ROB KOLL

20th Season at Cornell; 16th Season as Head Coach North Carolina '89 The David R. Dunlop '59 Head Coach of Wrestling

Rob Koll, the David R. Dunlop '59 Head Coach of Wrestling, begins his 16th season as the mentor of the Cornell wrestling program. Koll, himself a former NCAA champion, has led the Big Red program to unprecedented heights on the national stage.

Koll led the Big Red to a ninth-place NCAA team finish in 2008, while coaching junior Jordan Leen to the national title at 157 pounds. Cornell crowned four All-Americans and qualified six wrestlers for the NCAA tournament. The Big Red won its second-straight EIWA team championship and placed all 10 wrestlers in the top six, with freshman Mack Lewnes winning the title at 165 pounds.

Under Koll's direction, the Big Red has captured nine Ivy League titles, crowned four national champions, 27 All-Americans and 23 individual EIWA champions. He has sent at least one wrestler to the NCAA championships in each of his 15 seasons, including sending a school-record nine wrestlers to the national meet in 2005.

In 2006-07, Koll guided Cornell to its first EIWA team championship since 1993, and crowned two individual champions. Cornell qualified eight wrestlers for the NCAA tournament and placed 12th as a team. Koll led the Big Red to back-to-back top-five finishes at the national championships, leading Cornell to a fourth-place showing in 2004-05 and a fifth-place effort in the 2005-06 season. He has also guided the program to six consecutive Ivy League titles, the longest run since seven-straight conference crowns from 1986-87 to 1992-93.

Koll was named the 2005 NWCA Division I Coach of the Year after leading the Big Red to a fourth-place finish at the NCAA championships, the second-highest place ever by a Cornell team. He was awarded the prestigious Dan Gable Coach of the Year award that same season. Koll was also instrumental in the development of two-time NCAA champion Travis Lee, who capped his career with his second national championship as a senior in 2005. Additionally, he has been named the New York State Coach of the Year four times.

During the 2004 season, Koll surpassed the legendary Walter O'Connell for the second-most coaching wins in Cornell history with 132. He enters the 2008-09 season with 172 career victories, 31 shy of Jimmy Miller's school-record mark of 203. His .716 winning percentage is second only to the .837 mark set by Jack Spates from 1988-89 to 1992-93.

Over the past six seasons, Koll has taken the Big Red program to its most consistent success on the national stage. Cornell has sent no fewer than six wrestlers to the national championships, including sending eight grapplers three times and nine in 2005. Over that span, the Big Red has finished in the top 20 all six times, placing inside the top 10 on four occasions with 20 All-Americans.

Koll's first season as head coach in 1993-94 showed signs of things to come, as he guided David Hirsch to the national championship at 126 pounds. Hirsch was Cornell's first national champion in 34 years, since Dave Aulsebrook won at 123 pounds in 1960.

Koll came to Cornell as an assistant coach under Jack Spates prior to the 1989-90 season. While under Spates, the Big Red claimed four Ivy League titles, a pair of EIWA crowns and sent 18 wrestlers to the national championships. Cornell finished 10th in 1992-93, Spates' final season on the East Hill.

In addition to serving as a member of the Cornell coaching staff, Koll has also been the coordinator of the Cornell wrestling camp and has served as a member of the physical education staff.

Koll graduated in 1989 from North Carolina with a degree in communications. He set the standard for excellence at Chapel Hill, winning a national championship at 158 pounds in 1988. Koll graduated as the winningest wrestler in school and Atlantic Coast Conference history, posting a 150-20-1 record. He was North Carolina's first four-time All-American and second wrestler in Tar Heel history to win a national title. Koll was the 1988 recipient of the Patterson Medal, given to the most outstanding senior athlete at North Carolina.

A three-time ACC champion, Koll helped the Tar Heels claim three team titles during his career. He was twice selected to participate in the National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Star Classic, showcasing the top collegiate talent in the nation, winning both times. He also traveled to Italy as part of the NWCA All-Star team in 1988. After graduation, Koll served as a graduate assistant coach at his alma mater for the 1988-89 season.

Continuing his competitive career after graduation, Koll competed in the 1990 and 1993 World Cup, winning his weight class on both occasions. He was also an alternate on the 1992 U.S. Olympic team. A 1992 World Cup Grand Prix champion, Koll placed fifth at the 1991 World Championships in Tokyo and was the 1989 Pan-Am Games champion. He won national freestyle championships in 1990 and 1991 and was the runner-up at the 1989 Olympic Festival in Oklahoma City, Okla.

A native of State College, Pa., Koll was a Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association champion at State College Area HS. His father, the late Bill Koll, was a three-time NCAA champion at Iowa State Teachers' College (Northern Iowa) and was twice named the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler. Bill Koll was inducted into the National Wrestling Hall of Fame in 1977.

Koll and his wife, Rachel, live in Lansing and have two sons, William and Daniel.

CORY COOPERMAN

Third Season at Cornell Lehigh '06 Assistant Coach

Three-time All-American Cory Cooperman joined the Big Red coaching staff for the 2006-07 season, and returns for his third season under head coach Rob Koll. Cooperman specializes in working with the lightweight corps. While at Cornell, he has helped the Big Red crown eight All-Americans and nine first-team All-Ivy selections.

A four-year starter who competed at both 133 and 141 pounds at Lehigh, Cooperman compiled a 99-12 record, including a 65-7 dual meet mark. He closed his career ranked 12th on the school's all-time wins list and with the fifth-most dual victories in Mountain Hawk history. Cooperman placed third at the NCAA championships as a junior and senior, finishing with a 28-2 mark in his final year. During that time he earned individual titles at the Southern Scuffle and the EIWA tournament. He finished seventh at the 2003-04 NCAA tournament at 141. Cooperman also won three individual EIWA titles and led the Mountain Hawks to the team crown all four seasons.

An All-American at Blair Academy, he amassed a 181-13 career record, including a 126-1 mark over his final three seasons. He won four prep school national titles and was a two-time Beast of the East and three-time Iron Man champion. He placed second at the junior nationals in freestyle and third at the 1999 Cadet Nationals.

Cooperman graduated from Lehigh in 2006 with a degree in psychology. He resides in Ithaca with his wife, Jacqueline.

DAMION HAHN

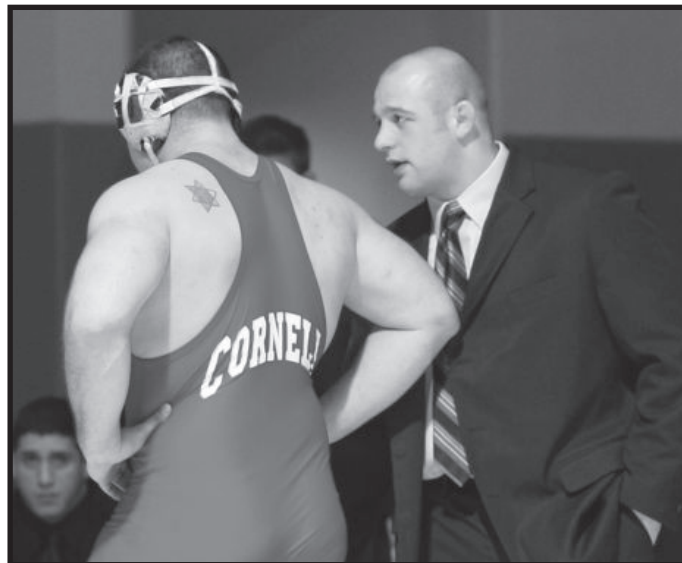

Third Season at Cornell Minnesota '04 Assistant Coach

Damion Hahn, a former two-time NCAA champion at Minnesota, begins his third season with the Cornell staff as an assistant with the middle and heavyweight wrestlers. While at Cornell, Hahn has helped Cornell capture eight All-America honors and nine first-team All-Ivy selections.

Hahn wrapped up his Golden Gopher career by ranking 12th all-time in career victories with an 118-21 record, which included a 33-1 mark during his senior season in 2003-04. Hahn became the third wrestler in school history to capture two NCAA titles when he won back-to-back crowns in 2003 and 2004. He became just the fourth four-time All-American at Minnesota, as well as the fifth three-time Big Ten champion, in school history. He received the 2004 Jesse Owens Male Athlete of the Year award, given to the top male athlete in the Big Ten conference.

A 2004 graduate of Minnesota with a degree in education and youth studies, Hahn ended his freestyle wrestling career with a second place finish at the Olympic Team Trials in 2008.

Hahn and his wife, Terry, reside in Dryden.

TRAVIS LEE

First Season at Cornell
Cornell '05
Volunteer Assistant Coach

Travis Lee, a former two-time NCAA champion at Cornell, joins the Big Red for his first year as a volunteer assistant coach with the light and middle weight wrestlers.

Lee is Cornell's winningest wrestler with a 143-13 career overall record. He won the NCAA title at 125 pounds in 2003 and at 133 pounds in 2005. Lee became Cornell's first four-time All-American and was a four-time EIWA champion. He was named the EIWA Most Outstanding Wrestler in 2004 and 2005 and was awarded the John Fletcher Memorial Trophy in 2005. A three-time first-team All-Ivy selection, Lee was the New York state Freshman of the Year, Ivy League Rookie of the Year and EIWA Freshman of the Year in 2002. His .917 win percentage is second all-time at Cornell.

A 2005 Cornell graduate with a degree in biological and environmental engineering, Lee also earned a masters in engineering and works full time at Kionix.

CHRIS SCARLATA

Ninth Season at Cornell
SUNY-Brockport '90
Athletic Trainer

Chris Scarlata is in his ninth year as the athletic trainer for the Cornell wrestling team.

Prior to his appointment at Cornell, Scarlata spent seven years as the athletic trainer for the Albany River Rats, an International Hockey League team. It was his third stint with a minor league hockey program, as he spent two years with the Hampton Roads Admirals (1991-93) and one year with the Winston-Salem Thunderbirds (1990-91).

Scarlata, a certified athletic trainer, graduated in 1990 from SUNY-Brockport where he received his bachelor of arts degree in physical education. He received his National Athletic Trainers certification in 1992 and has been a member in good standing of the National Athletic Trainers' Association since 1992.

He lives in Groton with his wife, RomyAnn, and their two children, Alexis and Griffin.

COACHING POSITION ENDOWED WITH $3 MILLION GIFT

In the summer of 1999, the Cornell wrestling program received the most significant gift in its 94-year history. A group of anonymous donors contributed $3 million to endow the head wrestling coach's position in honor of Dave Dunlop '59, a former Big Red wrestling standout and a member of the Cornell Athletics Hall of Fame. The gift also endows the assistant coach's position and created a program endowment for the team.

"DAVE IS THE MOST SINCERE, EARNEST AND KINDEST PERSON I KNOW. HE IS A VISIBLE PART OF OUR PROGRAM AND A WONDERFUL ROLE MODEL FOR OUR ATHLETES. I AM HONORED AND PROUD TO BE THE DAVID R. DUNLOP '59 COACH OF WRESTLING."

The 1958 Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association heavyweight champion, Dunlop, who also was a tackle on the football team, was voted the "Athlete of the Year" in 1959 by The Cornell Daily Sun. Following graduation from the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Dunlop went to work for Cornell's development office. Over the next 38 years, he earned the reputation of being one of the nation's most effective and influential fundraisers. As director of principal gifts, Dunlop played an integral role in the university's $1.5 billion capital campaign that concluded in December 1995. He retired from Cornell in 1997 and is now a highly sought-after fundraising consultant.

When told that the endowment gift would be named for Dunlop, head wrestling coach Rob Koll said, "Dave is the most sincere, earnest and kindest person I know. He is a visible part of our program and a wonderful role model for our athletes. I am honored and proud to be the David R. Dunlop Coach of Wrestling."

The construction of the Friedman Wrestling Center, a state-of-the-art training and competition facility completed in time for the 2002-03 season, added to the excitement. Steve and Barbara Friedman made a $1.5 million gift to the facility, while other generous alumni provided the remaining $1.5 million.

Steve Friedman, a member of the Cornell Athletics Hall of Fame and the 1959 Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association champion at 157 pounds, shared co-captain honors with Dunlop his senior year. The former chairman of Goldman Sachs and Company won the 1961 National Amateur Athletic Union championship at 160 pounds. Steve's wife, Barbara, is a Cornell trustee and longtime benefactor of Cornell University. The Friedmans provided the lead gift for construction of Cornell's strength and conditioning center in 1995. Today the center, which is named in their honor, is considered to be one of the finest in the country.

Commenting on the importance of both the anonymous donors' gift and the Friedmans' gift, Koll said, "These gifts provide stability for Cornell wrestling and ensure that we can enhance the program in ways that will allow us to maintain our place as one of the country's elite programs."

Director of athletics and former Cornell wrestling coach Andy Noel expressed high expectations for the Big Red's wrestling program. "A number of our intercollegiate sports programs have the capability to compete at the national level," he said. "Thanks to Coach Koll, our athletes and our generous alumni, wrestling is one of them."

"These gifts send a clear message to our athletes, recruits and our competition that Cornell wrestling is here to stay; that our alumni are committed; and that we are going to continue to have exciting and competitive wrestling at Cornell University."

BIG RED SUPPORT STAFF

TYLER BAIER

Third Season at Cornell
Cornell '05
Volunteer Administrative Staff

Baier has stepped away from the coaching ranks to pursue an MBA with Cornell's Johnson School. He begins his first season as part of the Cornell administrative staff after serving as an assistant coach for the Big Red for two seasons.

A three-time NCAA qualifier and 2005 NCAA runner-up, Baier was a three-time All-Ivy selection. He closed his career sixth on Cornell's career wins list (100) and among the top 20 in overall winning percentage (.719). He earned an impressive 40-4 record as a senior. At the conclusion of his senior year, Baier earned the Andy Noel Leadership Award, and took the honor for having the most wins by pin in a season, posting 12 during his 40-win campaign.

Baier is a 2005 Cornell graduate with a degree in applied economics and management.

MATT BOGUMIL

Second Season at Cornell
Cornell '05
Voice of Big Red Wrestling

Last season Bogumil returned to East Hill after a two-year hiatus to serve as the "Voice of Big Red Wrestling." Bogumil will once again lend his insight and commentary to Cornell wrestling matches in Newman Arena and the Friedman Wrestling Center.

A Maine-Endwell HS graduate, Bogumil was a Greco Roman All-American as a junior and a New York state finalist his senior year. Last summer Bogumil won the 213-pound weight class at the Empire Games.

At Cornell, Bogumil was a three-year starter at heavy-weight and helped lead the Big Red to a fourth-place NCAA finish. Bogumil will bring his wrestling experience and Central New York knowledge to the Finger Lakes Wrestling Club coaching staff to help develop the FLWC as the Northeast's preeminent wrestling club.

Bogumil graduated from Cornell in 2005 with a degree in applied economics and management.

MITCH CLARK

Third Season at Cornell
Ohio State '99
Volunteer Wrestling Operations

Clark is a full time commercial salesman for Advantage Sport and Fitness in Ithaca, and volunteers to provide operations support for Cornell wrestling. He served on Ohio State's coaching staff for eight years. Clark helped the Buckeyes to two top-six finishes at the NCAAs.

The former two-time All-American and 1998 national champion, Clark finished his career with a 119-27 record. In 1998, he was named the Buckeye Sports Bulletin's Athlete of the Year. Make It Happen, an autobiography of his life as a wrestler was co-authored with Scott Conroe. He is also featured in an instructional video that describes the techniques of the top position in wrestling called Take Top.

Clark resides in Ithaca with his wife, Kristen, and son, Owen.

CLINT WATTENBERG

Sixth Season at Cornell
Cornell '03
Strength, Conditioning and Nutrition

Clint Wattenberg begins his sixth season with Cornell and has taken over the role of the Big Red's strength, conditioning and nutrition coordinator. Wattenberg returns to the Cornell sidelines after spending the last three seasons competing at the international level to make the US Olympic Team. He was a member of the US National Team during the 2006 and 2007 seasons.

Wattenberg served as an assistant coach for the Big Red for two seasons, helping lead Cornell to a fourth-place finish at the NCAAs in 2005.

A three-year captain at Cornell, Wattenberg was a two-time All-American and graduated with the second most career wins in school history with 120.

Wattenberg is also the director of Finger Lakes Wrestling Club and will coach the FLWC youth, high school and senior level teams.

A 2003 Cornell graduate, Wattenberg received his bachelor's degree in nutritional sciences and earned a master's in exercise science at Ithaca College in 2004.

2008-09 Season Preview

The Big Red's seven returning NCAA qualifiers and six All-Americans should provide the right mix for success in 2008-09.

After a ninth-place NCAA team finish in 2008, the Big Red will look to make the climb to the top this season. Returning team captain and NCAA champion Jordan Leen, and a total of six All-Americans and seven national qualifiers, the Cornell wrestling team is preparing for the NCAA tournament with a challenging schedule.

The Big Red will open its dual season by playing host to Penn State in a battle of the Eastern powers, before the full Cornell contingent competes the following day at the Body Bar Invitational. The team will wrestle at the Las Vegas Invitational, Southern Scuffle and National Duals before heading into its winter dual schedule. The Big Red will welcome Missouri to East Hill in January and will focus on winning its seventh-straight Ivy League title starting in February. The David R. Dunlop '59 Head Coach of Wrestling, Rob Koll, will be at the helm of the Big Red in his 16th season and will strive to have his wrestlers peak in March to be ready for the EIWA tournament and NCAA championships.

After missing the 2007-08 season due to injury, Troy Nickerson will once again continue his quest for a NCAA championship. The two-time All-American was the runner up at 125 pounds at the 2006 NCAA tournament and placed third in 2007. Providing significant depth at this weight is sophomore Frank Perrelli. Perrelli opened his rookie season at the Brute Binghamton Open, where he took fifth place. The former New Jersey state champion notched a 16-13 overall record, and placed third at the Nittany Lion Open and New York state championships.

133

2008 Ivy League Rookie of the Year Mike Grey will look to bring his success from last season into his sophomore campaign. Grey broke the school record for wins in a season, totaling 42 as a rookie, and wrestled in a grueling 51 bouts. Having a 42-9 overall mark, he earned All-American status with a sixth-place finish at the NCAA tournament. Grey, the Rev Wrestling Freshman of the Nation, opened his collegiate career winning the title at the Brute Binghamton Open and finished second at the Body Bar Invitational, Nittany Lion Open and Southern Scuffle. Grey will be backed up by freshmen Quin Leith and Phillip Smith. Leith is a four-time Iowa state place-winner and claimed the title at 130 pounds in 2008. He finished his high school career with a 175-9 overall record. Smith won the Washington state championship at 125 pounds in 2008, and was the runner-up in 2007. He is a two-time district and regional champion with a 74-9 record as a junior and senior.

141

Sophomore Corey Manson returns to the mat for the Big Red after taking the 2007-08 school year off to pursue a business internship. As a freshman, Manson started for Cornell at 141 pounds and notched a 6-4 dual record. A talented group of wrestlers will also look to compete for starting time early in the season. Sophomore Eric McGill gained a great deal of experience last season by wrestling 17 varsity matches. Freshmen Grant Daffin and Derek Schreiner will also be fighting for mat time. Daffin is a three-time Oklahoma state champion, while Schreiner is a three-time Minnesota state champion. Another wrestler to watch will be sophomore Peter Weiss. The two-time Maryland state place winner competed at the Brute Binghamton Open and Body Bar Invitational last season.

149

Sophomore DJ Meagher will be looking to defend his starting spot in this weight from last season. Junior Brian Alves and freshman Seth Easter will challenge him for the position. Meagher placed sixth at the EIWA tournament last season and was named honorable mention All-Ivy in a loaded weight class. He placed second at the Brute Binghamton Open and took third at the Body Bar Invitational. Alves, a two-time California state place winner, wrestled for Cornell at the Brute Binghamton Open, Body Bar Invitational and Nittany Lion Open as a sophomore. Easter will also battle for mat time as a freshman and is a four-time West Virginia state champion.

The 184-pound weight class boasts a number of talented wrestlers who can compete at a national level, and last season, four wrestlers saw starting time for the Big Red. With Josh Arnone moving up a weight class, the starting spot will be up for grabs, and sophomore Justin Kerber is leading the pack. The 197-pound first-team All-Ivy honoree wrestled at 174, 184 and 197 pounds last season, compiling a 28-11 overall record. Juniors Michael Moore (19-12 overall) and Nate Holley (11-8) both registered numerous impressive victories last season and will be in the mix to be the starter. A new member of the team, freshman Cam Simaz, will look to be a surprise contender. Simaz enjoyed a stellar high school career as a three-time Michigan state champion with a 237-6 career record. Another Big Red wrestler to watch at this weight is sophomore Travis Dale, who wrestled at the Brute Binghamton Open, Body Bar Invitational and New York state championships.

All-American Josh Arnone will move up to 197 pounds this season. Arnone placed eighth at the 2007 NCAA tournament and took sixth at the 2008 EIWA tournament after defaulting due to an injury. Arnone is expected to be back at full strength by December. In his absence, juniors Taylor Moore, Carl Landers and Matt Panasevich and sophomore Jason Winckel will all look to earn the opportunity to step into the starting role. Moore posted an 11-10 record last season and placed fifth at the Brute Binghamton Open. Landers took seventh at the New York state championships, while Panasevich finished in sixth at the Brute Binghamton Open and Body Bar Invitational. Winckel competed at the Nittany Lion Open as a freshman.

HWT

At heavyweight, NCAA qualifier Zach Hammond returns to the mats for the Big Red after missing the end of the 2007-08 season due to injury. Hammond had a great junior season with an 18-7 record that saw him win titles at the Brute Binghamton Open and Body Bar Invitational. He also placed fourth at the Southern Scuffle and sixth at the Reno Tournament of Champions. Hammond will be challenged by sophomore Maciej Jochym, who took over the starting spot at the end of last season. Jochym posted a 21-13 record as a rookie and placed sixth at the EIWA tournament. Also vying for mat time is freshman Oney Snyder. Snyder placed sixth at the Ohio state championships and adds depth to a solid group of heavyweights.

National champion and two-time All-American Jordan Leen returns for his senior season looking to defend his 2008 title. He earned his third first-team All-Ivy honor last season and was named the EIWA Wrestler of the Year with a 27-3 overall record. Leen will look to continue his perfect 14-0 record against Ivy opponents this season, and with 89 career wins, he ranks 17th in the Big Red record books.

Backing up Leen are senior Tim Ironman, junior John Basting and freshman Warner Phipps. Ironman wrestled for Cornell at the Buffalo Open and Body Bar Invitational last season. Basting, a former North Dakota state champion and five-time place winner, placed third at the Buffalo Open as a freshman. Phipps comes to East Hill as a Nebraska state champion and three-time state medalist.

Mack Lewnes capped off a fantastic freshman campaign by placing fourth at the NCAA tournament, earning his first All-America honors. The only freshman to advance to the semifinals, Lewnes was named the EIWA Freshman of the Year and Amateur Wrestling News National Freshman of the Year. In his sophomore season, he should be nationally ranked near the top spot to begin the season. Also looking to earn time at 165 pounds is freshman Steve Bosak. Bosak is a two-time Pennsylvania state runner-up.

Senior Steve Anceravage had a breakout season in 2008, placing sixth at the NCAA tournament to earn All-America honors. He moved up a weight class and led the team in falls with a school-record 17. Anceravage provided Cornell with crucial bonus points throughout the season, helping the Big Red to its second-straight EIWA team title and a ninth-place NCAA finish. Anceravage has worked hard over the summer to continue to grow into the 174 pound weight class. Backing up Anceravage will be senior Drake Hovis and sophomore Colin McDonald. Hovis will move up two weight classes after serving as Leen's back-up at 157 pounds last year. McDonald posted a 14-10 record as a rookie and placed fourth at the Body Bar Invitational and sixth at the Nittany Lion Open.

2007-08: After moving up a weight class from his sophomore season to wrestle at 174 pounds, Anceravage went 3-1 at the EIWA tournament to place second and earn his third automatic bid to the NCAA tournament. The No. 11 seed at the NCAAs, Anceravage pinned No. 6 Alton Lucas of Hofstra in 1:33 to advance to the quarterfinals. He was edged out of the championship bracket by No. 3 Brandon Browne of Nebraska, 3-2, moving into the wrestlebacks. Anceravage then won a 1-0 decision over No. 9 Brandon Mason of Oklahoma State to earn his first All-America honors. In his next match, he avenged his EIWA's final loss by winning a 6-1 decision over Navy's Matt Stolpinski. With a 4-3 record, Anceravage placed sixth at the NCAA tournament. He was a perfect 5-0 against Ancient Eight opponents, where he won every match by fall en route to earning his first All-Ivy first-team honor. Anceravage opened his season on a 15-match win streak which saw him earn titles at the Brute Binghamton Open and Body Bar Invitational. With a 5-1 mark at the Southern Scuffle, Anceravage placed third. He totaled 35 wins, which was good for third on the team. Anceravage set a school record for falls by pinning 17 of his opponents, totaling 28 in his three-year career, and earned bonus points in 21 of his 43 matches.

2006-07: In his second season, Anceravage found success in tournament action, placing second at the Body Bar Invitational and Southern Scuffle before winning the title at the EIWA tournament. He was named to the All-Ivy second team after going 3-1 in the league and 24-8 overall. Anceravage avenged his only Ivy loss of the regular season by pinning Penn's Zach Shanaman in 2:48 in the EIWA semifinals. At the EIWA tournament, Anceravage qualified for his second NCAA tournament after defeating the No. 1 seed, Michael Cannon (American), in the finals, 9-6. At the NCAA tournament, he won two matches including one by fall.

2005-06: Anceravage successfully returned from an injury which kept him out of the lineup as a freshman. He finished his sophomore season with an impressive record of 25-10, and he was an All-Ivy second team selection. In the first action of his collegiate career, Anceravage went 3-1 at the Body Bar Invitational, taking second place. He then placed third at the Las Vegas Invitational and second at the Southern Scuffle. After receiving a bye in the first round of the EIWA tournament, he defeated Jon Anderson (Army) to advance to the semifinal round where he defeated 2004 NCAA champion Troy Letters (Lehigh). He fell to the No. 1 seed, Muzaffar Abdurakhmanov (American), in the final to place second, earning an automatic bid to nationals.

Prior to Cornell

Anceravage completed a highly successful career at Bloomsburg HS by capturing the state title at 152 pounds, while helping his team win the Class AA state dual championship. He was a state runner-up as a junior and earned fourth- and sixth-place finishes at the 2003 junior nationals in Greco-Roman and freestyle, respectively. Despite being one of a few scholastic wrestlers entered at the 2003 junior world trials, Anceravage lost just twice and won five matches against NCAA Division I wrestlers to place sixth among 37 contenders at 145 pounds.

2007-08: Arnone returned from injury to wrestle for Cornell at 184 pounds. He compiled a 6-1 dual record and earned second-team All-Ivy honors. Arnone pinned his first two opponents before medical forfeiting to sixth place at the EIWA tournament. After pinning Franklin & Marshall's Daniel Canfield in 2:56 and Columbia's Kenji Porter in 2:23, Arnone won the EIWA's Sheridan Award for recording the most falls in the least amount of time in the championship bracket of the tournament.

2006-07: Arnone opened the season at the UB Open and won the title at 184 pounds with three victories. He was sidelined for a majority of the winter due to illness. In his second dual match of the season, Arnone upset Penn's No. 13-ranked Lior Zamir, pinning him in 4:59 to help the Big Red secure its fifth-straight Ivy title. Arnone entered the EIWA tournament a No. 6 seed, and met Columbia's Justin Barent in the first round. Arnone avenged a dual match loss to Barent by scoring a 12-1 major decision when it counted the most. Harvard's Louis Caputo defeated Arnone in the quarterfinals, 4-2, but Arnone wrestled his way back to the third-place match with a victory over Zamir for the second time. To capture third, and an automatic bid to nationals, Arnone won a 5-1 decision over Lehigh's David Craig. At the NCAA tournament, Arnone upset the No. 3 seed, Mike Pucillo (Ohio State), 3-1, to advance to the quarterfinals where he lost to the No. 6 seed, Jake Varner (Iowa State). In the wrestlebacks, Arnone pinned Indiana's Marc Bennett to secure his first All-America honor.

2005-06: Arnone was injured early in his rookie campaign. He won five of his six matches at the Body Bar Invitational, placing third.

Prior to Cornell

Arnone was a five-time letter winner at Honesdale HS. He finished seventh at the state championships in 2001 and improved in 2004 by finishing second. As a senior, he won the Pennsylvania state championship and placed at the Greco-Roman junior national championships.

2007-08: Last season, Leen captained the Big Red squad and led the team to a ninth-place finish at the NCAA tournament, where he won the title at 157 pounds. Leen upset three ranked wrestlers en route to his first-place finish. In his opening bout, he defeated returning All-American Ryan Hluschak of Drexel, 4-3, and followed with a 4-1 decision over Maryland's Brian Letters. In the quarterfinals, Leen defeated the No. 1 seed, Gregor Gillespie of Edinboro, 8-6, before advancing to the finals with a 9-2 victory over No. 12 Josh Zupancic of Stanford. Leen, the lowest seeded wrestler in the finals, won the title with a 5-4 win over No. 2 Mike Poeta of Illinois. He became just the second collegiate wrestler from Tennessee to ever win an NCAA championship. Leen was also named the EIWA Wrestler of the Year. He registered a 3-1 mark at the EIWA tournament to place second and qualify for his third NCAA tournament. He continued his perfect record against Ivy competition over his career (14-0) to earn his third first-team All-Ivy honor. Leen captained the Big Red to its sixth-straight Ivy League title. He opened the campaign by placing second at the Brute Binghamton Open and followed by winning titles at the Body Bar Invitational and the Reno Tournament of Champions. In dual matches, Leen had a 7-1 record. With eight major decisions, he had the second-most on the team. Leen has 89 career victories, tying him for 17th on the Big Red's all-time wins list.

2006-07: The No. 1 seed at the EIWA tournament, Leen recorded four wins, including two by major decision, en route to taking the title at 149 pounds to qualify for his second NCAA championships. At the NCAA tournament, Leen placed eighth to earn his first All-America honor. He opened the season by placing first at both the UB Open and Body Bar Invitational. At the Las Vegas Invitational, Leen went 5-2 to place fourth and also took second at the Southern Scuffle. Leen led the Big Red in wins with 37. After missing the 2005-06 season, he earned his second first-team honor of his career. Wrestling in all but one dual match last season, Leen led the team in points with 50 and a 12-1 dual record. Leen also was the team leader in major decisions (8).

2005-06: Did not compete.

2004-05: Leen burst onto the scene as a rookie, posting a 25-16 overall mark, while earning a third-place finish at the EIWA tournament and an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament. Leen was particularly effective against Ivy League opponents, going 5-0 against Ancient Eight wrestlers. He kicked off his career by going 4-1 for a third-place finish at the Empire Open. He won two of his dual meet bouts in overtime and one by a score of 1-0, proving he could pull out the tough victory. The No. 5 seed at the EIWA tournament, Leen fell to Patrick Simpson (Army) in his first match, but won his next three, putting him in the third-place match where he beat Anthony Constantino of Columbia. His third-place finish earned him an automatic spot in the NCAA tournament.

Prior to Cornell

Leen, considered the top senior wrestler in Tennessee by InterMat in 2003-04, was a four-time state champion and placed first at the NHSCA Seniors National Wrestling Championships in the 130-pound bracket. For his efforts at the nationals, he was featured in Sports Illustrated's "Faces in the Crowd." The all-time winningest wrestler in Tennessee history (214 victories), Leen helped Baylor capture three state titles and a pair of state dual championships.

2006-07: For the second time in as many years, Nickerson was named to the All-Ivy first team at 125 pounds. The sophomore was 3-0 in Ivy duals and 22-3 overall. Opening his sophomore campaign at the Southern Scuffle, Nickerson took the title with a 5-0 mark, defeating NCAA qualifier Jayson Ness (Minnesota) along the way. At the EIWA championships, Nickerson won his first three matches before losing, 5-3, to Matt Eveleth (Penn) in the championship match. His second-place finish qualified him for his second NCAA tournament. Nickerson opened the NAAs by pinning his opponents in his first two bouts. He advanced to the semifinals, before losing 2-1 in a second overtime to eventual champion Paul Donahoe of Nebraska. Nickerson won his next two matches in the wrestlebacks to capture third place and his second All-America honor.

2005-06: Nickerson had a tremendous freshman campaign, earning both Ivy League Wrestler of the Year and Rookie of the Year honors. He is the first male athlete in any sport to be named the Player/Wrestler of the Year and Rookie of the Year in the same season. He won the first 18 matches of his collegiate career, including wins over No. 1 seeded Chad Mendes (Cal-Poly) and No. 2 seeded Jeremy Mendoza (Arizona State) at the Las Vegas Invitational where he took the title at 125 pounds. Nickerson dropped his first match to No. 2 ranked Sam Hazewinkel of second-ranked Oklahoma at the National Duals. He finished the regular season by winning his last 14 bouts, including two wins over Lehigh's Matt Fisk and one over Penn's Mike Silengo. At the EIWA championships, he cruised to the title, recording a pin and a technical fall to advance to the semis, where he beat William Simpson (Army). He took the title with his second win of the season over Fisk. Nickerson won the 125 pound title in each of the three tournaments he entered during the season. The No. 5 seed at the NCAA championships, he defeated his first two opponents before pinning Edinboro's Mike Sees in 3:27. In the semifinal match, he defeated No. 1 seeded Nick Simmons of Michigan State. Nickerson ended the season as the national runner-up, losing to Indiana's Joe Dubuque, 8-3 in the final. He led the team in wins (36) and falls (11) and was tied for the team lead in major decisions (9).

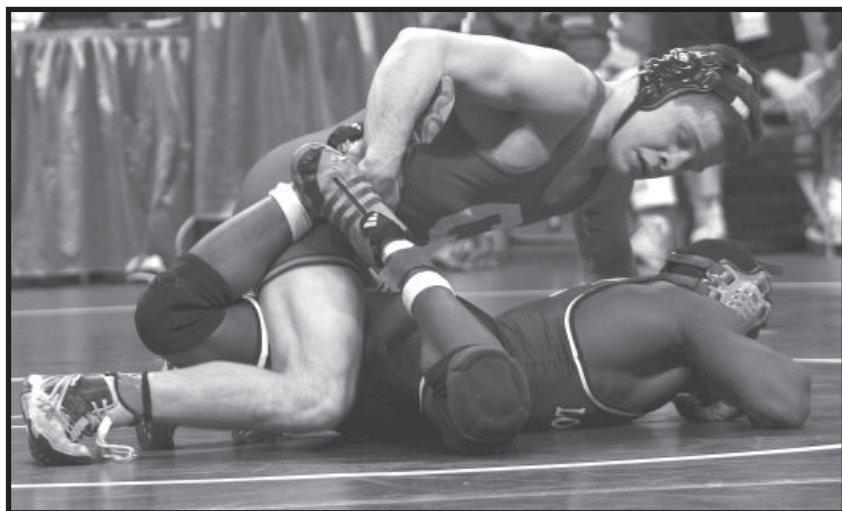

Prior to Cornell

Nickerson, one of the Big Red's most anticipated freshman arrivals, was the nation's top recruit at 125 pounds coming out of Chenango Forks HS, where he was the first-ever five-time New York state champion. He is a two-time junior national champion as well as a two-time Cadet national champion. He capped his decorated career with a high school national championship. Nickerson also ran cross country and was a two-time state qualifier.

2007-08 SEASON REVIEW

Looking Back at the 2007-08 Season

After finishing 12th at the 2006-07 NCAA championships, Cornell was prepared for another great season behind the leadership of its junior captain, All-American Jordan Leen. The Big Red was dealt a heartbreaking blow in the preseason after two-time All-American Troy Nickerson was sidelined for the year due to injury. Cornell also returned All-American Josh Arnone, as well as NCAA qualifiers Steve Anceravage, Adam Frey, Zach Hammond and Joey Hooker. Ranked ninth in InterMat's preseason rankings, Cornell was looking to capture its sixth-consecutive Ivy League title and vie for a national championship.

The Big Red opened up its season at Newman Arena with a tough dual match against No. 11 Wisconsin, who was already 3-0. In front of a home crowd of 3,000, Cornell picked up wins from Zach Hammond (HWT) and Frey (149) and added back-to-back pins from Mack Lewnes (165) and Anceravage (174). It was not quite enough, as the Badgers earned enough points from the final two matches of the night to squeak out a 21-18 victory.

At the Body Bar Invitational the following day, Cornell captured its third-straight team championship, avenging its loss to Wisconsin, who finished second. Six wrestlers made the finals, with Leen (157), Lewnes (165), Anceravage (174), and Hammond (HWT) all winning titles.

Cornell traveled to Penn State for the Nittany Lion Open with a limited roster in order to give some of the rookie wrestlers more experience. At 125, Cornell placed two wrestlers in the top five, with Frank Perelli finishing third and Mike Rodriguez taking fifth. At 133, Mike Grey picked up Cornell's best result, finishing second.

To kick off winter break, the Big Red traveled to Nevada to participate in the Reno Tournament of Champions. Cornell, who opened the tournament with four seeded wrestlers, captured third place out of 26 teams, behind only Central Michigan and Oklahoma State. Point scorers for Cornell included Grey and Michael Moore, who finished third at 133 and 184, respectively, and Frey, who placed second at 141. Leen, seeded No. 1, took the individual title at 157, while Lewnes toppled two higher ranked opponents to capture the crown at 165.

After a holiday layoff, Cornell traveled to Greensboro, N.C., for the Southern Scuffle where the Big Red took fourth place. Finishing ahead of Cornell were No. 4 Minnesota, No. 14 Edinboro, and No. 15 Hofstra. The weekend was highlighted by Lewnes rolling through the 165-pound weight class to capture his second individual title in as many tournaments. Impressive performances were also recorded by Grey, who finished second, and Anceravage and Hammond, who placed third and fourth, respectively.

Next, Cornell traveled back to State College for a dual match against the No. 3 ranked Nittany Lions. Battling injuries, the Big Red received impressive performance from its freshmen, Grey and Lewnes, who picked up victories in their respective weight classes. At heavyweight, Hammond also brought home a victory, but Cornell fell 35-10.

There would be no time to rest, as the Big Red traveled to Cedar Falls, Iowa, for the NWCA/Cliff Keen National Duals. Battling injuries, Cornell lost to the No. 2 Iowa Hawkeyes in the first round, with Mike Grey (133) picking up Cornell's lone win. Moving to the consolation bracket, Cornell defeated Indiana 22-19. Anceravage scored a pin at 174, while Grey (133), Lewnes (164), Justin Kerber (184), and Hammond (HWT) were also victorious. This set up another rematch with No. 1 seed Penn State. Grey won his third match of the weekend, while Lewnes and Anceravage both won their second, but Penn State once again prevailed, 31-9.

Never one to shy away from competition, Cornell's next dual match came against No. 11

Missouri. The Big Red dominated early on, earning victories from Rodriguez (125) and Grey (133) to open up a 7-0 lead. At 157, No. 6 Leen proved too much for Missouri earning a 4-2 decision, while No. 10 Anceravage picked up three points at 174. However, that would prove to be all the scoring for Cornell, as they were edged out 21-13.

After not wrestling at home for two and a half months, Cornell returned to the friendly confines of the Friedman Center for its next three dual matches. The home crowd proved to be vital as Cornell, ranked 18th, was able to upset No. 12 Hofstra, 28-14, and snap the Pride's six-match winning streak. The Big Red used pins from Hammond and DJ Meagher (149), as well as a major decision by Leen to put the match out of reach.

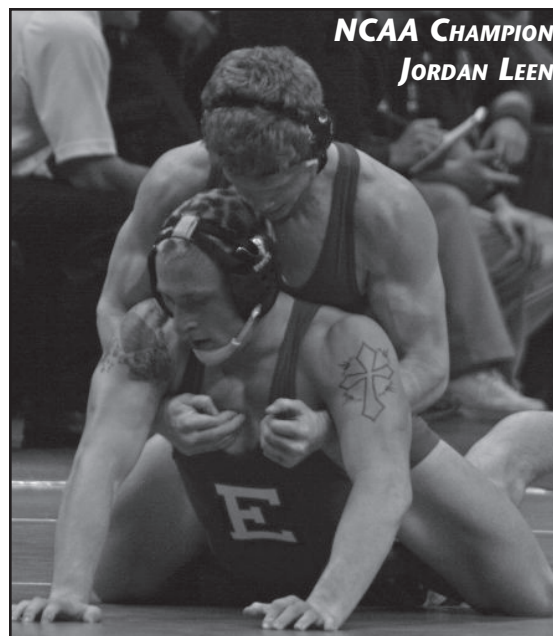

The next two dual matches would prove much easier, with Cornell picking up home victories against Columbia, 30-5, and Wagner, 48-6, before traveling to Philadelphia for its showdown with Ivy League nemesis Penn. Rodriguez's major decision upset over No. 8 Rollie Peterkin, coupled with Grey's 32nd win of the season, proved to be the difference, as Cornell won a thriller, 19-15, and asserted itself as the team to beat in the conference. Buoyed by its success earlier in the day, Cornell shut out Princeton 48-0 the same night to remain undefeated in league play.

Cornell continued its torrid run with victories in its three remaining dual matches. To close out Ivy League play, the Big Red defeated Brown and Harvard, 31-9 and 37-9, respectively, to capture its sixth-straight league championship. In the process, Anceravage picked up two pins to break Cornell's single-season record, previously held by Tyler Baier with 13. In a final tuneup for the postseason, Cornell dispatched Bucknell 26-7.

The Big Red traveled to Lancaster, Pa., to defend its EIWA team title, which proved to be a difficult task with Penn, Lehigh, and Army all in contention. By placing all 10 of its wrestlers in the top six of their respective weight classes, Cornell retained its title by the slightest of margins, edging out Penn by half a point. Lewnes, participating in his first EIWA tournament, won an individual title at 165, while Leen and Anceravage were runners-up at 157 and 174, respectively. Cornell's lightweights, Rodriguez, Grey, and Frey, all placed third.

Cornell qualified six wrestlers for the NCAA tournament: Rodriguez (125), Grey (133), Frey (141), Leen (157), Lewnes (165), and Anceravage (174). Cornell also placed nine wrestlers on the All-Ivy team, including All-Ivy first teamers Rodriguez, Grey, Leen, Anceravage, and Kerber. Arnone was named second team All-Ivy, with Maciej Jochym, Lewnes, and Meagher earning honorable mention. In addition to being named All-Ivy first-team, Grey also received Ivy League Rookie of the Year honors. Cornell swept the EIWA postseason awards, with Leen being named Wrestler of the Year and Lewnes Rookie of the Year.

Cornell traveled to the ScottTrade Center in St. Louis for the 78th NCAA Wrestling Championships, looking to improve on its 12th-place finish from last season. Four of the six Big Red wrestlers were seeded, with Lewnes being the highest at No. 4 in the 165-pound weight class. The team would not disappoint, with four wrestlers being named All-Americans. Both Anceravage and Grey outperformed their seedings and finished sixth. Lewnes was the only true freshman to advance to the semifinals, and battled through the wrestlebacks to take fourth place. Leen, wrestling as the No. 8 seed at 157, stunned both the No. 1 and No. 2 seeds en route to winning Cornell's first national championship since 2005. Leen's victory helped Cornell finish ninth overall, another strong showing at the NCAA tournament. Leen also earned his second All-America honor, while Anceravage, Grey, and Lewnes earned their first.

Friedman Wrestling Ctr.

Tradition/History

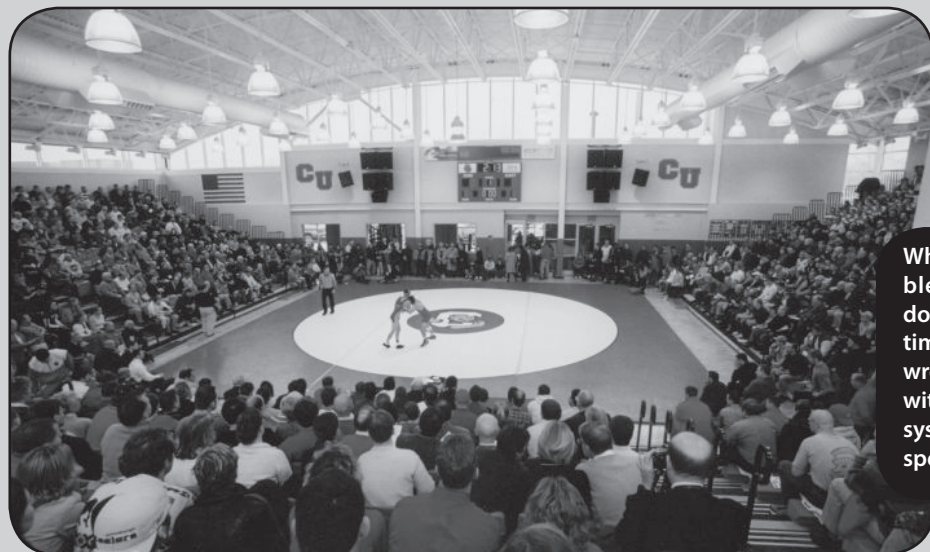

This Is Cornell

Opened in November, 2002, the Friedman Wrestling Center is the nation's only stand-alone facility devoted solely to collegiate wrestling. The building houses the Scott M. Smith Strength and Conditioning Center, Graham Morin Training room, locker room, Wechsler Alumni and Family Lounge and the Arno P. Niemand Arena.

Niemand Arena, when set up as a practice area, allows for 6,300 square feet of mat space. The cavernous wrestling room allows the entire Cornell wrestling team to train at full speed without fear of collisions. A concert-quality sound system runs throughout the building with special attention paid to the practice area and weight room. Spectacular arched windows provide natural lighting throughout the room.

When set for dual meets, the retractable bleachers of Niemand Arena are pulled down to the competition mat, creating intimate and intense seating for up to 1,000 wrestling fans. This unique setup, combined with the state-of-the-art sound and lighting system, creates an electric atmosphere with spectators surrounding the mat.

THE SCOTT M. SMITH STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING ROOM

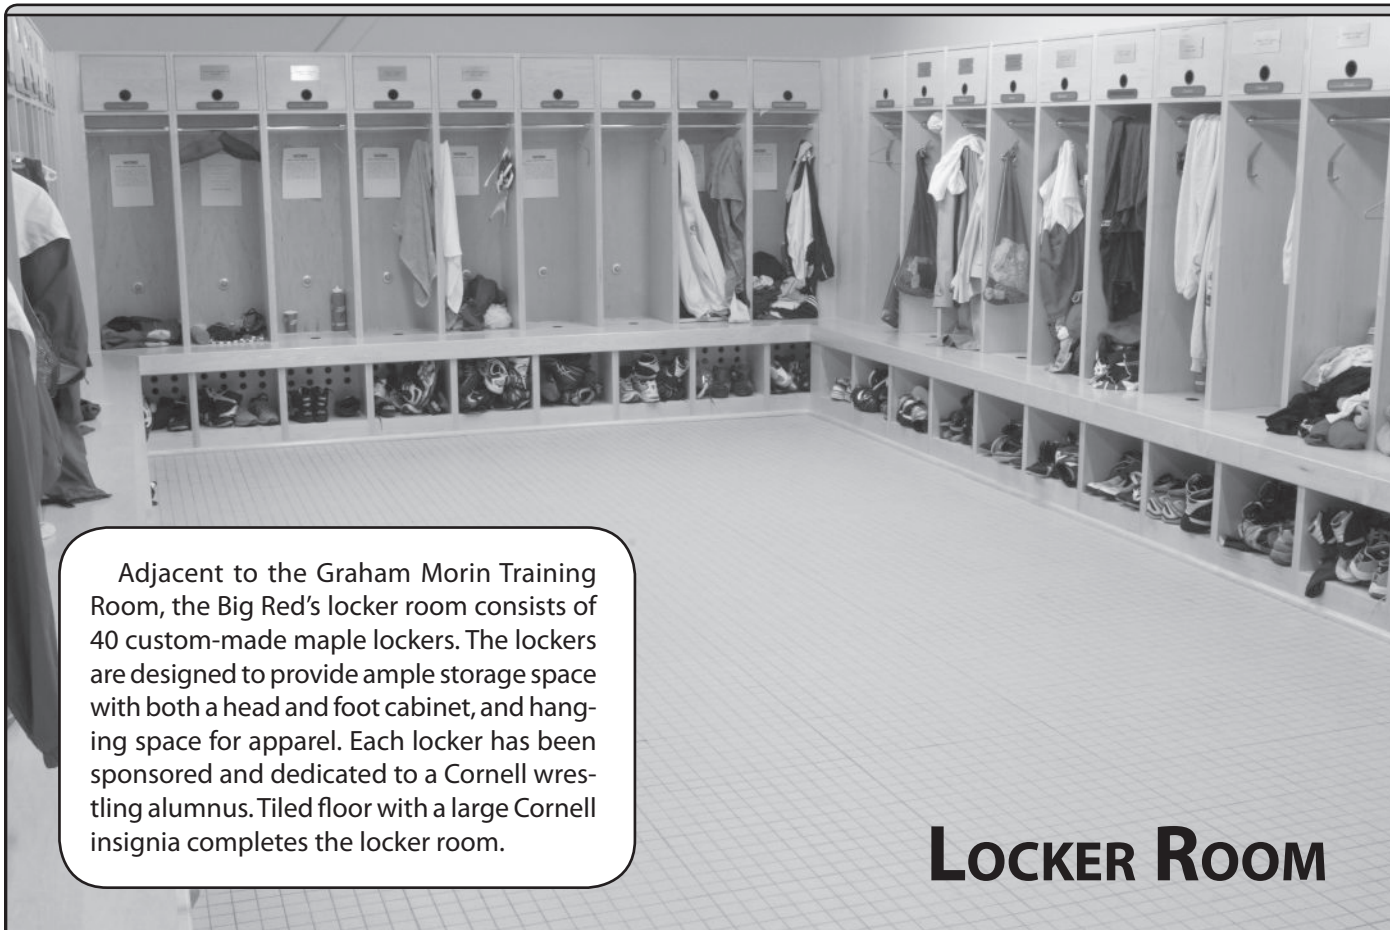

The Scott M. Smith Strength and Conditioning Room is adjacent to the main arena and offers state-of-the-art equipment. Three multi-use power clean/squat/bench/pull-up platforms and dumbbells up to 140 pounds allow wrestlers to complete their core lifts without leaving the Friedman Wrestling Center. Treadmills, exercise bikes, and other training equipment combine to give the Big Red the strength and conditioning edge.

THE WECHSLER ALUMNI AND FAMILY LOUNGE

Big Red wrestlers are able to meet many of the demands of their academics while still in the Friedman Wrestling Center. The Wechsler Alumni and Family Lounge offers wrestlers top of the line computers and printers to complete their coursework and conduct research. The lounge doubles as a video analysis room, where wrestlers and coaches review matches and practices on a 60-inch plasma television. The lounge also provides a number of entertainment resources, such as satellite television, DVD, VCR, surround sound, and leather couches and chairs.

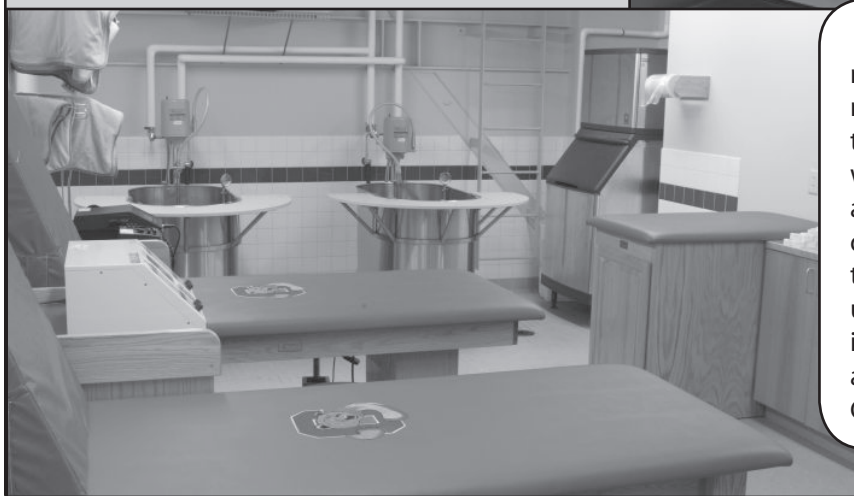

Adjacent to the Graham Morin Training Room, the Big Red's locker room consists of 40 custom-made maple lockers. The lockers are designed to provide ample storage space with both a head and foot cabinet, and hanging space for apparel. Each locker has been sponsored and dedicated to a Cornell wrestling alumnus. Tiled floor with a large Cornell insignia completes the locker room.

LOCKER ROOM

THE GRAHAM MORIN TRAINING ROOM

The Graham Morin Training Room has the most updated equipment for injury management and rehabilitation. It is equipped with two stainless steel whirlpools for muscle warm-ups before practice and cold plunges after practice. The room also contains a hydrocollator for moist heat, an ice machine, two electric stimulation machines and an ultrasound to address advanced soft-tissue injuries. The Graham Morin Training Room is a convenient and comfortable place for the Cornell wrestlers to rehab their injuries.

Cornell has never won an NCAA team title, but it was close on several occasions. The Big Red did win the unofficial national championship in 1910, 1912 and 1923, when it shared the crown with Iowa State. The NCAA tournament began in 1928.
