the WCHA All-Academic Team as a junior, graduated in 1995 with a bachelor's degree in international political economy as well as a minor in philosophy.

A 10th-round selection by the New York Islanders in the 1990 NHL Entry Draft, Enga played 10 seasons of professional hockey at virtually every level.

His career highlights include being named to the East Coast Hockey League All-Rookie Team and All-Star Game in 1996, winning the West Coast Hockey League Taylor Cup as a member of the San Diego Gulls in 2003, and becoming the Colorado Gold Kings all-time leading scorer, recording 387 points on 165 goals and 222 assists in just four seasons.

Enga also played one season with TSV Erding in the German 2nd Eishockey Bundesliga, earning Most Valuable Player honors after recording 41 goals and 61 assists in 64 games.

After retiring as a player, Enga began his coaching career with Topeka of the North American Hockey League, where he helped guide the RoadRunners to back-to-back South Division Championships in 2009 and 2010, as well as the 2010 NAHL President's Trophy.

Enga also spent six years with Pikes Peak Miners AAA organization, serving as both hockey director and head coach of the 18U squad.

ATHLETICS ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Whether he's conducting a staff meeting, interviewing candidates for an open position or diligently working behind the scenes on the latest leap forward involving sports and recreation at Colorado College, it's refreshingly obvious that Ken Ralph has infused a contagious spirit of enthusiasm, heightened sense of accountability and widespread commitment to excellence during his eight years as director of athletics.

An energetic, well-spoken and approachable leader with a resolute attitude, uncompromising work ethic and common-sense approach to any situation, Ralph has demonstrated not only the vision to steer the department in exciting directions, but also the instincts, motivational abilities, perseverance and professionalism to see those dreams through to fruition. The recent completion of the spectacular $27 million El Pomar Sports Center renovation and expansion project in early 2013, followed by CC's debut as a member of the new National Collegiate Hockey Conference two seasons ago, provide the latest testament to his effectuality. Earlier during his tenure in office, the school successfully launched a new, dynamic athletics website and implemented live video streaming of home games for nearly half of its 17 varsity programs.

The 46-year-old Ralph currently manages a department with a budget of $8.5 million. A member of the Colorado Springs Sports Corporation board of directors, he also serves as president of the Board of Directors for the eight-team NCHC, which he was instrumental in forming from its conceptualization. He was also the tournament director for the 2008 NCAA Men's Ice Hockey West Regional at the World Arena after running two previous regionals – in 2004 and 2006, both in Albany, N.Y.

Before joining the Tiger family in 2007, he spent five years as the athletics director at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Like Colorado College, Rensselaer also is a Division III school with two Division I teams, so Ralph was no stranger to the athletic department's multi-divisional status upon his arrival. In 2004, he was involved as the NCAA voted overwhelmingly in favor of amended legislation that permitted both schools and six other Division III institutions to continue granting financial aid to student-athletes who compete on their Division I teams. For CC, the outcome preserved men's ice hockey and women's soccer at the Division I level. For RPI, it was Division I men's and women's hockey. Other schools affected were Clarkson University, Hartwick College, Johns Hopkins University, Rutgers-Newark, St. Lawrence University, and SUNY-Oneonta.

Prior to his stint at Rensselaer, Ralph served as senior assistant director of athletics, head swimming coach and head water polo coach at Connecticut College; director of aquatics, head swimming coach and physical education instructor at the University of Evansville; assistant swimming coach and physical education instructor at the U.S. Air Force Academy; director of aquatics and head swimming coach at Kutztown University; director of aquatics and head swimming coach at Georgetown University; assistant swimming coach at the University of Missouri and assistant swimming coach at the University of Alaska Anchorage. He has served on committees for ECAC Hockey, USA Hockey, and the Liberty League.

Ralph is a 1991 graduate of Alaska Anchorage, where he earned five NCAA Division II All-America awards in swimming, was twice named UAA Swimmer of the Year, and was a USS Senior National Qualifier. In 2005, he was inducted into the school's Athletics Hall of Fame. He earned his bachelor's degree in political science and a master's in sports management studies from California University (Pa.). He and his wife, Mary, have been married for 20 years.

SENIOR ASSOCIATE AD

Associate director of athletics for more than a decade now, Greg Capell serves as Colorado College's NCAA rules compliance and eligibility officer and liaison with the school's admission office. He provides administrative oversight for 11 of CC's 17 varsity programs including volleyball, men's soccer, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's swimming and diving, men's lacrosse, men's and women's tennis and men's and women's track and field. A member of the athletics senior staff, he serves on numerous committees – both for the athletics department as well as for the college as a whole.

The recent renovation and expansion of the El Pomar Sports Center, completed early in 2013, further attests to Capell's value. He worked closely with architects on multiple facets of the $27 million project, with an overall focus on access issues as well as sports surfaces including design and installation of the new Frank Flood Track along with the synthetic turf system on Washburn Field.

A wealth of experience and professional diversity accompanied Capell when he arrived in Colorado Springs in July 2004. Prior to a five-year stint as AD at Division III Loras College in Dubuque, Iowa, he worked at the University of Minnesota – first as director of athletics publications (1994-96) then as an assistant to the director of men's athletics (1996-99). A 1981 graduate of Loras, he worked for 10 years at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., filling a variety of roles including assistant coach, SID and assistant AD.

In his position at Loras, Capell managed an athletics program that rose to 37th nationally among 425 Division III schools in the 2004 USSA Director's Cup rankings. He also served as tournament director for the 2004 NCAA Division III Wrestling Championships, an event that drew the second highest attendance in its history and generated $1.5 million in revenue for the city of Dubuque.

Capell, who earned his master's degree in athletics administration from St. Thomas in 1989, is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the National Association of Division III Athletics Administrators, and the Colorado Springs Sports Corporation.

He and his wife, Marcy, have a daughter, Erin, and a son, Gabriel.

and economic growth. Araujo has published many articles in various peer reviewed journals and loves to get undergraduate students involved in the research process.

Before arriving at Colorado College, de Araujo spent one year as a teaching fellow at Indiana University Purdue University Columbus. He also spent four years as associate instructor at Indiana University in Bloomington where, in 2006, he received the Philip Saunders Award for excellence in teaching.

de Araujo is a 1999 graduate of the Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro, where he received a bachelor's of arts in economics before moving to the United States for graduate school.

SCOTT LOWENBERG

ASSOCIATE AD / EXTERNAL OPERATIONS

Scott Lowenberg, who arrived on campus in December 2005, serves as Associate Athletic Director for External Operations as a member of the Colorado College athletics senior staff.

A dedicated and successful athletics administrator with more than 20 years of experience, he oversees the corporate sponsorship program, all marketing and sales campaigns, ticket operations, the Tiger Pride Fund and Center Ice Club fundraising organizations, the athletics communications office, the licensing and sales of merchandise, the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, as well as event management and athletic equipment. His department has raised more than $15 million – record high numbers for CC – in external funds since his arrival.

Lowenberg directs the campaign that has increased annual sponsorship cash revenue by more than 450 percent – with current cash commitments to CC athletics exceeding $1.25 million and valuable gift-in-kind and credit surpassing $500,000. As a result of his season group and single-game ticket sales campaigns, Tiger Hockey is the top winter collegiate event in the entire state of Colorado as well as a consistent top five nationally in college hockey attendance.

In 2006, Lowenberg created the CC Tiger Sports Radio Network and in the summer of 2013 negotiated the current flagship station agreement with KRDO News Radio 105.5 FM and 1240 AM. He also has increased television exposure for the hockey program by negotiating agreements with the CBS Sports Network, NBC Sports Network, Altitude, Root Sports, Fox Sports Net, ESPNU, CET, KOAA-NBC, KKTU-CBS, KXTU-The CW and KRDO-ABC. Lowenberg is a 1993 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, where he went on to earn a master's degree. He and his wife, Christine, are the proud parents of three daughters – Britney, Jenna and Ashlynn.

JESSICA BENNETT

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS MARKETING

The 2015-16 academic year marks Jessica Bennett's 12th as a member of the athletics marketing staff at Colorado College, where she handles a multitude of behind-the-scenes functions involving all 17 of the school's NCAA Division I and III varsity programs.

In addition to managing game-day master charts along with specific aspects of ticketing for CC's most visible sports, as well as operations for the Tiger Pride Fund and Athletics Hall of Fame, Bennett is the go-to person for licensing and merchandise, community events, advertising campaigns and matters relating to the Center Ice Club. Responsible for securing and maintaining sponsorship agreements, she also oversees production of promotional materials including schedule cards, brochures, posters, magnets and giveaway items.

Bennett, a native of Sherrill, N.Y., collaborates closely with The Broadmoor World Arena personnel to ensure adequate staffing, security and concessions at all home hockey events. Her duties related to Tiger Hockey entail hiring, training, providing work direction and problem solving assistance for more than 30 student workers, will-call attendants, program sellers and volunteers.

She and her husband, Geoff, are the parents of a daughter, Grace (6).

JERRY CROSS

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS COMMUNICATIONS

Jerry Cross is in his second year as the director of athletics communications at Colorado College. He returned to his alma mater on August 18, 2014 after serving 13 years as an assistant director of athletic communications at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Cross worked in athletic communications at Air Force since 2000. He coordinated public and media information needs for men's basketball, men's soccer, men's golf, and men's and women's tennis, and also directed Air Force Academy communications for two NCAA Division I Basketball Tournaments and one NIT semifinal appearance. He also spearheaded statistical services for various NCAA and Mountain West Conference championship events, including two NCAA Division I Men's Basketball first and second-round events and the Division I Women's Final Four in 2012.

Prior to his stint at the Air Force Academy, Cross was the sports information director and tennis coach at the University of Colorado-Colorado Springs from 1996-2000. He was named the 1997 Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference women's tennis Coach of the Year after leading the Mountain Lions to the RMAC championship that season.

Cross, who earned a degree in economics from Colorado College in 1991, began his career as the assistant director of sports information at CC from 1991-1996, then added the duties of women's tennis coach in 1993. As a student, he was a three-year letterwinner on the men's tennis team and served as team captain his senior campaign. He also worked as a student intern for the athletic communications and intramural offices.

Cross and his wife Annie are the proud parents of a nine-year-old daughter, Elaine. The family resides in the Skyway area in Colorado Springs.

DAVE REED

ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS COMMUNICATIONS

Dave Reed, now in his 17th year at Colorado College, handles media relations duties for women's soccer as well as 10 of the school's 15 Division III programs. He also manages the athletics department website on a year-round basis and coordinates the live video streaming of Tiger sports.

A member of the College Sports Information Directors of America, Reed recently completed a three-year term on the NCAA Statistics and Records Advisory Board. He also served as a College Division Representative on the organization's board of directors and was a charter member of the College Division Management Council.

Reed is a vice-chair of the CoSIDA Membership Committee, serves on the Program Committee for the organization's annual convention and is a member of the Division III Leadership Group that helps select the Capital One Academic All-America Teams. He was honored by the American Volleyball Coaches Association as recipient of its prestigious Grant Burger Media Award for the 2009-2010 academic year in recognition of his work as a national NCAA Division I volleyball columnist for ESPN.com.

A frequent public-address announcer for the CC volleyball, men's and women's basketball, and men's and women's lacrosse teams for the last 14 years, he also was behind the microphone when the U.S. Women's National Team played host to top-ranked Brazil in a three-match series that proved to be a preview of the Gold Medal showdown at the 2008 Summer Olympic Games in Beijing.

Prior to his arrival at CC, he worked in athletic media relations at the University of Dayton (1989-91), The Ohio State University (1992-93) and the University of Notre Dame (1993-96). He has served as media coordinator for several Big East, Midwestern Collegiate Conference and NCAA Division I championships.

He left Notre Dame in 1996 to join USA TODAY.com and serve as a content editor/stringer manager for three years. He was part of an 11-member team that specialized in the coverage of collegiate athletics, emphasizing basketball, football, ice hockey and volleyball.

A 1991 graduate of the University of Dayton with a degree in communications, Reed is a native of Piqua, Ohio. He and his wife, Gerri Anne, were married in May 2005 and are the parents of a son, Jackson.

Tradition and Commitment

On May 9, 2014, Mike Haviland was tabbed to keep the Colorado College hockey team purring along as one of the nation's most elite Division I programs. With 12 NCAA tournament bids, six regular season league titles and 17 home-ice playoff berths tucked away during the last two decades alone, Haviland hopes to add another successful chapter to the program's fabled history.

CC's recent string of success, which includes trips to the national "Frozen Four" in 1996, 1997 and 2005, speaks volumes for the modern-day version of a program that has spanned eight decades. But where does the tale really begin? How has little Colorado College, a private liberal arts and sciences college with an enrollment of barely 2,000 students, maintained such elite status in a sport filled with Division I giants?

Two concepts come to mind: Tradition. From its pre-World War II roots, to its hosting of the first 10 NCAA Tournaments and co-founding of two hockey conferences, the school has influenced college hockey's growth from infancy. Commitment. Proving that academic and athletic excellence can co-exist in a small campus environment, CC has relied on vision, hard work and creativity to revive, nourish and sustain a program that many others across the nation aspire to imitate.

Humble Beginnings

Colorado College Hockey got its start in 1938, when The Broadmoor Hotel converted its seldom-used indoor riding academy into an ice rink. The Broadmoor World Arena, originally called the Broadmoor Ice Palace, served as CC's home for 55 seasons before being demolished at the conclusion of the 1993-94 campaign. In 2013-14, after 54 seasons as a charter member of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, the Tigers helped launch the NCHC's inaugural campaign and their 75th overall against outside competition. They were 675-839-78 (.448) in 1,592 WCHA regular-season outings, as well as 52-69-1 (.430) in the league playoffs.

The Tigers have claimed the Gold Pan 12 times in its 22 years of existence. The trophy is awarded to the regular-season winner between Colorado College and the University of Denver.

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

Back in 1938, thanks to sponsorship from local business firms, eight inexperienced teams including one from CC were able to organize the Pikes Peak Hockey League.

Tiger Hockey officially made its debut on January 21st of that year in an 8-1 loss to a team sponsored by Giddings department store. Colorado College finished the campaign with three victories and nine defeats under player-coach and team captain John Atwood, of Watertown, Conn.

The program made significant strides forward the following season under new coach Garrett Livingston, whose leadership the next four years helped vault CC to national prominence. While several New England students with backgrounds in high school hockey joined the team, the strongest addition was Ernie Young of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. When Young returned in the fall of 1939 for his second year at the school, he brought four more Canadian players with him — Jack Chamney, John “Chick” Ross, Wilmer “Spike” Wilson and Harold McClay — all from his home province. Bob Scarlett of Quebec, an experienced goaltender, also enrolled at Colorado College that year.

With Livingston at the helm, those players helped the Tigers sweep the University of Michigan, 4-2 and 4-3, in their first-ever intercollegiate series early during the 1939-40 season. Colorado College also played games against Colorado School of Mines, the Montana School of Mines and the University of Southern California, champion of the Pacific Coast League, that season. Enthusiasm reached a feverish pitch among CC hockey supporters for the next few years, with games at the Broadmoor Ice Palace selling out on a regular basis. By winter of 1942, the Tigers had earned a reputation as one of college hockey’s “Big Four,” along with USC, the University of Illinois and Dartmouth.

One for the Ages

Spring of 2016 marks the 66th anniversary of a victory that arguably ranks as Colorado College’s greatest ever.

On March 18, 1950, having blasted Boston College by a 10-3 count in the NCAA semifinals two nights earlier, the Tigers found themselves in a dogfight after 40 minutes of play in the national championship game at the old Broadmoor Ice Palace.

Three second period goals – including a pair by Harry Whitworth and Carl Lawrence just 12 seconds apart, had wiped out a 1-0 deficit and given CC a 3-1 lead over Boston University entering the final frame.

What transpired is, to this day, probably the most glorious single period in the history of Tiger Hockey.

Relentless in its pursuit of the title, Colorado College blistered BU netminder Ike Bevins with 18 shots on goal and scored on 10 of them while treating the partisan crowd to a 13-4 victory.

All-America forward Chris Ray, who finished with four tallies altogether, struck for three during the third-period uprising while Ron Hartwell and Tony Frasca each notched a pair. Whitworth, who added his second of the contest, set up three others. Hartwell, by the way, remains to this day the program’s all-time leading goal producer with 112 overall for his three-year career.

“Maybe we didn’t expect to win, but we sure wanted to. When we did, it was a real accomplishment – as unique a team experience as anyone will ever have. We didn’t think of any one player getting more points or anything. It was just win, win. It was total team spirit, cooperation, coordination, and all the rest. That’s what you need to have.”

— Ron Hartwell, CC’s all-time leading goal scorer

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

The Evolution as a Powerhouse

Due to World War II, no games were played in 1942-43 or '43-44, but the sport was rejuvenated at Colorado College and nationwide in 1944-45. With the return of former players and the addition of seven more Canadians, the Tigers quickly were on the rise again. Cheddy Thompson, who came to Colorado Springs when he was assigned to 2nd Air Force Headquarters here, took over the coaching duties in the fall of 1945 and held the position for the next decade.

In cooperation with The Broadmoor Hotel, Colorado College sponsored the first National Collegiate Athletic Association Hockey Championships at the end of the 1947-48 season. The tournament would be held at the Ice Palace for the next decade, with CC participating seven times — in 1948, '49, '50, '51, '52, '55 and '57. Thompson was at the helm when CC won its first NCAA crown in 1950 and finished as runner-up in 1952 and '55. He was named national Coach of the Year in 1952 by the United States Hockey Coaches Association.

TONY FRASCA

In 1951, Colorado College helped found the Mid-West Collegiate Hockey League, which changed its name to the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League in 1953. Other charter members were the University of Denver, Michigan, Michigan State, Michigan Tech, Minnesota and North Dakota. The WIHL evolved to become the Western Collegiate Hockey Association in November of 1959, with the 2012-13 version of the WCHA consisting of five of its original seven teams plus the University of Alaska Anchorage, Bemidji State, Minnesota-Duluth, Minnesota State, Nebraska-Omaha, St. Cloud State and Wisconsin.

BILL "RED" HAY AND BOB McCUSKER

Colorado College has competed in the NCAA championship game five times – winning it in 1950 and '57.

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

The 1938-39 Tigers were the first CC team to play a full season of competition.

The Tigers hoisted the MacNaughton Trophy as WCHA regular-season champions for the ninth and final time in March 2008. It was their third title in five years and sixth since 1994. They won an unprecedented three consecutive crowns in the mid-1990s (1993-94, '94-95 and '95-96). The previous three came during the 1950s (1951-52, '54-55 and '56-57). During the 1956-57 season, Colorado College won a then-school record 25 games and wrapped up its second NCAA championship under coach Tom Bedeck. CC made history again in 2013-14 as the new "super" conference, originally created in July 2011, made its long awaited debut.

Other members of the NCHC include the University of Denver, Miami University, Minnesota Duluth, Nebraska Omaha, North Dakota, St. Cloud State and Western Michigan.

Launch Pad to Success

Four Colorado College coaches – John Matchefts (1968-69), Jeff Sauer (1971-72 and '74-75), Brad Buetow (1991-92) and Don Lucia (1993-94 and '95-96) – earned WCHA Coach of the Year honors. Sauer (2003) and Matchefts (2007) both have been named recipients of the prestigious John "Snooks" Kelley Founders Award for their contributions to the overall growth and development of ice hockey nationwide. Sauer, head coach of the U.S. National Sled Hockey Team that has won gold (2012 and '14) and silver (2013) medals at the last three International Paralympic Committee World Championships, also received the NHL's Lester Patrick Trophy in 2011 for outstanding service to the sport in the United States.

The 1945-46 Tigers, coached by the legendary Cheddy Thompson (1945-55).

The original Broadmoor Ice Palace in 1938.

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

Cheddy Thompson (1951-52), Tony Frasca (1962-63), Lucia (1993-94) and former CC assistant Norm Bazin (2012-13), now the bench boss at UMass-Lowell, each have been named national Coach of the Year by the American Hockey Coaches Association. Another legend, Bob Johnson (1963-66), went on to the National Hockey League where he guided the Pittsburgh Penguins to the Stanley Cup in 1991. Johnson earlier had served as head coach of the 1976 United States Olympic Team and the NHL's Calgary Flames, as well as a three-year stint as executive director of USA Hockey. Guy Gadowsky, who skated for the Tigers in the late 1980s, has gone on to serve as head coach at the University of Alaska, Princeton University, and now the new Division I program at Penn State.

Scott Owens lasted the longest behind the CC bench, leading the team for 15 years before resigning following the 2013-14 campaign. Owens guided the Tigers to seven NCAA tournament appearances, including the national semifinals in 2005 and his 324 career wins nearly doubles second place on the school's list for most victories (166 by Sauer and Lucia).

CC has launched dozens of players into the professional ranks during the last six decades. While 36 former Tigers had played in the NHL prior to the 2015-16 season, several more are destined to make their debuts at the sport's highest level in the near future. Two Colorado College products – Bill “Red” Hay with the Chicago Blackhawks in 1961 and Doug Lidster with the New York Rangers in 1994 as well with the Dallas Stars in 1999 – have had their names engraved on the Stanley Cup. Hay was also recently inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame. Tom Preissing reached the Cup finals with the Ottawa Senators in 2007. Preissing and Gord Whitaker, meanwhile, are among very few North Americans ever to compete in the Russian Elite League, while mid-2000s grads Addison DeBoer and Scott Thauwald have taken their talents to Australia. Many others, including Hobey Baker Award winners Peter Sejna and Marty Sertich, are competing in Europe.

STEVE SERTICH

DAVE DELICH

Tiger Hockey also is well represented in the Colorado College Athletics Hall of Fame. In fact, two entire teams – the 1949-50 national champions in 1998 and the 1995-96 NCAA runners-up in 2013 – have been inducted. Hay, a former president of the Calgary Flames, was honored among the inaugural class in April 1995. Doug Palazzari, who spent most of his professional playing career with Salt Lake City of the Central Hockey League and in 1997 was designated as the CHL's all-time greatest player, joined the HOF in 2000 after serving as executive director of USA Hockey. Dave Delich, CC's career points leader, became a member in 2002 while Gambucci, who skated for the 1950 NCAA champs but starred as a baseball and football player as well, was recognized on an individual basis in 2004. Lidster was inducted 2009 and Rob Doyle, the school's leading scorer among defensemen, followed suit in 2015.

Delich, Hay and Palazzari, along with fellow Colorado College alumni Eddie Mio and Brian Swanson, also were included among the WCHA's all-time top 50 players in conjunction with the league's golden anniversary season in 2001-02.

Colorado College Rhodes Scholar Paul Markovich '88

The first and only Rhodes Scholar ever to emerge from the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, former CC defenseman Paul Markovich went on to study at the Plekhanov Institute of Economics in Moscow before earning his master's degree in philosophy, politics and investment from Oxford University in England.

Markovich, a two-time member of the All-WCHA Academic Team, played in 68 career games for the Tigers, including 35 as a senior in 1987-88 after recovering from knee surgery a year earlier.

In the early 1990s the Grand Forks, N.D., native began a distinguished career in the field of health care and insurance, and ever since has held high-profile corporate positions from coast to coast – in New York City, Oakland and San Francisco. He currently serves as president and chief operating officer for Blue Shield of California, a not-for-profit health plan with $9.7 billion in annual revenue.

“Attending such a terrific liberal arts school while competing in Division I hockey was a formative experience for me,” Markovich says of his four years at Colorado College. “You can’t help but learn and grow when you are pushing yourself to perform both academically and athletically. Out of necessity I learned the importance of organization, persistence, and resilience – all skills that have helped me in my career.”

Markovich and his wife, Lisa, are the proud parents of son, Tyler, and daughter, Jasmine. Both of his parents are retired faculty members at the University of North Dakota.

ART BERGLUND '63, a CC player in the early 1960s, has managed more than 30 United States teams in a variety of tournaments worldwide, spanning five decades. Now retired as senior director of international administration for USA Hockey, Berglund served as director of player personnel for the 1992, '94 and '02 U.S. Olympic teams. He most recently became a member of the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame after earlier inductions into the International Ice Hockey Federation (IIHF), the Colorado College Athletics, Northwestern Ontario Sports and U.S. Hockey HOFs.

DOUG PALAZZARI – Played in the 1976 Canada Cup in addition to two World Championships, then served a stint as executive director of USA Hockey after his illustrious career at Colorado College.

OTHERS with COLORADO COLLEGE CONNECTIONS

A number of CC coaches, as well as other team personnel, have served on Team USA staffs at elite international competitions since the mid-1970s.

Former Tiger Art Berglund, who tied for the team scoring lead as a senior in 1962-63, managed more than 30 United States teams in a wide variety of tournaments worldwide during his long and distinguished career as a top-level administrator with USA Hockey.

The late Bob Johnson, who spent three seasons (1963-66) at the Colorado College helm, was head coach of the U.S. entries at the 1976 Winter Olympic Games as well the World Championships in 1973, '74, '75, and '81. Johnson also was behind the Americans' bench in the Canada Cup in 1981, 84 and 87.

Greg Cronin, a member of the Tiger staff in the early 1990s, was an assistant coach for the USA squads at the 1997, 2011 and 2012 World Championships, as well at the 1997 and 1998 World Juniors. Formerly a head coach at the University of Maine (1995-97) and Northeastern University (2005-11), Cronin now is an assistant with the Toronto Maple Leafs. Mike Gibbons, who spent two seasons (1988-90) at Colorado College and currently is a member of the coaching staff at St. Cloud State University, helped guide the U.S. to a fourth-place finish at the Junior World tournament in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Mike Guentzel, who served on Scott Owens' staff at CC in 2008-09 while his son Gabe played for the Tigers, has been an assistant coach under Dean Blais for the U.S. entry at three Junior World Championships (1994, '95 and '96).

Guentzel returned to the University of Minnesota, his alma mater and previous employer for 14 seasons, to become associate head coach in 2011-12 after a three-year hiatus. The late Dave Peterson, a volunteer goaltending coach for Colorado College in the mid-1990s, served as head coach of the United States Olympic Team in 1988 and 1992, as well as for three national teams (1985, '86 and '87) and two national junior teams (1986 and '87). He also was an assistant for the U.S. junior squad in 1982, '85, '85, '87, '95 and '96.

The late Mike Radokovich began a three-year stint on Jeff Sauer's staff at CC in 1975 after serving as an assistant with the U.S. juniors in 1974. Sauer, who spent 11 seasons (1971-82) at the Tigers' helm, has guided the American sled hockey team to gold medals at the 2010 and 2014 Paralympic Games. Marty Wakelyn '86 once assisted that program as goalies coach while Mike Cortese '84 has worked on its medical staff and Bill Sandberg '86 as its equipment manager. Dan Brennan, a former team captain at CC in the mid-80s, is a long-time general manager of both the U.S. paralympic and inline hockey programs.

Longtime Colorado College sports medicine director Bruce Kola, who retired in 2012, was a member of the United States staffs for the 1980 (head trainer) and 1984 Winter Olympic Games in Lake Placid and Sarajevo. Dr. Tom Mahony, one of CC's team physicians for many years, served in that capacity at the 1988 Winter Games in Calgary. Former Tigers equipment manager Walt Predovich, who was at the college from 1971 though 1975, took his skills to the 1976 Olympics in Innsbruck.

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

CC Hockey Timeline

- 1938 First game played (January 21).
- 1940 Intercollegiate competition begins with two-game sweep over University of Michigan.
- 1942 Spike Wilson's goal with three seconds left produces a 6-6 tie and gives Tigers their first point ever against the powerful University of Southern California. CC is rated among the nation's top four college teams after going undefeated (3-0-3) in the final six games against USC, Michigan and Illinois.
- 1948 In cooperation with The Broadmoor Hotel, Colorado College sponsors first NCAA Championship Tournament.
- 1950 Tigers erupt for 10 goals in the third period to rout Boston University, 13-4, at The Broadmoor Ice Palace and win their first NCAA championship. They'd beaten Boston College, 10-3, in the semifinals two days earlier, on March 16. And, in January of that same season, CC blanked the University of Denver, 16-0, in the first-ever meeting between the two archrivals-to-be.

- 1951 Mid-West Collegiate Hockey League organized (renamed Western Intercollegiate Hockey League in 1953 and Western Collegiate Hockey Association in 1959).
- 1952 League champions.
- 1955 League champions.
- 1957 League and NCAA champions. Crushed the University of Michigan, 13-6, to claim the program's second national title after beating Clarkson, 5-3, in the semifinals two nights earlier. Won 27 games overall, a school record that stood for 38 years, until 1994-95.
- 1964 Won title at Brown Invitational Tournament.
- 1972 Doug Palazzari finishes season with 57 points in WCHA play, third highest total in league history behind Minnesota's John Mayasich (78 in 1953-54) and Michigan's Red Berenson (68 in 1961-62). Tigers defeat Denver (9-7) at DU Arena for the first time in 15 years. CC also beats Denver, 9-6, on Broadmoor ice in meeting number 100 between the schools.

Colorado College, which co-hosted the first 10 NCAA hockey tournaments, has reached the national quarterfinals 10 times since 1996.

- 1974 Palazzari ends his four-year collegiate career as CC's all-time leading scorer (226 points) and is named the WCHA's Most Valuable Player. Palazzari earns first-team All-WCHA and All-America honors for the second time.
- 1975 CC finishes with a 23-14 record. Jim Warner named WCHA Rookie of the Year and joins goaltender Eddie Mio as second-team All-WCHA selections.
- 1978 Tigers upset Minnesota and Denver on the road in the WCHA playoffs then advance to an NCAA wild-card playoff game against Bowling Green. Greg Whyte sets two CC single-season records with 54 assists and 82 points.
- 1979 Dave Delich breaks Whyte's single-season scoring record with 84 points and ends career with 111 goals, 174 assists and 285 total points, the latter two representing school records that still stand. Delich named to three different all-star teams after winning WCHA scoring title with 70 points in league play.
- 1980 Tigers earn home-ice playoff berth after finishing third in WCHA standings with 16-13-1 record, and finished season with overall mark of 21-17-1.
- 1981 CC stuns Wisconsin (the eventual NCAA champion), 11-4, in the second game of first-round WCHA playoffs to win total-goals series at Madison, 13-12. Tigers also upset Minnesota, 9-7, in final game of season but lose second-round playoff series by total goals.
- 1987 Tigers upset Denver in opening round of WCHA playoffs. CC is eliminated from post-season action the following weekend, losing to North Dakota in total goals, but not before handing Fighting Sioux a 2-1 loss in second game of series at Grand Forks. The Sioux go on to win NCAA title, with Colorado College the only team in the nation to beat them twice.
- 1992 A second-half rampage earns CC fourth place and home ice in the WCHA playoffs, where the Tigers beat Minnesota-Duluth twice in triple overtime and take a record of 18-16-5 to the league's Final Four championship in St. Paul, Minn.
- 1994 CC wins WCHA championship on final night of regular season. Senior defenseman Shawn Reid earns first-team All-America honors. Don Lucia is named WCHA and national Coach of the Year.
- 1995 The Tigers win their second consecutive WCHA title, finish second in the league playoffs and earn a bid to the NCAA tournament. Jay McNeill becomes the program's first-ever Hobey Baker Award finalist. CC winds up with 30 victories overall, smashing a school record that had stood for 38 years.
- 1996 Colorado College reaches national championship game after winning an unprecedented third consecutive WCHA crown. Peter Geronazzo becomes CC's second-ever Hobey Baker Award finalist and joins Ryan Bach as first-team All-Americans. Eight Tigers earn All-WCHA honors and the team's 33 victories overall shatters the school record again.
- 1997 After tying for fourth place in the WCHA, Colorado College earns an at-large NCAA playoff bid. The Tigers upset New Hampshire and Clarkson at the East Regional, advancing to the "Frozen Four" for the second consecutive season.
- 1998 The Tigers open the new Colorado Springs World Arena at mid-season, then go on a late rampage that produces a third-place finish in the WCHA standings and their fourth consecutive berth in the NCAA tournament. CC defeats Clarkson again at the East Regional before bowing out to Boston College in the national quarterfinals.
- 1999 CC completes first full season at the World Arena, winning its last nine games there, and earns its fifth consecutive NCAA playoff bid after finishing second in the WCHA.

HISTORY OF CC HOCKEY

Former CC head coaches Scott Owens, Jeff Sauer, John Matchefts and Mike Bertsch celebrate Matchefts' receiving the John "Snooks" Kelley Founders Award in spring of 2007.

The Tigers beat St. Lawrence at the West Regional before falling to Michigan State in the national quarterfinals. Brian Swanson and Scott Swanson are named first-team All-Americans.

- 2000 The Tigers and World Arena learn that they will serve as co-hosts for the NCAA West Regional in 2004, when the national post-season tournament returned to Colorado Springs after a 35-year absence.
- 2001 Colorado College reaches the NCAA quarterfinals with a 3-2 double-overtime victory over St. Lawrence University at the East Regional. Mark Cullen is named a second-team JOFA West All-American.
- 2002 The Tigers reach the NCAA quarterfinals again with a 2-0 opening-round victory over Michigan State at the West Regional. Mark Cullen is named WCHA Student Athlete of the Year, as well as a second-team All-American for the second consecutive season.
- 2003 CC earns its eighth NCAA playoff bid in the last nine years and 16th overall, then advances to the national quarterfinals yet again with a 4-2 victory over Wayne State University at the Midwest Regional in Ann Arbor, Mich. After being ranked No. 1 for nearly two months, the Tigers see their season end with a 5-3 loss to the University of Michigan. Peter Sejna wins the Hobey Baker Award and is one of four Colorado College players named to the West All-America Team.
- 2004 The Tigers finish seventh in the WCHA standings but upset arch-rival and eventual national champion Denver in the opening round of the league playoffs. The NCAA West Regional is held for the first time at the Colorado Springs World Arena, but without CC as a participating team.
- 2005 Regular-season co-champion of the WCHA, Colorado College beats Colgate then stuns Michigan at the NCAA Midwest Regional to earn its first trip to the Frozen Four since 1997. Marty Sertich and Brett Sterling finish first and second nationally in overall scoring, with Sertich emerging as CC's second Hobey Baker Memorial Award winner in three years.
- 2006 The Tigers earn their 10th NCAA playoff bid in the last 12 seasons but are eliminated by Cornell University in the tournament's opening round. Marty Sertich and Brett Sterling emerge as Hobey Baker Top-10 Finalists for the second consecutive year, with Sterling repeating as a First-Team All-American.
- 2007 In a major rebuilding season, Colorado College finishes just two points out of third place and hosts a first-round WCHA playoff series for the 14th time in 16 years.
- 2008 While skating to its sixth regular-season title in the last 15 years, Colorado College produces three All-Americans and first-team All-WCHA selections in freshman goaltender Richard Bachman, senior defenseman Jack Hillen and junior center Chad Rau. Bachman becomes just the second player ever to be voted both WCHA Player of the Year and Rookie of the Year. He also is named national Rookie of the Year by the Hockey Commissioners' Association. Hillen is honored as WCHA Defensive Player of the Year. Despite losing their last three games, including a 3-1 decision to Michigan State on their home ice at the NCAA West Regional, the Tigers post 28 victories overall including 21 in league play.

- 2009 After tying a WCHA and NCAA single-season record with 10 ties, the Tigers earn a home-ice playoff berth for the 16th time in 18 seasons only to be eliminated by Minnesota Duluth. CC goes undefeated (1-0-3) in four games against the University of Denver, however, to claim possession of the Gold Pan for the third consecutive year. Senior center Chad Rau repeats as an All-American and first-team All-WCHA selection.
- 2010 A young Colorado College blazes to a 10-2-1 start, including a 7-1-1 mark in league play, before finishing sixth in the WCHA standings. The Tigers hang tough in a first-round WCHA playoff series at Minnesota Duluth before being eliminated in Game 3 of the best-of-three series.
- 2011 Refusing to fizzle down an extremely challenging home stretch of the regular season, CC wins a best-of-three playoff series against Wisconsin to reach the WCHA Final Five, where it beats Alaska Anchorage to clinch an NCAA tournament bid. The Tigers then stun defending national champion Boston College, 8-4, in the opening round before bowing out with a 2-1 loss to Michigan in the national quarterfinals.

The late Bob Bartlett, Colorado College's original goaltender back in 1938, dropped the ceremonial first puck when the Tigers celebrated their 70th anniversary in February 2008.

- 2012 The Tigers go 2-1-1 against archrival Denver to regain possession of the Gold Pan for the first time since 2008-09, finish fifth in the WCHA standings and earn home ice for the opening round of the league playoffs for the 17th time in 19 years. Their post-season ends abruptly, however, when eighth-seeded Michigan Tech upsets them with a two-game sweep at the World Arena. Sophomore Jaden Schwartz, a first-round draft pick of the St. Louis Blues two summers earlier, signs a professional contract within days and later is named a first-team All-American.
- 2013  After finishing eighth in the WCHA standings, Colorado College upsets DU in the first round of the league playoffs and earns a trip to the Final Five in St. Paul, Minn., where it stuns both North Dakota and Minnesota before dropping a 3-2 decision to Wisconsin in the championship game. Senior Rylan Schwartz's 53 points overall leads the entire nation while Mike Boivin's 14 goals ranks No. 1 among Division I defensemen. Both Boivin and Schwartz emerge as All-WCHA selections.
- 2014 Finished seventh in the inaugural season of the National Collegiate Hockey Conference, then took second-seeded North Dakota to a series-deciding third game after winning game two, 3-2 in overtime, thanks to a sudden-death goal by Alex Roos. Freshman Jaccob Slavin was named the NCHC's Rookie of the Year and a second-team all-league selection after leading the team in scoring with 25 points (5g,20a). Slavin was also named to College Hockey News' All-Rookie Team.
- 2015 Mike Haviland completes his first season as head coach. Sophomore Jaccob Slavin was named to the all-NCHC first team before signing a professional contract with the Carolina Hurricanes and forgoing his final two seasons.

Former All-America goalie Richard Bachman, drafted by the Dallas Stars in 2006 and now a member of the Vancouver Canucks organization, returned to his alma mater in 2012 to drop the ceremonial first puck for CC's home game at The Broadmoor World Arena against eventual national champion Yale University.

HOBEBY BAKER MEMORIAL AWARD

PETER SEJNA

The Hobey Baker Memorial Award (HobeyBaker.com), college hockey’s equivalent of the Heismann Trophy in football, is presented annually at a nationally televised ceremony held in conjunction with the NCAA Frozen Four.

The award was initiated more than three decades ago, in 1981.

An impressive field of candidates, representing Division I schools nationwide, typically emerges by mid-season and is narrowed down to a Top 10 list a week or so before the NCAA playoffs get under way. The Hobey Hat Trick, a list of three finalists who attend the presentation ceremony, is announced prior to the Frozen Four. The winner is kept secret until the moment his name is announced at the ceremony.

Colorado College has produced two recipients of the coveted award, with Peter Sejna emerging as CC’s first winner in 2003 and Marty Sertich following suit in 2005. Each earned the distinction during his junior season as a Tiger, en route to claiming a national scoring championship and All-America honors. Teammate Brett Sterling joined Sertich, who also was honored among the Top 10 finalists a year later, in the Hobey Hat Trick group in ’05.

The Tigers have consistently put forth candidates for the Hobey Baker Award since the mid-1990s as former All-Americans Peter Geronazzo (1996), Jay McNeill (1996), Brian Swanson (1999) and Tom Preissing (2003) all have advanced to the Top 10.

MARTY SERTICH

Peter Sejna became the first Colorado College player ever to win the Hobey Baker Memorial Award after claiming a national scoring title in 2002-03. Marty Sertich became the second Tiger to win the Hobey Baker Award while claiming a national scoring crown in 2004-05.

THE NCHC

The National Collegiate Hockey Conference was founded in the summer of 2011 when six institutions bonded together to form a collection of some of the most notable college hockey programs in the nation. Just a few months later, the conference grew to eight teams and established the foundation for this prestigious group of institutions. Built on the principles of excellence both on and off the ice, the NCHC is committed to fostering an environment of integrity, sportsmanship and competition.

Joe Novak

The motivation for forming this new conference came as the landscape of college hockey began to change in the spring of 2011. When Penn State University announced it was starting a college hockey program in the spring of 2011, the Big 10 hockey conference was created. The seismic shift sent ripples throughout the college hockey world and left many institutions searching for stability. On July 13, 2011, the leaders from six schools, Colorado College, the University of Denver, Miami University, the University of Minnesota Duluth, the University of Nebraska Omaha and the University of North Dakota announced the decision to start their own conference beginning in the 2013-14 academic year. On Sept. 22, 2011, St. Cloud State University and Western Michigan University accepted invitations and the NCHC grew to its current membership of eight teams.

Don Adam

Verna Toller

The infrastructure of the conference began to materialize in August 2011, as Colorado Springs, the birthplace of the NCAA Hockey Championships, was selected as the home of the league's headquarters. Jim Scherr, the former CEO of the U.S. Olympic Committee, was named the conference's first commissioner in January of 2012.

The inaugural commissioner quickly began working to build his inaugural staff, finding a home for the NCHC Tournament and securing a national television contract. In January 2012, the NCHC and CBS Sports Network inked a multi-year agreement to nationally-televisе several conference games per season, including the NCHC Tournament semifinals and championship games. In June 2012, the NCHC announced that Target Center in Minneapolis, Minn. would be the home of the conference championship.

THE NCHC

In July 2013, Scherr left the NCHC but the conference didn't miss a beat, as Josh Fenton, former senior associate athletic director at Miami University, was named the conference's second commissioner. Fenton played an integral role in the formation of the new conference, making a seamless transition to his new role.

Under Fenton's guidance, the NCHC successfully launched its official website, NCHCHockey.com, in August 2013, and a mobile app, becoming the first collegiate hockey conference to do so. The conference also held its first Media Day at Target Center on Sept. 19, 2013. The NCHC officially dropped the puck on Oct. 18, 2013 as Miami hosted North Dakota and Colorado College hosted Minnesota Duluth in the first ever conference games, both of which were nationally televised on CBS Sports Network.

In November of 2013, with the help of fan suggestions and a fan vote, the NCHC's championship was renamed the NCHC Frozen Faceoff. The conference's first season saw intense competition on the ice and great passion and enthusiasm in the stands, as the regular-season title came down to the final weekend. St. Cloud State became the inaugural NCHC regular-season champions on the final night, capturing the Julie and Spencer Penrose Memorial Cup – the NCHC's regular-season trophy. Denver would then go on to claim the inaugural NCHC Frozen Faceoff title, defeating Miami in the championship game on March 22, 2014. The NCHC saw three members make the 2014 NCAA Tournament in its first season, led by North Dakota, which reached the Frozen Four.

The members of the NCHC are certainly no stranger to the NAAs, however. This collection of hockey programs has combined to win four NCAA Championships and made 18 Frozen Four appearances since 2000, including North Dakota in 2014. In the history of college hockey, NCHC schools have combined to win 17 NCAA hockey titles. Only three schools have won more than six NCAA hockey titles and two of them (Denver and North Dakota each with seven) reside in the NCHC. Minnesota Duluth is the conference's most recent NCAA champion, winning the title in 2011. In 2013, St. Cloud State advanced to its first Frozen Four in school history while Husky forward Drew LeBlanc won the 2013

Hobey Baker Memorial Award. Fellow Husky Nic Dowd was a Hobey Hat Trick Finalist in 2014, while five NCHC student-athletes garnered AHCA All-American honors, including Dowd, in the conference's first season.

The geographic diversity of the NCHC features some of the most beautiful terrain in the United States and spans three time zones (Eastern, Central and Mountain). The majestic Rocky Mountains of Colorado provide the backdrop to North Dakota's Red River Valley and America's heartland from Nebraska to Ohio. From the countless lakes of Minnesota to the shores of Lake Michigan, the NCHC is home to some of the most breath-taking scenery in the country.

With a strong foundation of institutions rich in tradition and excellence, the National Collegiate Hockey Conference is poised to solidify itself as the premier college hockey conference for years to come.

Key Operational Goals of the NCHC

- Support the hockey programs in the Conference to achieve competitive and academic excellence at the highest levels of intercollegiate athletics;
- Assist other hockey affiliated entities that support the game to grow the sport of ice hockey;
- Build a tradition and legacy of excellence which fosters the development, growth, and popularity of intercollegiate hockey;
- Develop the most widely recognized brand among college hockey athletic conferences highlighted each year by a prominent year-end conference championship;
- Provide the widest possible exposure for the conference and member institutions;
- Establish and sustain respected officiating crews and systems within intercollegiate hockey;
- Build a sustainable financial model to support conference operations.

Mark Stuart, shown here delivering a crushing hit against a University of Michigan player in CC's 4-3 victory over the Wolverines at the 2005 NCAA Midwest Regional, was one of 11 former Tigers to play in the National Hockey League in 2010-11. Now with Winnipeg, Stuart was a first-round draft choice of the Boston Bruins in 2003.

KEN LANDAUPLAY-BY-PLAY BROADCASTER

Ken Landau, an award-winning 25-year veteran of the college hockey broadcast scene, returns for his 11th season as official "Voice of the Tigers" in 2015-16.

A 1982 graduate of Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in telecommunications, Landau called the play-by-play for MSU hockey from 1979 through 1985, then again from 1990 through 1997. He also spent three seasons serving in a similar capacity at the University of Michigan.

In 2013, Landau won his fourth Award of Excellence – one of the Colorado Broadcast Association's most coveted honors – on the heels of his eighth year in the CC radio booth. The CBA awards are presented annually for "Best Sports Coverage" by an individual or broadcast team.

In 1992, Landau earned the Associated Press of Michigan broadcast award for best play-by-play. And, in 2003, he called the first college hockey game ever for College Sports Television and hosted CSTV's wall-to-wall coverage of the Frozen Four in Buffalo.

Landau has worked extensively as a sports talk-show host and television sports anchor and reporter. In addition, he helped form a sports marketing company that published the first two books ever devoted to the history of a college hockey program – "Awe Inspiring: The Storied History of Spartan Hockey" and "Shot and A Goal: The Tradition of Wisconsin Badger Hockey."

Away from the rink, Landau is self-employed as president of his own consulting firm.

*General Information for the PressDirections to The Broadmoor World Arena

Located in the south end of the Colorado Springs business district, the World Arena is adjacent to Interstate 25, accessible via exit 138 at Circle Drive. From I-25, go west on Lake Avenue and turn left (south) on Venetucci Blvd. From the Colorado Springs Airport, take Powers Blvd. north to westbound Fountain Blvd., then branch onto the Martin Luther King bypass to I-25 south.

Credentials & Admittance

Working press box credentials shall be issued only to accredited newspaper, radio and television reporters. Credentials requested the week of the game will be held for pick-up inside the media entrance The Broadmoor World Arena. Please display your pass at all times, as it is required for access to the press box and locker room areas, as well as to the elevator connecting the two. The press box is located at the top of the east-side stands. All requests for credentials should be directed to:

Jerry Cross, Director of Athletics Communications
Colorado College • 14 E. Cache La Poudre
Colorado Springs, CO 80903
719-389-6755 or 719-389-6256 fax
jerry.cross@coloradocollege.edu

Among Ken Landau's guests in the broadcast booth has been Major League Baseball Hall of Famer Rick "Goose" Gossage, who is a Colorado Springs native and loyal fan of Tiger Hockey.

Parking

Parking passes for use in the general lot are available to members of the media. Although these passes provide free admission to the lot, they do not allow you to park in "permit" areas. Please avoid using those areas, as your car will be ticketed or towed.

Photographers

Credentials must be arranged prior to each game through the Colorado College athletics communications office (719-389-6755 or jerry.cross@coloradocollege.edu). Photographers are permitted to shoot from the penalty boxes and other selected locations in the arena, but must check in at the working press box beforehand.

Radio Services/Telephone Lines

The center TV booth in the press box at The Broadmoor World Arena is equipped with one analog line and one ISDN line for a station officially designated by the visiting team to be granted use for its broadcast. Installation of additional lines or lines for other stations must be approved by the CC athletics communications office, then arrangements made through CenturyLink (1-800-301-9220, ext. 2)

Coach & Player Interviews

Interviews with the Colorado College coaching staff and team must be arranged through the athletics communications office. Requests will be honored with 24 hours notice. As a rule, pre-game interviews with Coach Mike Haviland and players will not be granted. After a game, coaches and players will be available for comments outside the locker room at The Broadmoor World Arena. Since Colorado College maintains a closed locker-room policy, a member of the CC athletics communications staff will be designated to summon players from the locker room once Coach Haviland is finished addressing the team. Practice sessions, which typically are held from 3-5 p.m. weekdays, are open to the media. However, practices can not be interrupted for interviews. All interviews should be completed 15-20 minutes before practice begins, or after it is completed.

summer. This year’s roster features two players – senior forward Hunter Fejes (Arizona) and sophomore defenseman Teemu Kivihalm (Nashville) – who have been drafted and are destined to get their shot someday.

While Schwartz and defenseman Mark Stuart are the only first-rounders ever to play for Colorado College, more than 75 current or former Tigers have had their names called in the NHL draft. The Boston Bruins made Stuart, now with the Winnipeg Jets, their No. 1 pick and the league’s 21st overall in June 2003.

A first-round draft pick of the St. Louis Blues in June 2010, when he was chosen 14th overall, Jaden Schwartz emerged among six former Colorado College standouts making their presence felt in the National Hockey League during the 2014-15 season.

Schwartz, who led the Tigers in scoring as a freshman and sophomore before turning pro in April 2012, joined Richard Bachman, Jack Hillen, Curtis McElhinney, Nate Prosser and Mark Stuart in competing at the sport’s most elite level last season. Entering the current 2015-16 campaign, 36 CC stars of the past had experienced playing in “The Show.”

With several others under contract in the minor leagues, eagerly awaiting their turns, that number is likely to climb even higher in the near future. In fact, five Tigers, Peter Stoykewych, Aaron Harstad, Ian Young, Scott Wamsganz and Charlie Taft, who graduated last May signed a professional contract over the

The 302nd meeting between in-state rivals Colorado College and the University of Denver will certainly be unlike any other in the 65-year history of the series. The schools announced they will play an outdoor hockey game at Coors Field in Denver on Saturday, Feb. 20, 2016. Dubbed the 'Battle on Blake,' this will be the first collegiate hockey game ever played at Coors Field and marks the first time that CC and DU have faced off in an outdoor match.

"We are thrilled to be taking our rivalry with the University of Denver outside in 2016," CC Athletic Director Ken Ralph said. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for our players and we are grateful to the Colorado Rockies, the Coors Field staff, and the University of Denver for making this a reality for our team. We are looking forward to a large crowd in a beautiful setting as our teams display that college hockey is indeed thriving in the state of Colorado."

The game will be played one week prior to the Colorado Avalanche hosting the Detroit Red Wings at Coors Field as part of the Coors Light NHL Stadium Series.

The two schools first played on Jan. 6, 1950 and have battled for the Gold Pan Trophy since 1993. The Tigers have hoisted the hardware 12 times in 22 years.
