CLARKSON HOCKEY —A TRADITION of SUCCESS

Success has always been the cornerstone of Clarkson Hockey. From the early years of the twentieth century, when the Golden Knights skated on the frozen Raquette River, to the present, Clarkson has established a legacy of excellence that symbolizes proud tradition. Through the first 100 years of hockey at Clarkson, the Green and Gold have achieved many significant milestones. Overall Clarkson, which became the fastest Division I college hockey team to compile 1,000 victories, and one of only a few to reach the elite mark, has compiled a highly successful 1,517-898-175 record for an all-time winning percentage of .619, among the best in the country.

1937-38 United States Championship Team

The Knights have participated in 22 NCAA Tournaments, including three championship games, won 10 ECAC Hockey Regular Season titles, skated away with six ECAC Hockey Tournament championship trophies and have showcased some of the greatest student-athletes to ever play college hockey.

It is said that the first Clarkson hockey game was played in 1916 against the Hogansburg Indians, but the Golden Knights were established as a hockey club in 1921, under the tutelage of head coach Gordon Croskery and led by captain Bill Johnson. The Knights won their opening encounter against Alexandria Bay, 6-4, and finished the year with a 2-1 record, their first of 77 winning seasons.

The college produced its first All-America in 1928, Fred Dion, a defenseman, and many more have followed in his footsteps—40 to be exact, including 13 who have won the prestigious honor twice. All-America center Buzz Williams (1929) and goaltender Wally Easton (1930, 1931) led head coach Jack Roos's teams to successful seasons in the late twenties and early thirties, but it was 1935 that was the big year for hockey at Clarkson. That was the season hockey actually became a part of the college's athletic program and the Knights became a team instead of a club. Also in 1935, the Clarkson skaters were crowned United States champions with a record of 10-3. In the 1937-38 season, the Knights compiled a 13-1 record and were crowned United States Intercollegiate champs.

With that title came the advent of the Clarkson Arena, which was opened for public inspection on Christmas Eve of 1938 and used for the first game on January 2, 1939. At that time, Clarkson, with an enrollment of 572, was one of the smallest colleges in the country boasting its own indoor hockey arena. Chain link fence, instead of glass, protected the fans from errant pucks and sticks. And, instead of a Zamboni buzzing around between periods, the ice was cleaned by three to six men with shovels and a hose. Artificial ice was installed in 1952, making skating possible from October to March. The arena was renamed Walker Arena on November 1, 1975 in honor of Murray Walker, a local businessman who is considered the "Father of Clarkson Hockey". For 53 years the Knights enjoyed a very successful era at the arena, posting a 471-160-22 home record. Throughout the years, the Knights relished the encouragement of the vibrant home crowds and adapted well to the small ice surface (81x191), while opposing players cringed at the clanging of the infamous bell in the east end which rang after every Clarkson score. Former Cornell all-star goaltender Ken Dryden, who went on to star in the NHL, was once asked what he recalled most about his college career and he was rumored to have remarked, "That damn bell at Clarkson."

1922-23 Clarkson Hockey

World War II had its effect on Clarkson College and sports, and the war years were lean ones for the hockey team. In 1943-44, the Green and Gold suffered through a 0-7 campaign, and the following two seasons, 1944-46, Clarkson suspended the program. The Knights rebuilt the hockey program after the war and achieved a great deal of success under head coach Bill Harrison, who took the helm in 1948-49.

1956-57 Seniors (l-r): A. Young, B. Barr, D. Seale A. Quartermain, D. May, D. Williamson, E. Rowe with Dean Herron.

The 1950s

In the 1950s, Clarkson established itself among the elite teams in the nation with its championship-caliber squads. Under the guidance of head coach Bill Harrison, the Golden Knights skated to several of the best records in the program's storied history during that era and also participated in the NCAA Tournament for the first time when the national playoff was limited to the four best teams in the country.

One of the key components of Clarkson's success during the early years of the decade was the scoring prowess from the Jack Porter, Tom Meeker and Ellard Gutzman line. Ranking among the Green and Gold's all-time leading scorers by averaging over two goals a game, the trio provided Golden Knights' fans with plenty of excitement at Clarkson Arena combining for 195 goals and 227 assists for 422 points from 1952-56.

1955-56 Undefeated Team

Clarkson's 1955-56 squad, which was led by captain Al Ziebarth and All-Americas Eddie Rowe and Art Smith along with the steady production of the "Porter Line", posted a phenomenal 23-0 record and was Tri-State League Champs. Rowe was the Knights' leading scorer during the undefeated campaign, scoring 65 points on 27 goals and 38 assists. Considered by many knowledgeable Knight fans to be the greatest Clarkson team ever, the 1955-56 squad was the first Clarkson team to be invited to the NCAA Championships. The Knights, however, refused to go. Clarkson had eight seniors who were four-year varsity players and under NCAA rules were ineligible. The team voted not to go without them and turned down the NCAA bid. That same season, Harrison became the first of four Clarkson coaches to earn the Spencer R. Penrose Memorial Trophy as NCAA Division I Coach of the Year.

The following two years Clarkson, backstopped in goal by All-America Ed Macdonald, made its first appearances in the NCAA Tournament. The Knights posted a 19-3 overall record and made their first ever showing in the 10-year history of the NCAAs to cap off the 1956-57 season. Macdonald's play took center stage in the national tournament, held at the Colorado Springs Broadmoor Ice Palace, as Clarkson finished third in the country. After losing to eventual champion Colorado College, 5-3, despite a 55-save performance by Macdonald, in the first round, the Knights came back to defeat Harvard 2-1 in overtime in the consolation game on Rowe's winning goal at 76:51. Macdonald, who posted 44 stops against the Crimson, became the first Clarkson player named to an NCAA All-Tournament team in recognition of the 99 saves he made in the two games.

Perhaps the most prolific scorer in college hockey history, Rowe, a 5-10, 160-pound center, skated in 66 games for Clarkson from 1954-57 and averaged 2.76 points a game. A two-time All-America selection (1956, 1957), Rowe completed his collegiate career with 182 points on 87 goals and 95 assists. From 1955 through 1957, he set an NCAA record scoring at least one point in 38 consecutive games.

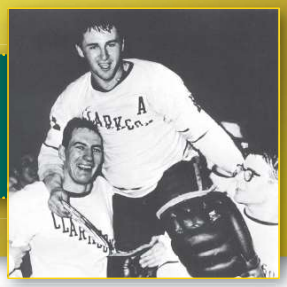

In 1958, Clarkson posted a 17-3 overall record and made its second straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament. At the 1958 national championship tournament, played at the University of Minnesota's Williams Arena Rink in Minneapolis, Macdonald saved his best play when it mattered most to earn his second straight nod on the NCAA All-Tournament squad. After a tough 6-2 loss to eventual champion Denver in first round action, Clarkson was out shot by Harvard 39-18 in the consolation game, but Macdonald came up big with 38 saves and tournament scoring leader Bob Van Lammers netted four goals to lead the Knights over the Cantabs 5-1 for their second consecutive third-place finish and the mythical Eastern crown in the national tourney.

Harrison, who completed his ten-year coaching career at the conclusion of the 1957-58 campaign, compiled a 127-47-6 record behind the Clarkson bench. Harrison, who also served as a professor in the college's Civil Engineering Department, compiled a winning percentage of .722, which still stands as the best in the school's annals.

Four showings in the NCAA Tournament, including three title game appearances, an Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Championship trophy and a winning campaign in each season of the decade marked continued success for Clarkson in the 60s.

One of college hockey's all-time winningest coaches, Len Ceglarski, who took over the helm of the Golden Knights' program at the start of the 1958-59 season, kept Clarkson among the tops teams in the country by stressing solid defensive play and balanced offensive production throughout the decade.

From the fall of 1961 through early March of 1964, Clarkson College hockey boasted some of its finest seasons and one of the most prolific lines in eastern college hockey. Teamed with high-scoring wingers Roger Purdie and Brian Wilkinson, Corby Adams centered Clarkson's "All-American Line." The trio combined for 180 goals and 219 assists while helping the Knights to 60 victories during their three-year careers.

The Knights, captained by Jack Graves, skated to a 22-3-1 record in 1961-62 and finished as runner-up to Michigan Tech in the National Championship game held in Utica, New York. With all-tournament selections, defenseman Cal Wagner and forward Hal Pettersen leading the way, Clarkson edged favorite Michigan 5-4 in the semifinals before falling to the Huskies 7-1 in its first championship game appearance.

The next year, Clarkson, bolstered by an unyielding defense anchored by All-Americas Wagner and Pat Brophy and an explosive offense ignited by the "All-American Line", posted a 21-5-2 mark and again advanced to the NCAA Tournament held in Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, where the team placed third by defeating Boston College 5-3 in the consolation game. Goaltender Wayne Gibbons and Adams were named to the all-tournament team.

From the inaugural year of the ECAC Championship Tournament in 1962 to the present, Clarkson has been regarded among the best in the league, having qualified for ECAC post-season play in every season but one. In 1966, the Knights captured the coveted league championship trophy with a 6-2 victory over Cornell at the old Boston Arena. Terry Yurkiewicz, a two-time All-America goaltender, backstopped the Green and Gold to victory and was named the tournament MVP. Clarkson advanced to the NCAA championship game for the second time in five years in 1966 after defeating Denver 4-3 in the semifinals. The Knights lost to Michigan State 6-1 at Williams Arena in Minneapolis, Minnesota completing a 24-3 record. Forwards Tom Hurley and John "Jocko" McLennan and Yurkiewicz received all-tournament accolades. Hurley would go on to compete for the United States at the 1968 Olympic Games in Grenoble, France.

Clarkson, led by second-year captain, defenseman Wayne LaChance closed out the decade with one of its best seasons ever in 1969-70 as All-America goaltender Bruce Bullock backstopped the Knights to a 24-8 overall record which included second-place showings in the ECAC and NCAA tournaments.

Despite being on the losing end in the championship games of the league and national tourneys, Bullock was selected Most Valuable Player at the ECAC Championship Tournament at the Boston Garden and was named to the NCAA All-Tournament team along with Knight forward Rick Magnusson. At the national championship played in Lake Placid, Bullock posted 30 saves in Clarkson's 4-3 victory over Michigan Tech in the semifinals and then followed with 40 stops in the title game, a 6-4 loss to Cornell.

During the decade of the 70s Clarkson showcased many outstanding players, producing five All-Americas, including four two-time honorees. Goaltenders Bruce Bullock (1970, 71) and Brian Shields (1976, 1977) and defensemen Steve Warr (1971, 1972) and Bill Blackwood (1977, 1978) all earned the illustrious honor twice.

Dave Taylor, arguably the Knights' best player ever, was named an All-America in 1977. In his four years at the college from 1973-77, Taylor rewrote the Clarkson record books. He is the Knights' all-time leading scorer with 251 career points on 98 goals and 153 assists in 116 games. Taylor, along with Bullock, Blackwood and Shields, was named to the ECAC 1970s All-Decade Team. Taylor, who retired from the National Hockey League in 1994 after 17 stellar seasons with the Los Angeles Kings, has moved up to the front offices in the NHL working for LA, Dallas and St. Louis.

Prior to moving on to a lengthy career at his alma mater Boston College, head coach Len Ceglarski closed out his 14-year stint behind the Clarkson bench with back-to-back 20-win campaigns in the first two seasons of the decade, including a 28-4-1 mark in 1970-71. High-scoring forward Jerry Kemp led the Green and Gold's offense that winter with his second straight 57-point season as the Knights skated to second place showings in the ECAC regular season and at the conference's tournament at the Boston Garden. After gaining a measure of revenge against the previous seasons's national champion Cornell, knocking the Big Red out of the playoffs with a 4-1 victory in the semifinal round, Clarkson fell to Harvard 7-4 in the ECAC Tournament's championship game.

Jerry York became Clarkson's fifth head coach at the start of the 1972-73 season and directed the Green and Gold to five winning campaigns and six trips to the ECAC playoffs. York's 1976-77 team, which was highlighted by high-scoring snipers Taylor (ECAC Player of the Year), Blackwood, Sid Tanchak, Kevin Zappia and Marty McNally, produced the most goals ever scored at Clarkson (223) and posted a first place finish in the ECAC regular season with a league record of 19-4. York, who guided the Knights to a 26-8 overall record, was named NCAA Division I Coach of the Year that same season.

As the 1980s approached, the Clarkson hockey program generated its own head coach. Bill O'Flaherty, Clarkson Class of 1971 and a three-year letterman for the Knights, took the reins of the hockey team at the start of the 1979-80 season after seven years as an assistant. He promptly guided the Green and Gold to a 21-12-1 record with ECAC first-team all-star forward Mike Prestidge leading the way, setting the stage for another successful decade in the proud history of Clarkson Hockey.

Clarkson's stature as one of the top teams in the country was reinforced in the 1980s as the Green and Gold made four NCAA Tournament showings, won two Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) regular season titles and participated in the league playoffs in all 10 seasons, including two championship game appearances.

The Golden Knights opened the 1980s with a flurry winning back-to-back ECAC regular season titles in 1980-81 and 1981-82. With three All-Americas, center Bryan Cleaver, defenseman Ed Small and goaltender Don Sylvestri (the first freshman in the ECAC to be named All-America), the 1980-81 team skated to a 26-7-4 record and hosted Wisconsin in the first round of the NCAA playoffs. Before an overflowing crowd, the eventual national champion Badgers edged the Knights 9-8 in the two-game total-goal series, which was the first time NCAA postseason action was held in Potsdam. Bill O'Flaherty was named National Coach of the Year at the close of the season. All-America forwards Steve Cruickshank, who led the ECAC in scoring in 1981-82, and Colin Patterson, who went on to win a Stanley Cup as a member of the 1989 Calgary Flames, led the Green and Gold for the next two seasons.

Colin Patterson '86 and Pat Haramis '84

In 1983-84, the season Clarkson was designated a university, the Knights returned to the NCAA playoffs. Clarkson, behind the defensive prowess of All-America defensemen Bob Armstrong and Dave Fretz and the leadership of co-captain Pat Haramis, posted a 21-11-2 mark and battled Minnesota-Duluth in the NCAAs where the Bulldogs took advantage of their home arena in Duluth to nip the Knights 9-8 in the total-goal series. As in the 1970s, the Knights dominated the ECAC 1980s All-Decade Team, placing four players—Sylvestri, Small, Cruickshank, and Fretz—on the all-star squad.

Assistant coach Cap Raeder inherited the head coaching duties in 1985-86 from O'Flaherty, who stepped aside to become Clarkson's Chairman of Athletics. O'Flaherty later moved on to become the Los Angeles Kings' Director of Player Personnel. During Raeder's three-year stint behind the Knights' bench, the Green and Gold advanced to the ECAC Tournament Championship game twice. At the close of the 1985-86 campaign, Clarkson swept defending national champion RPI in the ECAC quarterfinals at Troy, and then stunned regular season champion Harvard 4-2 in the semifinal round before losing to Cornell 3-2 in overtime of the championship game. Defenseman Andy Otto earned All-America honors that season.

Behind the superb goaltending of All-America John Fletcher and the productive scoring of All-America center Luciano Borsato, who went on to play in the NHL with the Winnipeg Jets, Clarkson made a return appearance in the ECAC Tournament championship game in 1988 with thrilling early round upsets over Cornell in the ECAC quarterfinal (the Knights defeated the Big Red 2-1 in the series held in Ithaca by winning the 10-minute mini-game 1-0 as the Tretowicz Brothers, Mark and Dave, combined on the winning goal), and Harvard 6-4 in the semifinals. St. Lawrence defeated the Knights 3-0 in the championship game to put an end to Clarkson's amazing postseason run.

Mark Morris became Clarkson's eighth head coach in May of 1988, replacing Raeder, who became an assistant coach in the NHL with Los Angeles. After guiding the unheralded Knights, led by captain Mike Morrison, to a 16-13-3 overall record in 1988-89 and their first home-ice berth in the ECAC playoffs in four years, Morris directed the Green and Gold to to a 21-11-3 mark in 1989-90 and a NCAA opening round series against the University of Minnesota, which it lost to the Gophers in Minneapolis. Clarkson would reload the following season and enjoy a lenghty run into the postseason.

Clarkson celebrates its 1993 ECAC Championship Tournament victory in the inaugural conference title game played in Lake Placid. The Golden Knights defeated Brown 3-1 to claim their third league playoff championship.

The 1990s

Highlight after highlight followed Clarkson throughout the 1990s as the Golden Knights enjoyed tremendous success in the final decade of the 20th century. Guided by head coach Mark Morris and led by a host of all-stars, Clarkson participated in eight NCAA Tournaments in the 10-year span, won three Eastern College Athletic Conference Tournament championships, claimed four league regular season titles and posted nine 20-win campaigns. Numerous Knights earned all-star honors, including nine who gained All-America status, three players who were finalists for the prestigious Hobey Baker Award and two who were honored on the ECAC 1990s All-Decade Team.

The list of players who came out of the Clarkson hockey program during this decade is second to none. Ten Knights went on to play in the National Hockey League and four skated for the United States in Olympic competition. Mike Casselman, Chris Clark, Erik Cole, Craig Conroy, Steve Dubinsky, Todd Marchant, Willie Mitchell, Scott Thomas, Marko Tuomainen and Todd White all competed in the NHL at professional hockey's highest level. Dave Tretowicz and Marchant made significant contributions to Team USA at the 1992 and 1994 Olympics, respectively, while Cole and Conroy played in the 2006 Olympics for Team USA.

In 1990-91, the Knights skated to one of their finest seasons ever, posting a 29-9-2 record, which included ECAC regular season and tournament championships and a NCAA semifinal appearance. Clarkson polished the campaign with new records as well, including wins (29) in a season. Perhaps the most conspicuous hallmark was the 18-0-1 record the Knights amassed in their final campaign at Walker Arena. Included in 1990-91's banner campaign were NCAA victories over defending national champion Wisconsin (8-3 and 5-4 in the final games at Walker Arena) and top-ranked Lake Superior State in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. Clarkson fell just one game short of battling for the national title, losing to Boston University 7-3 in the semifinals held in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Scott Thomas and Steve Dubinsky lift the 1991 ECAC Tournament Championship trophy at the Boston Garden.

The 1991-92 campaign marked the Knights' inaugural season at the spectacular Cheel Arena, where the Green and Gold, led by Thomas and assistant captains Hugo Belanger and Jeff Torrey, posted a 13-2 mark en route to a 22-10-1 overall record. Clarkson, following the leadership of an exceptional senior class, enjoyed another outstanding campaign in 1992-93, posting a 20-10-5 record. The Knights, behind the leadership from co-captains Martin d'Orsonnens and Dubinsky, swept by St. Lawrence, Rensselaer and Brown in the league playoffs to capture their second ECAC title in three years, winning the Whitelaw Trophy at the famed Olympic Arena in the inaugural tournament championship game played in Lake Placid.

Two-time All-America defenseman Brian Mueller , who joined Conroy and White as a Hobey Baker Award finalist, and a trio of high scoring forwards led the Knights to the ECAC RS title and a 23-10-4 overall record in 1994-95. Lifted by the play of All-Americas White and goaltender Dan Murphy, Clarkson enjoyed one of its best seasons ever in 1995-96 with a 25-10-3 record, including a 6-1 win over Western Michigan in the opening round of the East Regional at Albany. The 1996-97 season was another outstanding effort by the Green and Gold as the Knights, with forwards White and Jean-Francois Houle, All-America defenseman Matt Pagnutti and Murphy leading the way, skated to a 27-10 overall record, including an ECAC regular season championship. After the 1998-99 campaign the Knights were able to reflect back upon one of their most successful seasons ever. Two ECAC championship titles and a 25-win campaign were the high-points for a young Clarkson squad that skated just three seniors during the year. Leading the Knights were captain Ben Maidment and assistants Aaron Gates and Mikko Ollila. The trio closed out their collegiate careers as the only Clarkson class ever to reach 100-career wins with a four-year mark of 100-40-6. Sophomores Cole and Mitchell were the Knights' leading scorer and top defenseman, respectively, and contributed greatly to the Green and Gold's success, earning All-America honors and first-team ECAC All-Star accolades before going on to win Stanley Cups in the NHL.

The Golden Knights claimed two of the program's 10 ECAC Regular Season titles in the 2000s (2001 and 2008).

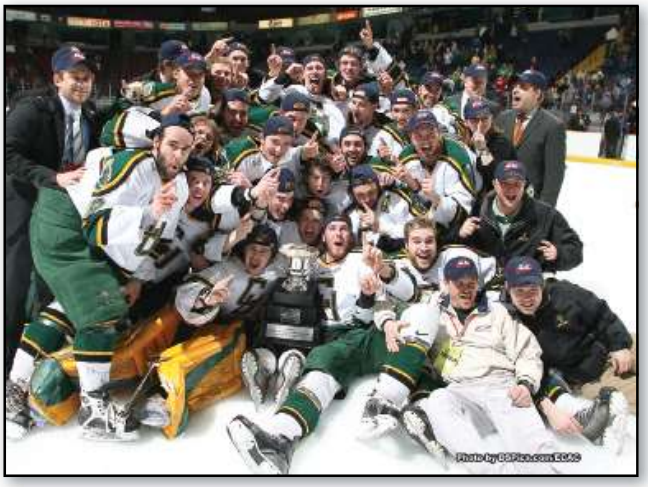

The 2000s

Through the first 10 seasons of the 2000s, Clarkson Hockey experienced several memorable highs along with some disappointing lows.

Although the decade of 2000 started off on a positive note with the Knights claiming another title for the program, there would be some trying times for the Green and Gold in the following seasons.

Clarkson, led by co-captains All-America defenseman and Hobey Baker candidate Kent Huskins, who hoisted the Stanley Cup in 2007 as a member of the Anaheim Ducks, and center Don Smith, raised another banner up in the Cheel Arena rafters after winning the 2001 regular season title. Guided by Mark Morris, who gained his second ECAC Coach of the Year Award, the Knights put in a strong second-half run to claim their ninth ECAC crown overall and their second in three years. Clarkson, behind solid goaltending from ECAC All-Star Mike Walsh, gained its fourth league championship, but suffered its first ever playoff losses at Cheel Arena, losing to Vermont 2-1 in the quarterfinal series, finishing with a 21-11-3 record.

2007 ECACHL Tournament Champions.

Clarkson battled through injuries and inconsistency in 2001-02 to secure second place in the ECAC and returned to Lake Placid for the ninth time in the 10-year history of the tournament championship in the Adirondack Mountains. Overall, Clarkson, with co-captains, all-star defenseman Kerry Ellis-Toddington and right wing Matt Poapst providing the leadership, clinched its 27th straight winning season with a 17-15-6 mark. Off-ice dilemmas contributed greatly to Clarkson's misfortunes in 2002-03. The campaign started out poorly for the Knights with the termination of Morris in early November and continued to go down hill as interim coach Fred Parker and his staff, under difficult circumstances, could not halt the Green and Gold's troubles as Clarkson finished the year with a 12-20-3 overall record, its first year under .500 since 1974-75.

With former assistant George Roll taking the helm as the Knights' head coach, Clarkson began a turnaround in 2003-04. Despite an up-and-down regular season, the Green and Gold were able to take their play to another level in the postseason. With co-captains Tristan Lush and Rob McFeeters leading the way, the Knights advanced to the ECACHL Championship game.

After slipping to a 13-23-3 record in 2004-05, Clarkson came back in 2005-06 to post its first winning campaign in four years. Captain Chris Brekelmans paced the Knights to an 18-17-3 overall record. Clarkson finished in eighth place in the ECACHL and hosted their first playoff series at Cheel since 2003, sweeping Princeton in the first round (2-1, 5-0).

With back-to-back appearances in the NCAA Tournament, a pair of ECAC Hockey titles and consecutive 20-win campaigns from 2006 through 2008, the Golden Knights were among the best in the nation.

In 2006-07, the Knights, behind the strong play of Shawn Weller and Nick Dodge up front, Ken Dryden Award winner David Leggio in goal, and strong contributions from a deep and solid supporting cast, posted a 25-win season. Clarkson capped off the year by winning the program's fifth ECAC Tournament Championship, and advanced to the NCAA playoffs for first time since 1999.

Led by the heralded Class of 2008, (Mike Arciero, David Cayer, Grant Clitsome, Dodge, Leggio and Steve Zalewski), Clarkson won the 2008 ECAC regular season title with a 15-4-3 league mark and closed out a 22-win campaign by skating to the program's first NCAA Tournament victory since 1996. Clarkson, behind goals from Cayer and Shea Guthrie, knocked off St. Cloud State 2-1 in the opening round at the East Regional in Albany before falling to Michigan in the regional final. Clitsome, who went on to play in the NHL with Columbus and Winnipeg, highlighted Clarkson's individual honors, earning All-American accolades after Dodge gained similar praise in 2007.

The Knights stumbled to close out the decade, winning just 19 games combined from 2008-10.

The Knights won the longest game in Clarkson's history at 113:48 with a 4-3 triple overtime victory against RPI in the ECAC Hockey playoffs on March 3, 2012.

The 2010s

After a couple of lean years to start the second decade of the 2000s, Clarkson approached the 2020s in strong fashion having established one of the top programs in the nation.

The Knights closed out the decade with four 20-win campaigns in five seasons, including three straight, placed in the top three of the ECAC Hockey standings in each of the last three years and earned the program's sixth ECAC Tournament title in 2019.

In 2019-20 Clarkson skated to its best regular season in over 20 years with a 23-8-3 overall record. The Knights placed second in the ECAC standings with a 16-5-1 mark, its most league victories since 1998-99. The Green and Gold were poised for postseason success and were rated ninth in the final NCAA Pairwise rankings before the COVID 19 pandemic forced an abrupt end to the college hockey season in early March. Five Knights earned ECAC All-Star honors, highlighted with Frank Marotte' as the league's Goaltender of the Year and Josh Dunne as ECAC Best Defensive Forward, the third straight year a Knight was selected for the award. Marotte also gained All-American accolades and Zach Tsekos was named ECAC Hockey's Student-Athlete of the Year, the third Knight to gain the honor in the decade.

Clarkson won the ECAC Tr. title in 2019 and made its second consecutive appearance in the NCAA Tr. The Green and Gold skated to their most overall wins in 22 years with a 26-11-2 record and finished with a 13-7-2 mark in the ECAC standings, just two points out of first place. For the third consecutive year Clarkson won an in-season tournament, claiming the Desert Hockey Classic in Glendale, AZ. After falling in overtime of the 2018 conference tournament championship game in Lake Placid, Clarkson played inspired hockey at the 1980 Rink Herb Brooks Arena in 2019, knocking off league powers Harvard (5-2) and Cornell (3-2 ot) for its first league tournament title since 2007. The Knights' season came to a close with a 3-2 overtime setback to Notre Dame in the NCAA Northeast Regional. Four Knights were named ECAC's All-Stars. Highlighting the postseason league awards was Nico Sturm as the Best Defensive Forward for the second consecutive year, Casey Jones selected Coach of the Year and Devin Brosseau, who was named MOP of the championship tournament, honored as ECAC Hockey's Student-Athlete of the Year. Both Sturm, who earned First-Team All-American honors and Top 10 Hobey Baker Award Finalist recognition, and goaltender Jake Kielly, a Top 5 Semifinalist for the Mike Richter Award, left the college game after their junior campaigns to pursue NHL pro careers with Minnesota and Vancouver, respectively.

Clarkson became the first ECAC Hockey team to win the championship of the Friendship Four, defeating RPI (2-0) and Providence (4-2) in Belfast, Northern Ireland on November 24-25, 2017.

In 2017-18, Clarkson held a 23-11-6 record and made its first NCAA Tr. appearance since 2008. The Knights skated to the program's third-longest winning streak, 14 straight games. Highlighting that stretch was the championship of the Friendship Four as the Knights became the first ECAC squad to win the tourney in Belfast, Northern Ireland. Clarkson finished third in the league with a 12-5-5 mark and advanced to the conference tr. championship game, falling in overtime. With two first-team all-stars, a second-team selection and two more on the third team along with an all-rookie team member, Clarkson topped the league in ECAC honors. Defenseman Kelly Summers and right wing Sheldon Rempal, who signed with the LA Kings after his sophomore campaign, earned All-American honors.

The Knights enjoyed success in 2016-17, skating to an 18-16-5 record and a 10-9-3 conference mark along with winning the Shillelagh Tr. Clarkson placed five players on the league's all-star team with captain, senior James de Haas earning ECAC Hockey Best Defensive Defenseman accolades.

CU reached the 20-win mark for the second time in three seasons and earned home ice honors in the first round of the ECAC playoffs in 2015-16, finishing with a 20-15-3 record, one of only two teams in the ECAC to reach 20 wins. The .842 win% at Cheel was the third-best home record in the NCAA.

In 2013-14, Clarkson, behind a seven-member senior class led by captain Ben Sexton, finished with a 21-17-4 record and earned its first ECAC playoff series win since 2006-07. In 2012-13 Matt Zarbo became the first Clarkson player to receive the ECAC Hockey Student-Athlete of the Year award.

Casey Jones took over the Knights' program in 2011-12 and Clarkson became one of the most improved teams in the ECAC. One of the highlights of the season was the Knights' 4-3 triple overtime playoff victory over RPI at Cheel, which became the longest Clarkson game ever play at 113:48. The stellar play of Paul Karpowich in goal was consistent throughout his four seasons in Potsdam as he graduated as the Golden Knights' all-time save leader with a school-record 3,735 stops.

In 2010-11, the Knights showed signs of promise after two dismal seasons. Mark Borowiecki, a standout defenseman who served as the Knights' captain in his junior campaign, left the University after completion of the season to pursue a pro career with Ottawa.

#Postseason cancelled - COVID 19 pandemic

Alex Campbell was Clarkson's top goal scorer in 2021-22 and ECAC Hockey's leading scorer in conference play.

The 2020s

The 11th decade of Clarkson Hockey opened with one of the most unusual seasons in college hockey history with the COVID 19 pandemic disrupting team's day-to-day operations and schedules. Playing in empty arenas because of social distancing concerns, the Golden Knights were limited to just a 22-game regular-season slate and were forced to sit out postseason play due to pandemic protocols. Clarkson, which posted an 11-7-4 overall record, was one of just four (along with Colgate, Quinnipiac and St. Lawrence) of 12 ECAC programs to compete during the 2020-21 campaign. The Green and Gold placed second in the abbreviated league schedule with a 6-4-4 conference mark.

Clarkson, which played Colgate eight times during the season, opened the year with a 2-1 win over the Raiders in Hamilton, NY on November 22 and closed out the season with a 3-2 victory over Colgate at Cheel Arena on February 28. Due to numerous postponements and cancelations, Clarkson and archrival St. Lawrence played just twice against each other, with both recording a win on the other's home ice.

Three Knights were named ECAC All-Stars with senior center Zach Tsekos and classmate, defenseman Connor McCarthy, and freshman goaltender Ethan Haider earning First-Team accolades. Tsekos took home the honor of the conference's Best Defensive-Forward. Haider became the sixth Clarkson player to be named ECAC Rookie of the Year.

A Golden Knight has earned the ECAC Best Defensive-Forward Award for the past five consecutive seasons with Zach Tsekos gaining the prestigious honor in 2020-21 and 2021-22.

Junior center Josh Dunne signed with the Columbus Blue Jackets after the season and skated in six NHL games, setting the groundwork for an anticipated lengthy pro career.

After missing out on the NCAA playoffs the previous two years because of pandemic issues, the Knights had their sights on returning to the national stage in 2022. A talented group of Green and Gold skaters came up just short, however, in their quest for another tourmament appearance despite skating to a 21-win campaign in 2021-22. Ranked in the top 16 of the NCAA pairwise, Clarkson was forced out of the tourney due to other leagues' automatic qualifying bids. Led by captains Tsekos and Jack Jacome (who set a new program record for games played at 165) the Knights placed second in the ECAC with a 14-4-4 league mark. Clarkson staged one of the most remarkable comebacks ever when they rallied in the final five minutes with four unanswered goals, including the tying score by Tsekos with 1.2 seconds remaining, to gain a 4-4 deadlock against Cornell at Cheel Arena. The Green and Gold went on the win the ensuing shootout to gain the extra league point over the Big Red. Casey Jones gained his 200th career coaching win when Clarkson defeated Union 4-3 in overtime in Game 2 of the ECAC Quarterfinal series to advance to the league's championship tournament in Lake Placid where the Knights ended their season with a 5-3 semifinal loss to Harvard.

Six Knights were named ECAC All-Stars. For the fifth consecutive year, a Clarkson player was honored as the league's Best Defensive-Forward with Tsekos winning the award for the second year in a row. Alex Campbell, the league's leading scorer, and Mathieu Gosselin, garnered First-Team distinction. Tsekos and defenseman Noah Beck were named to the Second-Team, while defenseman Lukas Kaelble was a Third-Team selection and Ayrton Martino was named to the All-Rookie squad.

The Golden Knights swept the 2011-12 ECAC Hockey regular-season series from St. Lawrence by defeating the Saints 4-3 at Cheel Arena on January 21, 2012 before 3,899 fans, the fourth largest crowd ever at the arena. Clarkson, which outshot St. Lawrence 50-13, rallied for the win with two-third period goals. Freshman Patrick Marsh came through with the game-winner at 10:50 of the final frame when he converted a pass from Ben Sexton at the side of the net for his second collegiate goal. Nick Tremblay also set up the deciding goal with his third assist of the night.

Dave Taylor may be CU's all-time leading scorer, but he had to take a backseat to Dan O'Driscoll '75 in that department during his first two years. O'Driscoll led the Knights' in scoring during 1973-74 and 1974-75 with 34 and 56 points respectively. He completed his career with 106 points (48-48).

Wally Easton '31 became the first Clarkson player to twice gain All-America honors (1930 and 1931). He is tied with Jake Keilly for the Clarkson record for most career shutouts with 16 in 44 games.

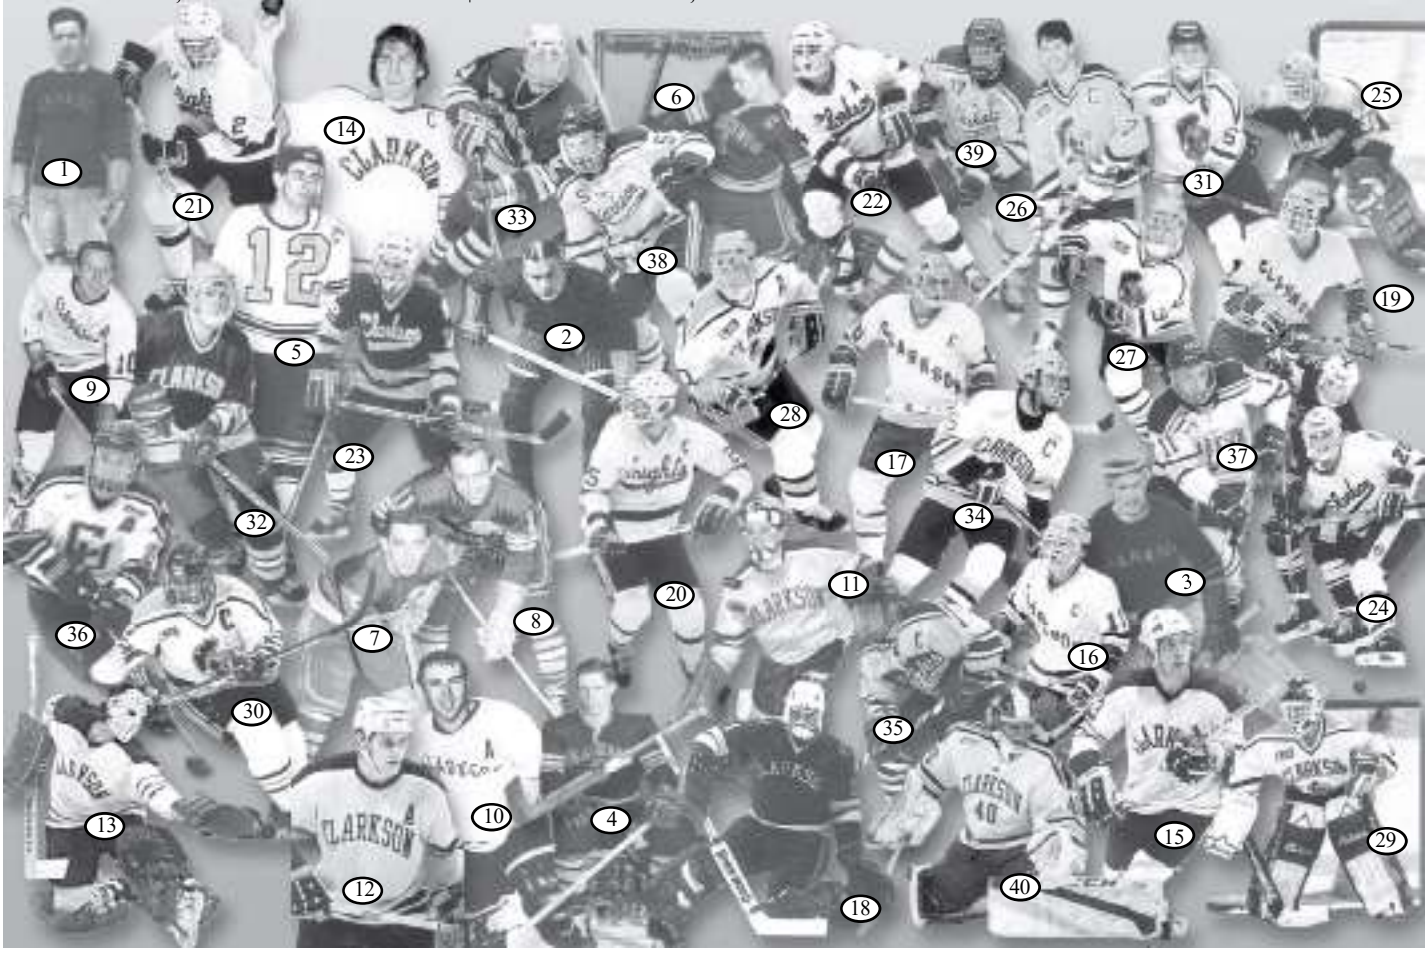

ALL-AMERICAS

Clarkson has had 40 individuals earn All-America honors since 1928, including 13 who have won the prestigious honor twice. Defenseman Fred Dion and center Buzz Williams were the first Golden Knights to receive the honor in 1928-29, while goaltender Wally Easton became the first Tech player to be recognized twice as an All-America (1929-30, 1930-31). Sixteen defensemen, 15 forwards and nine goaltenders have gained All-America distinction for Clarkson.

CLARKSON's ARNOLD H. BARBEN AWARD

The Arnold H. Barben Award is intended to recognize the important role that hockey has played in the history of the University. This award is presented to a Clarkson University Varsity C hockey alumnus who has demonstrated outstanding professional achievement, has contributed to the betterment of his community and has worked unselfishly for his alma mater. Helen Barben, of Seneca Falls, New York, established the Barben Award in 1980 in memory of her late husband, a member of the class of 1927.

Arnold Barben was instrumental in the elevation of Clarkson hockey from a club sport to the intercollegiate level of competition. He went on to achieve extraordinary success with Goulds Pumps, Inc., where he was senior vice president and director at the time of his retirement. His professional standards were coupled with a high sense of civic duty, and the Barbens' have provided generous support to Clarkson for financial assistance to students.

2013 Recipient - Ted Cline, a hard-working, rugged winger for the Golden Knights from 1983-85, played a key role on head coach Bill O'Flaherty's teams that compiled a 42-21-5 overall record during his two years with the Green and Gold.
After transferring to Clarkson from North Country Community College, the Bethlehem, Pennsylvania native helped to lead the Knights to a 21-11-2 overall record during the 1983-84 campaign and a berth into the NCAA Tournament. Cline's biggest outing during the season was a two-goal, one-assist effort in Clarkson's 6-3 victory at Minnesota-Duluth in the second game of the total-goals quarterfinal series against the Bulldogs. Cline finished his first campaign with the Green and Gold with seven goals and 15 assists through 33 games. As a senior in 1984-85, Cline skated in all 34 games and was the Knights' fifth-leading scorer as Clarkson posted a 21-10-3 record. The 6-2, 200-pound forward tallied 28 points on 10 goals and 18 assists, and was named Clarkson's Most Improved Player. Through 67 career games at Clarkson, Cline recorded 50 points on 19 goals and 31 assists.

Cline has volunteered for many organizations in and around the greater New York/New Jersey area along with his brother-in-law and former Golden Knight linemate Charlie Meitner '85. Much of Cline's time was spent coaching in the Ramapo Sting Youth hockey organization, where he was a coach and volunteer for eight years. Ted is still active in helping youth hockey organizations around his hometown of Tuxedo Park, NY. His daughter, Kerri '13, recently completed a standout four-year career with the Clarkson Women's Lacrosse program and his son, Tyler, Clarkson's 2013-2014 co-Male Athlete of the Year, is entering his senior season with the Golden Knights' Golf team.

Clarkson co-captains Devin Brosseau and Nico Sturm with league commissioner Steve Hagwell and the 2019 ECAC Tournament Championship trophy at the 1980 Herb Brooks Arena in Lake Placid.

Willie Mitchell was named the MVP of the 1999 ECAC Tr. after scoring four points (2-2) on the weekend, including the dramatic game-winner against Princeton with less than three seconds remaining in the semifinal round.

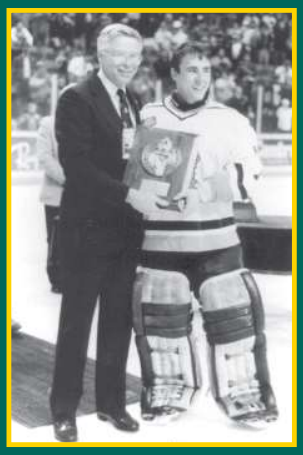

Terry Yurkiewicz '66 backboned CCT to the 1966 tournament title.

Hugo Belanger '93 accepts the 1991 ECAC Tournament MVP Award from former ECAC Commissioner Robert "Scotty" Whitelaw. During a record-setting sophomore campaign, Belanger scored three goals, including the game-winner, and one assist in Clarkson's 5-4 ECAC Tr. Championship game victory over St. Lawrence at the Boston Garden.

Former ECAC Commissioner Clayton Chapman presents Chris Rogles '93 with the 1993 ECAC Tournament MVP Award. Rogles posted 24 saves in the 3-1 title game victory over Brown at the Olympic Arena.

^Preliminary game (1990-97): In these seasons, the #10 seed played the #7 seed and the #9 seed played the #8 seed to advance into the quarterfinals. Clarkson never made an appearance in this round.

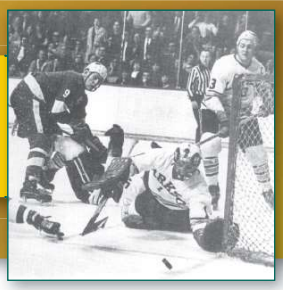

*First Round games were instituted with the 2003 tournament as the playoff format changed to a 12-team tournament in which the top four teams received byes.

%The Lake Placid play-in game was introduced in the 1997-98 season when the league went to a "Final Five" format. In this format, quarterfinal winners advanced to the "Final Five" and were reseeded (if necessary) according to their regular-season finish. The #5 and the #4 seeds participated in the play-in game, with the winner advancing to the semifinals against the top seed. This format was abandoned after the 2002 Championship.

#Indicates teams no longer affiliated with ECAC Hockey.

Willie Mitchell became the first former Golden Knight to raise the Stanley Cup twice as an NHL champion both times with the Los Angeles Kings, coming in a three-year span - 2012 and 2014.

KNIGHTS and the NHL

Built on tradition and success, Clarkson Hockey continues to be a breeding ground for future National Hockey League players. From legendary all-star forward Dave Taylor '77 to today's stars such as Mark Borowiecki, Sheldon Rempal, Nico Sturm and Josh Dunne, former Golden Knights continue to impact the NHL.

Clarkson's all-time leading scorer, Taylor, retired after 17 seasons (1977-94) with the Los Angeles Kings. He skated in four NHL All-Star Games and accumulated 1,069 points for the Kings.

Colin Patterson '86 played for 10 seasons in the NHL (1983-93) and was one of the top defensive forwards in the league. Patterson helped the Calgary Flames win the Stanley Cup in 1989. Along with Taylor and Patterson, Craig Laughlin '80 was also one of the first Clarkson players to prove himself in the NHL. He played eight seasons (1981-89) with Montreal, Washington, LA, and Toronto. Clarkson honored Taylor, Laughlin, and Patterson for their NHL accomplishments in 1989 when their collegiate numbers (24, 22, and 25) were retired.

Luciano Borsato '88 skated several seasons with the Winnipeg Jets, and Steve Dubinsky '93 enjoyed a 10-year career, while Jarmo Kekalainen '89, Scott Thomas, Marko Tuomainen '95, Mike Casselman '91, Randy Jones, Steve Zalewski '08, Brandon DeFazio '11 and Ben Sexton '14 experienced a taste of the big league.

Eight long-time NHL veterans hung up their skates in the 2000s. Through 15 NHL seasons, Willie Mitchell skated in 907 games and raised the Stanley Cup twice ('12, '14) with Los Angeles. Erik Cole played 13 seasons (2001-15) and recorded 532 points, including 265 goals, and won a Stanley Cup with Carolina ('06).

Kent Huskins '01 played seven seasons (2006-13), capped off by a Stanley Cup Championship with Anaheim in 2007.

Todd Marchant skated 17 seasons (1993-2011) in the NHL playing in 1,195 games and recorded nearly 500 points (186 goals and 312 assists) along with winning a Stanley Cup with Anaheim in 2007. He remained with the Ducks as the Director of Player Development through 2022.

After 16 seasons (1994-2011) and over 1,000 games in the NHL, Craig Conroy '95 hung up his skates and now acts as Assistant General Manager for the Calgary Flames.

Todd White '97 played 13 years in the NHL for six teams, recording 381 points, including 141 goals from 1997-2011. After 11 seasons of NHL action (1999-2011) in which he played in 607 games and posted 214 points, Chris Clark '98 moved to the front office and was promoted in the summer of 2019 to General Manager of the of the Cleveland Monsters, AHL affiliate of the Columbus Blue Jackets. Grant Clitsome '08 skated in over 200 NHL games through six seasons (2009-15) with Columbus and Winnipeg, but was forced to retire early because of a back injury.

Clarkson has been well represented in NHL front offices. Taylor, who served as the Kings' Senior Vice President/General Manager following his playing days, enters his 11th season with the 2019 Stanley Cup Champion St. Louis Blues, acting as VP of Hockey Operations this season. Kekalainen begins his ninth year as GM for Columbus. He has also acted as the St. Louis Blues' Assistant GM and Director of Amateur Scouting. Jeremiah Crowe '10 was named Director of Scouting for the Buffalo Sabres in June, 2020.

Former Golden Knight player, coach and athletic director Bill O'Flaherty '71 was the Director of Pro Scouting for the Florida Panthers. Mike Smith '67 was the Director of Hockey Operations for the Chicago Blackhawks and also served in the front offices of the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Winnipeg Jets.

Dave Taylor

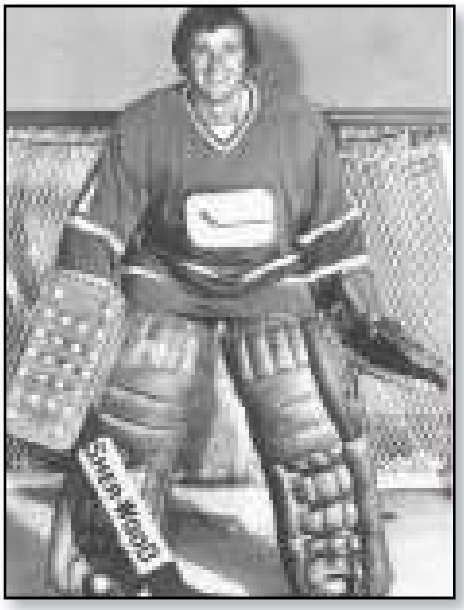

(L-r): Colin Patterson '86, Dave Taylor '77 and Craig Laughlin '80 were the first three Golden Knights to make it big in the NHL playing in a combined 2,164 games and recording 1,616 points.

Dave Taylor played in four NHL All-Star Games (1981, 1982, 1986 and 1994). He closed out his 17-year playing career, all with with the Los Angeles Kings, as a teammate of Wayne Gretzky.

A native of Port McNeill, British Columbia, Willie Mitchell raised the Stanley Cup with the NHL champions Los Angeles Kings in late spring 2012. In his 12th NHL season, the rugged defenseman, and the oldest player on the Kings' roster at 35, skated in all 20 playoff games, recording one goal, two assists and a +7 plus/minus rating. He averaged over 25 minutes of ice time in the final series.

After missing all of the 2012-13 season with an injury, Willie Mitchell, a veteran of 14 NHL seasons as a stay-at-home defenseman, return to the Los Angeles lineup in 2013-14 and played a key role in the Kings winning their second Stanley Cup in three seasons. He played in 18 postseason games, recording one goal and three assists.

Randy Jones enjoyed a break-through season in 2007-08 with Philadelphia, helping the Flyers regain their status as one of the elite teams in the NHL. Jones posted the second-best +/- for Philadelphia during the playoffs (+6) and was named 3rd Star in the Flyers' 4-2 win over Pittsburgh in Game 4 of the Eastern Conference Finals.

Clarkson's all-time leading scorer Dave Taylor '77 was presented with an award at the 2011 Hockey Golf Outing honoring his being named one of ECAC Hockey's all-time greats. No college program earned more recognition among ECAC Hockey's Top 50 players than Clarkson which placed seven Knights on the prestigious list.

ECAC HOCKEY ALL-TIME TOP 50 PLAYERS

As part of its 50th anniversary celebration in 2010-11, ECAC Hockey comprised a group of its top 50 players to recognize the storied history of the League and honor its significant players. No other school had more players named to the prestigious list than Clarkson, which placed seven Golden Knights among the ECAC's Top 50. The top 50 players were determined by a selection committee made up of former coaches and media members. These honorees were tallied from 145 players (47 defenseman; 73 forwards; and 25 goaltenders).

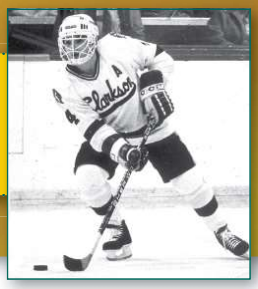

Bill Blackwood Defenseman (1974-78) | Bruce Bullock Goaltender (1968-71) | Dave Fretz Defenseman (1981-85) | Brian Mueller Defenseman (1991-95) | Dave Taylor Forward (1973-77) | Todd White Forward (1993-97) | Terry Yurkiewicz Goaltender (1963-66)

At 5-7, Dave Fretz '85 may not have been among the biggest players on the ice, but he certainly was one of the smoothest skaters to ever play in the ECAC. A two-time All-America defenseman, Fretz was also an excellent student majoring in mechanical and industrial engineering. A GTE Academic All-America, he was selected to the ECAC 1980s All-Decade Team.

Well over a million fans have seen the Golden Knights boast a very impressive 343-161-60 record at Cheel Arena since the building's opening in 1991.

CHEEL CAMPUS CENTER

Regarded by many as among the finest college hockey facilities in the country, Cheel Arena has proved to be an ideal venue in which to watch some of the best hockey that the NCAA has to offer. From the inaugural 9-3 opening night victory over Boston College on October 26, 1991, to their sweep of Union in last year's ECAC playoffs the Golden Knights have supplied their loyal fans with plenty to cheer about within the spectacular confines of the 3,000-seat arena at the Cheel Campus Center.

Now, 30 years after it opened as "Clarkson's front door" to the world, the Cheel Campus Center and Arena has undergone a major overhaul that has modernize the building's infrastructure and expanded its footprint to add more state-of-the-art features to enhance programmatic offerings, hockey facilities and student life at Clarkson while also providing further economic benefits to the surrounding community.

The first phase of this multi-phase project was to build out an addition to the front to encompass athletic and wellness facilities – including a climbing wall as an extension of the popular Munter trails -- as well as serve as a hub for professional development for students interested in construction engineering and health and safety experiences.

More than 30,000 square feet has been added to the building. The facility will be among the venues for the Adirondack Global Sports Commission to use in the World University Games in 2023.

On the main level, a state-of-the-art collegiate fitness facility for use by the entire campus community has been added. It will serve approximately 4,000 students, faculty, and staff. Nearly 50 student-athletes from the men's and women's hockey teams have access to state-of-the-art training facilities and fitness equipment on the basement level.

The Knights enjoyed a tremendous home-ice advantage at old Walker Arena for the previous 53 years prior to Cheel's opening. The success and enthusiasm generated at Cheel Arena, where the Knights have posted a 343-158-58 home record the past 31 seasons, indicates Clarkson hockey continues to dominate on its home ice. The Knights boasted the fifth best home-winning percentage (.806%) in the nation in 2018-19 and were tied for the seventh most victories at home (12) in 2019-20.

The Campus Center currently provides the University with a 110,000-square-foot campus center and multipurpose arena. A major gift commitment from Helen Snell Cheel resulted in the building being called the Cheel Campus Center. The arena features a regulation ice surface measuring 85' x 200' and approximately 3,000 individual backed seats, reached from sloping aisles. Every seat offers unobstructed sight lines to the ice surface. The arena will accommodate an additional 400-900 spectators in the standing-room areas along its perimeter.

In addition to hosting some of the finest hockey in the Northeast, the multipurpose arena also serves the entire Clarkson community, which can congregate in one place for convocations, commencement, concerts, and other events for the first time in many years. This facility is located on the hill campus, adjacent to the CAMP Building, Snell Field and the indoor Recreation Center. Final design of the Campus Center was conducted by Daniel F. Tully Associates Inc. of Boston. Construction began June 15, 1990, and was completed in late August 1991.

Through the first 31 seasons at Cheel, 1,458,697 fans had witnessed the Knights play. Fans were not allowed into Cheel for the 2020-21 because of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Clarkson has drawn over 3,000 fans to one game 181 times, and the opening contest against Boston College attracted 3,843, more than double the listed capacity of 1,800 at Walker Arena. On January 18, 2003 a record Cheel Arena crowd of 4,125 saw the Golden Knights battle arch-rival St. Lawrence.

Clarkson and St. Lawrence have played before 17 of the 20 largest crowds at Cheel Arena with the Knights winning 12 of those games.

Corby Adams '64 centered Clarkson's famed "All-American Line" during the early 1960s.

CORBY ADAMS '64
Inaugural Class of 1992 Inductee

From the fall of 1961 through early March of 1964, Clarkson College hockey boasted some of its finest seasons and one of the most prolific lines in eastern college hockey. Teamed with high-scoring wingers Roger Purdie '64 and Brian Wilkinson '64, Corby Adams centered Clarkson's "All-American Line."

A 1964 All-American, Adams became one of the Golden Knights' all-time leading scorers with 159 points on 76 goals and 83 assists in 78 games from 1961-64. He earned numerous accolades and helped propel the Green and Gold to great success. Besides his All-America acclaim, Adams also garnered first-team ECAC All-Star honors three times and Tri-League all-star esteem twice. During Adams' reign, head coach Len Ceglarski's team posted a three-year record of 59-14-4, three consecutive appearances in the ECAC Championship Tournament, and back-to-back showings n the NCAA Championship Tournament, including a second-place finish in 1962.

Although his talents on the ice in hockey during the winter months were his dominant passions, Adams also excelled in another sport once the ice melted in the spring. In his junior and senior years, Adams played baseball under Hank Hodge and made a remarkable impression with the legendary coach. "Corby is one of those natural athletes who can do anything well," the late Hodge once remarked. "Not only is he a natural hitter, but he makes some plays in the outfield that would be difficult for an experienced professional."

Head Coach Len Ceglarski said of Al Graham '59 -
"Al possesses every attribute of a great hockey player."

AL GRAHAM '59

A star three-sport athlete for the Golden Knights in the late 1950s, Al Graham excelled on Snell Field during the fall with the Clarkson soccer team, was a dominating force on the Clarkson Arena ice with Golden Knights hockey team during the winter months, and was one of the founding members of Clarkson's then emerging lacrosse program in the spring.

Graham was a starting center halfback on the soccer team and helped lead the Knights to a 13-8-2 record during his career. He served as a co-captain of the 1958 squad, which enjoyed its best season in the five-year history of the program at Clarkson with a 4-2-1.

A big, fast and rugged hockey defenseman with deceptive speed, drive and ability to forecheck, Graham was a mainstay on the Knights' blue line for three seasons. A 6-0, 185-pound rearguard, Graham was praised by head coach Len Ceglarski as "possessing every attribute of a great hockey player." Graham, who delivered heavy body checks, could also start the rush up ice. He scored 25 points on four goals and 21 assists during his career, including 14 points as a team captain in his senior campaign (1958-59). During Graham's career, Clarkson enjoyed some of its finest success, earning two consecutive Tri-State championships and advancing to the NCAA Tournament for the first time ever, gaining two third-place finishes in 1957 and 1958.

He was a midfielder on the lacrosse team in 1958-59 as the Golden Knights were building the foundation for the success the lacrosse program now enjoys today.

Graham earned many honors during his illustrious career. He was the recipient of Paul J. Pilon Award in 1959, presented to the appropriate senior who has excelled both as a student and hockey player. He was named to the Tri-State All-Star team and All-East hockey teams. Graham was also selected Co-Outstanding Clarkson Senior in 1959.

Paul Pilon was an outstanding member of the Clarkson hockey teams through 1936-38. On November 6, 1938, Pilon and several other hockey players, including his brother Maurice '39, were in a car accident on the Potsdam-Canton Road. Paul died the following morning as a result of the injuries. The car in which he was a passenger was returning to Potsdam from Cornwall, Ontario, where the Clarkson hockey team was practicing. In the collision with a second car, four lives were lost and ten people were injured. Of the deceased, Pilon was the only Clarkson student. In his remembrance, the Phalanx Society of Clarkson initiated a memorial award.

The Paul J. Pilon Memorial Award was established in the memory of the brilliant defenseman, and it is awarded when appropriate to the senior who has excelled both as a student and a hockey player. Paul's brother Maurice was the first recipient in 1938 and to this day it is one of the most coveted Golden Knight awards. Among the most outstanding athletes ever to attend Clarkson, Pilon was also one of the finest gentlemen ever to wear the green and gold. A man of unusually fine character, Pilon was respected and admired by all who knew him. His untimely death was a severe loss to Clarkson from every standpoint-scholastic, personal and athletic.

Ed Rowe '57 set an NCAA record, tallying at least one point in 38 conseuctive games from 1955 through 1957.

Perhaps the most prolific scorer in college hockey history, Ed Rowe, a 5-10, 160-pound center, skated in 66 games for Clarkson from 1954-57 and averaged 2.76 points a game. A two-time All-America selection (1956, 1957), Rowe is among the elite of the Golden Knights all-time scoring leaders with 182 points on 87 goals and 95 assists. From 1955 through 1957, he set an NCAA record scoring at least one point in 38 consecutive games.

Rowe was the Knights' leading scorer during the undefeated season of 1955-56 tallying 65 points on 27 goals and 38 assists as Clarkson skated to a 23-0 mark. He was captain of the 1956-57 team during his senior season, which posted a 19-3 record and made Clarkson's first appearance in the NCAA Tournament. A top-notch playmaker, stick handler, and scorer, Rowe again led the Green and Gold in scoring with 31 goals and 32 assists for 63 points. He was named a first-team all-star for the second straight year in the Tri-State league and also earned co-MVP honors in the conference.

In the consolation game of the 1957 NCAA Tournament, Rowe tallied the game winner in overtime to lift the Knights to a 2-1 triumph over Harvard. After the game, Coach Harrison, who was jubilant over the thrilling manner in which Clarkson gained its first ever NCAA Tournament victory, was loud in his praise of his players. "The boys did a great job," said Harrison. "I couldn't think of a better way to end up the game than to have Rowe score as he did."

Rowe began his Clarkson varsity career on an impressive note during the 1954-55 campaign, ranking as the Knights' third high scorer with 51 points, including a team-high 28 goals in 20 games. He earned second-team all-star honors in the Tri-State League and was also named to league's Top Sophomore performer.

A native of Cornwall, Ontario, Rowe earned a mechanical engineering degree from Clarkson in 1957. Rowe has been honored by the city of Peterborough, Ontario, for his involvement with minor hockey and was named a Hockey Hall of Fame Selection in Cornwall, Ontario.

Few people in the history of Clarkson athletics have made more of an impact at the school than Philip J. "Pinky" Ryan. He was very devoted and dedicated to the Golden Knights sports teams and the individual student-athletes. He was a man who could perk up a player down in the dumps or deflate a swelled head, a man who was held in the utmost respect by every team member in the school.

Pinky, as called by his friends and associates, served on the Clarkson athletic staff for 26 years from 1947 until his death on October 17, 1972. A 1935 Clarkson graduate, Pinky returned to Clarkson in September 1947 after serving as athletic director and coach for 10 years at St. Michael's College. Upon his return he became athletic trainer, assistant baseball and basketball coach, and assistant professor of physical education. He also served as an associate director of athletics at Clarkson. Pinky, one of the most well-known figures on campus for many years, was very active in Clarkson alumni affairs.

As a student at Clarkson, Pinky was very active in all aspects of college life. He was Ice Carnival King, a member of Sigma Delta fraternity, Phalanx and the Varsity C Club, and president of the junior class as well as being one of the most outstanding and popular athletes ever to attend Clarkson.

Pinky, a small Irishman, starred and served as captain on the Golden Knights' basketball and baseball teams. As a guard on the basketball team, he combined scoring ability with deft ball-handling skills. On the diamond, he was rated as one of the few men capable of playing professional baseball in the major league directly out of college. As a centerfielder he moved with the crack of the bat and never looked back until he would turn and catch the ball. After graduating from Clarkson. He played three years of baseball for the Malone team in the former Northern New York League.

An all-star at Clarkson and in the NHL, Dave Taylor '77 rates as one of hockey's best having recorded 251 points for the Golden Knights and 1,069 points in 17 seasons with the Los Angeles Kings.

From his days on junior hockey rinks in the mining town of Levack, Ontario, to his record-setting collegiate seasons with the Golden Knights, through his all-star years with the National Hockey League's Los Angeles Kings, Dave Taylor has epitomized the success of Clarkson's outstanding student-athletes.

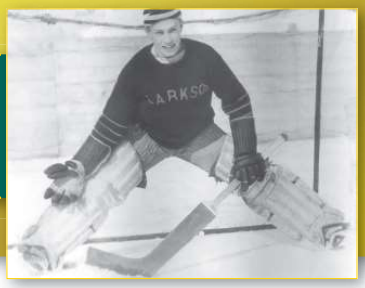

During his collegiate days (1973-77) skating as a Golden Knight, Taylor set many records and earned a myriad of honors, including All-American and ECAC Player of the Year recognition in 1977. Named to the ECAC's 1970 All-Decade Team, he was the NCAA leading scorer in the 1976-77 season with 108 points (41-67) in 34 games. He earned the Paul J. Pilon Award and was named Clarkson Senior Athlete of the Year in 1977. Taylor served as team captain in 1975-76, and 1976-77, and was named Clarkson's MVP in 1974, 1976, and 1977. The Green and Gold's all-time leading scorer, he amassed 251 points on 98 goals and 153 assists in 116 career games.

Taylor continued that prolific pace in his professional career. As a 15th round draft pick and the 210th player chosen overall in the 1975 entry draft, the hardworking Clarkson right wing wasn't expected to make much of a mark in the NHL, Taylor, however, did not rest on his college laurels and stood tall in the pro game. He retired after 17 NHL seasons (1977-94) all with the Los Angeles Kings.

Taylor reached numerous milestones in his professional career. He is ranked among the NHL's all time leading scores with 431 goals and 638 assists for 1,069 points in 1,111 games. Taylor earned NHL all-star honors four times (1980, 1981, 1982, 1986). After 14 seasons with the Kings, Taylor in 1991, received the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy for perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication to hockey. He also received the King Clancy Memorial Trophy for his leadership on and off the ice as well as for his contributions to his community. Taylor is the first player in the NHL history to win the two prestigious awards in the same season.

Taylor, who served as the Kings' Senior Vice President/General Manager following his playing days, enters his ninth season with the 2019 Stanley Cup Champion St. Louis Blues, acting as VP of Hockey Operations this season.

Clarkson hockey boasts a long and proud tradition of success, dating back to the early years of the twentieth century. Much of the Golden Knights' prosperity can be linked with the many excellent goaltenders who have starred between the pipes for the Green and Gold. Setting the lofty standard for Clarkson's fortunes in goal was an all-star netminder from Rnefrew, Ontario.

Wally Easton became Clarkson's first All-American goaltender and the Green and Gold's earliest two-time winner of the prestigious award. He was a four-year starter for Clarkson from 1927-31 and compiled a .898 save percentage en route to a 39-5 career record.

During his junior and senior years (1929-31) when he was selected an all-star, Clarkson posted a 19-3 overall record for new head coach Jack Roos's squads as Easton posted a 1.50 goals against average. Easton who played a large role in helping to lay the foundation of excellence for Clarkson hockey, shares the Knights' records for the most career shutouts with 16, and posts the lowest goals against average for a season (1.33) and career (1.59).

He was honored as an All-America after his junior and senior seasons by College Humor Magazine, the recognized authority of selecting hockey and basketball teams. Easton was cited for this honor as a player who "Fought and played hard, kept up his team's morale, and lasted out the savage attacks of opponents' offenses." Easton's collegiate career came to a fitting conclusion during his senior year as the Tech men, with their All-American between the pipes, shut out the Syracuse All-Stars 13-0 before a winter crowd of 2,500 fans at Syracuse Coliseum to conclude an 11-1 season.

Coach Roos gave much of the praise for Clarkson's successful season to Easton, calling him the "most valuable goalie in the East." Described as a nimble and shifty man whose goal-keeping played a great part in holding Tech's opponents to low scores, Easton made numerous saves, and the manner and ease with which he kept the puck from behind the goal was a source of constant thrill to the spectators.

After a successful career with the Golden Knight Men in the mid-1940s, Ron Frazer '45 became known as the "Father" of Women's Hockey at Clarkson, establishing the foundation for the National Championship program.

From the early days of Clarkson Women's Hockey when the Golden Knights played at Walker Arena, the University's current up-and-coming program has emerged and is now one of the flagship sports at the school, thanks in large part to Ron Frazer. The "Father" of Women's Hockey at Clarkson, Frazer, along with his wife Doris, played a highly significant role in establishing the foundation for the Golden Knights' current Division I women's hockey team.

With women's sports emerging at the collegiate level in the mid-1970s, Frazer started Clarkson's original intercollegiate women's hockey program with nothing but true "walk-ons". Drawing from the 184 women undergraduates on campus, Frazer gathered 17 student-athletes for Clarkson's first women's team in the winter of 1974. The Knights won their first game with an impressive 7-0 victory over Potsdam. Clarkson, which also posted wins over Colgate and Boston University during that inaugural season, finished with a 5-2 record in the 1974-75 campaign.

During his nine-year tenure guiding "Frazer's Blazers", the Green and Gold compiled a 68-64-3 record, but more importantly provided Clarkson student-athletes with plenty of sportsmanship, camaraderie and lasting memories. The Knights' best season was in 1977-78 when the team finished with nine consecutive wins to post an 11-5 mark.

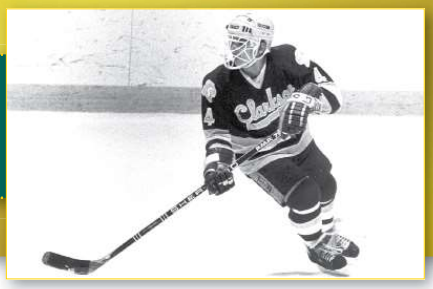

A 1945 graduate with a degree in mechanical engineering, Frazer played two years of hockey for the men's team. Playing under coach Jack Roos, the Westboro, Ontario native skated at forward during the 1942-43 and 1943-44 seasons, recording 23 goals and 10 assists through 15 games. Before attending Clarkson he was a leading scorer for Nepean High School and the Ottawa Junior Senators.

Frazer also played in more alumni hockey games than any other Golden Knights alumnus, participating annually from 1953 until 1978. Many Potsdam youth hockey players also benefited from Frazer's coaching talents. He coached the Potsdam Pee Wees and the Bantam All-Stars, who won seven state championships between 1954-64, as well as being the first winners of the international Silver Stick Tournament.

On July 17, 1993, Frazer was presented with Clarkson's Arnold H. Barben Award. The award is presented to a Clarkson hockey alumnus who has demonstrated outstanding professional achievement, has contributed to the betterment of his community and has worked unselfishly for his alma mater. In 1990, he was named a Golden Knight, the Clarkson Alumni Association's highest honor. A PhD from Iowa State University, Frazer was honored to be named one of four Centennial Professors at Clarkson's centennial celebration in 1996.

Frazer, who was a founding committee member of the Clarkson Athletic Department Hall of Fame, served in the School of Management as a professor, Chairman and Dean from 1953 until his retirement in 1988. Over his 35 years of service to Clarkson, Frazer demonstrated exemplary service both on the ice as a coach and in the classroom as a professor.

Dave Fretz '85 excelled on the ice as a two-time All-American defenseman and Hobey Baker Award finalist, and in the classroom earning GTE National Academic All-American accolades.

CLARKSON ATHLETICS HALL of FAME DAVE FRETZ '85 Class of 2004 Inductee

One of the finest skaters to ever grace the ice at Walker Arena, Dave Fretz was an all-star hockey player for the Golden Knights during the early 1980s. A defenseman who could skate with the puck from one end of the ice to the other against any team in the country, every rush by Fretz was a highlight reel waiting to happen. At 5-7, 170-pounds, Fretz may have not been among the most imposing players on the ice, but the Toronto, Ontario native certainly made a big impression as he helped to lead the Green and Gold to an 87-40-7 overall record during his four-year career wearing the Clarkson sweater.

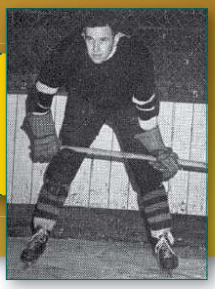

A key player for the Pickering Panthers in the Metro Junior B League and an Ontario Scholar prior to coming to Clarkson, Fretz continued to excel both on and off the ice at the collegiate level. One of the few players in Clarkson's storied hockey tradition to be honored as a two-time All-America, Fretz was also a Hobey Baker Award finalist as one of the top players in the country in 1985 and was one of four Knights selected to the very prestigious Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) All-Decade Team of the 1980s. Named an All-America as a junior and senior, Fretz was an offensive defenseman with great mobility and a strong shot from the point. He ranks as the fifth highest scoring defenseman in Clarkson history with 102 points on 31 goals and 71 assists through 132 games from 1981-1984. During his time in Potsdam, the Knights, guided by head coach Bill O'Flaherty, were among the top teams in the nation and went on to the NCAA Tournament in 1982 and 1984. "Dave possessed the most natural ability of any player I have ever coached," stated O'Flaherty, who mentored seven All-Americas at Clarkson. "Dave was a one man force."

Fretz made an immediate impact at Clarkson, leading the Knights in scoring from the blueline in both his freshman and sophomore years. He tallied 23 points on six goals and 17 assists as a rookie as the Green and Gold posted a 26-8-1 overall record. The following season, Fretz was again Clarkson's top scoring defenseman with 27 points, including four power-play goals and two game-winners. He concluded his sophomore campaign with second-team ECAC All-Star honors. As a junior he helped lead Clarkson to a 21-10-3 overall record and within one goal of advancing to the NCAA Frozen Four in Lake Placid. Fretz played a key role in a dramatic comeback effort by the Knights in the first round of that season's NCAA total-goal playoff series at Minnesota-Duluth. After losing the first game to the Bulldogs 6-2, Clarkson rallied to win the second contest, 6-3, with Fretz netting the deciding goal, but fell one goal short of forcing the series to overtime. Prior to the start of the 1983-84 campaign, Fretz spent much of the summer and fall with the Canadian Olympic program before returning to Clarkson in late September. He concluded his junior season with 27 points on 10 goals and 17 assists and led the Knights with eight power-play markers. He made a major contribution down the stretch as Clarkson streaked toward the playoffs by recording at least a point in eight of the last nine regular-season games, including a two-goal, three-assist performance in a crucial 6-5 win over Cornell in Lynah Rink. Elected by his teammates as an alternate captain as a senior, Fretz helped lead the Green and Gold to another 21-win campaign with a 21-10-3 record in 1984-85. He once again led the Knights' in scoring from the blueline with seven goals and 18 assists and was chosen as a first-team ECAC All-Star.

Fretz also had a taste of international competition during his senior season. While his teammates were playing in the Syracuse Invitational that winter, he was representing his country overseas. He skated with Team Canada in the 1984 Spengler Cup in Davos, Switzerland in late December and helped his homeland win the competition for the first time in the 58-year history of the tournament. The only United States collegiate player on the Canadian roster, Fretz was named to the all-tournament team.

As good as he was on the ice, Fretz was even sharper in the classroom. He accumulated numerous academic accomplishments as majoring in mechanical and industrial engineering. Fretz was named a 1984-85 GTE National Academic All-American.

From his days as a two-sport scholarship student-athlete in the late 1930s and early 1940s through his involvement with Clarkson Athletics as a professor and administrator, George Maclean displayed great passion and pride for the University and the Golden Knights' sports teams.

As a 6-2, 185-pound tackle, Maclean played three years of football for head coach Pete Dwyer's squads, serving as a captain in his junior and senior campaigns. The Syracuse native, who was a standout at Onondaga Valley Academy prior to coming to Clarkson, made a big impact for the Green and Gold gridders playing both ways.

Fielding a team of 22 players, Clarkson opened each season during Maclean's varsity career playing at national powerhouse Syracuse University, which featured 60+ athletes on its roster. Although the Knights never defeated Syracuse, they were competitive against their highly regarded opponent and with the money gained from playing the Orangemen at Archbold Stadium, Clarkson was able to cover the cost of the entire athletic department budget for a year. Maclean enjoyed some of his best collegiate games against the Orange and was named to Syracuse's All-Opponent Team. Maclean routinely lined up against Syracuse standout Les Dye, who would later become Clarkson's head football coach.

Once football season ended in late fall, Maclean traded in his muddy cleats for skates and headed over to Clarkson Arena to play hockey. A three-year member of coach Jack Roos' teams, Maclean was primarily a defenseman, but when called upon he was more than willing to play whatever role best benefited the team. During his junior season when starting goaltender Bob Butterworth suffered an injury, Maclean, with no goaltending experience, jumped into the crease and took up the role as Clarkson's goaltender for two games, including a win over Cornell, as the Knights went on to post a 10-3 record for its best mark of the 1940s.

While a great athlete, Maclean was also a great student and served both as his class and Student Government president, and was tapped into Phalanx. Following graduation in 1942, he joined the Foster Wheeler Corporation, before entering the U.S. Army Air Force where he served until May of 1946, mostly in the Pacific theater. After completing military service, Maclean began his career at Clarkson as an instructor in the Department of Mechanical Engineering. He was named a full professor in 1958 and became chairman of the mechanical engineering department the following year. In 1968, he began 14 years of service to the External Relations area at Clarkson and retired in 1982.

While serving in academia at Clarkson, Maclean helped to start the College's Athletic Board of Control, which established the rules and regulations for athletic teams, many of which are still in affect today. Maclean was also instrumental in establishing the University's Arnold H. Barben Award, which is presented to a Clarkson hockey alumnus who has demonstrated outstanding professional achievement, has contributed to the betterment of his community and has worked unselfishly for his alma mater. Maclean, who was the 17th recipient of the Barben Award in 1997, was also a founding committee member of the Clarkson Athletic Department Hall of Fame.

An all-star for the hockey team in the late 1960s, John “Jocko” McLennan carried over his accomplishments on the ice with the Golden Knights and the lessons he learned at Clarkson into the business world where he became one of the University’s most successful alumni.

McLennan was recruited to Clarkson by head hockey coach Len Ceglarski from the Ottawa Junior League and developed into one of the Golden Knights’ all-time leading scorers averaging close to two points a game. Playing both wing positions, he compiled 134 points on 76 goals and 58 assists in 70 games and helped to lead the Green and Gold to a 54-18-2 record during his three-year career from 1965-68. During his sophomore campaign of 1965-66, McLennan was the fourth-leading scorer on Clarkson’s squad which posted a 24-3 overall record and gained the league regular season title with an 11-1 mark. The Knights won the school’s first ever Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Tournament Championship that winter with a 6-2 victory over Cornell as McLennan scored the first goal in the title game played at the old Boston Arena.

With McLennan continuing in top form, the Knights also came within one game of winning the 1966 NCAA Championship. He led the national tourney in scoring with one goal and four assists and was named to the NCAA All-Tournament team. McLennan scored the winning goal in the semifinals with less than four minutes left to lift Clarkson to a 4-3 victory over Denver, sending the Green and Gold to the championship tilt against Michigan State, where the Spartans prevailed 6-1.

Serving as an alternate captain in his senior season of 1967-68, he led Clarkson in scoring with 57 points, including a team-high 32 goals, and was named to the ECAC All-Star team.

McLennan has been leading teams, scoring big points, and generally applying himself ever since he left Clarkson with bachelor’s and master’s degrees in Industrial Management, in 1968 and 1969, respectively.

“It hit me that you’ve really got to work hard and apply yourself to achieve your best,” stated McLennan in a Clarkson Alumni Magazine article. “Len Ceglarski, my hockey coach, really taught me the value of how hard work can really improve your luck! … You’ve got to commit yourself. The fundamental opportunity that Clarkson gave me was to develop my own potential through really applying myself … that holds true for both the academic side and the hockey side.”

Ascending through a variety of positions in high-tech manufacturing and telecommunications, McLennan has served in a number of high profile corporate positions, including President and Chief Executive Officer of Bell Canada, and was Vice Chairman and CEO of Allstream. A devoted family man, he created a company called Jenmark Consulting Inc. in September 1997 after his two children, Jennifer and Mark.

In 1985, McLennan, a native of Nova Scotia was awarded the Arnold H. Barben Award. On May 18, 1997, McLennan received an honorary doctor of science degree at Clarkson’s 104th Commencement ceremony.

Bob Van Lammers '59 (#16) with fellow Clarkson Athletic Hall of Fame inductees Head Coach Len Ceglarski and Al Graham '59.

CLARKSON ATHLETICS HALL of FAME BOB VAN LAMMERS '59 Class of 2004 Inductee

Among the most prolific scorers in the history of college hockey, Robert Van Lammers was a standout forward for the Golden Knights in the late 1950s. Possessing one of the hardest and most feared shots in the country, Van Lammers averaged over two points per game skating with Clarkson from 1956-59. One of the strongest players on the ice, the Ottawa, Ontario native amassed an amazing 125 points on 68 goals and 67 assists through 60 career games.

Born in Great Neck, Long Island in 1936, his family relocated to Ottawa in 1945 and Van Lammers quickly adapted to Canada's national pastime. Van Lammers started playing hockey at ten years old and soon emerged as a standout in the sport. Prior to attending Clarkson, Van Lammers excelled in football and softball as well as playing hockey for the St. Pat's Shamrocks. Encouraged by his father, a former catcher for the Chicago White Sox, to continue school, he turned down an opportunity to play Major Junior A hockey for St. Michaels in Toronto to accept a full hockey scholarship at Clarkson, where he enrolled in the Civil Engineering program in 1955.

Van Lammers was recognized as both a great student and hockey player at Clarkson. Selected to several all-star squads, his leadership was unquestioned by teammates, serving as captain for the Knights. He spoke softly and not too often, but when he did all the players listened. During his senior year, the Knights were short some key players and Van Lammers would play a regular shift at forward and then play a shift on defense.

With Van Lammers' addition to the team, head coach Bill Harrison was forced to rig up a specially-designed face mask for his All-America goaltender, Ed MacDonald, against the powerful shots of the hard-shooting forward. Coach Harrison took an old football helmet and attached a broad strip of plastic across the front to protect MacDonald against Van Lammers' forceful shots in practice. "It was Bob Van L's imminent arrival on the varsity team in the fall of 1956 that triggered Bill's decision to devise some kind of face protection for the goalies," stated MacDonald. "Bob had one of the hardest shots in college hockey. He also used to take practice shots against the boards (and occasionally at me) with his own special lead-weighted puck."

During his three-year career at Clarkson, the Knights compiled a 46-14-1 record. He played his first two seasons under the school's all-time winningest coach, Harrison, and in his senior year served as the first captain for legendary college coach Len Ceglarski. Van Lammers skated in two NCAA Tournaments, helping the Knights to third-place showings in 1957 and 1958. He was named to the 1958 NCAA All-Tournament team after scoring four goals in Clarkson's 5-1 victory over Harvard in the consolation game to give the Knights the mythical Eastern crown over the Crimson for the second straight year.

After graduating from Clarkson with academic honors, Van Lammers pursued a successful career in engineering and sales. He married his high school sweetheart, Judy Clancy, daughter of NHL Hall of Fame inductee King Clancy, and sister of Terry Clancy of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

On February 21, 2004, Clarkson honored the former Golden Knight all-star, who passed away in December 1997, with the dedication ceremony of the Robert Van Lammers '59 Memorial Hockey Lounge at the University's Cheel Arena.

An All-America in hockey and an all-star in lacrosse during the early 1970s, Steve Warr rates as one of the best two-sport athletes ever at the University. Playing under head coach Len Ceglarski for three seasons from 1969-72, Warr was a key member of three of Clarkson's most successful teams. The Knights compiled a 72-22-1 record during his tenure and participated for the national championship in his sophomore campaign.

Coach Ceglarski remarked of Warr, "His great attitude and unselfishness combined with his talents on the ice make him one of the best I ever coached. I would have to think Steve Warr has been one of the finest persons and players that have played for me at Clarkson in my 14 years in Potsdam. He not only played hockey as one of the best in the United States, but also conducted himself as a real gentleman, a true sport and a player that all of us at Clarkson will always remember and cherish."

A native of Peterborough, Ontario, Warr started playing hockey when he was six years old. A standout in minor hockey with Peterborough, he was coached by former Clarkson All-American Eddie Rowe. He was invited to attend Peterborough's Junior "A" camp, where his father Herb served as president, but Warr and his family felt his best route to a successful future was to play college hockey in the U.S. at Clarkson College.

An offensive-minded defenseman, Warr did everything; logging plenty of ice time by skating a regular shift, heading the penalty-killing unit, and quarterbacking Clarkson's power play. During his 94-game career with the Knights, the 6-0, 180-pound rearguard averaged a point per game from the blueline. He skated in 94 contests and tallied 94 points on 21 goals and 73 assists. He was named to the ECAC All-Tournament team as a sophomore and gained All-America accolades as a junior (1971) and senior (1972).

In his first season on the Clarkson varsity, as a sophomore, he tallied 18 points. He scored the final goal in the Knights' 6-4 loss to Cornell in the 1970 NCAA National Championship game in Lake Placid. He nearly doubled his point total the following season. As a junior, Warr scored 35 points in 32 games on nine goals and 26 assists. In 30 games as a senior, Warr was the Green and Gold's leading playmaker with 35 assists and was third overall in scoring with 41 points.

Named Clarkson's outstanding Senior Athlete in 1972, Warr also enjoyed a fine four-year career with the Green and Gold's lacrosse team, earning All-New York State and ICAC Accolades.

The first Clarkson player ever drafted by the NHL, Warr was selected by the Buffalo Sabres in the fifth round of the 1971 draft with the 61st selection. After college, Warr continued his hockey career when he signed a professional contract in 1972 with the Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association. He also played two years in the American Hockey League. Warr played with four professional hockey teams, the Ottawa Nationals and the Toronto Toros of the World Hockey Association and the Jacksonville Barons and the Syracuse Eagles of the American Hockey League. Warr, who earned his masters degree from Clarkson in 1978, was the recipient of the 1991 Arnold H Barben Award.

In the long list of outstanding goaltenders who have manned the crease for the Clarkson Hockey program, none rates better than Bruce Bullock. A two-time All-America, earning the prestigious honor in 1970 and 1971, Bullock was also selected to the highly exclusive ECAC 1970s All-Decade team. From the fall of 1968 until March of 1971, the Golden Knights had a chance to win every game because of the brilliant play of Bullock. Playing in 85 games under head coach Len Ceglarski, the Toronto, Ontario native compiled a 61-19-3 record along with a .905 save percentage and a 2.95 goals against average.

Playing in 26 games as a sophomore in his first season of varsity competition for the Green and Gold, Bullock amassed 728 saves and helped lead Clarkson to a 19-7-2 record during the 1968-69 campaign.

The following season, 1969-70, the 5-7, 150-pound Bullock backstopped the Knights to one of their best seasons ever as Clarkson, ranked second in the country, finished with a 24-8 overall record which included second-place showings in the ECAC and NCAA tournaments. He posted regular-season shutouts over Laval, Yale, Colgate and New Hampshire.

Despite being on the losing end in the championship games of the league and national tourneys, Bullock was selected Most Valuable Player at the ECAC Championship Tournament at the Boston Garden and NCAA All-Tournament goaltender. At the national championship played in Lake Placid, Bullock posted 30 saves in Clarkson's 4-3 victory over Michigan Tech in the semifinals and then followed with 40 stops in the title game, a 6-4 loss to Cornell.

As a senior in 1970-71, Bullock set a Clarkson record for most wins in a season as he posted a 27-4-1 mark in the Knights' goal while posting a .920 save percentage and a 2.37 goals against average. Bullock was named a first-team ECAC All-Star and was also honored as the league's Most Valuable Player.

After his standout collegiate career, Bullock, who was named Clarkson's Outstanding Senior Athlete in 1971, became the first Golden Knight to play in the National Hockey League, tending the crease for the Vancouver Canucks.

He played 16 games in the NHL from 1972-77 and posted a 3-9-3 record. He also played professionally for the Seattle Totems in the World Hockey League and the Tulsa Oilers in the Central Hockey League.

Bullock closed out his professional hockey career with the Phoenix Roadrunners in the Pacific Hockey League, playing 62 games.

CLARKSON ATHLETICS HALL of FAME HELEN CHEEL (Benefactor) Class of 2005 Inductee

Helen Snell Cheel was a lifelong benefactor of Clarkson University. Mrs. Cheel, who passed away on March 18, 2005 at her home in Ho-Ho-Kus, New Jersey at the age of 100, was a major contributor to the $14 million campus center and hockey arena, which bears her name. Mrs. Cheel's philanthropic nature was rooted in her family. Her parents, Congressman Bertrand H. Snell and Sara Merrick Snell, made their first major gift to Clarkson in 1927 to improve athletic facilities.

Helen Cheel's generous support of Clarkson University was evident for all to see in 1991 when she became the principal benefactor for the construction of a $14 million, 3,000-seat, multipurpose arena and campus center. Clarkson recognized Mrs. Cheel's gift to the University by naming the Center after her. The Cheel Arena, within the Cheel Campus Center, is also the home of Helen's cherished Golden Knights hockey team. On the occasion of her 100th birthday, Mrs. Cheel was presented with her very own #100 Golden Knights hockey jersey. In typical witty fashion, she quipped, "I will be ready now to suit up for next season." This jersey is part of the permanent display in the Campus Center honoring Mrs. Cheel. In addition to her substantial donation to the construction of the facility, Mrs. Cheel established a maintenance endowment to ensure that both the Center and surrounding grounds would be properly maintained.

At the Center's dedication, Helen had this to say: "Clarkson has always meant a great deal to me and members of my family, so it gives me great pleasure to assist in this important endeavor. My involvement in bringing the Cheel Campus Center to reality has brought me great satisfaction and moments of joy. I feel that it has added significantly to the appearance of the campus and to campus life. While I realize it will not be possible to replicate that experience, it has led me to consider what more I might do for Clarkson."

Clarkson would not have to wait long for Mrs. Cheel to decide what more she could do for the University. In 2000 Mrs. Cheel became the primary benefactor for construction of a world-class building that houses the Clarkson School of Business, faculty offices in Liberal Arts, and the administrative offices of the School of Arts and Sciences. Construction of the Bertrand H. Snell Hall, named in honor of Helen's father, allowed Clarkson to complete its move of undergraduate programs from the Potsdam village to the hill campus.1556

In 1995 Clarkson bestowed on Mrs. Cheel an Honorary Doctor of Science degree "for her lifelong loyalty, her profound generosity as a benefactor, and her magnificent contributions to the quality of campus life at the University."

On April 16, 2005, Tony Collins, president of Clarkson University, announced a bequest to Clarkson of approximately $27 million from the Estate of Helen Snell Cheel (May 10, 1904 – March 18, 2005). President Collins remarked, "This magnificent gift does not write the final chapter of Helen Cheel's generosity to Clarkson, but rather keeps the pages of her life with Clarkson forever open to reflect her compassionate spirit each year through the initiatives this endowment will fund as part of our ongoing evolution to excellence. Every future Clarkson student will benefit from Mrs. Cheel's boundless generosity."

Much of the success the Clarkson hockey program has enjoyed since the early 1920s can be attributed to the numerous all-star goaltenders who patrolled the Golden Knights' crease over the years. One of the best that Clarkson fans have ever seen was Ed Macdonald. A 5-10, 165-pound native of Ottawa, Ontario, Macdonald anchored the Clarkson crease for head coach Bill Harrison's teams from 1955-58 and averaged 28 saves per game with a remarkable average of just 2.00 goals scored against him. Macdonald posted a 48-6 record and in the process was twice named an All-America (1957, 1958).

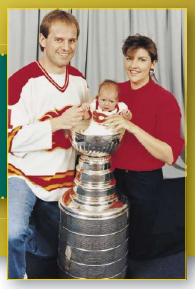

As a sophomore in 1955-56, Macdonald helped Clarkson to its best season in the program's history as the Green and Gold skated to a perfect 23-0 record. The following two seasons he emerged as one of the best goaltenders in the nation, backstopping the Knights to their first two NCAA Tournament showings in 1957 and 1958 where they placed third both times.

In his first season with the Clarkson varsity, Macdonald played a key role in the undefeated 1955-56 campaign. Sharing time with veteran Don Cooper at the start of the season, Macdonald began to display his tremendous talents when he came off the bench in the third period to help Clarkson come from behind to defeat Boston College 7-6 in overtime at the Boston Tournament on December 30. Macdonald capped off the unbeaten season with a 34-save effort in the final game, a 7-4 victory over St. Lawrence at Clarkson Arena.

As a junior, Macdonald emerged as a team leader, serving in an assistant captain's role, and saw the bulk of the playing time in goal as the Knights posted a 19-3 overall record and made their first ever appearance in the 10-year history of the NCAAs to cap off the 1956-57 season. Macdonald's play took center stage in the national tournament, held at the Colorado Springs Broadmoor Ice Palace. After losing to eventual champion Colorado College, 5-3, despite a 55-save performance by Macdonald, in the first round, the Knights came back to defeat Harvard 2-1 in the consolation. Macdonald, who posted 44 stops against the Crimson, became the first Clarkson player named to an NCAA All-Tournament team in recognition of the 99 saves he made in the two games.

In his senior campaign, he served as captain on Clarkson's team, which posted a 17-3 overall record and made its second straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament. Macdonald turned back an average of 29 shots per game in 1957-58 and recorded shutouts over American International College (6-0) and Boston University (1-0). At the 1958 national championship tournament, played at the University of Minnesota's Williams Arena Rink, Macdonald saved his best play when it mattered most to earn his second straight nod on the NCAA All-Tournament squad. After a tough 6-2 loss to eventual champion Denver in first round action, Clarkson was out shot by Harvard 39-18 in the consolation game, but Macdonald came up big with 38 saves to lead the Knights over the Cantabs 5-1 for their second consecutive third-place finish and the mythical Eastern crown in the national tourney.

Upon graduation in the spring of 1958 with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering, Macdonald was awarded the prestigious Frederica Clarkson Award, presented at commencement to one of two students, who in the judgment of the University faculty has demonstrated the best combination of scholarship and professional achievement.

Colin Patterson '86 and his wife, Sherrie enjoyed the Stanley Cup in 1989 with the newest member of their family. Patterson, a finalist for the Frank Selke Trophy as the NHL's best-defensive forward in 1988-89, played a leading role in Calgary's 1989 Championship.

One of only four former Clarkson Hockey players to have his retired sweater hanging in honorary display from the rafters at Cheel Arena, Colin Patterson was an all-star forward for the Golden Knights in the early 1980s who went on to a lengthy, productive career in the National Hockey League. A three-year standout for Clarkson from 1980-83, the Rexdale, Ontario native ranks among the Green and Gold all-time leading scorers with an average of 1.55 points per game. Patterson amassed 64 goals and 91 assists through 100 games with the Knights. With the 6-2, 190-pound right wing/center playing a key role on the Knights' top lines, head coach Bill O'Flaherty's teams compiled a 71-26-6 record during Patterson's three seasons wearing the Clarkson sweater, and twice won the ECAC regular season title and competed in two NCAA Tournaments.

In his final season with the Knights, 1982-83, Patterson served as one of the few junior captains in Clarkson's history and gained ECAC All-Star and All-America recognition. He scored 20 or more goals and over 50 points in each of his three collegiate seasons and completed his Clarkson career by leading the Knights in scoring with his second straight 52-point campaign on 23 goals and 29 assists in 31 games. After the completion of his junior campaign, Patterson signed a free-agent contract with the Calgary Flames on March 24, 1983 and began a highly successful nine-year career in the NHL that also included a two-year stretch with the Buffalo Sabres.

During the mid to late 1980s Calgary was an NHL super power. One of the most unheralded yet most valuable players from those teams was Patterson. He combined speed and anticipation to establish himself as one of the NHL's best defensive forwards. After a brief 13-game, minor-league stint with the Colorado Flames of the Central Hockey League, Patterson joined Calgary on a regular basis in 1983-84. After being recalled to the NHL Flames on October 23, 1983, he scored his first NHL goal three days later at St. Louis. In his first NHL season, he scored 13 goals and 27 points in 56 games. In seven seasons (1983-90) with the Flames, he tallied 188 points on 88 goals and 100 assists through 416 games and played in two Stanley Cup finals.

In Calgary's championship 1988-89 season, Patterson established a career-high 24 assists and totaled 38 points during the regular season and was a solid performer for the club in the postseason. In 22 playoff games he totaled 13 points and helped the Flames to the Stanley Cup championship when they defeated Montreal 4-2 in the best-of-seven-game series. Patterson capped off that sensational season by being named a finalist for the Frank Selke Trophy as the NHL's best-defensive forward.

The Flames dealt Patterson, who suffered a knee injury in 1989, to Buffalo where he finished out his career by playing the next two seasons from 1991-93. Patterson left the NHL with career totals of 96 goals, 109 assists and 205 points in 504 regular season games. In 85 playoff contests, he had 29 points and one championship ring.

Patterson returned to Potsdam for three straight summers to resume school work towards his bachelor's degree. After the completion of a grueling 80-game NHL campaign, the hard work in the classroom during the dog days of summer paid off for Patterson, who received his bachelor degree in business on May 18, 1986, as he was skating for Calgary against Montreal in his first Stanley Cup finals.

In the mid-1950s, Clarkson established itself among the elite teams in the nation with its championship-caliber squads. One of the key components of the Knights' success during that era was the play of Jack Porter. Ranking among the Green and Gold's all-time leading scorers by averaging close to two points a game, the 5-10, 180-pound, Sudbury, Ontario native provided fans with plenty of excitement at Clarkson Arena.

Porter, who scored 149 points on 63 goals and 86 assists through 82 games from 1952-56, teamed up with classmates Tom Meeker and Ellard Gutzman to make up an exciting, high-scoring line for head coach Bill Harrison's teams. With Porter centering the talented trio and powering the Knights' potent offense, Clarkson compiled a 57-21-3 record during his standout collegiate career. In his junior and senior campaigns, the Knights won an amazing 41 of 45 games, capped off by the perfect season of 1955-56.

Porter displayed his considerable talents and hard-working style early in his collegiate career. Playing in 14 games as a freshman in 1951-52, Porter chipped in seven goals and 14 assists and continually improved throughout the season. Porter hit his stride the following year when he led the Green and Gold with 33 points on a team-high 18 goals and 15 assists. He opened his junior campaign with a hat trick in the Knights' 10-5 win over Michigan State and continued to produce all season long, finishing as Clarkson's second leading scorer with 52 points on 21 goals and 32 assists through 21 games in 1954-55.

Under the guidance of Harrison, and the steady play of Porter, Clarkson posted a phenomenal 23-0-0 record in 1955-56 and were crowned Tri-State League Champs. Prior to the start of that season, Harrison remarked, "Jack is one of the best center ice men I have had at Clarkson. His tireless work on the ice, offensive playmaking and steady defensive brilliance, will be one of our ace cards in this tough season coming up." "Blackjack" and his teammates certainly lived up to their lofty expectations that winter.

Porter notched 45 points on 16 goals and 29 assists that winter and was named a second-team Tri-State League All-Star. In the season's final game on March 6, Porter made no doubt that the Knights would go undefeated. "Jack Porter was all over the ice, scoring, setting up plays, back checking, and along with Meeker and Gutzman, held control throughout," said Harrison in a post-game interview. He tallied a hat trick and added two assists as the Knights skated by North Country rival St. Lawrence 7-4 in Potsdam to complete the season with an unblemished record.

The 1955-56 squad was the first Clarkson team to be invited to the NCAA Championships. The Knights, however, refused to go. Clarkson had eight seniors, including Porter, who were four-year varsity players and under NCAA rules were ineligible. The team voted not to go without them and turned down the NCAA bid.

Porter also played three years of golf, was member of the Varsity "C" Club and served on Clarkson's Athletic Council.

LEN CEGLARSKI

One of the legendary figures in collegiate hockey, Len Ceglarski began his unparalleled coaching career in Potsdam during the late 1950s as the fourth head coach in Clarkson's storied tradition. Serving for 14 years as the head coach of the Golden Knights, Ceglarski compiled a .717 winning percentage behind the Green and Gold's bench, posting a 254-97-11 overall record from 1958-1972. He guided Clarkson to four NCAA Tournament berths and its first ECAC Tournament title. Ceglarski's 1961-62, 1965-66 and 1969-70 teams finished as runner-ups in the NCAA Tr., the only Clarkson squads to reach the national championship game.

A native of East Walpole, Massachusetts, Ceglarski taught and coached at Walpole High for four years before making the trek to the North Country to begin his collegiate coaching career, taking the reigns of the Golden Knights' program from retiring Clarkson mentor Bill Harrison. It took Ceglarski only four seasons to guide the Knights to their first NCAA championship game. After becoming the first Eastern team to defeat a Western squad in the first round of the Final Four since 1954, knocking off Michigan 5-4, Clarkson fell to Michigan Tech in the 1962 title game, closing out a 22-3-1 campaign.

Four years later, Ceglarski boasted his best Clarkson squad, winning the ECAC Tr. and once again making it to the deciding game in the NCAA tourney. The Knights defeated Denver, 4-3, before falling to Michigan State in the title game to round out a 24-3 record in 1965-66. At the end of the season, he was awarded his first Spencer Penrose Trophy, which annually goes to the national coach of the year. He also earned the prestigious honor in 1973 and 1985. For the third time in less than 10 years, Ceglarski's team advanced to college hockey's center stage when the Knights battled Cornell for the 1970 NCAA championship. After skating past Michigan Tech, 4-3, in the semifinals, Clarkson fell just short against the Big Red, suffering a 6-4 loss in Lake Placid, capping off a 24-8 record.

When long-time Boston College coach Snooks Kelley retired as the Eagles coach in 1972, it was only natural for Ceglarski to return to his alma mater. He was an All-America left wing on BC's 1949 NCAA Championship team and captain of the 1950-51 squad.Ceglarski, who served a tour of duty with the U.S. Marine Corps, also won a Silver Medal as a member of the U.S. Hockey Team in the 1952 Olympics.

When Ceglarski concluded his 34-year hockey coaching career in 1992, he retired with the most victories ever amassed in the history of the game at the college level, starting with Clarkson's 10-2 win at Providence on December 5, 1958. His teams at Clarkson and Boston College won 673 games, lost only 339 and tied 38. Over that time, Ceglarski-coached teams had only four losing campaigns.

Ceglarski and his wife Ursula, who brought up six sons on Missouri Avenue in the village, did just about everything to keep the Clarkson program running smoothly. He was responsible not only for varsity coaching, but for the freshman team, the rink, the equipment, the laundry, and served as his own secretary and the team's skate sharpener. Family always came first, but Clarkson players quickly became like members of the family. Clarkson had 13 winning seasons during Ceglarski's tenure, never missed the ECAC playoffs, and numerous Knights earned all-star honors under his guidance, including six players who gained All-America accolades. The record they amassed on the ice during his Clarkson years, and the records of achievement many of them compiled in the business world after hockey, is eloquent testimony to Ceglarski's guidance and interest in their development as players and as people. In Clarkson's opening game at Cheel Arena, on October 26, 1991, against Ceglarski's Boston College squad, over 30 former Golden Knights journeyed back to Potsdam to honor and thank their coach for all he had done for them and their school.

Playing a leading role in the establishment of the Clarkson University Athletic Hall of Fame, Ernie Richmond displayed his love of the University and Golden Knights athletics through his generous support.

Although Richmond did not participate in varsity sports while an undergraduate at Clarkson, he rarely missed a chance to cheer on the Green and Gold. An avid fan of Clarkson athletics while attending the college in the late 1930s and early 1940s, Richmond's unwavering support of the Golden Knights continued long after his graduation in 1942 with a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering.

Through the 2006-07 season, Richmond and his wife, Connie, still attendeded Clarkson Hockey games at Cheel Arena and could be seen in the stands at Princeton's Hobey Baker Rink when the Green and Gold battled the Tigers near their hometown in North Plainfield, New Jersey.

Affectionately known as "Uncle Ernie", Richmond passed away in May, 2007 at the age of 92.

CLARKSON ATHLETICS HALL of FAME TERRY YURKIEWICZ '66 Class of 2007 Inductee

Exceptional goaltending has always been a source of pride for the storied hockey program at Clarkson, and one of the best ever to man the crease for the Golden Knights was Terry Yurkiewicz. Behind the outstanding play of Yurkiewicz in goal during the mid-1960s, Clarkson Hockey enjoyed some of is greatest success. With the Cartier, Ontario native starting between the pipes for the Green and Gold for two seasons from 1964-1966, Clarkson compiled 42 wins, won its initial ECAC regular season title, claimed the program's first ECAC Tournament trophy and skated in an NCAA Championship contest.

After playing sparingly as a sophomore due to a broken finger suffered in practice, Yurkiewicz emerged as one of the top goaltenders in the country during his junior and senior campaigns, gaining first-team All-America accolades in both 1965 and 1966. As a junior in 1964-65, he recorded a .914 save percentage and a 2.66 goals against average while Clarkson posted an 18-7 overall record, a third-place showing in the ECAC standings, and a berth in the league championship tournament in Boston.

It was one year later that the standout netminder led the Len Ceglarski-coached team to one of the most successful seasons in Clarkson history. In 1965-66, Yurkiewicz backboned the Knights to a 24-3 overall record, first place in the ECAC standings, and helped the Green and Gold lift the league's tournament trophy as the best team in the East. He finished the season with a .906 save percentage, 2.46 GAA. Named MVP of the 1966 ECAC Tournament, Yurkiewicz allowed just five goals in the league's postseason as the Knights knocked off Colgate 5-2 at Clarkson Arena in the quarterfinals, skated past Brown 2-1 in the semifinals, and then overwhelmed Cornell 6-2 in the championship game at the old Boston Arena to gain the tourney title.

With the top goaltender in the ECAC manning the crease for the Knights, Clarkson made its fifth NCAA Tournament appearance a very memorable one. After backstopping Clarkson to a 4-3 win over a powerful Denver squad in the semifinals, Yurkiewicz came through with a 40-save performance in the title game, but the Knights came up short in their bid to claim the 1966 NCAA Championship, falling to Michigan State.

Along with twice being named an All-American, Yurkiewicz was a two-time ECAC All-Star and a two-time conference all-tourney goaltender. He was also named to the 1966 NCAA all-tournament team. The last Clarkson goalie to play without a mask (he did not wear one until his senior year), Yurkiewicz posted a .910 save percentage, 2.10 GAA, and a 43-10-0 record from 1963-66.

Yurkiewicz was also a standout in the classroom where he ranked first in his academic department. After his graduation from Clarkson in 1966 with a degree in business administration, Yurkiewicz, who passed away in October 2002 at the age of 59, enjoyed great success in the business world where he went on to serve as vice president and general manager of Albany Engineered Systems, a Division of Albany International.

Yurkiewicz was honored with Clarkson's Arnold H. Barben Award in 1992.

One of the most prolific forwards in Clarkson Hockey's lengthy history, Bob Empie was a dynamic center for the Golden Knights for three seasons in the late 1960s. In Clarkson's renowned tradition, there have been several players who have accumulated more career points than Empie, but few have been able to match the North Bay, Ontario native's consistent production. In 71 contests from 1965-68, Empie averaged 2.10 points per game, tallying 149 points on 70 goals and 79 assists. He led the team in goals and points in his first two seasons, and in assists in his last.

During his three-year career wearing the Green and Gold, Empie helped to lead head coach Len Ceglarski's teams to a 54-18-2 overall record.

In his first year of varsity eligibility, Empie, as a sophomore, played a leading role in one of Clarkson's best seasons ever. Centering Tech's top line, Empie paced the Knights' potent offense, scoring a team-high 49 points on 27 goals and 22 assists as Clarkson came within one game of claiming college hockey's national title. Clarkson finished the 1965-66 campaign with a 24-3 overall record, including an 11-1 first-place mark in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC). The Knights, with Empie scoring a goal early in the third period, won the school's first ever tournament championship that winter with a 6-2 victory over Cornell in the title game at the old Boston Arena. With Empie continuing in top form, Ceglarski's squad also finished as runner-up in the 1966 NCAA Championship. After a 4-3 semifinal victory over pre-tournament favorite Denver, the Green and Gold battled Michigan State in the title game, where the Spartans prevailed 6-1.

After the previous year's success, Clarkson was a marked team in 1966-67, and despite an outstanding effort by Empie in his junior campaign, the Knights were unable to reach their goals of another league title and a second consecutive berth in the NCAA Tournament. Empie reached the coveted mark of 50 points in a season, tallying 24 goals and 26 assists as Clarkson skated to a 14-8-1 overall record.

In his senior season of 1967-68, Empie once again reached the 50-point milestone, which included a team-high 31 assists. The Knights finished that season with a 16-7-1 overall record and placed second in the ECAC with an 11-5 conference mark. Empie opened his final collegiate campaign by scoring his 100th and 101st career points, on a pair of assists, in an 11-2 victory over Laval. He went on to gain Clarkson's Paul J. Pilon Award in 1968, which is presented to the senior who has excelled both as a student and hockey player.

After graduating with a B.S and M.S. in Industrial Management, he was very successful in the business world, with a career of over 30 years with Procter & Gamble. Empie once stated, "There is an old phrase my grandfather repeated many times: 'An honest day's work.' Clarkson made these words come alive for me. The honesty was epitomized by what it took to even participate as a member of the athletic scholarship process, and work exemplified by the determination needed to succeed. What I learned as a student and hockey player at Clarkson set the stage for what I have been able to accomplish since then." The 14th recipient of the Arnold H. During Bill Harrison's 10-year tenure as Clarkson's head coach, the Golden Knights hockey program was considered one of the best in the nation, enjoying considerable success throughout the 1950s. From 1948-58, the Knights, with Harrison at the helm, amassed a 127-47-6 overall record. During his last four years behind the bench, Clarkson compiled an amazing stretch of 77 victories in 87 games, including an impressive run of 37 consecutive victories on its home ice. The third head coach in the program's history, Harrison posted a .722 winning percentage, the best ever at Clarkson.

Harrison directed Clarkson to seven winning campaigns, its only unbeaten season, and the program's first two NCAA Tournament appearances when the national playoff was limited to the four best teams in the country. He coached three All-Americans, two-time winners Art Smith, Eddie Rowe and Ed MacDonald. Harrison became the first Clarkson coach to earn the Spencer R. Penrose Memorial Trophy as NCAA Division I Coach of the Year in 1955-56.

A distinguished professor in the college's Civil Engineering Department, Harrison came to Clarkson in August 1948 to begin his teaching career. Harrison graduated from Dartmouth College in 1943, and was one of the finest hockey players to ever wear the green and white at Dartmouth.

One of the most renowned seasons in college hockey history happened during the winter of 1955-56 when Harrison guided Clarkson to a 23-0 mark, the first perfect campaign in the NCAA since 1947. The Knights capped off the remarkable feat by defeating arch-rival St. Lawrence 7-4 in Potsdam. With St. Lawrence defeated and the celebration on the ice over, having moved down to Market Street, Harrison walked out of Clarkson Arena arm-in-arm with his wife Marge all smiles after completing the only perfect season in Clarkson's history. With the festivity rumbling in the background, Harrison remarked, "I mean we beat them all. Michigan State, Harvard, Boston College, all of them. I mean we were unbeaten."

After posting the perfect season the year before, Clarkson skated to a 19-3 overall record and made its first ever showing in the 10-year history of the NCAAs to cap off the 1956-57 season. Although the Knights lost to Colorado College 5-3 in the semifinal round at the Broadmoor Ice Palace in Colorado Springs, they came back to defeat Harvard 2-1 in double overtime of the consolation game giving the Green and Gold the unofficial title of Eastern Champions.

Harrison retired following the 1957-58 season after guiding the Knights to a 17-3 record and their second consecutive berth in the NCAA Tournament. In his final game as Clarkson's head coach, the Green and Gold defeated Harvard 5-1 in the consolation game of the national playoffs to once again gain the mythical crown as Eastern Champions.

Although he was no longer guiding the hockey team, Harrison continued to make a great impact on the College, devoting his time entirely to teaching and engineering. An Assistant Professor of Civil Engineering, Harrison was awarded a National Science Foundation Science Faculty Fellowships for graduate study in 1959. At one of the many meetings and banquets honoring Harrison upon his retirement as hockey coach, Clarkson's All-American goaltender Ed Macdonald stated, "Mr. Harrison has the ability to make work in the classroom easy. He has the talent to teach fundamental play in hockey, to develop winning teams. But school comes first. His emphasis is on studies."

Today, the most outstanding player on the Clarkson hockey team is honored with the prestigious Bill Harrison Most Valuable Player Award.

As a leading member of Clarkson's prominent hockey teams in the late 1960s, Fred Silver could be remembered most by many followers of Golden Knights athletics for his solid two-way play on the ice. However, the native of Copper Cliff, Ontario may have achieved his athletic accomplishments on the golf course.

A Northern Ontario amateur and two-time junior golf champion prior to attending college, Silver continued to dominate on the course while at Clarkson and was the Golden Knights' leading medalist for three seasons from 1966-68. He lost only three matches in three years of varsity competition and was the Independent College Athletic Conference (ICAC) individual champion in 1966 and 1968. Silver also competed in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Golf Championships at Bethpage on Long Island as a senior, finishing eighth in the highly competitive tournament field of 63 of the best collegiate golfers in the east.

In the winter as a left wing/center for head coach Len Ceglarski's teams, no one was more balanced in scoring than Silver. He posted 42 goals and 42 assists for 84 points over his 67 games from 1965-68, and helped to lead the Knights to a 54-18-2 overall record.

As a sophomore in 1965-66, in his first year of varsity eligibility, Silver helped the Green and Gold post one of Clarkson's best seasons ever. He tallied 14 goals and 10 assists as the Knights came within one game of claiming college hockey's national title. Clarkson finished the 1965-66 campaign with a 24-3 overall record, including an 11-1 first-place mark in ECAC play. The Knights won the school's first ever tournament championship that winter with a 6-2 victory over Cornell in the title game at the old Boston Arena. In the NCAA Tournament, Silver started Clarkson's comeback in the semifinal round, scoring the Knights' second goal in the 4-3 victory over pre-tournament favorite Denver. The Green and Gold finished as national championship runner-up after Michigan State pulled out the win in the final game.

Silver excelled in his role again during the 1966-67 campaign as a junior and posted 34 points, including 18 goals, as the Knights' fourth leading scorer.

In his senior campaign of 1967-68, he was slowed by injuries, but still managed to put up 26 points on 10 goals and 16 assists through 18 games. Silver came on strong in the second half of the season and helped guide Clarkson to a 16-7-1 overall record and second place in the ECAC with an 11-5 conference mark. He was selected to the first team of the 1968 ECAC Tournament All-Star squad.

Along with serving as an alternate captain on the hockey team as a senior, Silver was golf team captain in his junior and senior seasons, served as president of the Varsity "C" Club, and was tapped into Phalanx.

After graduating from Clarkson with a B.S in Industrial Distribution and an M.S. in Industrial Management, Silver spent most of his professional career with the Carborundum Company. He also served as President and CEO of the Excelon-ESK Co., a world-wide manufacturing business.

Silver continued to stay active in athletics after college and compiled an impressive list of playing accomplishments as an amateur golfer. For 36 consecutive years beginning in 1970, he qualified for the Porter Cup, the world renowned amateur event. He recorded four top five finishes in 18 appearances in the New York State Amateur Championship. Silver was the #1-ranked amateur in Western New York for 14 consecutive years from 1983-1996, and was also named Ontario Senior Player of the Year in 2002. He competed in 11 USGA Championships and was ranked #3 in the nation for senior amateurs by Golf Week Magazine in 2002 and 2005. The "Father of Clarkson Hockey," Murray Walker was a local businessman whose hard work and determination formed the foundation for the one of the most successful college athletic programs in the country.

From the time he moved to Potsdam in the early 1920s until the hockey club became a part of the athletic program in 1935, Walker, along with Gordon Croskery, organized the team. Walker conceived the idea of forming a hockey team composed of Clarkson students in 1921. He persuaded Croskery, an instructor in the mechanical engineering department, to be the coach. Director of the Clarkson Hockey Association, Walker set the schedules, secured the equipment, arranged for a place to play the home games and otherwise financed the program.

The 1920-21 team, led by center Bill Johnson, won its opening encounter against Alexandria Bay 6-4 and posted a 2-1 record that winter, setting the foundation for one of college hockey's most successful programs.

Clarkson played mostly local teams in the early 1920s with home games on the Raquette River and in Ives Park. Walker soon started recruiting Canadians by the mid-1920s, all legitimate students at Clarkson.

Few colleges played hockey in those days, but after several years of correspondence with Princeton, an old-time hockey school, Walker was finally able to get on the Tigers' schedule in 1927-28. The Knights, who received a guarantee of $250 to play the game in New Jersey, defeated Princeton 8-5 as Fred Dion tallied all the Knights' goals.

Walker continued to run the program (hiring Jack Roos as coach in 1929) until 1935 when hockey was turned over to the College's Athletic Department. Upon his resignation as Director of Hockey at Clarkson, The Integrator paid the following tribute: "A man is judged by his character, his honesty, and is straightforwardness. Success is the achievement for all men so qualified and therefore we are proud to say that Murray Walker was one of Clarkson's greatest boosters and friends. Although he was not a graduate of Clarkson, he has done more toward the welfare of the College than many of us can ever hope to do. We know that indirectly his sound judgment and advice will always be felt in this great sport at Clarkson."

Owner of J. R. Weston's (Clarkson's bookstore), Walker was also co-founder of the Annual Ice Carnival in 1930. After retiring from Clarkson in 1965 he presented the bookstore to the College. Walker is an honorary Clarkson Alum.

On November 1, 1975, Clarkson's arena was dedicated in honor of G. Murray Walker as "Walker Arena," home of the Golden Knights for the next 16 years. The long-time home of the Golden Knights' nationally recognized hockey team, the historic structure now known as "Walker Center" has undergone a transformation and now serves as the cornerstone for the University's recreational complex, as a multi-purpose recreation venue, on the eastern edge of the campus. The facility is a fitting tribute to a man who played a major role in establishing athletic success at Clarkson.

During the first 86 years of the renowned tradition of Clarkson hockey close to 600 Golden Knights have worn the Green and Gold sweater, but none have scored more goals than Kevin Zappia. The 5'9", 177-pound left wing completed Clarkson's explosive offenses in the late 1970s, scoring a school-record 103 goals over four seasons from 1975-1979. Zappia is second all-time on the Knights' points list with 213, trailing only Dave Taylor as Clarkson's most prolific offensive force.

Zappia was blessed with uncanny scoring ability, and a flair for converting passes into goals, first for Massena High School, then for Northwood School, and then for Clarkson. He helped to lead head coach Jerry York's teams to an 82-43-1 record during his four-year tenure.

The Massena, NY native's collegiate career got off to a strong start as he was Clarkson's third-leading scorer with 22 goals and 49 points during his rookie campaign in 1975-76. One of his biggest goals was the overtime winner in Clarkson's 6-5 triumph against Boston College at Walker Arena in mid-February. He recorded his first career hat trick in a game against Penn on February 28, 1976. Zappia became the first freshman to be named MVP in the ECAC Holiday Hockey Festival at New York's Madison Square Garden. He scored one goal and added four assists to lead Clarkson to a 10-5 victory over Vermont in the 14th annual championship game.

As a sophomore in 1976-77, Zappia played a leading role on the most productive offense in Clarkson's history. He tallied 28 of Clarkson's record 223 goals, and finished with 53 points through 33 games as the Knights skated to a 26-8 overall record, including a first-place 19-4 mark in the ECAC standings. He tallied his second career hat trick in a 9-3 victory over Western Michigan in the opening game of the season.

With the graduation of Taylor, who went on the star in the NHL, Zappia took over the reigns of the Knights' offense in 1977-78. He led the Green and Gold with 59 points on 31 goals and 28 assists through 28 games of his junior campaign and capped off the year by being named a second-team ECAC All-Star.

Zappia once again led Clarkson in scoring as a senior during the 1978-79 season, putting up 52 points, including 22 goals through 31 games. He had two hat tricks in a four-day span in early February in wins over Colgate and Rensselaer to earn ECAC Forward of the Week honors. He was Clarkson's MVP as a senior.

After graduation, Zappia signed with the Quebec Nordiques, who were about to move from the World Hockey Association to the NHL. He was a great rarity of the 1970s: an American-born college player selected by a major-league team. He spent the 1979-80 season in Milwaukee, Cincinnati and finally Syracuse.

He was quick to point out that he owed his success in college to his various linemates. At Clarkson, the men who slid the puck to him in the slot included Dave Taylor and Craig Laughlin. "All my wingers made the NHL," Zappia once jokingly said.

Art Smith '56 was a senior alternate captain on Clarkson's unbeaten 1955-56 team, helping the Knights to a 23-0-0 campaign while earning All-American honors on the blueline for the second straight year.

In the mid-1950s, Clarkson established itself among the elite teams in the nation with its championship-caliber squads. One of the key components of the Golden Knights' success during that era was the play of Art Smith..

One of the best players in Clarkson's illustrious history, Smith played four years on the blueline for head coach Bill Harrison's teams and was one of the top defensemen in the nation as a junior and senior when Clarkson boasted powerhouse squads. A 6-2, 185-pound rearguard, the Walpole, Massachusetts native was a tremendous skater whose ability to control the puck and initate scoring drives from the back zone was a tremendous asset in the Knights' progress to the top of college hockey.

A two-time All-American, Smith skated in 56 games during four seasons from 1952-56, recording 34 points on 11 goals and 23 assists. As a junior, Smith was named an All-American in 1955, the first Golden Knight to receive the prestigious award since 1931. The stalwart defenseman also earned the lofty distinction again in 1956, becoming just one of 13 Clarkson players to twice be named an All-American. Smith was also honored with Clarkson's Paul J. Pilon Award, which is presented when appropriate to a senior who has excelled both as a student and hockey player..

One of the most renowned seasons in college hockey history happened during the winter of 1955-56 when Clarkson, with Smith playing a leading role, skated to a 23-0 mark, the first perfect campaign in the NCAA since 1947. The Knights capped off the remarkable feat by defeating arch-rival St. Lawrence 7-4 in Potsdam. After their second victory of the season over their North Country neighbors completed the only perfect season in Clarkson history, coach Harrison remarked, "I mean we beat them all, Michigan State, Harvard, Boston College, all of them. I mean we were unbeaten.

Smith, an alternate captain, played the starring role in one of Clarkson's closest victories that season, scoring the winning goal against an unbeaten Laval University squad. With the scored tied 2-2 early in the third period, Smith stopped a shot on his pads at the blueline, raced into the Laval end and lifted in a backhanded shot for the unassisted game-winner in the 3-2 triumph at Clarkson Arena.

Considered by many knowledgeable Knight fans to be the greatest Clarkson team ever, the 1955-56 squad was the first Clarkson team to be invited to the NCAA Championships. The Knights, however, refused to go. Clarkson had eight seniors, including Smith, who were four-year varsity players and under NCAA rules were ineligible. The team voted not to go without them and turned down the tournament bid.

Prior to attending Clarkson, Smith was captain of the 1952 Walpole H.S. hockey team and a First-Team Bay State League All-Star. Smith was inducted into the Walpole High School Hockey Hall of Fame in 2009.

During the mid-1970s, Clarkson Hockey boasted some of the most productive offenses in the nation, and a large part of the Golden Knights' success could be attributed to the stellar play on the blueline by Bill Blackwood.

Blackwood was an all-star defenseman with a booming shot from the point and was a dominant force for the Green and Gold from 1974-78. The Golden Knights' all-time leading scorer from the blueline, the Copper Cliff, Ontario native tallied 169 points, including 52 goals, in 123 career games. He is one of only six Clarkson defensemen all-time to record 100-plus points. Blackwood still ranks third all-time among all Golden Knights in career assists with 117.

He was twice named an All-America (1977, 78) and was a three-time ECAC All-Star along with being recognized on ECAC Hockey's 1970s All-Decade First Team. Blackwood helped to lead the Green and Gold to the 1977 ECAC regular-season title as the top scoring defenseman in the conference.

The 5-10, 180-pound junior tallied 71 points, including 54 assists, through 34 games as the Knights skated to a 26-8 overall record and a first-place 19-4 conference mark. Clarkson scored a school-record 223 goals that season, and the specialty teams were outstanding. With Blackwood quarterbacking the power play, and Clarkson Hall of Famers Dave Taylor '77 and Kevin Zappia '79 converting up front, the Knights clicked at amazing rate of 42% with the man-advantage (89-210). The penalty-killing unit was equally as intimidating with 18 shorthanded tallies.

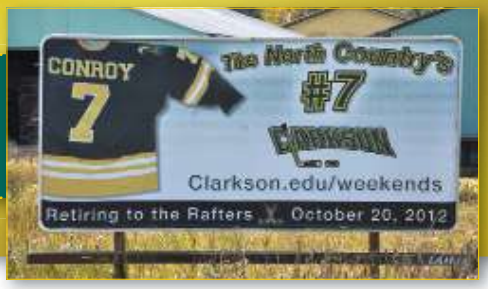

Blackwood served as a Golden Knight co-captain in his senior campaign of 1977-78 and helped to lead Clarkson to 19 wins and a top-three finish in the ECAC standings.

Missing only one game while at Clarkson, Blackwood was a leading contributor to the Knights' success as head coach Jerry York's teams combined for 76 victories during his four-year career wearing the Green and Gold. During Blackwood's residency on the Clarkson blueline, the Knights' power play, click at a remarkable 35% (227-645).

After completing his collegiate career, Blackwood played three games in the World Hockey Association for the Indianapolis Racers in 1977-78. He then went on to played two full seasons with the Fort Wayne Komets in the International Hockey League. From 1978-80, Blackwood skated in 152 professional games and recorded 104 points, including 80 assists.

During the 2010-11 collegiate hockey campaign, marking ECAC Hockey's 50th season, Blackwood was honored by the league when he was named to ECAC Hockey's prestigious All-Time Top 50 Team.

One of the all-time fan favorites in the lengthy history of Clarkson Hockey, Craig Conroy is the local boy who made good. A native of Potsdam, Conroy was a standout in the town's youth hockey programs, starred at Potsdam High School, and excelled at the Northwood School before following in the footsteps of his father Mike '73 and uncles Terry Conroy '78 and Tom Taylor '82 in skating for the Golden Knights.

Once at Clarkson, the North County native soon endeared himself to the Green and Gold faithful. As a freshman center, Conroy experienced a solid campaign in 1990-91 as the Knights' leading rookie scorer with 30 points (8-22). Conroy helped to lead the Knights to a school-record 29 wins, a first-place finish in the ECAC regular season, the championship of the conference tournament at the Boston Garden, and NCAA Tournament victories over Wisconsin and Lake Superior State en route to a Frozen Four appearance in St. Paul, MN.

The hard-working center continued to make his presence felt as a sophomore and junior. Conroy was as one of the Knights' leading scorers with 36 (19-17) and 35 (10-25) points, respectively in 1991-92 and 1992-93. Clarkson posted 20-or-more wins and advanced to the NCAA Tr. in each of those seasons. He helped the Knights win the ECAC Tr. Championship in the inaugural event at Lake Placid in 1993, recording his 100th career point by scoring a goal in the 5-3 semifinal win over Rensselaer.Conroy emerged as one of the best players in college hockey during his senior campaign of 1993-94, when he was runner-up for college hockey's most prestigious honor, the Hobey Baker Award. He also was selected as a first-team All-America and ECAC All-Star, and was named to the ECAC All-Tr. team. Clarkson's MVP and leading scorer with 66 points on 26 goals and 40 assists in 34 games, the Knights' co-captain was among the leading scorers in the country in points per game (1.94). A 6-2, 195-pound center, Conroy is listed among the all-time leading Clarkson scorers with 167 points on 63 goals and 104 assists through 140 career games. He played a pivotal role in the Knights' success during the early 1990s, helping to lead head coach Mark Morris' squads to four consecutive 20-win campaigns and 91 combined victories from 1990-94. Clarkson claimed an ECAC Regular Season title (1990-91), won two league tournament championships (1991, 1993) and participated in NCAA postseason play three years (1991, 1992, 1993), including a Frozen Four appearance (1991), during Conroy's Clarkson career.

A 1990 sixth-round NHL draft choice (123rd overall) of the Montreal Canadiens, Conroy's exceptional play on the ice did not end at Clarkson. Conroy, who played his first NHL game on February 15, 1995, went on to an illustrious professional career. He skated in 1,009 NHL games over 16 seasons and scored 542 points on 182 goals and 360 assists playing for Montreal, St. Louis, Calgary and Los Angeles. On October 28, 2010 the former Golden Knight all-star became the 255th hockey player all-time to skate in 1,000 NHL games. Frequently labeled as "the nicest guy in hockey", Conroy was nominated for both the Bill Masterton and King Clancy NHL awards. He also was twice a finalist for the NHL Selke Trophy, in 1998 while with St. Louis, and again in 2002 as a member of the Flames. Conroy skated with the U.S. National Team at the 2004 World Cup of Hockey and played alongside former Clarkson All-American Erik Cole on the 2006 U.S. Olympic Team.

Conroy made his retirement from the National Hockey League official on February 4, 2011 as a member of the Calgary Flames, but he has remained involved with professional hockey as a special assistant in the Calgary organization. On October 20, 2012 Conroy's Clarkson Jersey (#7) was retired by the Golden Knights, joining those of Dave Taylor '77 (#24), Craig Laughlin '80 (#22) and Colin Patterson '86 (#25) hanging from the Cheel Arena rafters.

Clarkson Hockey has showcased many notable players in its long, tradition-rich history, but only Tom Hurley can make the claim as the Golden Knights' first Olympian.

A talented, smooth-skating center, Hurley went from playing on the outdoor rinks of Massena, N.Y. to the collegiate ice at Walker Arena and on to the U.S. Olympic team becoming the first student-athlete at Clarkson to compete in the international event. At Massena, Hurley improved his game under the guidance of his high school coach, former Clarkson standout Stan Moore, building the foundation that would lead to an impressive career with the Golden Knights.

Hurley skated for the Green and Gold from 1963-66 and played a leading role on head coach Len Ceglarski's teams that posted an impressive .772 winning percentage during his three-year career with Clarkson.

As a sophomore, in his first year of eligibility on the varsity, Hurley tallied 34 points (15-19) as Clarkson posted a 17-7-1 overall record in 1963-64. He led the Green and Gold in scoring the following year with 15 goals and 13 assists as the Knights went 18-7. As a senior in 1965-66, Hurley was a productive force up front as Clarkson enjoyed one of its best seasons ever. The North Country native was the Knights' leading playmaker with 30 assists, added 12 goals and was a top performer in postseason play.

With Hurley playing at his best, the Knights claimed the Clarkson Hockey program's first ECAC Tournament title in 1966. The Knights defeated Cornell 6-2 in the championship game at the Boston Arena. Hurley was selected to the all-tournament team and was honored as a second-team ECAC All-Star.

Clarkson moved on to the 1966 NCAA Tournament and promptly knocked off Denver 4-3 in the semifinal round before falling to Michigan State, 6-1, in the national championship game at Williams Arena in Minneapolis. Hurley again was recognized for his strong performance and was named to the NCAA All-Tournament first-team.

Hurley completed his collegiate career as the first North Country native to exceed 100 career points. Playing in 74 games, he amassed 42 goals and 62 assists and helped to lead the Green and Gold to 59 victories, an ECAC Regular Season title, a conference tournament championship and a berth in a NCAA Championship game.

Hurley also excelled for the Clarkson baseball team in the spring, playing for legendary coaches Hank Hodge and Jack Phillips. A starting centerfielder in each of his three years on the varsity, he was named team captain in his senior campaign.

After graduating from Clarkson with a degree in Business Administration, Hurley played for the U.S. National Hockey team in 1967 and then joined the Olympic team the next spring. He competed for the United States at the 1968 Olympics in Grenoble, France. Hurley's Olympic appearance is captured in the squad's team photo. A three-sport standout at Clarkson in the mid-1960s, Joe "Skip" Demerski was a true all-around student-athlete and served as a team leader for three different Golden Knight Athletic teams. The Springfield, Massachusetts native was an all-star on the soccer pitch at Snell Field in the fall, was a key factor in Tech's success at Clarkson Arena in the winter, and was a dominant force for the lacrosse program in the spring.

Demerski played three seasons of soccer and acted as team captain under Clarkson Athletic Hall of Fame Head Coach Jack Hantz. A starting midfielder, he helped lead the Knights to three winning seasons and a combined 19-11-1 record from 1964-66. Demerski earned ICAC First-Team All-Star honors as a junior in 1965 and played a leading role in the Green and Gold's best season to date with a 7-4 record.

During the winter months Demerski was guided by another legendary Clarkson coach in Athletic Hall of Fame Inductee Len Ceglarski. Demerski skated for the Green and Gold from 1964-67 and was a solid contributor on Ceglarski's teams that complied 56 victories and an impressive .753 winning percentage during that three-year stretch.

As a sophomore, in his first year of eligibility on the varsity, he skated in all 25 games of the 1964-65 season, recording five goals and nine assists as the Green and Gold finished with an 18-7 overall record. Playing in 25 games during the 1965-66 campaign, the 5-11, 185-pound wing helped the Knights skate to a 24-3 overall record, a first-place conference mark, and Clarkson's first ECAC Tournament title. The Knights, who defeated Cornell 6-2 in the league championship game at the Boston Arena, moved on to the 1966 NCAA Tournament and promptly knocked off Denver 4-3 in the semifinal round before falling to Michigan State in the national championship game at Williams Arena in Minneapolis.

Demerski served as an assistant captain in his senior campaign of 1966-67 and helped Clarkson reach double-digits in wins for the seventh consecutive year with a 14-8-1 record.

Through 75 games during his hockey career with the Green and Gold, he tallied 15 goals and 19 assists for 34 points, and made a lasting impression with Ceglarski. In a letter the head coach wrote to Demerski, Ceglarski said, "I can truthfully say that NO boy I have had has given so much to Clarkson as you did. Loyalty, spirit, teamwork, conduct and sacrifice are but a few things we ask of our athletes; you have given these plus many more …"

Demerski continued to excel in the spring and was once again a leader for Head Coach Hantz, starring for the lacrosse team for three seasons from 1965-67 and serving as captain. He started three seasons at midfield, recording six goals and four assists, and was selected to play in the prestigious North/South Lacrosse Game in 1967.

Through 60 games from 1958-61, the Cardinal, Ontario native amassed 105 career points on 47 goals and 58 assists.

Described by Ceglarski "as a "heads-up" type of player who has a good shot and can score that important goal," Little made a big impression on the ice right from the start, recording five points in his first varsity game as a Golden Knight. He scored three goals and added two assists in a 10-2 victory at Providence on December 5, 1958, helping coach Ceglarski post the first of his 673 career wins as a college coach. Skating as a left wing on Clarkson's top line alongside all-stars Mel Tomalty and Robert Van Lammers, Little finished as the team's third-leading scorer in his first campaign with 18 goals and 16 assists through 19 contests as a sophomore in 1958-59.

The 5-10, 160-pound forward was Tech's leading scorer in 1959-60 and again in 1960-61. As a junior he tallied 15 goals and 23 assists for a career-high 38 points. Little served as a Clarkson captain in his senior campaign and netted 14 goals and added 19 assists. He was named an All-East All-Star in 1960-61 while helping the Knights post a 14-9 record.

Little was also mentored by another legendary coach during the spring, excelling for the Green and Gold on the baseball field as a pitcher and shortstop under Clarkson Athletic Hall of Fame Coach Hank Hodge.

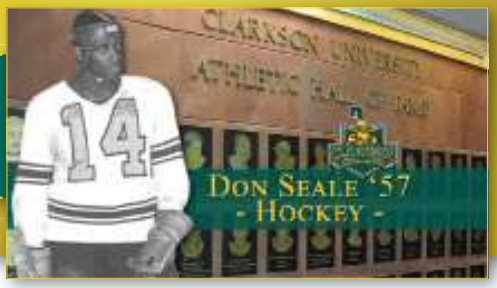

After graduating in 1961 with a bachelor's degree in business administration, Little attended the New York Rangers' training camp and was sent to the Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League and then on to the Indianapolis Chiefs of the International Hockey League. After retiring from professional hockey in 1963, Little put his Clarkson degree to work and began a highly successful career in the business world, beginning with The Travelers, an insurance company. He served as President of Mobile Home Division of America Inc, and is currently Senior Vice President of Thomas Group Realty, LLC in Gainesville, Florida.

Little also was the business manager of the AHL's Toledo Blades. Additionally, he helped start the hockey program at Bowling Green State University in 1965 and served for two seasons as the Falcons volunteer coach in the early years of the program.

Little's dedication to his alma mater has been exemplary. Along with lettering three years in hockey and playing baseball for the Knights, Little was a member of Sigma Delta and served as Clarkson's Varsity C Club President.

DON SEALE '57
Class of 2017 Inductee

During the mid-1950s, Clarkson College showcased some of the best hockey teams in the nation, amassing 60 victories and a .896 winning percentage from 1954-57. The Golden Knights boasted all-star forwards and exceptional goaltending, but Clarkson's success would not have been possible without the standout play of its defensive corps.

Anchoring Tech's blueline was Don Seale.

An imposing defenseman for the Golden Knights over that three-year span, the 6-2, 195-pound St. John, New Brunswick native skated in 67 career games, recording 29 points, including 24 assists. It was his intimidating, physical play on the Clarkson blueline, however, where he really made his impact.

Considered the "Jackie Robinson of Clarkson Hockey" as one of the first black players in U.S. collegiate hockey, Seale was a big, strong, talented athlete, who embraced the hard-hitting aspect of the game.

In his first year of varsity competition for the Knights, Seale played in all 22 games of the 1954-55 campaign, helping the Green and Gold to an 18-4 record.

One of the most renowned seasons in college hockey history happened during 1955-56 when Seale helped Clarkson to a 23-0 mark, the first perfect campaign in the NCAA since 1947. The Knights capped off the remarkable feat by defeating arch-rival St. Lawrence 7-4 in Potsdam.

Seale skated in all 23 games, scored two goals and 10 points in the undefeated season. His first career goal was the opening score in a 5-2 victory over Boston College on February 17 at Clarkson Arena.

As a senior in 1956-57, Seale was at his best in helping to lead Tech to a 19-3 record and the program's first ever appearance in the NCAA Tournament. Although the Knights lost to Colorado College 5-3 in the semifinal round at the Broadmoor Ice Palace in Colorado Springs, they came back to defeat Harvard 2-1 in double overtime of the consolation game, giving the Green and Gold the unofficial title of Eastern Champions.

Seale played in all 22 games, recording three goals and 10 assists and earned All-East First-Team and All-Tri-State First Team All-Star accolades.

Clarkson Athletic Hall of Fame Head Coach Bill Harrison said of Seale, "Don had 210 pounds on a 6-2 frame and knew how to use it. He could handle himself well, hit, stickhandle, feed and jump. He was rarely out of position and quick to rectify a false move. Don was the toughest man to get around I had seen in some time. He was best when the going was the roughest."

BILL O'FLAHERTY '71
Class of 2023 Inductee

When Clarkson fans think of the modern era of Golden Knights' Men's Hockey, many point to the influence of Bill O'Flaherty and the winning culture he helped create.

O'Flaherty began attending Clarkson in 1967 and played two seasons under legendary coach Len Ceglarski. Upon graduation in 1971, O'Flaherty transitioned immediately to coaching spending eight seasons as an assistant coach, first for one year under Ceglarski, and remaining with the program for the next seven campaigns with Jerry York. O'Flaherty was the natural choice as York's successor for the Golden Knights' head coaching position, taking on the role in the 1979-80 season.

O'Flaherty had immediate and consistent success with the Golden Knights, winning 21 games in his first season and continuing that trend for his entire time behind the bench at Walker Arena. In his second and third seasons, the Golden Knights won 26 games in each season, as O'Flaherty guided the Green and Gold to back-to-back ECAC Hockey regular season titles, which helped send the team to its first NCAA tournament appearance in over a decade. In six seasons behind the bench, O'Flaherty posted five 20-win seasons, with an overall record of 134-59-12 (.683 winning percentage), three NCAA tournament berths, and two ECAC regular season titles. The most impressive accomplishment of all came in 1981 when "Billy O" was selected for the Spencer Penrose Award as National Coach of the Year.

After his coaching career, O'Flaherty became Clarkson University's Athletic Director and held the position for more than a decade, where he would oversee the continued success of the Golden Knights' Men's Hockey program and the growth of the school's other athletic offerings.

O'Flaherty moved to the NHL to serve as Director of Player Personnel for the Los Angeles Kings. Alongside Clarkson alum Dave Taylor, the general manager of the Kings, O'Flaherty helped build the framework for a team that would win two Stanley Cups in the 2000s.

O'Flaherty's eye for the details of the game would help him earn positions with other NHL teams as well. He served as a scout for the Pittsburgh Penguins in 2006-07 and then moved on to become the Director of Pro Scouting for the Florida Panthers from 2007-2010.

Robert "Soupy" Campbell strikes a pose in 1960.

Over the course of decades, few have had as much of an impact on Clarkson Athletics as Robert "Soupy" Campbell. A member of the Golden Knights' Men's Hockey team from 1958 to 1961, Soupy contributed 28 points in 55 games and skated alongside fellow class of '23 Hall of Fame Inductee Mel Tomalty and previous HOF Inductees Al Graham (1992), Bill Little (2017), and Bob Van Lammers (2004). Soupy also played goalie for the inaugural Men's Lacrosse teams coached by Jack Hantz.

Since his playing days, Campbell has been a long-time supporter of both of Clarkson's hockey programs, contributing to the renovations of both Cheel Arena and Walker Arena. He also supports the Lil' Knights Club, a fan engagement group for women's hockey that helps foster the relationship between Clarkson Women's Hockey team's student-athletes and young kids in the community. Every Athletics Giving Day, Soupy has helped spearhead the fundraising for multiple Golden Knight programs.

Campbell, a native of Lachute, Quebec, helps foster the development of players from his home Province by funding The Campbell Scholars Hockey Endowment in 2008, which is awarded annually to any two players from the Province of Quebec on the Men's Hockey team as selected by the Athletic Director and Hockey Coach. In 2022-23, the Campbell Scholarship selections were Mathieu Gosselin and Alex Campbell, and the pair have excelled, with each being named ECAC First-Team All-Stars a year go as well as earning ECAC All-Academic honors. .

Soupy, who has residences in both Texas and New Hampshire with his wife Cindy, received his Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Accounting from Clarkson in 1961, while Cindy is a class of '64 SUNY Potsdam graduate. He earned an MBA in Finance from the University of Colorado Boulder in 1966 and became a certified public accountant in New York state in 1968. Soupy was part of the Clarkson community shortly after graduation as an Admissions officer for two years and then as an instructor of accounting for another two years. During the 1967-68 season, Soupy coached the Clarkson Freshman Hockey team, which rostered several future varsity standouts.

Retired Regional Managing Partner & CEO of Deloitte Asia Pacific, Campbell has served as a Clarkson Trustee, serving as chair of the Audit Committee and as a member of the Executive Committee. He was a past president of the Clarkson Alumni Association, received the Arnold H. Barben Hockey Award in 1982 (the highest honor a Clarkson Hockey Alum can receive), and was a recipient of the Clarkson Golden Knight Award in 1986. In 2021, Campbell received the Lifetime Engagement Award from Clarkson University, an award given to alumni who have remained engaged and supportive of Clarkson's mission from students onward.

Outside of his support and philanthropy towards Clarkson, Soupy has had advisory roles for Southern Methodist University Cox School of Business, Marquette University's Department of Accounting, and, of course, the Clarkson School of Business. Additionally, he has served on the boards of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Milwaukee and of Dallas, the Baylor Scott & White Institute for Rehabilitation, the American School in Japan, the Greenhill School in Texas, and the Arthritis Foundation.

Following his collegiate career as a member of the Clarkson Men's Hockey team from 1965-67, Mike Smith began a path in professional hockey that helped shape several NHL franchises. Starting in the NHL in the late-1970s, Smith eventually worked his way up to front office executive, spending time with the original Winning Jets franchise, the Chicago Blackhawks, and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

In 1979, Smith had his first job with the Winnipeg Jets, where he was hired as a coach in the team's minor league system. Overall, he spent 14 years with the organization, most notably as a pioneer in bringing Russian players to the NHL. He served as Director of Scouting, Assistant General Manager, and then became the team's General Manager from 1988 to 1994.

Following his long run with the Jets, Smith moved on to become a scout for the Chicago Blackhawks. He then had a stint with the Toronto Maple Leafs as associate General Manager before returning to the Blackhawks as Manager of Hockey Operations in December 1999. Shortly thereafter he was elevated to General Manager, a position he held for the next three years. Following the 2001-02 season, Smith was named Executive of the Year by The Sporting News

During his tenure with the Jets and Blackhawks, Smith was responsible for drafting numerous future NHL stars, including Stu Barnes, Dustin Byfuglien, Corey Crawford, Kris Draper, Duncan Keith, Nikolai Khabibulin, Brent Seabrook, Keith Tkachuk, and James Wisniewski. Smith's keen eye for talent was valuable during his time with USA Hockey, as he served as the coach and general manager for the team's 1981, 1994, and 1995 appearances at the IIHF World Hockey Championship. In addition, Smith serves on the advisory board to USA Hockey.

In 2000, Smith was presented with Clarkson's Arnold H. Barben Award, the highest honor for a Clarkson Hockey Alum. He has also been picked for two additional Hall of Fames, gaining induction to the New York High School Hockey Hall of Fame in 1999, and as part of the inaugural class inducted into the New York State Hockey Hall of Fame.

Smith continues to be at the forefront of innovation in hockey. In 2006, he joined Coleman Analytics to help that company develop and market an analytics package for NHL teams. In 2015, Smith was hired by Bench Metrics to develop a product which applied analytics for teams to use in the NHL Entry Draft.

Mel Tomalty, center with fellow Hall of Fame members, Van Lammers and Little.

CLARKSON ATHLETICS HALL of FAME MEL TOMALTY '61 Class of 2023 Inductee

For more than six decades, including several years as a standout for the Clarkson University Men's Hockey team and for the inaugural season of Clarkson Men's Lacrosse, Mel Tomalty has been a fixture in North Country and New York State Athletics.

In three seasons with the Golden Knights, Tomalty amassed 115 points, scoring 57 goals and 58 assists in just 59 contests for an average of 1.94 points per game, the fifth-best figure in program history. In his first season with the Green and Gold, Tomalty ranked as the third leading point producer (11-19-30) and was the lone first-year varsity member to score in double digits, helping the team to a 17-3 record and an appearance in the NCAA Frozen Four, where the team finished third after a victory in the consolation game. In his next two seasons, Tomalty led the team in goals while ranking 2nd in assists in both campaigns, finishing as the team's top scorer in 1958-59 and placing second in 1959-60.

Tomalty was the anchor of what many Clarkson Hockey aficionados would consider one of the top trios in the program's storied history. Along with Bill Little and Bob Van Lammers, the group would record 126 points in just 19 contests (6.63 points per game), accounting for 49.2% of the team's scoring in 1958-59. Despite every opponent knowing it would need to stop those three players, few rarely succeeded.

Following his graduation at Clarkson, Tomalty played with a number of professional teams, including the Jersey Larks, Syracuse Stars, Morrisburg Flyers, and then Senior Hockey with the Potsdam Pioneers.

A native of Brownsburg, Quebec, Tomalty would settle in Potsdam and cemented his legacy in local athletics as a coach and official. He was the hockey coach at Potsdam High School in 1963 where he coached for four seasons, and his 1963-64 hockey team was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame. He also coached for SUNY Canton in 1972, guiding the team to a 17-3 record.

However, it was as an official where Tomalty will likely be best remembered. Inducted into the New York State Public High School Athletic Association's Hall of Fame for his career as a referee, Tomalty was a high school and college official for soccer, ice hockey, and lacrosse for nearly 50 years. After starting his officiating career in 1966, he served at various times as President, Assignor, or Interpreter of the sports for which he officiated. From 1974 to 2001, Tomalty was the head assignor for Boys' and Girls' Soccer, and he continued to serve as the assignor for Boys' and Girls' Ice Hockey and Boys' Lacrosse until 2013. Proving how well regarded he was in officiating circles, Tomalty was named a goal judge for the 1980 Olympics in Lake Placid, and in 1984 he was an on-ice official for an NCAA Men's Division I Final Four game.

Tomalty received numerous awards over his officiating career, including USA Lacrosse Man of the Year (representing Section X) in 1991, High School Hockey Official of the Year in 1998, the Frenchy Julien National Lacrosse Hall of Fame Award in 2001, and the Northern New York Soccer Officials Board Referee of the Year winner in 2003. Finally, he received the Chuck Dievendorf Lifetime Achievement Award for Section X Ice Hockey in 2013.

WINNERS IN LIFE... as well as Hockey

Besides their on-ice accomplishments, Clarkson hockey players have achieved outstanding success in a variety of careers. Many attribute their career accomplishments, in part, to lessons learned in a Clarkson hockey uniform. While maintaining the highest winning percentage of any major Division I college hockey program, Clarkson's student-athletes have also excelled in the classroom. Clarkson students are placed at a rate of 96% into a job related to their education or into a graduate program.

Clarkson Alumnus Creates a $1.5 Million Endowment to Honor Legendary Hockey Coach Len Ceglarski

Len Ceglarski

Two Clarkson hockey legends returned to center ice on January 5, 2008 before the Golden Knights faced off with the Boston College Eagles, as one Clarkson Athletic Hall-of-Famer honored another in a very special way.

Clarkson alumnus John T. "Jocko" McLennan of Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia, and his family created a $1.5 million endowment to fund the "Leonard S. Ceglarski Chair." Named in honor of legendary Clarkson and Boston College hockey coach Len Ceglarski, the chair will fund the Clarkson Golden Knights men's head hockey coach position.

"When Lenny Ceglarski offered me an athletic scholarship to play hockey at Clarkson in 1964, little did I know then that he was offering me the most important opportunity I've ever been presented. Under his direction and work ethic, I learned how to apply myself as a student, launch a successful career and enjoy a wonderful family life," said McLennan in announcing his leadership gift to Claim the Title, a special hockey endowment campaign at Clarkson. "My family and I are proud to honor college hockey great Len Ceglarski."

Coach Ceglarski, a native of East Walpole, Mass., was an All-America left wing on Boston College's 1949 NCAA Championship team and captain of the 1950-51 squad. He won a Silver Medal as a member of the United States Hockey Team in the 1952 Olympics at Oslo. He began his unparalleled coaching career in 1958 as the fourth head coach of the Clarkson men's hockey team. Serving for 14 seasons, he compiled a .717 winning percentage, posting a 254-97-11 overall record from 1958-72, when he left to become hockey coach at his alma mater Boston College. He guided the Eagles to over 400 victories through two decades in Boston. Upon his retirement in 1994, Ceglarski was inducted into the Clarkson Athletic Hall of Fame in July 2007.

After learning of the news of the gift through a phone call from McLennan, Ceglarski said, "I am humbled and genuinely honored to be forever remembered as part of the Clarkson hockey tradition this way. While I have maintained great relationships with so many of my former players and their families, Jocko and the McLennan family have always had a special place in my heart. He magnified all of the attributes I tried to instill in my players and carried these into his own personal and professional life well after he hung up the jersey. He exemplifies why I loved coaching college sports."

"We are truly grateful to Jocko and his family for making this very generous commitment to our athletics program," said Clarkson University President Tony Collins. "Here at Clarkson we often speak of our scholar-athletes. Jocko's achievements after graduation are the very embodiment of what we expect all of our graduates to accomplish. Jocko's recognition of the coach, who brought him to Clarkson and mentored him as a scholar-athlete, underscores all that we value in our athletic program. The Ceglarski Chair will enable the University to continue our tradition of hiring and retaining coaching staff who understand that a Clarkson education occurs both on and off the ice."

Born in Sydney, Nova Scotia, McLennan graduated from high school in Ottawa, Ontario. An accomplished hockey player, he was recruited to Clarkson where, in 1966, he led Clarkson to the NCAA Div. I final. McLennan earned his bachelor's degree in industrial management in 1968 and his master's degree in industrial management in 1969, again from Clarkson. McLennan has been involved in the Canadian telecommunication industry throughout his career and retired as president and CEO of Bell Canada in 1997.

McLennan has received many honors during his prominent career, including Clarkson University's Barben Award, Golden Knight Award, and an Honorary Clarkson Degree in 1997. He was inducted into Clarkson's Athletic Hall of Fame in 2004. McLennan also served as a Clarkson trustee from 1989 through 1993.

CLARKSON HONORS HOCKEY GREAT BOB EMPIE

Clarkson University alumnus and Golden Knight Hockey standout Bob Empie '68 has been a strong supporter of the University throughout the years. In recognition of his continuous connection and most recent gift, Clarkson will name the Golden Knights Hockey team leaders the "Robert E. Empie '68 Men's Hockey Team Captains."

"I am humbled and feel a deep sense of gratitude being recognized in this way by the leadership at Clarkson University."

One of the most prolific forwards in Clarkson Hockey's lengthy history, Empie was a dynamic center for the Golden Knights for three seasons in the late 1960s. In Clarkson's renowned tradition, there have been several players who have accumulated more career points than Empie, but few have been able to match the North Bay, Ontario native's consistent production. In 71 contests from 1965-68, Empie averaged 2.10 points per game. He tallied 149 points on 70 goals and 79 assists, leading the team in goals and assists in his first two seasons, and in assists during his senior year. Only four other players in Clarkson hockey history have averaged more points per game than Empie. During his three-year career wearing the Green and Gold, Empie helped to lead coach Len Ceglarski's teams to a 54-18-2 overall record.

After graduating with a B.S and M.S. in Industrial Management, he was very successful in the business world, with a career of over 30 years with Procter & Gamble, retiring in 2002. Empie was inducted into Clarkson's Athletic Hall of Fame in 2008. He was also the 14th recipient of the Arnold H. Barben Award, accepting the distinguished Clarkson honor in 1994. The award is presented to a hockey alumnus who has demonstrated outstanding professional achievement, has contributed to the betterment of his community, and has worked unselfishly for his alma mater.

Thinking back, Empie reflected on something Clarkson President Tony Collins said so eloquently when he coined the term "Clarkson Experience'. President Collins stated, "The Clarkson Experience is life changing and life defining."

Empie added, " It has been said that a handful of life's events can define a person. I truly believe that playing hockey, the 'Clarkson Experience', a 33 year career at Procter & Gamble that was greatly enabled by a high quality Clarkson education, my wife Becky and Coach Len Ceglarski have defined me in so many ways.

"My good friend and linemate Jocko McLennan has said often that Coach Ceglarski changed his life. I know his moral compass, honesty, and integrity coupled with his determination to succeed gave me direction and purpose. He had a way of bringing out the best in people."

Empie remembers his sophomore year in 1965-66, playing on a team that was ranked number one in the country for much of the year at 24-3 and being in the National Championship game in Minnesota. "What strikes me most was that the following year Coach Ceglarski called me into his office and presented me with a small plaque, named for Paul Pilon, a former Clarkson player. Coach said that every so often he gives this award to a player who he believes best exemplified a high level of achievement as a student athlete at Clarkson. He envisioned something in me that I did not see in myself. He told me to stay focused, work hard, go forward with unyielding determination and good things will happen for me at Clarkson and beyond. I took that experience and carried it with me ever since. I have been forever touched by Coach Len Ceglarski. Truly a great coach and even more a wonderful human being."

Empie thanked his former teammates, classmates, professors, and University staff who helped energize him throughout his time in Potsdam and helped make everything he's accomplished possible. "Thanks as well to the Clarkson University leadership who decided to do this for me and my family. To be connected to the legacy of those who came before us is a real blessing. Becky, our family and I share the desire to invest in Clarkson University so that in some small way we might help provide an opportunity for others who chose to follow and live the 'Clarkson Experience".

Todd Marchant was the last Clarkson rookie to record a hat trick when he tallied three times against Plattsburgh in a 6-2 win on January 20, 1992.
