Past CC Hobey Baker Nominees

Three former Colorado College players – Jay McNeill in 1995, Peter Geronazzo in 1996, and Brian Swanson in 1997 and 1999 – were named finalists for the Hobey Baker Memorial Award before Peter Sejna became the first Tiger ever to win it in 2003. CC's Tom Preissing also was a finalist during the 2002-03 season while Brett Sterling joined teammate Marty Sertich among the 'Hobey Hat Trick' Top 3 in 2005.

National Player of the Year

Peter Sejna became the first Colorado College player ever to win the Hobey Baker Memorial Award after claiming the NCAA scoring title in 2002-03.

Marty Sertich became the second Tiger to win the Hobey while claiming the national scoring crown in 2004-05.

HOBEY BAKER WINNERS

Sejna is first from Colorado College to win Hobey

BUFFALO, N.Y. (2003) -- Colorado College forward Peter Sejna became the first European player to win the Hobey Baker award as college hockey's most valuable player on Friday.

It capped not only an impressive season, but also an impressive week for the junior from Slovakia. The announcement, made during the NCAA Frozen Four festivities in Buffalo, came after Sejna made his NHL debut with St. Louis, and scored a goal against Colorado's Patrick Roy last Sunday.

"This last week, just so many things have happened, I think I'm still adjusting and realizing what's happening," Sejna said. "It's going a little bit fast, but I'm trying to keep up."

No one could keep up with Sejna this past season. He led the nation with 36 goals -- eight of them game-winners -- and 82 points in 42 games, and was the Western College Hockey Association's player of the year.

Sejna beat two other finalists, Cornell goaltender Dave LeNeveu, who has broken several school records set by Ken Dryden, and Ferris State senior forward Chris Kunitz, who ranked second in scoring with 79 points.

Sejna was only the second European named a Hobey Baker finalist. Cornell defenseman Doug Murray, a native of Sweden, was the first last year, losing out to Minnesota's Jordan Leopold.

"It's just a great thing, and hopefully this is going to help more European players think that this is the right way to go through college hockey," Sejna said.

He became the first forward to win the award since New Hampshire's Jason Krog in 1999, and is Colorado College's first Hobey Baker winner in the award's 23-year history.

Sejna came to the United States five years ago to play junior hockey with Des Moines of the U.S. Hockey League. He then signed with Colorado College, reuniting with his Des Moines coach, Scott Owens.

"I'm absolutely thrilled for him because you could truly say he deserves it," said Owens, who attended the award ceremony. "The model of consistency, the game-winning goals, he's a difference every time he's on the ice."

In three seasons with the Tigers, Sejna finished with 91 goals and 190 points, which ranks eighth in school history. By signing with St. Louis, Sejna relinquished the final year of his college eligibility.

The award is also considered a great boost to the Colorado College program.

"It's a huge feather in our cap," Owens said. "I know they've only had the Hobey since 1981, but we've had hockey since 1940 and it's huge for our history and our tradition."

Marty Sertich Wins Hobey Baker Award

COLUMBUS, OHIO (2005) -- Colorado College center Marty Sertich won the Hobey Baker Award on Friday, taking the honors as college hockey's top player.

The junior led the nation in scoring with 64 points in 42 games while helping the Tigers to the Frozen Four. Colorado College (31-9-3) was beaten 6-2 by Denver in the national semifinals on Thursday night.

When his name was announced, Sertich shook hands with his linemate, junior forward Brett Sterling, who was also a finalist for the award. The third finalist was Cornell sophomore goaltender David McKee.

"It's been an unbelievable year, it's been quite a ride," Sertich said. "I think we all wish we were still playing but it's fun just to make it this far. I want to thank my teammates for the year we had. Couldn't have done it without you guys, especially my linemate Brett."

Sertich becomes the second Colorado College player to win the award, following Peter Sejna in 2003. Sertich played on Sejna's line that season. The 5-foot-9, 163-pounder Sertich finished second in the nation in goals with 27 -- trailing only Sterling's 34 -- and was second in assists with 37.

He was the player of the year in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, the league in which all four Frozen Four teams played.

"In the past I tended to pass first," Sertich said. "So this year I tried to shoot a little more. I got a few bounces and was able to put up some more points."

McKee had 10 shutouts during the season and led the nation with a 1.24 goals-against average and had a .947 save percentage. He has started 67 games in a row.

Sterling finished with 63 points, including 18 power-play goals to lead the nation. He was drafted in the fifth round by the Atlanta Thrashers in last year's NHL draft. He said he was looking forward to playing with Sertich again next season.

"Hopefully I can play with Marty next year," he said. "Who wouldn't want to play with a Hobey winner?"

ALL-AMERICANS

With the addition of Kaidan Mbereko and Noah Laba for the 2023-24 team, 46 Colorado College hockey players have earned All-America status since Joe Slattery became the school's first hockey All-American at the end of the 1947-48 season. Mbereko was named to the first team, while Laba secured a spot on the second team last season.

Those 47 Tigers have earned the distinction a total of 64 times, including Nick Halloran, who earned a spot on the West Region second team following the '17-18 season. Prior to Mbereko last year, the most recent first-team honoree was left winger Jaden Schwartz, who was named to the West first team as a sophomore in 2011-12 and joined CC's all-time list that recognizes six goalies, 15 defensemen and 26 forwards.
