JILL TIEFENTHALER

COLORADO COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Jill Tiefenthaler became Colorado College's 13th president on July 1, 2011.

Upon her arrival at the college, President Tiefenthaler began an extensive listening and planning process that led to "The Colorado College Plan: Building on the Block" strategic plan, meeting with students, faculty, staff, and community members, and hearing from hundreds of alumni and parents nationwide about their aspirations for the college. Approved by the Board of Trustees, the plan focuses on providing additional support to realize the potential of the college's pioneering Block Plan, enhancing the college's distinctive place of learning in the Southwest, and supporting an engaged and globally connected academic community.

In the years since the strategic plan was developed, President Tiefenthaler has overseen the implementation of its many initiatives. In the fall of 2017, the college dedicated a newly renovated and expanded Tutt Library to serve as the campus' intellectual hub, and a new student residential complex on East Campus to build community beyond the classroom. In addition, the college embarked upon an historic alliance that created the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center at Colorado College.

President Tiefenthaler has also worked with the college community to launch a new center for immersive learning and engaged teaching; to create innovation programs and spaces that support students as they put the liberal arts into action; and to create Half Block and summer programs focused on helping students develop valuable skills and professional experiences prior to graduation.

Additionally, during Tiefenthaler's tenure, the college has diversified its increasingly selective student body, faculty, and staff; brought distinguished scholars, artists, and innovators as visiting faculty to campus; and developed both a Campus Master Plan and a Communications Master Plan.

Since President Tiefenthaler's arrival, CC has achieved record fundraising results. The college's current campaign, "Building on Originality," is aimed at securing more than $435 million in support of strategic initiatives. During Tiefenthaler's tenure, CC received a gift valued at $175 million, representing the second-largest gift ever given to a liberal arts college.

Tiefenthaler is a leading scholar in the field of the economics of higher education, and she is frequently called on to speak on this topic across the country, in particular as it relates to the liberal arts. Her essay on the economic challenges for liberal arts colleges appears in "Remaking College: Innovation and the Liberal Arts" (Johns Hopkins University Press, October 2013). Tiefenthaler's talks on the importance of the liberal arts includes her speech, "Innovation and Collaboration: A Liberal Arts Education as a Catalyst for New Ideas," which she has delivered to several universities throughout China. As professor of economics at the college, she regularly teaches a class "The Economics of Higher Education."

After receiving her M.A. and Ph.D. in economics from Duke University, Tiefenthaler joined the faculty of Colgate University in 1991, where she also served as department chair, associate dean of the faculty, and senior adviser to the president. Before becoming president of Colorado College, Tiefenthaler was provost and professor of economics at Wake Forest University, where she led the implementation of the university's strategic plan and key initiatives, including diversity in admission, establishing new models for enhanced interdisciplinary research and collaboration, and integrating the university's undergraduate and graduate business schools.

President Tiefenthaler is originally from Iowa, where she grew up on a farm and worked for her family's popcorn business before attending Saint Mary's College in South Bend, Indiana. She is married to Kevin Rask, a research professor in economics at Colorado College. They have two teenaged children, Olivia '21 and Owen.

MIKE HAVILAND

HEAD COACH

Mike Haviland enters his fourth season at the helm of the Colorado College hockey team after taking over as the 14th head coach in the history of the program on May 9, 2014.

Haviland, a highly regarded veteran coach with experience at the NCAA, ECHL, AHL and NHL levels, brought more than 20 years of hockey coaching experience to Colorado Springs, most recently as head coach of the Hershey Bears in 2013. Prior to arriving at Hershey, he served as associate head coach of the Norfolk Admirals in 2012-13 and an assistant coach with the Chicago Blackhawks from 2008-12. During his four-year span in Chicago, he helped guide the Blackhawks to a cumulative mark of 187-101-40, a Central Division title in 2009-10 and the 2010 Stanley Cup championship.

In his first two seasons at Colorado College, Haviland helped 15 Tigers achieve a career-high in points and defenseman Jaccob Slavin earn a first-team all-NCHC selection. Seven players from those teams, including Slavin with the Carolina Hurricanes, signed professional contracts.

Last season, Haviland guided the Tigers to the Florida College Hockey Classic title with victories over Merrimack (3-0) and Cornell (2-1 in overtime). His team also squared off against the No. 1 team in the country 10 times and produced 1-1-2 record against national runner-up Minnesota Duluth, including a 1-0-1 mark in Duluth.

Before joining the Blackhawks organization, Haviland was head coach at Norfolk, then Chicago's top affiliate, and guided the Admirals to a record of 93-51-10-6 from 2005-07. In those two seasons, the Admirals broke the franchise's single-season records for wins and points, an achievement that earned Haviland the 2007 Louis A.R. Pieri Memorial Award as AHL Coach of the Year. He then went on to lead the Blackhawks' new AHL affiliate in Rockford during the 2007-08 campaign to a record of 44-26-4-6 and into two rounds of postseason play.

Prior to his time in the AHL and NHL, Haviland spent four seasons with the ECHL's Trenton Titans (2004-05) and Atlantic City Boardwalk Bullies (2001-04). He led the Boardwalk Bullies to a Kelly Cup championship in 2003, and just two years later, hoisted the trophy as the Titans' bench boss. His cumulative record in four ECHL seasons was 172-81-35.

Haviland also had success at the college level. As an assistant coach at his alma mater, Elmira College, he helped guide the team to a record of 51-12-2 and two ECAC championships from 1996-1998. As a player, he was a four-year member of the Elmira College men's ice hockey team, from 1986-90, and remains one of the best point producers in the school's history. He accumulated 152 points in his four-year career, which is 12th all-time, and is tied for ninth all time in career goals scored with 68. Haviland was a first-team All-America selection in 1989-90 after scoring 39 goals and adding 33 assists for 72 points in 33 games. He won two ECAC West Championships as a player (1987-88 and 1989-90) and helped the Soaring Eagles make two NCAA Division III Tournament appearances, including a national runner-up finish in '87-88.

Following his time as a student, Haviland was originally selected by the New Jersey Devils in the 1990 NHL Entry Draft. His experience includes AHL time with the Binghamton Whalers (1989-90) and in the ECHL with the Richmond Renegades and the Winston-Salem Thunderbirds in 1990-91.

Haviland, 50, was born in Manhattan and grew up in Middletown, N.J. He and his wife, Kristin, have a blended family of six children.

ASSISTANT COACHES

AND STAFF

R.J. ENGA
Assistant Coach

R.J. Enga, who played in 158 games for Colorado College from 1991-95, is in the fourth season of his second stint as an assistant coach with the Tigers. Enga, who served as an assistant coach during the 2008-09 campaign, became the first member of Mike Haviland's coaching staff on June 16, 2014.

Prior to rejoining the CC staff, Enga spent three seasons with the Chicago Steel of the United States Hockey League, serving as assistant coach and director of player development. During his tenure in the Windy City, he coached two current Tigers – juniors Mason Bergh and Nate Kwiecinski.

Enga's on-ice responsibilities at CC include working with the forwards and power play unit. He is also heavily involved in the program's recruiting efforts.

Enga struck for 61 goals and added 82 assists during his four seasons at Colorado College. The right winger still is tied for 37th place on the program's all-time point list with Clare Smith (1953-56).

During his senior year, Enga set career highs with 23 goals and 46 points while leading the Tigers to the championship game of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association Tournament and a berth in the NCAA Division I Ice Hockey Championship.

Enga, a member of the WCHA All-Academic Team as a junior, graduated in 1995 with a bachelor's degree in international political economy as well as a minor in philosophy.

A 10th-round selection by the New York Islanders in the 1990 NHL Entry Draft, Enga played 10 seasons of professional hockey at virtually every level.

His career highlights include being named to the East Coast Hockey League All-Rookie Team and All-Star Game in 1996, winning the West Coast Hockey League Taylor Cup as a member of the San Diego Gulls in 2003, and becoming the Colorado Gold Kings all-time leading scorer, recording 387 points on 165 goals and 222 assists in just four seasons.

Enga also played one season with TSV Erding in the German 2nd Eishockey Bundesliga, earning Most Valuable Player honors after recording 41 goals and 61 assists in 64 games.

After retiring as a player, Enga began his coaching career with Topeka of the North American Hockey League, where he helped guide the RoadRunners to back-to-back South Division Championships in 2009 and 2010, as well as the 2010 NAHL President's Trophy. He also spent six years with the Pikes Peak Miners AAA organization, serving as both hockey director and head coach of the 18U squad.

LEON HAYWARD
Assistant Coach

Leon Hayward was hired as an assistant coach for the Colorado College hockey program on July 13, 2017.

Hayward was an assistant coach with the Bloomington Thunder of the United States Hockey League prior to joining the Tiger staff.

Before joining the Thunder, Hayward spent three years as an assistant hockey coach at Avon Old Farms School, a prep school located in Avon, Connecticut. He also served as the Dean of Enrollment at Avon Old Farms during that time.

During his tenure at Avon, he recruited and coached two NHL draft picks and five players that represented Team USA at the Ivan Hlinka and 5 Nations tournaments. He also recruited three players that will participate in the USA Hockey National Team Development Program next season.

The Seattle, Wash., native brings both Division I and professional playing experience to his role with the Tigers.

Hayward played four seasons as a forward at Northeastern University from 1998-2002, scoring 30 points (15g,15a) in 132 career games. He then spent six years playing professionally, including four in the American Hockey League, collecting 85 goals and 88 assists for 173 points.

One of the crowning achievements of his professional career came in 2004-05 when he led the Trenton Titans, coached by CC head coach Mike Haviland, to the East Coast Hockey League's Kelly Cup Championship. Hayward was named the Finals MVP and had 11 points in 20 playoff games that season.

From 2011-14, Hayward served as head hockey coach at The Governor's Academy, a prep school in Newbury, Mass. Prior to that, he was an assistant coach at the Taft School for three seasons before taking the top job at The Governor's Academy and also has coaching experience outside of hockey in both lacrosse and football.

Hayward graduated from the D'Amore McKim School of Business at Northeastern University with a concentration in entrepreneurship and earned a master's degree in leadership with a concentration in nonprofit management from Northeastern in 2014.

Hayward and his wife, Jessica, have two sons, Ellison and Harlan.

BEN BRANSFIELD
Director of Hockey Operations

Ben Bransfield is in his second season as the director of hockey operations and video coordinator for the Colorado College hockey program in 2017-18.

Prior to joining the program prior to the 2016-17 campaign, Bransfield spent two years as an assistant to the director of hockey operations at UMass-Lowell. His duties included helping with day to day operations, assisting with practice planning, video operations, pre- and post-game video breakdown and reviewing post-game analytics. In addition, he oversaw expenses for the hockey team and booked travel and meals.

Bransfield, originally from Newburyport, Mass., received his bachelor's degree in finance from UMass-Lowell in 2014.

KEN RALPH | DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Whether Ken Ralph is conducting a staff meeting, interviewing candidates for an open position or diligently working behind the scenes on the latest leap forward involving sports and recreation at Colorado College, it's refreshingly obvious that Ken Ralph has infused a contagious spirit of enthusiasm, heightened sense of accountability and widespread commitment to excellence during his ten years as director of athletics.

An energetic, well-spoken and approachable leader with a resolute attitude, uncompromising work ethic and common-sense approach to any situation, Ralph has demonstrated not only the vision to steer the department in exciting directions, but also the instincts, motivational abilities, perseverance and professionalism to see those dreams through to fruition. The completion of the spectacular $27 million El Pomar Sports Center renovation and expansion project in 2013, followed by CC's debut as a member of the new National Collegiate Hockey Conference shortly thereafter, provide the latest testament to his effectuality. Earlier during his tenure in office, the school successfully launched a new, dynamic athletics website and implemented live video streaming of home games for nearly half of its 17 varsity programs.

Ralph currently manages a department with a budget of $8.5 million. A member of the Colorado Springs Sports Corporation board of directors, he has served as president of the Board of Directors for the eight-team NCHC, which he was instrumental in forming from its conceptualization. He was also the tournament director for the 2008 NCAA Men's Ice Hockey West Regional at the World Arena after running two previous regionals – in 2004 and 2006, both in Albany, N.Y.

Before joining the Tiger family in 2007, he spent five years as the athletic director at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Like Colorado College, Rensselaer also is a Division III school with two Division I teams, so Ralph was no stranger to the athletic department's multi-divisional status upon his arrival. In 2004, he was involved as the NCAA voted overwhelmingly in favor of amended legislation that permitted both schools and six other Division III institutions to continue granting financial aid to student-athletes who compete on their Division I teams. For CC, the outcome preserved men's ice hockey and women's soccer at the Division I level. For RPI, it was Division I men's and women's hockey. Other schools affected were Clarkson University, Hartwick College, Johns Hopkins University, Rutgers-Newark, St. Lawrence University, and SUNY-Oneonta.

Prior to his stint at Rensselaer, Ralph served as senior assistant director of athletics, head swimming coach and head water polo coach at Connecticut College; director of aquatics, head swimming coach and physical education instructor at the University of Evansville; assistant swimming coach and physical education instructor at the U.S. Air Force Academy; director of aquatics and head swimming coach at Kutztown University; director of aquatics and head swimming coach at Georgetown University; assistant swimming coach at the University of Missouri and assistant swimming coach at the University of Alaska Anchorage. He has served on committees for ECAC Hockey, USA Hockey, and the Liberty League.

Ralph is a 1991 graduate of Alaska Anchorage, where he earned five NCAA Division II All-America awards in swimming, was twice named UAA Swimmer of the Year, and was a USS Senior National Qualifier. In 2005, he was inducted into the school's Athletics Hall of Fame. After receiving his bachelor's degree in political science from UAA, he earned a master's degree in sports management studies from California University (Pa.). He and his wife, Mary, have been married for 22 years.

THE CAMPUS

Where the cityscape of downtown Colorado Springs meets the Rocky Mountains sits Colorado College, a small, private liberal arts college with an approach to education as adventurous as its location.

Nestled on 90 acres just north of downtown Colorado Springs near the base of the 14,115-foot Pikes Peak, CC is within three hours of 10 ski resorts and less than a day's drive from seven national parks. It's the only college of its kind in the Rocky Mountain region and one of only a handful of its type located in a metropolitan area.

Adopted in 1970, Colorado College's "Block Plan" is a uniquely intensive academic schedule that allows students to plunge into a different subject every three and a half weeks rather than juggling several throughout a semester. Students take one course at a time and professors teach one, with each block covering the same amount of material as a semester system. There are four blocks per semester, eight per year, plus two optional half blocks.

The result? You can study the film industry on location in Hollywood, find Jupiter during evening labs in Barnes observatory, or traverse the natural wonders of the Southwest as a field archaeologist. Classes are small, hands-on and highly focused, and never in a jam-packed lecture hall.

A full spectrum of the performing arts, special interest clubs and organizations, student publications and intramural and intercollegiate athletics complements 40 majors and 34 minors in rounding out the rigorous academic program at CC. The college encourages freedom of expression through an independent student press, as well as student and faculty forums on current issues and programs representing widely ranging viewpoints, often presented by distinguished visitors.

MORE ABOUT THE BLOCK PLAN

The hands-on spirit of the Block Plan encourages interaction between students and their surroundings. Field zoology students peer through binoculars for elk in Rocky Mountain National Park. Sociology classes walk downtown to the courthouse for social justice observation.

With an enrollment of barely 2,000 and a nine-to-one ratio with faculty, our students get to know accomplished instructors who teach first and foremost – all in seminar-style classes. They may choose to work on a student/faculty collaborative research project or create their own independent study, while learning to venture their own opinions and begin the process of shaping their own direction and destiny. The student body typically is composed of men and women from all 50 states and more than two dozen foreign countries. A large majority hails from states other than Colorado. A significant percentage is either American ethnic minority or international students, and most live on campus. All but a very small percentage participate in community service, play intramural sports or study abroad at some point during their collegiate career.

SPEAKING OF ATHLETICS

Colorado College has a long and proud tradition of intercollegiate athletics and today offers competition in eight varsity sports for men and nine for women. That includes NCAA Division I soccer for women in addition to ice hockey for men. Otherwise, the Tigers compete at the Division III level.

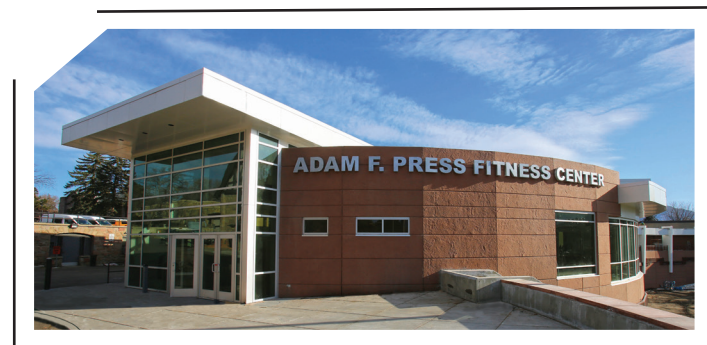

While the hockey team plays and practices at The Broadmoor World Arena, located six miles from campus, all other intercollegiate, intramural and recreational athletics programs are centered in an easily accessible area consisting of the spectacular El Pomar Sports Center, Washburn and Stewart Fields, Burghart Tennis Courts and Honnen Ice Rink.

The El Pomar Sports Center, whose $27 million renovation and expansion project was completed in 2013, houses the Department of Athletics offices as well as Reid Arena, home court for the CC basketball and volleyball teams, and Schlessman Natatorium. Other state-of-the-art facilities within the building, now available to all Colorado College students, faculty, college administrators and their immediate families, include the Adam F. Press Fitness Center; a cardio conditioning room and strength area; separate space for varsity training; a yoga studio; squash courts; two auxiliary gyms; expanded physical therapy space; indoor and outdoor lounge spaces for socializing and separate locker rooms for students, faculty and staff.

Washburn Field serves as the home stadium for men's lacrosse and the track and field teams, as well as an occasional venue for the men's and women's intercollegiate soccer squads. A six-lane, quarter-mile, latex track borders the perimeter, lights accommodate night activities and bleacher seating allows for 2,500 spectators. Stewart Field, adjacent to Washburn, provides the primary home to the soccer teams as well as women's lacrosse.

Participation in athletics is integral to a well-balanced liberal arts education. To that end Colorado College is committed to supporting a vibrant athletics program consisting of varsity, club, and intramural sports in which the pursuit of excellence in a safe, supportive, ethical and sportsmanlike manner is an important component of competition. Athletic success and academic success are not mutually exclusive; rather the two, when balanced properly, augment each other.

In addition, the Department of Athletics supports opportunities in casual recreation and fitness, and partners with the Outdoor Education Program to provide a foundation for faculty, staff, and students to pursue health, wellness, and positive social interaction through physical activity.

THE BROADMOOR

WORLD ARENA

Colorado College had an impressive .629 winning percentage (252-143-26) in 421 games at The Broadmoor World Arena entering the 2017-18 season.

More than 19 years after opening its doors as the CC hockey program's new home in January of 1998, the recently renamed Broadmoor World Arena in Colorado Springs remains one of the finest college hockey facilities anywhere. It has been on national display as site of the 2004 and 2008 NCAA West Regionals, and played host to the annual Ice Breaker Invitational in 2005. The Tigers, meanwhile, have compiled a .629 winning percentage (252-143-26) there entering the 2017-18 season, and aim to continue taking full advantage of their state-of-the-art surroundings for years to come.

Everything about the facility is first class, and the Colorado College program is a major benefactor of the amenities. Part of a $58.8 million complex located in the southern end of the city's business district off Interstate 25, the main arena features an Olympic-size sheet of ice (100 by 200 feet) and seats 7,380 spectators for hockey. The complex also includes an ice hall with two additional sheets of ice that have been in operation since summer of 1995, giving the Tigers an option of practicing on a smaller NHL-size rink in preparation for any upcoming opponent.

From a fan's perspective, The Broadmoor World Arena earns high marks as every seat features an unobstructed view. The rise per row of the stands helps everyone feel right on top of the action, with concessions and restrooms conveniently nearby, whether you're in the lower or upper level. Of course, accommodations for the media are top-notch. Hanging from the ceiling above the ice are large banners commemorating Colorado College's championships and NCAA tournament appearances. The outer concourse is adorned with beautiful tiles as well as murals and additional memorabilia honoring CC's rich hockey history. Sellouts are common, and the large crowds have plenty to experience in addition to the action on the ice.

Under the stands, the Tigers enjoy their own custom facilities including an oversized locker room that leads directly to the ice and home team's bench. Adjacent to the locker room at opposite ends are spacious areas for the medical staff and equipment storage and maintenance. Just across the hall, head coach Mike Haviland and his assistants occupy private offices with a door leading directly to a team meeting room.

In addition to showcasing Colorado College Hockey, the technically equipped, multi-use World Arena serves as host for a wide variety of other indoor sporting and public events. As the facility's anchor tenant, however, CC has established a presence there rivaled by none. Certainly, when one sees or thinks of The Broadmoor World Arena, the Tigers also are likely to come to mind.

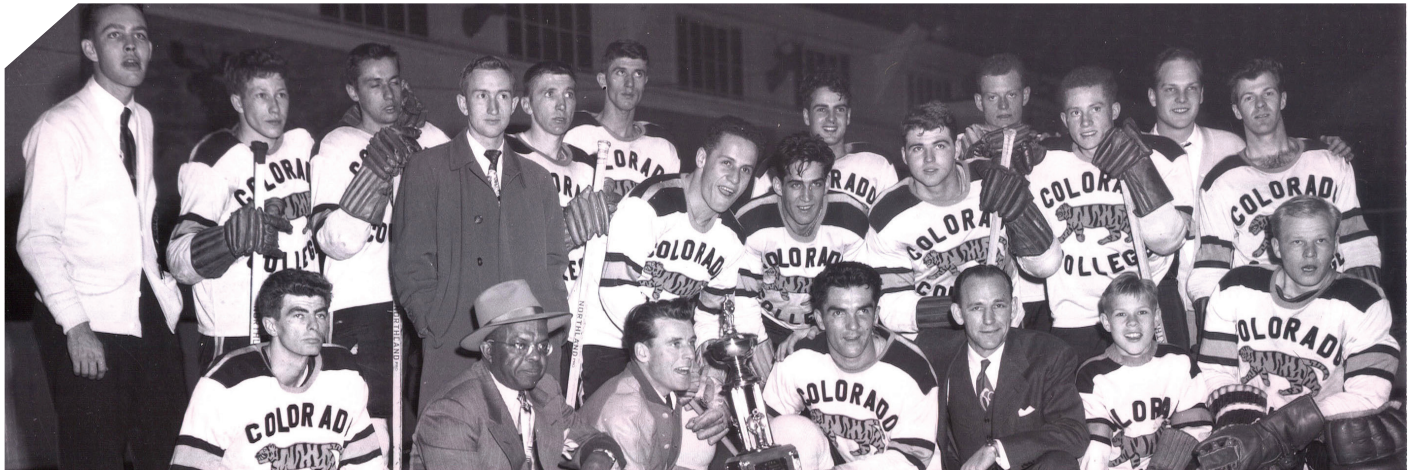

EXCEEDING 2.75 MILLION

In 421 home dates since opening The Broadmoor World Arena midway through the 1997-98 season, the Tigers have attracted more than 2.75 million spectators, with an average attendance of 6,547 per outing. Ranked fourth nationally their first full season (1998-99) when they drew more than 160,000 fans, they have sustained the momentum while finishing no lower than ninth in total attendance the last 16 campaigns. In 2013-14, the average attendance for 18 NCAA home games was 87 percent of capacity. The record for a single contest was set in March 2005, when 7,881 packed the stands for a late-season showdown with the University of Denver.

THE HISTORY

OF TIGER HOCKEY

NCAA Champions: The Tigers erupted for 10 goals in the third period to rout Boston University, 13-4, at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on March 18, 1950, and win their first NCAA title. They'd beaten Boston College, 10-3, in the semifinals two days earlier.

On May 9, 2014, Mike Haviland was tabbed to keep the Colorado College hockey team purring along as one of the nation's most elite Division I programs. With 12 NCAA tournament bids, six regular-season league titles and 17 home-ice playoff berths tucked away during the last two decades alone, Haviland hopes to add another successful chapter to the program's fabled history.

CC's recent string of success, which includes trips to the national "Frozen Four" in 1996, 1997 and 2005, speaks volumes for the modern-day version of a program that has spanned eight decades. But where does the tale really begin? How has Colorado College, a private liberal arts and sciences college with an enrollment of barely 2,000 students, maintained such elite status in a sport filled with Division I giants?

Two concepts come to mind: Tradition. From its pre-World War II roots, to its hosting of the first 10 NCAA Tournaments and co-founding of two hockey conferences, the school has influenced college hockey's growth from infancy. Commitment. Proving that academic and athletic excellence can co-exist in a small campus environment, CC has relied on vision, hard work and creativity to revive, nourish and sustain a program that many others across the nation aspire to imitate.

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS

Colorado College Hockey got its start in 1938, when the Broadmoor Hotel converted its seldom-used indoor riding academy into an ice rink. The Broadmoor World Arena, originally called the Broadmoor Ice Palace, served as CC's home for 55 seasons before it was demolished at the conclusion of the 1993-94 campaign. In 2013-14, after 54 seasons as a charter member of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, the Tigers helped launch the NCHC's inaugural campaign and their 75th overall against outside competition. They were 675-839-78 (.448) in 1,592 WCHA regular-season outings, as well as 52-69-1 (.430) in the league playoffs.

Back in 1938, thanks to sponsorship from local business firms, eight inexperienced teams including one from CC were able to organize the Pikes Peak Hockey League.

Tiger Hockey officially made its debut on January 21st of that year in an 8-1 loss to a team sponsored by Giddings department store. Colorado College finished the campaign with three victories and nine defeats under player-coach and team captain John Atwood, of Watertown, CT.

The program made significant strides forward the following season under new coach Garrett Livingston, whose leadership the next four years helped vault CC to national prominence. While several New England students with backgrounds in high school hockey joined the team, the strongest addition was Ernie Young of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. When Young returned in the fall of 1939 for his second year at the school, he brought four more Canadian

With Livingston at the helm, those players helped the Tigers sweep the

THE HISTORY

OF TIGER HOCKEY

Jaden Schwartz scored two goals and added two assists to lead the Tigers to an 8-4 victory over top-seed Boston College in the 2011 West Region semifinals.

the University of Michigan, 4-2 and 4-3, in their first-ever intercollegiate series early during the 1939-40 season. Colorado College also played games against Colorado School of Mines, the Montana School of Mines and the University of Southern California, champion of the Pacific Coast League, that season. Enthusiasm reached a feverish pitch among CC hockey supporters for the next few years, with games at the Broadmoor Ice Palace selling out on a regular basis. By winter of 1942, the Tigers had earned a reputation as one of college hockey's "Big Four," along with USC, the University of Illinois and Dartmouth.

THE EVOLUTION AS A POWERHOUSE

Due to World War II, no games were played in 1942-43 or '43-44, but the sport was rejuvenated at Colorado College and nationwide in 1944-45. With the return of former players and the addition of seven more Canadians, the Tigers quickly were on the rise again. Cheddy Thompson, who came to Colorado Springs when he was assigned to 2nd Air Force Headquarters here, took over the coaching duties in the fall of 1945 and held the position for the next decade.

In cooperation with the Broadmoor Hotel, Colorado College sponsored the first National Collegiate Athletic Association Hockey Championships at the end of the 1947-48 season. The tournament was held at the Ice Palace for the next decade, with CC participating seven times — in 1948, '49, '50, '51, '52, '55 and '57. Thompson was at the helm when CC won its first NCAA crown in 1950 and finished as runner-up in 1952 and '55. He was named National Coach of the Year in 1952 by the United States Hockey

Coaches Association.

In 1951, Colorado College helped found the Mid-West Collegiate Hockey League, which changed its name to the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League in 1953. Other charter members were the University of Denver, Michigan, Michigan State, Michigan Tech, Minnesota and North Dakota. The WIHL evolved to become the Western Collegiate Hockey Association in November of 1959, with the 2012-13 version of the WCHA consisting of five of its original seven teams plus the University of Alaska Anchorage, Bemidji State, Minnesota-Duluth, Minnesota State, Nebraska-Omaha, St. Cloud State and Wisconsin.

The Tigers hoisted the MacNaughton Trophy as WCHA regular-season champions for the ninth and final time in March 2008. It was their third title in five years and sixth since 1994. They won an unprecedented three consecutive crowns in the mid-1990s (1993-94, '94-95 and '95-96). The previous three came during the 1950s (1951-52, '54-55 and '56-57). During the 1956-57 season, Colorado College won a then-school record 25 games and wrapped up its second NCAA championship under coach Tom Bedeck. CC made history again in 2013-14 as the new "super" conference, originally created in July 2011, made its long awaited debut. Other members of the NCHC include the University of Denver, Miami University, Minnesota Duluth, Nebraska Omaha, North Dakota, St. Cloud State and Western Michigan.

LAUNCH PAD TO SUCCESS

Four Colorado College coaches — John Matchefts (1968-69), Jeff Sauer (1971-72 and '74-75), Brad Buetow (1991-92) and Don Lucia (1993-94 and '95-96) — earned WCHA Coach of the Year honors. Sauer (2003) and Matchefts (2007) both have been named recipients of the prestigious John "Snooks" Kelley Founders Award for their contributions to the overall growth and development of ice hockey nationwide. Sauer, head coach of the U.S. National Sled Hockey Team that has won gold (2012 and '14) and silver (2013) medals at the last three International Paralympic Committee World Championships, also received the NHL's Lester Patrick Trophy in 2011 for outstanding service to the sport in the United States.

Cheddy Thompson (1951-52), Tony Frasca (1962-63), Lucia (1993-94) and former CC assistant Norm Bazin (2012-13), now the bench boss at UMass-Lowell, each have

PAST CC HOBLEY BAKER NOMINEES

Three former Colorado College players – Jay McNeill in 1995, Peter Geronazzo in 1996, and Brian Swanson in 1997 and 1999 – were named finalists for the Hobey Baker Memorial Award before Peter Sejna became the first Tiger ever to win it in 2003. CC's Tom Preissing also was a finalist during the 2002-03 season while Brett Sterling joined teammate Marty Sertich among the 'Hobey Hat Trick' Top 3 in 2005.

OTHERS WITH COLORADO COLLEGE CONNECTIONS

A number of CC coaches, as well as other team personnel, have served on Team USA staffs at elite international competitions since the mid-1970s.

Greg Cronin, an assistant with the Tigers in the early 1990s, was an assistant coach for the American squads at the 1997, 2011 and 2012 World Championships, as well as at the 1997 and 1998 World Juniors. Formerly a head coach at the University of Maine (1995-97) and Northeastern University (2005-11), Cronin now is an assistant with the New York Islanders. Mike Gibbons, who spent two seasons (1988-90) at Colorado College and currently is a member of the coaching staff at St. Cloud State University, helped guide the U.S. to a fourth-place finish at the 2006 Junior World tournament in Vancouver, British Columbia. Mike Guentzel, who served on Scott Owens' staff at CC in 2008-09 while his son Gabe played for the Tigers, has been an assistant coach under Dean Blais for the U.S. entry at three Junior World Championships (1994, '95 and '96). Guentzel returned to the University of Minnesota, his alma mater and previous employer for 14 seasons, to become associate head coach in 2011-12 after a three-year hiatus. The late Dave Peterson, a volunteer goaltending coach for Colorado College in the mid-1990s, served as head coach of the United States Olympic Team in 1988 and 1992, as well as for three national teams (1985, '86 and '87) and two national junior teams (1986 and '87). He also was an assistant for the U.S. junior squad in 1982, '85, '85, '87, '95 and '96.

The late Mike Radokovich began a three-year stint on Jeff Sauer's staff at CC in 1975 after serving as an assistant with the U.S. juniors in 1974. Sauer, who spent 11 seasons (1971-82) at the Tigers' helm, guided the American sled hockey team to a gold medal at the 2010 and 2014 Paralympic Games.

Longtime Colorado College sports medicine director Bruce Kola, who retired in 2012, was a member of the United States staff for the 1980 (head trainer) and 1984 Winter Olympic Games in Lake Placid and Sarajevo. Dr. Tom Mahony, one of CC's team physicians for many years, served in that capacity at the 1988 Winter Games in Calgary. Former Tigers equipment manager Walt Predovich, who was at the college from 1971 through 1975, took his skills to the 1976 Olympics in Innsbruck.

COLORADO COLLEGE

AND THE STANLEY CUP

There are few pictures that convey excitement as much as a hockey player or coach lifting the Stanley Cup over their head after winning the most recognizable trophy in professional sports.

Head coach Mike Haviland is one of four people associated with Colorado College Hockey whose name is on the Stanley Cup. Haviland was an assistant coach with the Chicago Blackhawks when they won the Cup in 2010, defeating the Philadelphia Flyers in six games.

The first Colorado College player/coach to win the Stanley Cup was Bill "Red" Hay, who was part of the Blackhawks team that won the title in 1961 with a six-game series win over the Detroit Red Wings. Hay, who played at CC from 1955-58, helped the Tigers to the NCAA Championship in 1957 and was a two-time All-American. He is 31st on CC's career scoring list with 154 points (60 goals, 94 assists).

Bob Johnson was the head coach at Colorado College from 1963-66 and led the Pittsburgh Penguins to the 1991 Stanley Cup by defeating the Minnesota North Stars four games to two. That was Johnson's only season behind the Pittsburgh bench as he passed away in August of 1991 after suffering a brain aneurysm.

Former defenseman Doug Lidster has his name on the Cup twice, winning it with the New York Rangers in 1994 and again with the Dallas Stars in 1999. The Rangers defeated the Vancouver Canucks, who Lidster had played for the previous 10 seasons, while the Stars downed the Buffalo Sabres in six games. Lidster played for the Tigers from 1979-83 and earned All-America status as a senior in 1983. His 174 points (56 goals, 118 assists) is ranked 15th on the school's all-time scoring list and he is the third-highest scoring defenseman in program history.

AND THE NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

Jaden Schwartz, St. Louis Blues

A first-round draft pick of the St. Louis Blues in June 2010, when he was chosen 14th overall, Jaden Schwartz emerged among seven former Colorado College standouts making their presence felt in the National Hockey League during the 2016-17 season.

Schwartz, who led the Tigers in scoring as a freshman and sophomore before turning pro in April 2012, joined Richard Bachman, Curtis McElhinney, Gustav Olofsson, Nate Prosser, Jaccob Slavin and Mark Stuart in competing at the sport's most elite level last season. Entering the 2017-18 campaign, 38 CC stars of the past had experienced playing in "The Show."

With several others under contract in the minor leagues, eagerly awaiting their turns, that number is likely to climb even higher in the near future. In fact, seven Tigers that have graduated in the last three years, Peter Stoykewych, Aaron Harstad, Ian Young, Scott Wamsganz, Charlie Taft, Hunter Fejes and Sam Rothstein, each signed a professional contract.

While Schwartz and Stuart are the only first-rounders ever to play for Colorado College, more than 75 current or former Tigers have had their names called in the NHL draft. The Boston Bruins made Stuart their No. 1 pick and the league's 21st overall in June 2003.

FORMER TIGERS

IN THE NHL

Colorado College Hall of Fame defenseman Doug Lidster won Stanley Cups with the New York Rangers and Dallas Stars.

Tom Preissing played in 326 NHL games over six seasons with the San Jose Sharks, Ottawa Senators, Los Angeles Kings and the Colorado Avalanche. He helped the Senators reach the Stanley Cup final in 2006-07.

Originally drafted by the Pittsburgh Penguins, 2000 grad Toby Petersen also played for the Edmonton Oilers and Dallas Stars during his 14-year career.

1995-96 MACNAUGHTON CUP CHAMPIONS

The 1995-96 Tigers won the MacNaughton Cup for the third consecutive year and advanced to the NCAA Championship Game before losing to Michigan, 3-2 in overtime. Only one other school, North Dakota from 1997-99, has won the trophy three straight seasons.

TIGERS ON THE AIR

CC TIGER SPORTS NETWORK

Renewing an old partnership that makes its hockey broadcasts available on both radio dials for the first time, Colorado College skated into the National Collegiate Hockey Conference's inaugural season with KRDO 1240 AM/105.5 FM serving as flagship station of the CC Tiger Sports Network in 2013-14 ... and continues again this season.

KRDO's broadcasts can be heard loudly and clearly throughout the greater Colorado Springs and Pueblo areas as well as worldwide via the Internet and on mobile phone applications. This past year, KRDO added a second FM station, 92.5 FM.

In addition its coverage of all Tiger games, home and away, KRDO will air the hour-long (6:00-7:00 p.m. MT) Mike Haviland Coach's Show six times (see schedule below) during the season.

All CC home games and league road games in 2016-17 also can be viewed on-line, courtesy of NCHC.tv. To sign up for NCHC.tv, login to nchc.tv/packages.

KEN LANDAU PLAY-BY-PLAY BROADCASTER

Ken Landau, an award-winning 25-year veteran of the college hockey broadcast scene, returns for his 12th season as official "Voice of the Tigers" in 2017-18.

A 1982 graduate of Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in telecommunications, Landau called the play-by-play for MSU hockey from 1979 through 1985, then again from 1990 through 1997. He also spent three seasons serving in a similar capacity at the University of Michigan.

In 2016, Landau won his fifth Award of Excellence – one of the Colorado Broadcast Association's most coveted honors. The CBA awards are presented annually for "Best Sports Coverage" by an individual or broadcast team.

In 1992, Landau earned the Associated Press of Michigan broadcast award for best play-by-play. And, in 2003, he called the first college hockey game ever for College Sports Television and hosted CSTV's wall-to-wall coverage of the Frozen Four in Buffalo.

Landau has worked extensively as a sports talk-show host and television sports anchor and reporter. In addition, he helped form a sports marketing company that published the first two books ever devoted to the history of a college hockey program – "Awe Inspiring: The Storied History of Spartan Hockey" and "Shot and A Goal: The Tradition of Wisconsin Badger Hockey."

Away from the rink, Landau is self-employed as president of his own consulting firm.

STAFF AND 2016-17 RECAP

The National Collegiate Hockey Conference, which made its debut in 2013-14, was formed on July 13, 2011 by Colorado College and five other founding members - University of Denver, Miami University, University of Minnesota Duluth, University of Nebraska Omaha and University of North Dakota.

The NCHC soon became an eight-team league with the addition of St. Cloud State and Western Michigan later that same year.

With headquarters located near the Broadmoor Hotel right here in Colorado Springs, in the same building that houses our local Sports Corporation, the conference staff took shape piece by piece since that time. Commissioner Josh Fenton oversees a group of professionals that includes Verna Toller, business operations manager, Michael Weisman, director of communications and Don Adam, director of officials.

Intent on being the best single-sport conference in the entire National Collegiate Athletic Association, the NCHC continues to forge ahead this season. Its stated mission is to facilitate and foster competitive, academic and operational excellence collectively and individually for all eight institutions while maintaining a culture of integrity reflecting its commitment to the well-being of the student-athletes and fans they entertain.
