ON THE COVER:

Front:

CREDENTIALS

Requests for working press credentials at Cornell home football games should be made in writing on station/newspaper/magazine letterhead to Jeremy Hartigan in the Cornell Athletic Communications Office. The mailing address is: Teagle Hall, Campus Road, Ithaca, NY 14853-6501. Requests may be sent via fax, but all requests, mailed or faxed, should be sent so that they reach the athletic communications office at least three days prior to the game.

Media agencies that cover Cornell and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Credentials will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they may be picked up before 5 p.m. on Friday at the Athletic Communications Office. Those credentials not picked up by 5 p.m. on Friday will be left for Saturday pickup at the Schoellkopf Field will call booth, located at the northwest end of the west stands.

PRESS BOX SERVICES

Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play and out-of-town scores will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. A scoring summary and complete team and individual statistics will be provided after each game. Lunch will be served prior to the game and soft drinks and water will be available throughout.

SIDELINE POLICY

Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without proper credentials. Photo credentials are limited to daily newspaper, student newspaper, wire service and team photographers, along with a limited number of special passes which are given out on a space available basis. Freelance photographers must provide the Cornell Athletic Communications Office with a complimentary photo CD of the game with at least 10 action shots.

Under NCAA and Ivy League guidelines, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field. Credential holders not working will be asked to leave the sidelines. For the safety of others please do not leave equipment unattended on the sidelines. If you are shooting with a tripod, please keep a safe distance from the playing field.

RADIO BOOTHS

Space is available in the press box for three radio stations. Priority is always given to Cornell's commercial station. All visiting stations should contact the Athletic Communications Office at least one month before the game for information concerning phone lines.

GAME DAY PARKING

All media will be issued parking passes upon request for the roof level of the parking garage, which is behind the west stands. All parking passes are mailed out 10 days before the game.

POSTGAME INTERVIEWS

After the game, the media will meet in the press room (press room information available in the press box on game days). The visiting coach will be brought in after the required 10-minute "cooling-off" period. Coach Knowles will follow the visiting coach, along with selected players. Requests for players should be directed to a member of the Athletic Communications staff during the fourth quarter of each game. Only members of the working press with proper credentials will be allowed in the press room. The Big Red locker room is closed.

AVAILABILITY OF COACH KNOWLES

All requests for interviews with Coach Knowles must be received by the Athletic Communications Office at least 24 hours in advance. He will accept interviews in his office, over the phone and prior to practice sessions as long as a request has been made in advance.

PLAYER INTERVIEWS

All player interviews must be arranged through the Athletic Communications Office so a time can be arranged that will not interfere with the student's academic schedule. Players have been instructed to not conduct interviews unless they have been set up in this manner. All interviews are to be conducted on Wednesday only.

Telephone interviews are conducted at the players' convenience. Usually they are handled by players returning calls immediately after practice. No home numbers for players will be given out and players have been told not to accept calls from anyone asking football-related questions.

Please do not show up and wait for players unannounced on campus, at players' housing or Schoellkopf Memorial. The players have been instructed to politely decline the request and refer the person to the Athletic Communications Office.

Advance notice of your intentions to attend a practice session is appreciated.

Big Red On The Air

Radio Coverage

All 10 Cornell football games will be broadcast by WHCU 870 AM Ithaca. Barry Leonard returns for his 12th year in the booth and ninth season in the play-by-play chair. Cornell graduate and NFL lawyer Buck Briggs '76 returns as the Big Red's color analyst.

Cornell on the Internet

WHCU's broadcasts of Cornell football can also be heard via the internet as part of a subscription service. To hear the game from your computer via the internet, go to www.CornellBigRed.com and follow the links to the broadcast that are located on the football schedule page.

Live audio and video of the Big Red's non-televised home games are also available as part of a subscription service at CornellBigRed.com, while you can watch live, instant statistic updates at no charge.

Keep checking www.CornellBigRed.com for broadcast updates

Barry Leonard enters his 12th year as the play-by-play voice of Cornell football, basketball and lacrosse teams.

Leonard returned to Ithaca radio in 1997 after a 10-year absence and his recognizable voice and affinity for Cornell is evident by his commitment to the university and the athletic programs.

A 1980 graduate of Ithaca College with a degree in television and radio, Leonard resides in Lansing with his wife, Anne, and daughter, Keara.

Buck Briggs '76 enters his ninth year as the color analyst for Cornell football and will join Barry Leonard in the radio booth again in 2009.

An associate counsel for the NFL Management Counsel, Briggs is part of the team that is the collective bargaining representative for the NFL owners and handles all player-related legal issues. He also teaches sports law classes at both Cornell and Penn law schools.

Head Coaching Highlights

- His 2005 squad became first Ivy team to earn winning Ivy record a year after going winless.
- First head coach to post back-to-back winning Ivy seasons in his first two years at Cornell since Jim Hoffer in 1990-91.
- Has led Big Red to four wins over top 25 teams.
- Posted three straight .500 seasons for first time in 15 years (2005, 06, 07).
- Has directed team to an 18-8 home record.

When Jim Knowles '87 stepped back onto campus in January 2004, his main goal was to revitalize the entire Cornell football program. From alumni and fans to players and parents, everyone believes that mission is accomplished. The next goal is to lead the program to its first Ivy League championship since 1990.

Knowles was named The Roger J. Weiss '61 Coach of Football by the Meakem ♦ Smith Director of Athletics and Physical Education Andy Noel, becoming the 25th head football coach at Cornell. In the five years since, Knowles has posted a 24-26 record and a 15-20 mark in Ivy play.

One of his first priorities was taking back Schoellkopf Field and making it one of the most difficult places to play in the Football Championship Subdivision. He has succeeded, motivating his team to a 18-8 home record in five seasons. His 2005 team went 4-1 at home and posted its first winning season overall (6-4) in seven years. The 2006 squad went one better, going 5-1 for its first five-win campaign at Schoellkopf since 1971. Included were two wins over ranked teams (No. 15 Princeton and No. 23 Albany) and a victory over reigning Patriot League champion Colgate.

The 2008 team jumped out to a 3-0 start, its best start in a decade, that included a pair of one-point road wins and a dominant effort against preseason Ivy favorite Yale in the conference opener. In all, seven players were named to the All-Ivy teams.

Cornell registered its third straight season at or above .500 for the first time in 15 years with its 5-5 record in 2007. The Big Red had a stretch of four straight games scoring at least 30 points for the first time since 1921 and established a school record for first downs in a season (231). Cornell also posted an unbeaten non-league slate for the first time since 1998 with victories over Patriot League foes Bucknell, Georgetown and Colgate. Attendance at home games nearly doubled to 8,900 per game.

In 2006, with a roster featuring 65 freshmen and sophomores, including 23 members of the two-deep and eight starters, Cornell got progressively better each week. The Big Red finished in the top half of the Ivy League for the third straight year and won three of its final four games. Seven different players earned All-Ivy honors as Cornell finished its second straight season with at least a .500 record for the first time since the 1999 and 2000 campaigns.

Known as a defensive mastermind, Knowles' 2005 squad finished second nationally in rushing defense (88.3 ypg.) and gave up just 33 yards total on the ground in the final three contests. The Big Red also ranked fourth nationally in total defense (261.3 ypg.) and 18th in the country in scoring defense (18.0 ppg.). The offense more than held its own, ranking 10th in the country in rushing offense (248.6 ypg.) and posting two 1,000-yard rushers in the same season for the first time in school history and the second time ever in the Ivy League. Senior offensive tackle Kevin Boothe earned first-team All-America honors and was selected in the sixth round of the NFL Draft by the Oakland Raiders. On special teams, placekicker A.J. Weitsman set school records for most field goals in a season (14), most consecutive made field goals (11), most kicking points in a year (72), and season (30) and career (42) extra-point kicks without a miss.

The former Big Red assistant engineered one of the greatest turnarounds in Ivy League history in 2004, turning a 1-9 team that lost seven games by at least two touchdowns into a 4-6 squad that dropped all six contests by 10 points or less, including four by a touchdown or less. The turnaround couldn't have been more dramatic. A team picked to finish last in the Ivy League finished in sole possession of third place, becoming the first team in Ivy League history to record a winless conference season one year and a winning record the next. But even without the wins, the feeling around the program completely changed.

The Big Red defense, ranked last in the Ivy League and 104th out of 121 teams nationally in the FCS against the run at 205.0 yards allowed per game in 2003, cut that average in half (101.1 ypg.) to rank first in the Ivy League and seventh nationally. The offense controlled the ball, but also struck for big plays all season, including three scoring passes of greater than 50 yards. Cornell special teams also set a record with eight kick blocks on the year, while the kick return squad averaged 20.6 yards, its highest total since 1978.

Knowles, 44, spent nine seasons as an assistant coach at Cornell (1988-96), helping lead the team to Ivy League titles in 1988 and 1990. He coached the linebackers (1995-96) and running backs (1989-94) and served as the recruiting coordinator (1995-96) and directed special teams, with one season in charge of the defensive line (1988). Along with the 1988 Ivy League title, the Big Red's rushing (113.8) and scoring defense (13.7) ranked No. 1 in the East and was 10th and seventh, respectively, in the nation. In 1990, the team featured the No. 11 rushing offense (237.0) in the country.

Knowles served as the linebackers coach and recruiting coordinator at the University of Mississippi during the 2003 season. Ole Miss had a standout year, as it posted its first 10-win season (10-3) since 1971 and claimed the Cotton Bowl with a 31-28 win over Oklahoma State. Defensively, the Rebels had the nation's No. 14 defense vs. the run, allowing opponents 102.5 yards per game. The squad also recorded 106 tackles for loss, including 28 sacks. Ole Miss posted a 7-1 mark in Southeastern Conference play and was co-champion of the SEC's Western Division for the first time in 40 years. The team's only conference loss was at the hands of national champion LSU.

Prior to accepting the job at Ole Miss, Knowles spent six seasons at Western Michigan University, where he served his last two years as defensive coordinator. He coached the WMU linebackers in 2002 after working the previous five seasons with the defensive line.

In his second year as defensive coordinator, Knowles helped the 2002 Broncos finish first in the Mid-American Conference (MAC) and 28th nationally in total defense (330.7), playing a schedule that included three Top 25 teams. The defensive unit, which included MAC Defensive Player of the Year

Jason Babin, ranked second in the MAC in pass sacks (33) and pass defense (179.5). Babin went on to become Western Michigan's first-ever first round NFL pick (Houston Texans). The WMU defense held three teams to less than 100 yards rushing and limited three others to less than 100 yards passing. The Broncos held opponents to 217 first downs, fewest in the MAC, and the defensive line extended its quarterback sack streak to 33 games.

Knowles' first year as defensive coordinator in 2001 saw the Broncos rank first in pass defense (179.8 yards per game) in the MAC and 17th nationally. WMU also paced the MAC with quarterback sacks (33). His defensive line unit was rated as the second-best in the league by one preseason publication as All-MAC performers Anthony Allsberry (first-team) and Jason Babin (second-team) ranked among the top eight players in sacks.

Prior to being named defensive coordinator at Western Michigan on Jan. 17, 2001, Knowles worked exclusively with the down linemen. During the 2000 season, his defensive line unit was partially responsible for helping the Broncos compile 38 sacks and 15 forced fumbles in 12 games. In addition, the Broncos held opponents to 139 points and posted three shutouts — the most scoreless games since 1971. By season's end, Western Michigan ranked among NCAA Top 20 units in four categories: scoring defense (fourth, 11.5 ppg.), total defense (ninth, 283.3 ypg.), pass defense (13th, 178.0 ypg.) and rushing defense (20th, 105.3 ypg.).

Two of Knowles' players, Allsberry and Chris Browning, earned All-MAC first and second team honors, respectively, as first-year starters.

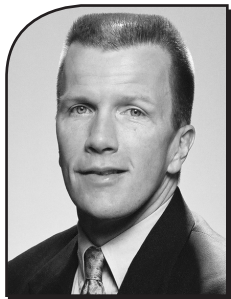

In 1999, Knowles worked closely with Jeremy Johnson, who went on to earn All-MAC honorable mention. He also developed a two-time all-league selection in Dan Falcon (1997-98) and the MAC's leading sack artist in 1997 with all-league pick Ryan Bauer.

During Knowles' six seasons at WMU, the Brown & Gold generated 207 sacks — including a high of 41 in 1997 — which averages to 34.5 per season.

A three-year letter winner at defensive end as a player for Cornell, Knowles earned All-Ivy honors and honorable mention All-Eastern College Athletic Conference accolades in 1986. He graduated in 1987 with a bachelor's degree from the School of Industrial and Labor Relations.

Knowles, a Philadelphia, Pa., native, earned All-Catholic and All-City honors as a linebacker at St. Joseph's Prep. He also competed in crew and wrestling.

Knowles and his wife, Nancy '83 (MBA '89), have a daughter, Halle, and two sons, Luke and Jack.

CLAYTON CARLIN

Sixth Season At Cornell • Juniata '87

Assistant Head Coach

The John B. and Ann M. Rogers '45 Defensive Coordinator/Safeties Coach

Clayton Carlin enters his sixth season as the John B. and Ann M. Rogers '45 Defensive Coordinator/Assistant Head Coach and will again serve as coach of the safeties in 2009. Since joining head coach Jim Knowles' staff, he has helped turn around both the defensive and offensive units as coordinator. This will be his fourth season as defensive coordinator after rejoining that side of the ball in 2007.

A tremendous competitor and outstanding recruiter, Carlin has coached 16 All-Ivy selections in his five seasons at Cornell.

Taking over a defense that featured seven underclassmen, Carlin's defense surrendered 14 points or less four times in 2007 and featured the Ivy League's second leading tackler in Tim Bax, as well as fellow All-Ivy selections Graham Rihn, Doug Lempa and Ryan Blessing. The squad was fourth in the Ancient Eight and ranked among the top half nationally in total defense, while the ballhawking defense increased its tackle for loss total from 2006.

In his first go-around as defensive coordinator in 2004, Carlin instituted a gameplan that helped the Big Red engineer one of the greatest turnarounds in Ivy League history, going 4-6 a year after a 1-9 season. That squad became the first Ivy League squad to post a winning conference record (4-3) a year after going 0-7.

That season, Carlin's defense regained dominance at the line of scrimmage. After ranking last in the Ivy League and 104th out of 121 teams nationally in the FCS against the run at 205.0 yards allowed per game in 2003, he helped cut that average to 101.1 yards per game to rank first in the Ivy League and seventh nationally. Three members of the defense earned All-Ivy honors for the first time in their careers, with Ryan Lempa '05 and Kevin Rex '06 leading the way with second-team nods.

His dynamic offense was one of the most effective and entertaining in the FCS in his two seasons. Despite having an offense that featured just four seniors on the two-deep in 2006, Cornell ranked second in the Ivy League and 24th nationally in rushing at 182.1 yards per game. First-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-American Luke Siwula '08 was a second-team All-Ivy pick, while three members of the offensive line also earned All-Ivy honors.

In his first year as offensive coordinator, the Big Red ranked 10th in the country in rushing offense (248.6 ypg.). The team had two 1,000-yard rushers in the same season for the first time in school history and the second time ever in the Ivy League. Cornell scored 278 points that season (27.8 ppg.), the most in any season since the 1949 squad posted 284 points in going 8-1.

Six of his players earned All-Ivy honors, with offensive lineman Kevin Boothe '06 earning first-team All-America honors before being picked in the sixth round of the NFL Draft by the Oakland Raiders. Quarterback Ryan Kuhn '06 became the first quarterback in Ivy League history to both run and pass for 1,000 yards in a season, while backfield mate Siwula had the 10th-most yards in a season in school history (1,086).

Carlin joined the Cornell football staff after spending the 2003 season as the secondary and special teams coach at New Mexico State, where he also served as an assistant from 1997-99. He left NMSU after the 1999 season and was an assistant for one year at Villanova before heading to Buffalo, where he worked for two years.

Carlin was the secondary coach at Buffalo, and in 2001 the Bulls ranked 18th in the nation in pass defense, allowing just 180 yards per game. He was wide receivers coach all three seasons in his first stop at NMSU and also served as special teams coordinator in 1999. Prior to his arrival at NMSU, Carlin spent three seasons as a graduate assistant at Nebraska where he worked primarily with the defensive backs. He was part of the two Husker national championship teams in 1994 and 1995. A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Carlin joined the Nebraska staff after serving two seasons as the secondary coach at Delaware Valley College in Doylestown, Pa.

For five seasons, from 1987 to 1991, Carlin coached at his prep alma mater, St. Joseph's Preparatory High School in Philadelphia. After one season as secondary coach in 1987, Carlin spent four years as St. Joseph's head coach.

A 1987 graduate of Juniata College in Huntingdon, Pa., Carlin was a three-year starter at defensive back for the nationally ranked Eagles. Carlin earned his master's degree in 1998 from Nebraska in educational administration.

Carlin and his wife, Kathleen, reside in Lansing with their five children, Carsen, Julia, Clayton Jr., Brady and Cole.

BRUCE BARNUM

Third Season At Cornell • Eastern Washington '87 Offensive Coordinator/Offensive Line Coach

Bruce Barnum enters his third season directing Cornell's spread attack and will take the next step toward developing his explosive and exciting high-powered offense. Barnum rejoined the Cornell football staff in April 2007 and will work with the offensive line after mentoring both the tight ends and running backs in 2007. He previously served as assistant offensive line coach and junior varsity coordinator for the Big Red during the 1991-92 seasons.

The 2008 season saw five Cornell offensive players earn All-Ivy honors, as the team led the circuit in passing yardage (289.3 ypg.) and first downs (213), and ranked second in the Ancient Eight in total offense (384.3 ypg.). For the first time in school history, Cornell featured three career 1,000-yard receivers (Jesse Baker, Zac Canty and Bryan Walters), a 2,000-yard rusher (Luke Siwula) and a 6,000-yard passer (Nathan Ford).

In his first year back, the Big Red offense exploded for 270 points, the second-most in a season since 1949. Cornell set a school record for first downs in a season (231) and a game (33 vs. Brown) and ranked in the top 20 nationally in passing offense (17th, 261.1). During one stretch, Cornell scored at least 30 points in four consecutive weekends for the first time since the 1921 national championship team. Nine different players caught at least 10 passes during the season, while the rushing game accounted for 21 touchdowns.

Barnum spent 10 years, including six years as offensive coordinator and another as defensive coordinator, leading Idaho State to unprecedented success. Under Barnum's leadership, ISU's offense ranked among the national leaders each season.

His 2005 squad rushed for over 1,700 yards and 23 rushing touchdowns. The year before, he directed a 3,000-yard passer, only the fifth in school history, and was instrumental in the development of Sale' Key, who set the school's career receptions record. Barnum's offense rolled up 3,611 passing yards overall, the third-most in school history, and ISU's 305 completions were the second-most in school history.

In 2003, the Bengals racked up 394 points, the second-most in school history. Idaho State's offense was among the nation's best, ranking sixth in passing, 20th in scoring, and 21st in total offense. His 2002 offense scored over 30 points per game and averaged 412.2 yards per game. The team's 331 points matched the 2001 output. Barnum's offensive line produced two All-Big Sky selections and one All-American, while the offense totaled 10 all-league selections.

Barnum made ISU's defense one of the Big Sky's top units in 2000, including allowing only 16 points to Weber State, 14 points to Montana State, and 17 points to I-A Utah State. In that Utah State game, Barnum's defense stuffed Emmett White, who won the Division I-A all-purpose yardage title, to the tune of just 56 yards rushing. The defense totaled 16 interceptions and consistently came up with big plays. His spot working with the defensive line is one of only two years he has spent working on defense (1999 and 2000).

Prior to going to Idaho State, Barnum spent three years as the offensive line coach and associate head coach at the United States Coast Guard Academy. While at the USCGA, the Bears won the Freedom Conference championship and qualified for their first NCAA Division III playoff appearance. He spent the 1993 season at American International, where he coached the offensive line and served as the running game coordinator. During the 1991-92 seasons, Barnum served as assistant offensive line coach for the Big Red, also serving as offensive coordinator for the freshman team. Barnum's first collegiate coaching experience came at Western Washington, coaching the offensive line from 1989-90.

Barnum also served as an assistant football coach in the prep ranks, coaching at Columbia River HS in Vancouver, Wash., and Central Valley HS in Spokane, Wash.

Barnum is a 1987 graduate of Eastern Washington University.

PETE DeSTEFANO

20th Season At Cornell • Slippery Rock '78

Associate Defensive Coordinator

Defensive Line Coach

Pete DeStefano has been a constant on the sidelines for the Big Red since 1993 as defensive line coach, making him the second-longest tenured assistant football coach in Cornell history. He will serve in the role of Associate Defensive Coordinator for the fifth straight year. He has coached or recruited 30 All-Ivy League players during his tenure.

DeStefano has played a large role in scheming a defense that allowed opponents just 108.1 yards per game rushing from 2004-06, among the best marks in the FCS over that span. Cornell also posted its third straight year with at least 20 quarterback sacks in 2006 after reaching that mark just three times in the previous seven years. The 2007 team posted 57 total tackles for loss and has reached that mark in six of the last seven seasons.

In 2005, DeStefano's defensive line helped Cornell's defense rank second nationally in rushing defense (88.3 ypg.), giving up just 33 yards total on the ground in the final three contests. The unit ranked fourth nationally in total defense (261.3 ypg.) and 18th in scoring defense (18.0 ppg.). The line featured first-team All-Ivy pick Matt Pollock and two-time second-team selection Jonathan Lucas.

He has also been instrumental in developing kick block schemes that helped the 2004 team to a school-record eight blocks. The team has blocked 50 total kicks in DeStefano's tenure, including seven in 2007.

DeStefano believes that hard work brings success, and often points to Seth Payne '97, a nine-year NFL defensive tackle, as proof. After recruiting Payne, who barely weighed in at 225 pounds, DeStefano watched the tackle blossom into a fourth-round NFL draft pick.

DeStefano started his Cornell career as the head freshman coach and academic counselor for the athletic department in May 1990. Prior to coming to Cornell, he was associate head coach and defensive coordinator in charge of the linebackers at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute from 1986-90. He was also an assistant track coach at Rensselaer.

Before going to Rensselaer, DeStefano was defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at Allegheny College from May 1984 to June 1986, and he was also head track coach.

Prior to his stint at Allegheny, DeStefano coached at Edinboro University, serving as head junior varsity coach and defensive coordinator in 1981, with the varsity offensive line in 1982 and with the defensive ends in 1983. He was also strength coach and helped with recruiting.

A 1974 graduate of Slippery Rock University with a bachelor of science degree in physical education and health, DeStefano received his master's in educational administration from Edinboro in 1982. While an undergraduate, he played tight end for three years and received honorable mention All-Western Pennsylvania Conference.

From 1978-81, DeStefano coached at Clinton Central HS. As the head varsity coach, he directed the team to the Tri-Valley League championship in 1979 and was named Coach of the Year. He also coached track at Clinton.

A 1974 graduate of New Hartford HS, DeStefano was all-league in football and track. His brother, Jim, was an AP All-America honorable mention linebacker at Cornell in 1980 and is a member of the Athletic Hall of Fame.

DeStefano and his wife, Joanne, reside in Ithaca. They have a son, Peter, who works in New York City for the Marriott Corporation. Joanne received her master's degree from Cornell's Johnson School of Management in 1997.

BRIAN COON

Sixth Season At Cornell • Albion '92

Assistant Offensive Coordinator

Running Backs Coach

Brian Coon enters his sixth season on the Big Red coaching staff and his fifth as assistant offensive coordinator. He will work with the running backs for the second year after four years with the offensive linemen. His tutelage produced eight All-Ivy offensive line selections in four seasons, while helping direct one of the most effective rushing offenses in the FCS.

Coon assisted in the development of first-team All-American and sixth-round NFL Draft pick Kevin Boothe '06, a unanimous first-team All-Ivy selection in each of his final two seasons while working with Coon. Eric Miller '07 and Ted Sonnenberg '08 earned All-Ivy honors twice, while Brian McGuire '08 and two-time All-Ivy honoree Steve Valenta have also helped anchor one of the top lines in the Ancient Eight. Over that span, Cornell has averaged more than 18 rushing touchdowns per season.

Coon's talented line helped Cornell finish 10th nationally in rushing (248.6 ypg.) in 2005 and protected two 1,000-yard rushers in the same season for the first time in school history and the second time ever in the Ivy League. The success came despite the fact that three starters had never taken a varsity snap prior to 2005. The 2006 squad also ranked among the top 25 rushing offenses nationally despite the loss of both Boothe and first-team All-Ivy quarterback Ryan Kuhn, a 1,000-yard rusher.

Coon served as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach at Kalamazoo College for the previous six years before coming to Cornell. His offenses averaged 31.5 points and 385.5 yards per game over his final three seasons, and he coached the school's all-time career leaders in passing, receiving and rushing.

The Watervliet, Mich., native coached at St. Joseph's College in Rensselaer, Ind., from March 1995 to July 1998. During his tenure, the Pumas were ranked as high as No. 3 in the nation in rushing offense (299.7 ypg.) and No. 9 in scoring offense (36.7 ppg.). Coon also served as quarterbacks, defensive backs and special teams coach and was recruiting coordinator at St. Joseph's.

Coon served as a graduate assistant at Western Michigan from 1993-95 and received a master's in athletic administration from WMU in 1997.

A 1992 graduate of Albion College, he earned a degree in communications and exercise science. Coon was a four-year letter winner as an outside linebacker for the Britons. He was also named the squad's Special Teams Player of the Year as a senior.

Coon and his wife, Heather, reside in Freeville with their two children, Alexis and TJ.

DAVID ARCHER '05

Third Season At Cornell • Cornell '05

Recruiting Coordinator

Assistant Offensive Line Coach

Former Big Red captain David Archer returns to his alma mater for his third season as an assistant coach on Jim Knowles' staff. He will assist with the team's offensive line and will serve as the squad's recruiting coordinator in 2009 after working with the tight ends and linebackers in his first two years.

As recruiting coordinator, Archer is responsible for tracking recruits through the program's database, as well as taking evaluations from each respective coach on staff in formulating each season's recruiting plan.

The 2008 season saw Archer working with one of the top tight end duos in the league in seniors Alex Spooner and Zach Vredenburgh. In 2007, Archer worked with two-year starters Doug Lempa and Ryan Blessing. The duo earned All-Ivy honors during their career and ranked second and third on the team in both tackles and tackles for loss as seniors.

Archer was a captain for the Big Red in 2004, the first season under head coach Jim Knowles. A three-year starter on the offensive line, Archer moved from tackle to guard to center during his senior year. He was rewarded for his leadership and selflessness by earning the team's Enzo Montemurro Award for spirit and leadership, as well as the inaugural Jaime McManamon Award, given to a senior for hard work and diligence in the strength and conditioning program.

He taught eighth and fourth grades, respectively, at the Dr. William H. Horton School in Newark, N.J., as part of the Teach For America program in 2005 and 2006. In addition, he was an assistant coach at Fairleigh Dickinson in 2006, working with the linebackers under head coach Rich Mosca.

JOE BORICH

Third Season At Cornell • Memphis '96

Passing Game Coordinator

Quarterbacks/Wide Receivers Coach

Third-year assistant coach Joe Borich will continue his work with the team's quarterbacks and wide receivers in 2009 while taking over the title of passing game coordinator. He has a strong understanding of the offense, having worked with offensive coordinator Bruce Barnum at his previous stop of Idaho State.

The Big Red passing game broke numerous records in 2008 under Borich's charge, as senior quarterback Nathan Ford and wide receivers Jesse Baker and Bryan Walters each earned All-Ivy honors. Both Baker and Walters, as well as Zac Canty, surpassed the 1,000-yard mark in career receiving, while Ford had four 300-yard passing games and a pair of 400-yard efforts during the campaign and led the conference in passing (281.5 ypg.) and total offense (284.9 ypg.). Ford graduated with numerous career accolades, including ranking in the top 10 in Ivy League history in passing yards (eighth, 6,266 yards). In all, eight different receivers had at least 10 catches on the season.

In his first season working with the quarterbacks, Borich tutored Ford in his first year in the spread offense. The quarterback responded with the second-highest completion percentage in school history (.630). Cornell posted at least 200 yards passing in eight of 10 contests. Due to injuries, Cornell utilized three different players under center, all of whom attempted at least 40 passes on the season. Despite that, the Big Red quarterbacks directed an offense that set school records for completions (281) and first downs (231), while averaging 261.1 yards per game in the air while completing 61.6 percent of their passes.

Borich, a former quarterback at Memphis, joined Barnum on the Idaho State staff and spent the last six years as quarterbacks coach. His quarterbacks set numerous school records during his tenure, including completion percentage in a season (.599), with two quarterbacks throwing for more than 20 touchdowns in a year. He helped tutor many of the players that helped Barnum's explosive offenses. He also worked with the running backs and wide receivers in his first two seasons at ISU.

Borich came to Idaho State from Snow College, where he also served as quarterbacks coach and assisted in preparing and developing weekly game plans. His quarterbacks helped lead Snow to an 8-2 record in 1998, including a No. 5 national ranking. Included among his charges was Josh Heupel, later the starting quarterback for 2000 national champion Oklahoma.

Borich was a two-year starter behind center at Snow himself before transferring to Memphis, where he was a two-year starting signal caller. A team captain on both squads, Borich was a National Junior College All-America selection while at Snow. Borich received his bachelor's degree in physical education/fitness management from Memphis in 1996.

TRAVIS BURKETT

Third Season At Cornell • St. Mary's (CA) '02 Special Teams Coordinator/Tight Ends Coach

Third-year assistant Travis Burkett will take control of the Big Red's tight ends and continue his work as special teams coordinator in 2009 after coaching the running backs in his first season on the East Hill.

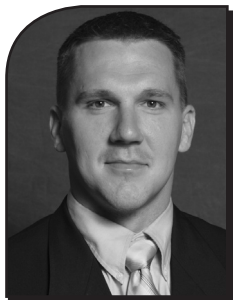

In 2008, Bryan Walters led the Ivy League in all-purpose yardage while ranking among the conference leaders in both punt and kick returns. He became the conference's all-time leader in kick return yardage and moved into the top 10 all-time in punt return yardage during the season. Additionally, both place-kicker Brad Greenway and punter Nick Maxwell ranked among the Ancient Eight leaders in their respective categories.

Despite losing All-Ivy running back Luke Siwula three games into the season, Burkett's charges ended 2007 with 12 rushing scores and a 4.2 yard per carry average.

Before arriving at Cornell, Burkett spent two seasons as a graduate assistant coach in charge of the linebackers at Bucknell under his former college coach, Tim Landis.

Prior to his time at Bucknell, Burkett had previously worked as assistant coach and special teams coordinator at San Luis Obispo HS, helping guide his high school alma mater to a record of 18-5 over the 2003 and 2004 seasons. In between, he played linebacker and defensive end for the Bergamo Lions in Italy, where he helped them to an Italian Superbowl Championship and EuroBowl runner-up finish during the 2004 season.

A 2002 graduate of Saint Mary's (Calif.), Burkett played linebacker for the Gaels from 1998-2002 and in his fifth year was voted the team's Most Inspirational Player as well as garnering second team Academic All-District VIII honors.

ROSS PENNYPACKER

Second Season At Cornell • Millersville '05 Defensive Backs Coach

Second-year Cornell assistant coach Ross Pennypacker joined the Big Red staff after serving two seasons as defensive assistant at Villanova. He will again serve as the team's defensive backs coach and will direct Cornell's video operations for the 2009 campaign.

In his first season, Pennypacker's secondary, which featured no seniors, ranked fourth in the Ivy League in fewest passing yards allowed (203.5 ypg.) and surrendered the third-fewest passing touchdowns (12).

Pennypacker's duties with the Wildcats included serving as the team's video coordinator and assisting with the defensive backs. Pennypacker also recruited the state of Ohio for the Wildcats. He helped Villanova to a 6-5 mark in 2006 and a 7-4 record in 2007 in the powerful Colonial Athletic Association.

Before arriving at Villanova, Pennypacker was an intern assistant coach at Allegheny College where he coached the outside linebackers. He also was responsible for recruiting central and eastern Pennsylvania during his one-year stint at Allegheny.

Pennypacker began his coaching career as a student assistant coach at Millersville University. While at Millersville, he assisted with coaching the outside linebackers and safeties.

During his playing days, Pennypacker played linebacker at Millersville where he graduated in 2005 with a degree in social sciences. He is single and resides in Ithaca.

JIM SALGADO

First Season At Cornell • Hofstra '93 Linebackers Coach

Jim Salgado, who spent four years as cornerbacks and secondary coach at Syracuse University, was named an assistant coach at Cornell in March 2009. The veteran assistant will work with the linebackers at Cornell.

While coaching at SU, Salgado assisted in the development of NFL players Steve Gregory (San Diego Chargers), Tanard Jackson (Tampa Bay Buccaneers), Anthony Smith (Pittsburgh Steelers) and Joe Fields (Carolina Panthers). The 2006 team ranked in the top 25 nationally in turnover margin (ninth, 0.92), interceptions (15th, 17) and turnovers gained (22nd, 28). The Orange defense had 48 total interceptions in his four seasons.

Salgado served three NFL Fellowships, spending summers with the Miami Dolphins (1999), San Diego Chargers (2002) and Philadelphia Eagles (2003). He also participated in the NCAA's Advanced Coaching Program and Expert Coaching Program in 2004, as well as the Minority Coaches Forum in 2008.

Salgado joined the Syracuse staff in 2005 after stints as an assistant coach at Northeastern (2000-01 and 2004), Hofstra (1994, 2002-03), Millersville (1997-99) Boston University (1996-97) and Western Connecticut (1994-95). During his time on the sidelines, Salgado mentored corners, linebackers and directed special teams. At Hofstra, he was part of a defensive staff that guided the Atlantic 10-leading pass defense in both 2002 (161.9 ypg.) and 2003 (131.1 ypg.), both of which ranked in the top 20 nationally (13th and ninth, respectively). His 1998 Millersville team won a conference title, while the 1999 squad made it to the NCAA Division II Quarterfinals. He began his career in the high school ranks at Long Island Lutheran HS, coaching both the quarterbacks and defensive backs.

A 1993 graduate of Hofstra with a degree in psychology, Salgado was a three-year starter at corner. The Pride advanced to the 1990 NCAA Division III semifinals.

Salgado and his wife, Carolyn, have a son, Jalen, and a daughter, Laila.

RHETT TICCONI

Fourth Season At Cornell • Barry '94 Director of Football Operations

Rhett Ticconi, an 11-year veteran of NFL special events and operations, was named Cornell Director of Football Operations in October 2006.

In his role with the Big Red, Ticconi provides for the day-to-day administrative operations of the football program, including providing support to student athletes with university matters, budget management, coordinating recruiting needs, organizing community projects and relations and handling team travel. Ticconi also coordinates all recruiting weekends.

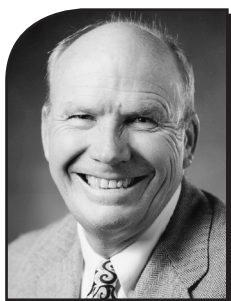

Ticconi serves as the liaison to the 1,400-member Cornell Football Association, and is in charge of the Ben Mintz/CFA Golf and Tennis Outing which drives more than $200,000 per year for the football program.

Ticconi spent five years as the Director of Special Events for the Miami Dolphins (1995-99) and six years as their Director of Operations (1999-2005). While with the franchise, Ticconi served as liaison between the Dolphins and the NFL for all game operations and logistics. He was the direct assistant to the head coach regarding team operations. He implemented and oversaw the team web site during the special events years, helping Miami become the first NFL team to have a web site. He created the special events department and oversaw all events, game entertainment and pregame tailgating activities. He was invited by the NFL to work four Super Bowls in operations and two Pro Bowls in entertainment and player relations.

Prior to coming to Cornell, Ticconi served as Director of Auxiliary Services at Nova Southeastern University.

Ticconi, a graduate of Barry University with a Bachelor of Arts in sports administration, resides in Seneca Falls with his wife, Kadi and their children, Karter and Ava.

PETE NOYES

32nd Season At Cornell • Bridgeport '68 Coordinator of Football Alumni Relations

A fixture in Schoellkopf Hall for more than 30 years, Pete Noyes spent eight seasons as the director of football operations before taking over the role of coordinator of football alumni relations in 2006. He is responsible for coordinating the day-to-day operations, including administrative duties such as alumni and parent relations and football fundraising. He was honored with the Lou Conti '41 Lifetime Achievement Award in 2001.

Noyes' efforts were also recognized on the national level in 2003, when he received the All-American Football Foundation's Mike Campbell Top Assistant Coach Award.

As Director of Football Operations, Noyes helped the Cornell Football Association (CFA) membership rise from 250 to 1,400, while nearly tripling the football program's annual fund. The Ben Mintz/CFA Golf and Tennis Outing he ran grew from 50 to 300 golfers, while net income rose from $4,000 to $215,000.

Noyes came to Cornell in 1977 as head defensive and linebackers coach, and in 1981 he was named by Coach Bob Blackman as his first defensive coordinator by title in 32 years of coaching. Up until 1998, he filled a variety of roles, serving as defensive coordinator, recruiting coordinator (1983-93), offensive line coach and defensive backs coach. He was also the assistant head coach from 1986 to 1989. Noyes' hard-nosed approach to the game enabled him to coach the Cornell defense to Division I-AA runner-up for fewest points allowed per game in 1986 and a seventh-place finish in I-AA in 1988. In both 1986 and 1988, Noyes' defense topped the Ivy League and the East in the same category. The defense's 1986 performance was also the best-ever at Cornell since the formation of the Ivy League. In 1990, while Noyes was the offensive line coach, Cornell had three first-team All-Ivy linemen for the first time ever. In 1993, the Big Red was sixth in the nation in total defense, 13th in scoring defense, 17th in rushing defense and 21st in pass efficiency defense. Overall, his teams recorded 21 career shutouts, including 12 with Cornell. His overall record vs. Harvard and Yale was 26-15-1 (20-15-1 as a defensive coordinator), including a school-record 11-game win streak vs. Harvard (1986-96).

During his 21 years of coaching at Cornell, Noyes recruited 18 captains and coached or recruited 25 first-team and 83 total All-Ivy selections. Included among his recruits are Cornell Athletic Hall of Fame members Derrick Harmon '84, Scott Malaga '89, Chris Zingo '94 and John McNiff '91. He recruited 10 starters on the 1988 Ivy championship team and 14 starters from the 1990 championship squad. During his 10 years as recruiting coordinator, Cornell played for an Ivy League title three times, winning twice (1988 and 1990) and had an Ivy League record of 39-30-1 and 51-42-2 overall. His 1995 team also played for an Ivy title, the most of any Big Red football coach since the formation of the Ancient Eight.

Noyes previously served as the defensive coordinator at Bucknell for six seasons under the late Fred Prender and Bob Curtis with emphasis on the linebackers. His 1972 and 1976 Bucknell defensive units were nationally ranked in points allowed per game. The 1976 defense only had 12 points scored against them in the second half of games, including just two points in the fourth quarter of games.

A 1968 graduate of the University of Bridgeport, he was co-captain of the football team as a senior. The former linebacker was a three-year starter and was named to the school's all-time team in 1969.

Noyes and his wife, Carol, reside in Ithaca and have three children: Jennifer Noyes '98; Justin Brion; and the late Ronnie Brion '00.

2009 Season Outlook

The Big Red football team said goodbye to an experienced senior class that featured 13 starters, many of them multiple-year letter winners, during the offseason. While many programs might stew for a bit on such a crippling loss of personnel, Cornell head coach Jim Knowles '87 has used a new-look product on the field as an opportunity to look at all aspects of what he has built in guiding the program to one of its most successful periods in 30 years. But taking the next step will be anything but easy ...

The offense brings back several high-profile weapons, including three-year starter Randy Barbour at running back, All-Ivy candidates Quentin Bernhard and Andrew Bohl on the offensive line, and big-play threats Horatio Blackman, Stephen Liuzza and Bryan Walters at wide receiver.

In the backfield, Barbour is the incumbent starter and will look to build on his 890 career yards and 11 touchdowns. A strong back who has the size to get outside and the strength to go between the tackles, Barbour has great balance thanks to his low center of gravity. He has two career 100-yard games on the ground, but he also is an outstanding pass-catcher who works well in the single back set. Juniors Anthony Ambrosi and Marcus Hendren will also bring their skill sets to the table. Ambrosi is a shifty runner capable of exploding for a big play, while Hendren is a physical runner and an exceptional blocker who can also play fullback. Both are also exceptionally tough and will see time on special teams.

While three line positions are wide open heading into the fall, the two returners will be among the best and will likely anchor the tackle positions. Three-year starter Bernhard will remain at right tackle, while Bohl will move from right guard to left tackle. Bernhard is one of the smaller, but fiercest, tackles in the conference. His speed and aggressiveness make him an outstanding prospect, but it is his strength and toughness that separate him from others.

The honorable mention All-Ivy pick from a year ago opens the season with 20 straight starts. Bohl's first varsity season was a strong one, and his newly-gained experience will serve him well at tackle. Junior Paul Ostick, the backup at center a year ago, is a likely candidate to start, and other players who will compete for playing time are juniors Daniel Riggi and Dominic Valdnder and sophomore Matt Harrison.

Despite losing a pair of 100-catch, 1,000-yard career receivers, the Big Red may possess a deeper group of wideouts than any team in the conference. Bryan Walters returns as an honorable mention All-Ivy pick from a year ago after hauling in 43 passes for 643 yards and two touchdowns, including a 96-yard score against Dartmouth. One of the top deep threats in the Ancient Eight, he will be at the top of opponent's scouting reports all season. If defensive coordinators look to the other end of the field, they will get no relief. Fifth-year senior Horatio Blackman presents a big, athletic target opposite Walters and can go deep or over the middle to make plays. He caught 20 passes for 291 yards and a score. The pair was among five players who caught at least 20 passes a season ago. Stephen Liuzza has lined up behind center, at tailback and at receiver, and he is one of the toughest players in the conference to tackle in the open field. An outstanding athlete, he is a threat to find the end zone anytime he touches the ball. Also having a chance to make significant marks on the offense will be senior Nick Zerante and sophomore Shane Savage, who was the breakout player of the spring after missing the fall with an injury.

Cornell's biggest question mark heading into the season will be who will replace three-year starter Nathan Ford at quarterback. The answer will likely be one of three players, as senior Ben Ganter, junior Ty Siam and sophomore Adam Currie will likely jockey for the top position. Ganter has likely earned first crack as Ford's backup the last two seasons. A strong-armed pocket passer who has a good grasp of the offense, he also has taken the only varsity snaps out of the group with 45 career passing attempts. Siam is a great athlete who has the ability to throw on the run, but it is his natural leadership qualities that shine through. Currie may be the best package of the two, but is also the least experienced after just one year as a signal caller for the junior varsity. He is both a good athlete and possesses a strong, accurate arm, but also has picked up the offense in his first year. The Big Red could potentially use converted receiver Stephen Liuzza in some special packages behind center.

Tight end is another position where experience will be at a premium. None of the assembled tight ends has seen a varsity snap. Junior Nick Pizzurro, who missed last year with an injury, classmate Mark Key and sophomore Drew McGowan, who was also snake-bitten in 2008, will battle a group of freshmen hungry to earn immediate playing time.

The retooled defense will be extremely talented, but one of the least experienced units in quite some time for the Big Red. Only three starters return, including preseason honorable mention All-America linebacker Chris Costello. Cornerbacks Emani Fenton and Andy Wade will provide stability on the outside, while senior Frank Morand will move from corner to safety. Beyond that, Big Red fans will do well to buy a program to learn the names of its new impact defenders.

Costello will anchor the defense after leading the team in tackles (90) and tackles for loss (9.0) as a junior. One of the Ancient Eight's top middle linebackers, he will spearhead a young linebacking corps. Senior Aaron Levine, junior Brandon Lainhart and sophomore Zach Imhoff will also figure into the rotation in 2009. Levine and Imhoff combined for seven tackles in 2008, primarily on special teams. Lainhart missed his sophomore season with an injury, but he'll be a big part of the plans this year after being penciled in as a preseason starter.

The entire defensive line was lost to graduation, but significant talent will suit up as Cornell attempts to find ways to put more pressure on opposing quarterbacks. Senior Trevin Cowman is a big, powerful tackle who can clog up running lanes and has seen significant action as a backup his last two seasons. Cowman had seven tackles while seeing action in all 10 games. Senior Ricky Ballou, junior Chris Ciarvella and sophomore Emile Chang will be among those also in the running for starting spots on the line. Ballou is a pass rushing end who can create havoc in the backfield as evidenced by his nine tackles and 1.5 sacks as a reserve a season ago, while Ciarvella is a similar player who returns after missing the 2008 campaign. The Tucson, Ariz., native had an impressive rookie campaign, posting four tackles and a sack after moving to the position from linebacker. Chang has the ability to be an All-Ivy performer early in his career thanks to his explosion off the line and his quickness to the ball.

The cornerback position will be a strength for Cornell, as both Fenton and Wade, as well as sophomore Rashad Campbell, are all athletic playmakers with great ball skills. Fenton had a team-high nine pass breakups and ranked among the Ivy leaders in the category. He finished the year with 47 tackles and 4.5 tackles for loss. Wade was outstanding in his first full varsity season, posting 37 tackles and ranking second to Fenton with seven pass breakups. Campbell played in the team's final four games after opening the year on the junior varsity and accumulated nine tackles and an interception.

The entire starting safety position group also graduated, but several experienced letter winners return to lend their talents. Senior Frank Morand and juniors Ben Heller and Dempsey Quinn will be the key factors in filling the gaps. Senior T.J. Hohanadel and sophomore K.C. Aharanwa also have a leg up on the returners thanks to their experience. Morand is a two-year starter at corner whose big-hitting skills and cover ability will be critical in his move deeper into the defensive backfield. Heller has been outstanding in limited action after sitting behind All-Ivy free safety Tim Bax. He had nine tackles and a sack in eight contests a year ago. Quinn was just as effective with 14 tackles in nine games, including a career-best 10 against Columbia. Both Hohanadel and Aharanwa made their marks on special teams in 2008, with both earning their first varsity letters. Each will have big opportunities in the fall to step into the fray.

Special teams will be a bit of a mixed bag, as junior place-kicker Brad Greenway and Ivy record-breaking return man Bryan Walters highlight the returners, while the Big Red will be looking for a new punter, long-snapper and holder after graduation took away all three.

Greenway is an accurate and strong-legged kicker who led the Big Red in scoring as a sophomore. He nailed 9-of-13 field goals from inside of 40 yards and converted 18-of-19 extra-point kicks, while his five touchbacks on kickoffs ranked among the league's best. He had three games with multiple field goals made, including two in the last-second win at Lehigh.

Walters, an All-Ivy receiver and dangerous returner, will be back for his final season. He enters the 2009 season already holding school records for career kick return (2,013) and punt return (798) yardage. His kick return yardage is already a conference record, while his punt return mark ranks fourth. He also holds numerous school marks for returns and return average.

At Cornell: A tough runner with top-notch field vision, he has the ability to run inside the tackles and the speed to get around the edges. He also can catch the ball out of the backfield and is an excellent blocker who will compete for time as a junior. An outstanding athlete, Ambrosi earned his first varsity letter in 2008 primarily thanks to his play on special teams. He made one tackle and saw action in six contests while playing on kickoff and punt coverage teams. Ambrosi starred on the junior varsity team as a freshman as the team's primary running back. He is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. At Phillips Andover: Ambrosi was a first-team all-league selection during a prep year at Phillips Andover Academy after earning team MVP honors and setting a school record for touchdowns in a season (19). He was a first-team all-league and all-academic pick in 2005 at Newton North HS according to the Boston Globe. A two-way player who starred at both running back and defensive back, Ambrosi was named to the Boston.com all-star team after rushing for 337 yards and three touchdowns and making six tackles on defense in a win over Braintree HS as a senior at Newton North. He ended that season with more than 1,600 yards rushing, averaging nearly 10 yards per carry and scoring more than 20 touchdowns. Personal: Anthony Ambrosi is the son of Phillip and Roberta Ambrosi and has an older and younger brother.

At Cornell: An impressive athlete with quick feet and good balance, Barbour is a playmaker and game changer. He will again be looked at as the primary ball-carrier in the offensive gameplan. Barbour enters the season just 110 yards away from reaching the 1,000-yard mark. Barbour led the team in all major rushing categories in 2008, including attempts (115), yards (413) and touchdowns (five). Barbour's best performance came in the opener against Bucknell, where he ran for 114 yards on 23 carries, including a season-long 32 yard scamper. Barbour was named to the Ivy League Honor Roll for his performance in Cornell's upset victory over Yale when he accounted for 102 total yards and scored a rushing touchdown. He also continued to be a threat as a receiver out of the backfield, catching nine balls for 77 yards on the season. Barbour ran for a team-best 477 yards on 124 carries and six touchdowns during the 2007 season. He also showed his versatility by catching 18 balls for 143 yards and throwing a 6-yard touchdown pass against Yale. Barbour had his best game against Brown, rushing for 159 yards on 32 carries and three touchdowns en route to earning Ivy League Offensive Player of the Week honors. He also totaled 88 yards and a score at Princeton and 69 yards and a touchdown vs. Georgetown. Barbour saw action in all 10 games with seven starts. After dominating on the junior varsity level as a freshman, Barbour saw action in eight varsity contests, primarily on special teams, making five tackles, including three solo stops. He is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. At J.O. Johnson: A three-sport athlete at James Oliver Johnson HS, Barbour was a Wendy's High School Heisman nominee as a senior running back. The team's most valuable offensive player earned all-city and all-region honors in 2005. He served as the team's kicker. A regional qualifier and sectional runner-up in both the shot put and discus in track and field, he also played varsity baseball. Barbour was named the Channel 19-TV Athlete of the Month in February of 2006. Personal: Randy Jerod Barbour Jr. is the son of Marsha Barbour.

At Cornell: Blessed with a combination of strength and speed, Bernhard has developed into a dominant run and pass blocker. One of the toughest and quickest linemen in the Ivy League, he is a preseason candidate for all-conference honors at left tackle. Bernhard has opened 20 consecutive games and will be looked at as the anchor of the offensive line in 2009. An honorable mention All-Ivy selection in 2008, he was part of a line that ranked fourth in the Ivy League in fewest sacks against (19). The Big Red did not allow a sack in the first three contests of his junior year. Bernhard opened all 10 games as a sophomore at right tackle. He was part of a line that blocked for 21 rushing scores and allowed only 22 sacks during the season. He spent his entire freshman season on the team's two-deep at right guard.

Bernhard saw action on special teams in the final eight games of 2006 as a freshman. He is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. At Encinal: A three-time first-team all-league pick on the offensive and defensive line at Encinal HS, Bernhard led his team to its first league playoff berth in 15 years in 2005. The two-year captain earned all-area honors at offensive guard and defensive tackle as a senior. The three-year starter was named to the Contra Costa Times' "Cream of the Crop" team as one of the top 20 players in the area. He also competed for two seasons on the track team, throwing the discus and shot put. Personal: Quentin Willet Bernhard is the son of Quentin and Suzanne Bernhard and has two older sisters.

At Cornell: One of the top deep threats at receiver in the Ivy League, Blackman returns for a fifth year and will join Bryan Walters as one of the top tandems in the Ancient Eight. He possesses tremendous physical gifts, with outstanding size, speed and athletic ability, and is also a fiery competitor. Blackman caught 20 passes for 291 yards and a touchdown in 2008, and his 14.6 yards per catch average placed him second on the team. Blackman's best performance coming against Lehigh, when he hauled in four passes for 65 yards, including a season-long 43-yard reception. Blackman also recorded two special teams tackles. In 2007, Blackman registered 21 catches for 194 yards and a touchdown, averaging 9.2 yards per catch. He saw action in all 10 contests with eight starts, catching at least three passes in four different games and hauling in at least one pass in all 10 games. Blackman had four catches for 51 yards in a win over Colgate and made three catches for 25 yards and his first career touchdown in the overtime win over Brown. Blackman missed the 2006 season with a variety of injuries, but flashed the potential to be an impact wide receiver with his performances on the scout team as a freshman in 2005. He saw action in six contests as a reserve and on special teams that season. Blackman is enrolled in the College of Human Ecology. At Albany: Blackman had 19 catches for 378 yards and two touchdowns as a senior wide receiver at Albany HS to rank among the top 20 receivers in the section. A Section II All-Star, Blackman was first-team all-area while serving as team co-captain. He had five games with at least 50 yards receiving and hauled in a two-point conversion. Blackman also lettered as captain of the track team. Personal: Horatio Walton Blackman is the son of Albert and Jennifer Blackman and has an older brother and sister. At Cornell: One of the team's top athletes and most electrifying players in the open field, Liuzza will be one of the team's go-to players on offense. A sure-handed quarterback turned wide receiver, he is also capable of lining up as a running back or returning kicks or punts. His versatility will again make him one of the most dangerous weapons in the Ancient Eight. Liuzza once again proved to a jack of all trades for the Big Red in 2008, ranking fourth on the team in total offense while filling a variety of roles. The multi-purpose threat had three games where he had at least one rush, one reception and one pass attempt. Against Brown, Liuzza rushed the ball a season-high eight times, caught a season-high four passes and completed two passes. He ranked third on the team with 159 rushing yards, caught 11 passes for 92 yards, and completed 4-of-6 passes for 67 yards through the air. As a sophomore in 2007, he opened the season as a wide receiver, catching 23 passes for 196 yards and ranking among the team leaders in both categories before moving to quarterback when Nathan Ford was injured in the game against Dartmouth. He responded by posting the third-highest total offense mark in school history, piling up 423 yards and accounting for three touchdowns against the Big Green in just three quarters. He tossed for 292 yards and ran for another 131 yards in the loss. For the season, Liuzza was 52-of-81 passing for 538 yards and a touchdown, while he ran for 347 yards and five touchdowns on a 4.3 yards per carry average. He started his first game behind center against Columbia, running for 85 yards and two scores and completing 17-of-26 passes for 163 yards. In the season-opening win over Bucknell, Liuzza caught a team-best seven passes for 84 yards with a long catch of 28 yards. He posted 104 all-purpose yards, including 72 rushing yards on seven carries and a touchdown, in the win over Georgetown. Included was an electric 42-yard run where he broke several tackles. As a quarterback in three seasons, Liuzza has completed 68-of-110 passes (.618) for 744 yards and a touchdown with four interceptions, while running 142 times for 641 yards and seven scores. Liuzza was the Dick Schaap Award winner, which recognizes the Big Red freshman who contributed most to the varsity team. Liuzza set a freshman record for passing yards in a season (139) and a game (114 vs. Penn), earning Ivy League Rookie of the Week twice. The freshman was also fourth on the team in rushing, recording 135 yards on 25 carries and scoring two touchdowns. He broke off an 81-yard touchdown run in the win over Dartmouth, the longest run from scrimmage by a Big Red quarterback and the ninth-longest run in school history. Liuzza came off the bench to lead the Big Red against Penn, going 7-of-14 passing for 114 yards and also scoring a touchdown, while tallying 22 rushing yards. He is enrolled in the College of Engineering. At Slidell: An all-state academic team member as a senior at Slidell HS, Liuzza passed for 3,874 yards and 33 touchdowns in two years as a starter. He was an honorable mention all-state pick as a senior captain and was a Times Picayune all-district selection in each of his final two seasons. Liuzza tossed for 2,488 yards and 20 touchdowns while completing 57 percent of his passes as a junior in leading his squad to the state semifinals. As a senior, Liuzza passed for 1,386 yards and 13 touchdowns and led his team to the state regionals in a season shortened to nine games due to Hurricane Katrina. He was named the most valuable offensive player in the Parish in 2005 after starting the year on the EA Sports Elite 11 Quarterbacks To Watch list. Liuzza was also a standout on the baseball diamond, claiming all-metro and all-district honors as a freshman and sophomore. Personal: Stephen Dean Liuzza is the son of Artie and Denise Liuzza and has two older brothers and an older sister.

At Cornell: One of the most productive offensive players in Ivy League history, Walters has the speed, hands and body control to continue as one of the nation's top receivers and special teams players. He is fearless as a punt returner and is electric in the open field with the ball. Walters enters his senior season with 4,079 all-purpose yards in his career, a mark that ranks third on the school's all-time list behind only Cornell Hall of Famers Chad Levitt (5,117 yards) and Ed Marinaro (4,947 yards). An honorable mention All-Ivy selection in 2008, Walters broke the conference record for kickoff return yardage and became the first player in Ivy history to surpass 2,000 yards. Walters enters his senior season ranked ninth in Ivy League history in all-purpose yardage. He ended his junior season with 43 catches for 643 yards and two touchdowns with a team-best 15.0 yards per catch average. He led the Ivy League and ranked 17th in the country in all-purpose yardage with 153.0 yards per game. Walters had three 100-yard receiving games, including a four-catch, 116-yard effort vs. Dartmouth that included a 96-yard touchdown reception, the second-longest in Cornell history. He also had eight catches for 138 yards and a touchdown vs. Princeton and six receptions for 127 yards vs. Columbia. Walters established a new school record for punt return yardage in a season

(345) as a sophomore in 2007 and established the career record as well by the end of the season. He led the Ivy League and ranked 15th nationally in all-purpose yardage (170.2 ypg.), while pacing the conference and standing 22nd nationally in punt returns (11.1 yards per return). Hed also had 48 catches for 592 yards and four scores. Both his receiving yards per game and catches per game ranked among the top 60 nationally. He had consecutive 100-yard games, catching 10 passes for 115 yards against Princeton, then posting 103 yards on eight catches the following week at Dartmouth. Walters tallied 276 all-purpose yards against Yale and 272 vs. Princeton, two of four games with at least 200 yards. He earned Ivy League Special Teams Player of the Week after the Princeton game. A two-time Ivy League weekly honoree in 2006, Walters earned the team's Jeff Stenstrom Award as the player who contributes the most to the performance of the special teams. Walters ranked among the top returners in the country. He was 14th nationally in kickoff returns (24.5 yards per return) and 27th in punt returns (10.1 yards per return). Walters' 105.9 all-purpose yards per game was good for 58th nationally and fourth in the Ivy League. His 274 yards in punt returns broke a 58-year-old school season record, and his 88-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter against Penn proved to be the game-winner. Walters also caught three passes for 33 yards against nationally ranked Harvard. He is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. At Juanita: A three-year all-league pick, Walters excelled at receiver, safety and defensive back at Juanita HS. A team captain as a senior, he set school records for all-purpose yards, total offense in a season and completions and interceptions in a game. Walters was the team's most valuable player on offense as a junior and was the school's player of the year as a senior. A National Football Foundation Scholar-Athlete, he was nominated to play in the all-state football game. Walters was named most valuable receiver at the Washington State football camp in the summer of 2005 and later earned first-team all-area honors at safety by the Eastside Journal. As a senior, Walters was 74-for-153 passing for 1,190 yards and 12 touchdowns, and rushed for 596 yards and eight touchdowns. He was also a three-time all-league pick in baseball and a two-year captain and an all-league pick as a senior in basketball. Personal: Bryan Robert Walters is the son of Rob and Carol Walters and has an older sister.

GAME 1

CORNELL 21, BUCKNELL 20

Sept. 20, 2008

Christy Mathewson Memorial Stadium

Lewisburg, Pa.

Senior Graham Rihn blocked an extra-point kick in the fourth quarter to hold off unbeaten Bucknell as the Big Red opened the 2008 season with a 21-20 victory over the Bison at Christy Mathewson Memorial Stadium. Seniors Nathan Ford and Jesse Baker connected for a pair of touchdowns.

Ford ended his afternoon 21-of-26 passing for 207 yards and two touchdowns, with five receptions for 77 yards coming from Baker. Bryan Walters had a team-high seven catches for 63 yards for the Big Red. Junior Randy Barbour had his second career 100-yard game to lead the Big Red offense, rushing 23 times for 114 yards and a score. Senior Tim Bax led the defense with 12 tackles, including one for a loss, as Cornell limited Bucknell's option attack to 46 rushing yards on 31 carries.

The Big Red offense was balanced throughout, garnering 187 rushing yards and putting up 207 in the air for its total of 394 yards of offense. Rihn, who played with a club on his hand after injuring it in the preseason, added four tackles, including 2.5 for a loss and a sack, to go along with his huge blocked kick.

Bucknell receiver Shaun Pasternak and linebacker Sam Nana-Sinkam were all over the field for the Bison, with Pasternak hauling in a game-high 11 catches for 117 yards and two touchdowns and Nana-Sinkam making a career-best 18 tackles to go along with a fourth quarter interception. Quarterback Marcello Trigg completed 19-of-27 passes for 219 yards and two scores.

CORNELL 17, YALE 14

Sept. 27, 2008

Schoellkopf Field

Ithaca, N.Y.

A Homecoming crowd of 13,142 packed into a rain-soaked Schoellkopf Field and watched a brilliant defensive display by the Cornell football team as it defeated preseason Ivy League favorite Yale, 17-14.

The Cornell defense held Yale All-American running back Mike McLeod to just 57 yards on the ground, sacked the Bulldog quarterbacks six times for a combined loss of 49 yards, forced four fumbles (recovering three) and came up with an interception. The Cornell defense allowed only 209 yards of total offense and held Yale to just one offensive touchdown. The duo of Yale quarterbacks Ryan Fodor and Book Hart combined to go 18-of-37 passing for 209 yards after entering the contest ranking 1-2 nationally in passing efficiency.

Senior Anthony Sabo led the defense with nine tackles and two sacks, while classmate Graham Rihn recovered a fumble and blocked a Yale field goal attempt. Senior Brian Ostrowsky was also all over the field with eight tackles, including one for a loss, the same as junior Chris Costello. Sophomore Andy Wade, making his first career start at cornerback, had eight tackles and a pass breakup, while classmate Emani Fenton had six stops and two breakups.

On offense, the Big Red was led by Randy Barbour, who rushed the ball 23 times for 67 yards and a touchdown, while Luke Siwula carried the ball 13 times for 34 yards. Quarterback Nate Ford went 7-for-22 for 74 yards and was victimized by early drops, but still scored one rushing touchdown, the 10th of his career.

CORNELL 25, LEHIGH 24

Oct. 4, 2008

Goodman Stadium

Bethlehem, Pa.

"I'll see you in the end zone." With four seconds left on the clock and Cornell essentially facing a fourth-and-goal from the 20, senior Jesse Baker went into the huddle and announced to his teammates where to find him after the game's final play.

Four seconds later, Baker delivered on his promise, and the entire team joined him in the corner of the end zone as the Big Red football team remained unbeaten with a 25-24 victory over Lehigh at Goodman Stadium. Senior Nathan Ford found Baker in the end zone for the second time in the contest to send home a boisterous, but disappointed, crowd of 10,460 partisan Lehigh grads on campus for Alumni Day. The touchdown also capped a school-record 472-yard passing day by the Big Red.

Ford and Baker each had career days in the victory, with Ford posting the third-best passing yardage total in school history with a 39-of-63 passing effort that resulted in 438 yards and two scores. He also ran for a short touchdown. Baker hauled in 10 passes for 141 yards and two scores. Sophomore Brad Greenway drilled two field goals to round out the scoring. The offensive line also didn't surrender a sack on 63 pass attempts. The line did not allow a sack for the third consecutive game.

The Cornell defense was again stout against the run, allowing Lehigh just 65 yards in holding its third straight opponent under 100 yards on the ground. Junior linebacker Chris Costello had a game-high 11 tackles, including two of the eight total tackles for a loss.

HARVARD 38, CORNELL 17

Oct. 11, 2008

Harvard Stadium

Cambridge, Mass.

The defending Ivy League champion Harvard Crimson showed they were still a team to be reckoned with despite picking up an early conference loss, using a quick-strike attack on offense and good field position in the first half to roll to a 38-17 victory over Cornell at Harvard Stadium.

Cornell was able to move the ball against the Crimson defense, picking up 28 first downs and controlling the ball for more than 33 minutes, but Harvard had three scoring plays of over 20 yards. The Cornell run defense again did a nice job, allowing just 102 yards on 25 carries, but Harvard went to the air effectively. Senior quarterback Chris Pizzotti was 16-of-23 passing for 281 yards and three touchdowns without an interception in the victory, while classmate Matt Luft hauled in four passes for 139 yards to lead the receiving corps. With a pair of top receivers out due to injury, Harvard unveiled a new weapon in freshman Adam Chrissis. The rookie took his first career reception 67 yards just 1:34 into the contest and added a 22-yard scoring run in the second quarter on a reverse.

The Big Red's Jesse Baker became the 14th receiver in school history to surpass 1,000 yards with his six-catch, 50-yard effort. He ended the game with 1,008 career yards. Classmate Zac Canty added 10 catches for 102 yards and an 11-yard touchdown reception, while quarter-back Nathan Ford ended the afternoon 32-of-53 for 279 yards. Defensively, the Big Red got 11 tackles from senior safety Tim Bax, while junior linebacker Chris Costello notched nine tackles, including 1.5 tackles for loss.

GAME 5

COLGATE 38, CORNELL 22

Oct. 18, 2008

Schoellkopf Field

Ithaca, N.Y.

Colgate head coach Dick Biddle had plenty of help picking up his 100th career victory, as his offense piled up 60 0yards of offense in defeating Cornell 38-22 at Schoellkopf Field.

Nate Eachus moved over from defense to offense in the first quarter after the nation's leading rusher, Jordan Scott, went out with an injury and dominated on the ground. Eachus carried the ball 37 times for 241 yards and three touchdowns after recording three tackles and a sack in the first quarter. Scott left the game after carrying nine times for 41 yards, moving from eighth to sixth on the Football Championship Subdivision's all-time rushing list.

Colgate quarterback Greg Sullivan completed 8-of-17 passes for 255 yards and a touchdown, a 78-yard strike to Pat Simonds. Simonds hauled in five catches for 196 yards and his score.

The Big Red, which began the day fifth nationally in rushing defense, piled up 414 yards and 20 first downs on offense itself, with Randy Barbour carrying 12 times for 56 yards and a touchdown to lead the attack. Nathan Ford completed 25-of-41 passes for 268 yards and a score, a 14-yard toss to senior Shane Kilcoyne. Kilcoyne added a 73-yard kickoff return that set up the Big Red's lone first half touchdown, a 3-yard pass to Zach Vredenburgh by senior tailback Luke Siwula.

Colgate held the ball for more than 36 minutes and piled up 26 first downs, including 18 on the ground. It gained 345 yards rushing against a defense that had surrendered just 253 yards total in the first four games.

GAME 6

BROWN 27, CORNELL 7

Oct. 25, 2008

Brown Stadium

Providence, R.I.

Brown's connection of Michael Dougherty and Bobby Sewall proved deadly, handing the Cornell football team its third consecutive loss in a 27-7 Bears victory at Brown Stadium. Sewall caught 11 passes for 181 yards and two touchdowns, while Dougherty threw for 285 yards in remaining unbeaten in Ivy League play at 3-0.

With the wind playing a big factor in field position, Brown was able to shake off a sluggish start and got an outstanding performance from its defense, forcing just one turnover, but limiting the Big Red to 279 yards of total offense overall.

Dougherty ended the day 20-of-37 passing for 285 yards and two scores while being intercepted once. Derreck Knight ran 19 times for 80 yards to pace the ground game. Buddy Farnham also had a big game, posting 143 all-purpose yards and a rushing touchdown.

Senior Nathan Ford completed 29-of-48 passes for 216 yards and a score, with eight passes for 94 yards going to Jesse Baker. Nine different receivers caught a pass with Baker, Shane Kilcoyne, Zac Canty and Stephen Liuzza each collecting at least four catches. Bryan Walters had 56 yards of punt return yardage and 115 all-purpose yards on the day.

Defensively, Anthony Sabo had a game-high eight tackles and Emani Fenton had seven. Tim Bax had six tackles and three pass breakups and Gus Krimm had an interception and two pass breakups in the loss.

GAME 7

PRINCETON 31, CORNELL 26

Nov. 1, 2008

Schoellkopf Field

Ithaca, N.Y.

The Big Red nearly completed its second miracle win of the season, but the Big Red ran out of time in an exciting 31-26 loss to Princeton at Schoellkopf Field. The game featured 945 yards of offense and two touchdowns in the final 1:40 of the game, with nearly a third coming as time expired.

Ford was outstanding throughout the day, completing 33-of-55 passes for 431 yards and three touchdowns. He was intercepted once, ending one of the Big Red's two failed conversions in the red zone. His favorite targets were junior Bryan Walters with eight grabs for 138 yards and a score, and Baker, who hauled in nine passes for 89 yards. Horatio Blackman and Nick Zerante added touchdown catches.

Defensively, seniors Tim Bax (nine tackles) and Graham Rihn (eight tackles, sack) led the unit, while Emani Fenton and Brian Ostrowsky each had seven tackles and a pass breakup in the loss. The Big Red piled up a season-high 555 yards of offense in 90 plays, while Princeton registered 390 yards in just 54 plays. The 36-play differential didn't materialize into a domination in time of possession, as Cornell's advantage was just 31:07-28:53 thanks to an outstanding ground game effort from the Tigers and Jordan Culbreath, the Ivy League's leading rusher. Culbreath had 169 yards and a touchdown on the ground, while quarterback Brian Anderson was efficient, completing 13-of-17 passes for 160 yards and two scores, both going to Will Thanheiser.

GAME 8

CORNELL 37, DARTMOUTH 14

Nov. 8, 2008

Schoellkopf Field

Ithaca, N.Y.

The Big Red football team snapped a four-game losing streak with a dominant 37-14 victory over Dartmouth at Schoellkopf Field. Cornell won all three facets of the contest in evening its record at 4-4, while Dartmouth remained winless at 0-8.

Senior quarterback Nathan Ford threw for over 300 yards for the second straight game and the third time this season, including a 96-yard touchdown to Bryan Walters, the second-longest pass play in Cornell history. Senior Luke Siwula, who earlier in the week became a four-time ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District selection, ran for 46 yards and two touchdowns, while Randy Barbour also reached the end zone while rushing for a team-best 70 yards.

The Big Red special teams added a pair of field goal blocks, including one returned 69 yards for a touchdown by sophomore Andy Wade. Defensively, the Big Red intercepted freshman quarterback Conner Kempe three times after entering the contest with just two INTs in the first seven contests. Wade ended the day with a career-best nine tackles and three pass breakups, while freshman K.C. Aharanwa had eight tackles, including a tackle for loss.

Cornell outgained the Big Green 144-58 on the ground and 454-314 overall, holding a 32:08-27:52 edge in time of possession. The Big Red converted 6-of-12 third-down opportunities and limited Dartmouth to 5-of-15 on third-down, allowing the defense to get off the field.

Over A Century of Tradition

Few collegiate football programs have the storied history of Cornell University. With 120 seasons of football in the books, the Big Red has collected five national titles, won 600 games and has had legendary players and coaches perform on historic Schoellkopf Field. Names such as Glenn "Pop" Warner and Heisman Trophy finalist and NCAA record-breaker Ed Marinaro have suited up for Cornell, while seven College Football Hall of Famers (including Warner, Gil Dobie and Carl Snavely) and multiple-time Super Bowl winner George Seifert have set the strategy as head coaches. Now, with Cornell alum Jim Knowles '87 leading the program, there's little doubt that history will continue to be made.

Cornell's first football team, 1887.

Glenn (Pop) Warner, 1894, was a football pioneer.

Cornell Football Timeline

The first football game, an intramural contest featuring 40 players per side, occurs on campus.

1874

Cornell president Andrew D. White refuses to let Cornellians travel for a football game against Michigan in Cleveland because "I refuse to let 40 of our boys travel 400 miles merely to agitate a bag of wind."

1887

Cornell relents, and the first intercollegiate game under modern rules is played against Union College on No. 12, 1887. Union wins the game 24-10 in the contest played where Day and Stimson halls stand today.

1888

Cornell picks up its first win in program history, topping Palmyra 26-0 in the season opener on Oct. 20 en route to a 4-2 record.

1892

Glenn (Pop) Warner '94 saw his first football game at Cornell, thinking it was "just a schoolboy scramble with a few bloody noses," gave it a try, and went on to become the best known of the sport's pioneering coaches. He caused more rule changes than all other coaches combined.

1897

Warner begins the first of his two coaching stints at Cornell, going 5-3-1 with wins over Syracuse and Penn State. He ended his Cornell career with a 36-13-3 record.

1901

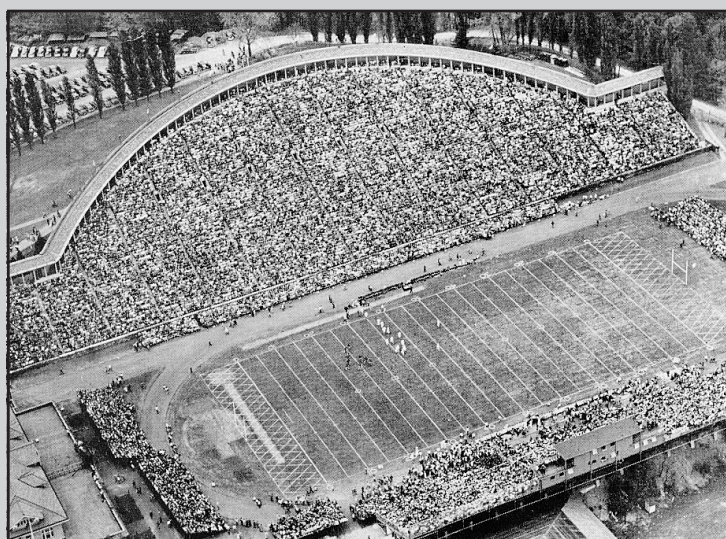

Cornell wins a record 11 games, going 11-1 under first-year coach Ray Starbuck. Cornell outscored foes 324-38, dropping an 8-6 decision to Princeton in the eighth game of the year. It was the first points the Big Red had allowed all year.

1915

Cornell picks a great year to open play at Schoellkopf Field. Charley Barrett '16 scores a first-quarter TD to lead Cornell

The Playing Fields

Schoellkopf Field has been an indelible mark of Cornell football since it opened in 1915 and this year will be the 92nd season at the home field. A gift from Willard Straight '01 and the family of Henry (Heinie) Schoellkopf '02 made the construction possible for the current stadium. The Big Red's first year on the field was one of its best, going 9-0 and winning the national championship. In 1915, General Electric Company completed work on a flood searchlight system for the field, and in 1924 a construction project was completed to bring capacity from 9,000 to 21,500 by adding the famed Crescent. In 1947 that was increased to its current capacity of 25,597 and a press box was added. In 1971 a gift was made to put artificial turf on the field, and it has since been resurfaced three times, the latest in 1999. The 2008 season saw installation of FieldTurf synthetic grass to replace the artificial turf. A new press box was built in 1986. Schoellkopf Memorial Hall, which houses the Big Red football offices, locker rooms and a tradition room, finished a renovation in 2006. Schoellkopf Field is the fourth-oldest Division I-AA stadium, opening in 1915. Only Penn's Franklin Field (1895), Harvard Stadium (1903) and the Yale Bowl (1914) are older. Its capacity of 25,597 ranks as the eighth-largest stadium in Division I-AA. Tennessee State's Coliseum seats 67,500 to lead all stadiums. The record crowd, when there were bleachers in the end zones and beneath the Crescent and west stands, was 35,300 for Michigan, Nov. 10, 1951. The playing area before World War I was Percy Field, alongside Fall Creek, the present site of Ithaca HS.

In 1951, the Big Red defeated Michigan 20-7 in front of the largest crowd in Schoellkopf history (35,300).

to a 10-0 victory over Harvard in a game of unbeaten. The Big Red handed the Crimson its first loss in four years and was declared national champion, the first of five national titles for Cornell.

The Big Red plays its first of six games in seven years at the Polo Grounds against Dartmouth and Columbia, going 3-3.

1920

Cornell's all-time winningest coach Gil Dobie leads the Big Red to a 6-2 mark. Dobie's next three squads would win national championships.

1921

The Big Red goes 8-0, claims the mythical national title and begins its school record 26-game win streak. Cornell outscored its foes 392-21.

1922

Cornell wins its second-straight crown, going 8-0 and outscoring opponents 339-27.

1923

National title No. 4 and the third in a row, the Big Red goes 8-0 and blisters foes by a 320-23 margin.

1938

Cornell begins its second-longest win streak (18) with a win over Penn State. The streak ends with the Fifth Down game two years later.

1939

The 1939 team goes 8-0 and claims the program's fifth national crown and is the Lambert Trophy winner, with Cornell defeating Syracuse, Princeton, Penn State, Big Ten champion Ohio State, Columbia, Colgate, Dartmouth and Penn. Cornell overcame a 14-0 deficit in the first quarter to beat the powerful Buckeyes 23-14 in Columbus. The rumor of an invite to the Rose Bowl was quickly quelled by the Big Red administration, which did not want to further strain the players' academic situations.

1940

The Fifth-Down Game. No. 1 Cornell improved to 6-0 with a 7-3 victory over Dartmouth in Hanover, scoring on the last play of the game. After reviewing game film on Monday, Coach Carl Snavely and acting athletic director Robert J. Kane wire Dartmouth officials to tell them Cornell scored on a fifth down. The Big Green accepts the forfeit, winning the contest 3-0. Cornell also becomes the only Ivy League school to reach No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, hitting the top spot for three weeks.

1943

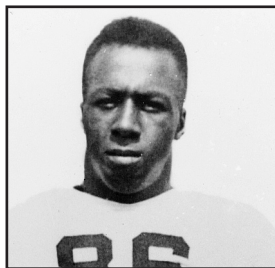

In the heart of World War II, travel restrictions limit options for a venue to play a contest against Dartmouth. They were unable to travel to each other as no rail line ran between Ithaca and Hanover. Instead, the two teams met in Boston and played at Fenway Park in the shadow of the "Green Monster." The Big Green won 20-0.

1948

Bob Dean '49 scores from 1-foot out and kicks the PAT with 2:40 left, giving the Big Red a 27-26 come-from-behind victory over Dartmouth in front of 30,000 fans at Schoellkopf Field. The Big Red takes the mythical Ivy League championship with a perfect record behind the feats of Hillary Chollet '50 and Pete Dorset '50.

1951

Cornell defeats defending Big Ten Conference and Rose Bowl champion Michigan, 20-7, in front of the largest crowd in Schoellkopf history (35,300).

Jerome "Brud" Holland '39

The college football Hall of Famer is known for much more than being the first black football player at Cornell. A two-time first-team All-American at end, Holland scored 10 career touchdowns, and later watched as his son, Joe Holland '78, became one of the school's all-time leading rushers. But it was his greatness as a statesman that earned him international fame.

Do You Know Bo?

You should ... a sensational three-sport star at Cornell (football, track and field and basketball), Irvin "Bo" Roberson '58 still holds the Cornell record for longest kickoff return (100 yards). The late Dick Schaap '55, a legendary Cornellian himself, said Roberson was the greatest natural athlete ever in the Ivy League.

The Trustees' Cup

Since 1995, the winner of the Cornell-Penn football game has been awarded the Trustees' Cup. Alumni from Penn and Cornell gathered at the New York Penn Club on Sept. 6, 1995 for the dedication of the Trustees' Cup, which thereafter has been presented to the winner of the annual football game. The idea evolved from a series of discussions between officials and alumni of both universities, focusing on what would be the best way to honor one of college football's most celebrated rivalries. The decision was made to establish an award to be presented at an annual luncheon, with the winning team taking the prize home and displaying it for a year.

1963

Pete Gogolak kicks a then-NCAA record 50-yard field goal against Lehigh. He also sets a major college record with 44 consecutive PAT kicks.

1969

Sophomore Ed Marinaro bursts onto the collegiate scene with a 162-yard effort against Colgate in the season opener. He ran for 100 yards in seven of the team's nine games, posting a school record 1,409 yards on the ground and 14 touchdowns. Included is a then-school record 281 yard performance against Harvard.

1970

Not to be outdone, Marinaro breaks his own school record with 1,425 yards and shares the Asa S. Bushnell Cup for Ivy Player of the Year with Dartmouth's Jim Chasey.

1971

Marinaro caps off his fine career with a then-NCAA record 1,881 yards and 24 touchdowns en route to earning first-team All-America honors. He claims all of the major national player of the year awards except the coveted Heisman Trophy, which he finishes second to Auburn's Pat Sullivan in one of the award's closest votes. The Big Red shares its first-ever Ivy crown on Marinaro's shoulders, matching Dartmouth's 6-1 record in Ancient Eight action.

1981

Derrick Harmon becomes the first Cornell player to earn Ivy League Sophomore of the Year (now Rookie of the Year).

1982

Cornell moves to the Division I-AA classification.

1986

The Big Red made an unlikely run for the league title, finishing the year with just one loss in Ivy play a year after going 3-7 overall. Cornell drops a 31-21 decision to Penn in the season finale as the Quakers claimed the crown.

1988

Cornell brought the Ivy League trophy back to the East Hill in 1988 when the team earned six victories against its Ancient foes. Five individuals earned first-team All-Ivy honors, including Cornell Hall of Famers Scott Malaga (RB) and Mitch Lee (LB). The team outscored its opponents by nearly 100 points while averaging 345.0 yards per game.

1989

Cornell makes a Thanksgiving Day appearance on ESPN, playing a 10 a.m. contest against Penn. The Big Red wins 20-6 and is 3-0 all-time on ESPN.

1990

Cornell posts a 6-1 Ivy mark and a share of the Ancient Eight title under the direction of first-year head coach and former gridiron great Jim Hoffer '79. The Big Red leads the league in rushing (242.9 ypg.) and total offense (375.0 ypg.) while outscoring its opponents 180-95. Three of the team's offensive linemen — Jay Bloedorn, Greg Finnegan and Chris Field — earned first-team All-Ivy honors, leading the Big Red's 14 overall selections. Scott Ollaro runs for a school-record 288 yards against Yale.

1991

The Big Red travelled to Division I Stanford to celebrate the Centennial Anniversary of its sister school from the West. The Cardinal win 56-6.

1995

Cornell wins five straight Ivy games midway through the season and finishes tied for second in the Ancient Eight standings.

The Fifth Down Game

"In view of the conclusions reached by the officials that the Cornell touchdown was scored on a fifth down, Cornell relinquishes claim to the victory and extends congratulations to Dartmouth." -Statement from Cornell Athletic Director James Lynah to Dartmouth College-

"I accept the final conclusion of the officials and without reservation concede the victory to Dartmouth ... with hearty congratulations to you and the gallant Dartmouth team." -Statement from Cornell head coach Carl Snavely to Dartmouth College-

"Thank you for your wire. Dartmouth accepts the victory and your congratulations and salutes the Cornell team, the honored and honorable opponent of her longest unbroken football rivalry." -Statement from Dartmouth Athletic Director William McCarter to Cornell University-

Arguably the greatest example of sportsmanship in the history of athletic competition, the Nov. 16, 1940 Cornell-Dartmouth game has become known as the "Fifth Down Game."

The Big Red, ranked No. 1 in the nation and riding an 18-game win streak, seemingly escaped Hanover, N.H., with a 7-3 victory against the underdog Big Green, scoring on a 6-yard touchdown pass by Walter Scholl on the game's final play. After reviewing game film on Monday, Coach Carl Snavely and acting athletic director Robert J. Kane wired Dartmouth officials to tell them Cornell scored on an inadvertent fifth down, as referee Red Friesell had lost track of the downs.

After Snavely called a team meeting later that day, he let the players make the decision on how to handle the situation. Led by captain Walt Matuszak, Cornell voted to forfeit the contest. Though there were no rules compelling the outcome to be changed, in an unprecedented act of sportsmanship, the Big Red relinquished claims to the win. The Big Green accepted the forfeit and the 3-0 victory. It remains the only time a collegiate sporting contest has been decided off the field after the completion of a game.

Some of Cornell's Greatest Games ...

Union 24, Cornell 10 (Nov. 12, 1887 at Ithaca, N.Y.)

Cornell's first official varsity game. The Big Red jumped out to a 10-2 lead before a more experienced Union squad used its greater understanding of the rules of the day to score 22 straight points.

Cornell 10, Harvard 0 (Oct. 23, 1915 at Cambridge, Mass.)

Cornell's first national championship season was highlighted by a stunning 10-0 victory over Harvard, snapping a 10-game Crimson win streak to begin the all-time series.

Cornell 23, Ohio State 14 (Oct. 28, 1939 at Columbus, Ohio)

The powerful Big Ten champs jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the second quarter with 86- and 72-yard touchdown drives, but Cornell rallied, scoring the game's final 23 points to claim the upset. Walter 'Pop' Scholl '41 ran for a 79-yard touchdown, passed for a 26-yard score to knot the game, then watched as Hal McCullough gave the Big Red the lead for good. All-America tackle Nick Drahos '41 kicked a field goal to give Cornell the win.

Dartmouth 3, Cornell 0 (Nov. 16, 1940 at Hanover, N.H.)

The famous "Fifth Down Game." See above.

Cornell 20, Michigan 7 (Nov. 10, 1951 at Ithaca, N.Y.)

In front of a Schoellkopf Field record crowd of 35,300, the Big Red blitzed defending Rose Bowl champion and four-time defending Big Ten champion Michigan 20-7. The Big Red limited the Wolverines to 39 yards rushing, just 16 in the second half, to stifle the visitors. Cornell rallied from a 7-0 halftime deficit for the crowd-pleasing victory.

Cornell 19, Penn 6 (Nov. 19, 1988 at Ithaca, N.Y.)

The Big Red claimed a share of the Ivy League title by topping previously unbeaten Penn 20-6 in the season finale. Cornell scored 16 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to erase a 6-3 deficit. Included was a goal-line stand with less than four minutes remaining in the third quarter keyed by a fourth-down stop by Brent Felitto at the 1-yard line on fourth-and-2. The Cornell offense then took the ball and marched 99 yards for the go-ahead score, a 15-yard run by Steve Lutz.

Cornell 33, Princeton 27 (Sept. 21, 1996 at Ithaca, N.Y.)

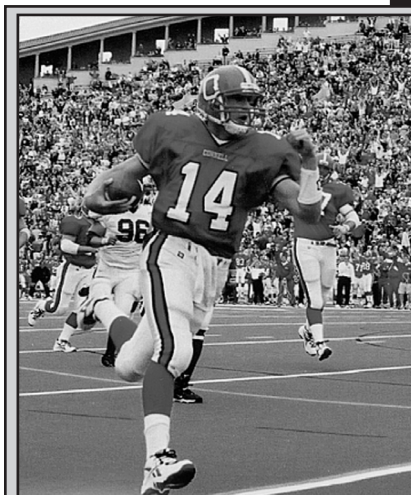

The Big Red wins the first overtime game in school history as Cornell and Princeton battled to two extra sessions to determine a winner. Cornell scored 13 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to tie the game on a 45-yard John Rodin field goal. After both teams scored in the first overtime, Brian Opre ran in from 1-yard out to collect the win.

Cornell 29, Harvard 28 (Oct. 7, 2000 at Cambridge, Mass.)

Joe Splendorio '01 blocked a 27-yard game-winning field goal try in the final seconds as Cornell stormed back from a 28-0 halftime deficit for a 29-28 win. It was the second straight year Splendorio blocked a field goal in the waning seconds to protect a one-point Big Red win over the Crimson.

Cornell 32, Columbia 26 (Nov. 13, 2004 at New York, N.Y.)

First-year head coach Jim Knowles '87 preached all year to his players that they must believe in themselves. He saw the result of that belief in one of the most improbable comebacks in Cornell football history. The Big Red rallied from a 26-7 deficit with 9:33 to play for a 32-26 victory over Columbia. D.J. Busch '05 threw a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns, including the game-winner to Brian Romney '06 with 37 seconds to play. During the rally, Sean Nassoiy '05 intercepted two fourth-quarter passes.

Ricky Rahne runs across the goal line in a 24-23 victory over Yale in 2000.

The Big Red plays its first overtime game, defeating Princeton 33-27 at home in the season and home opener. Chad Levitt '97 falls 58 yards shy of the school's career rushing record after being hurt in his final collegiate game, ending his four-year run with 4,657 yards. He is named second-team All-America and the Ivy League Player of the Year.

2000

Big Red fans are provided with plenty of excitement, as Cornell's all-time leading passer, Ricky Rahne '02, led the team through some amazing fourth-quarter comebacks. The squad battled to win three games by one point each to challenge for the Ivy title, finishing the season in second place.

2001

The season opener at Bucknell is cancelled after the attacks of Sept. 11. When the season begins, Ricky Rahne '02 builds on his passing totals and graduates as the school's career leader in passing (7,710 yards) and touchdown passes (54).

2002

Keith Ferguson '03 graduates as the school's all-time leader in receiving yards (2,569) and becomes the first Cornell player to record 200 career catches (202).

2004

Despite being picked to finish last in the preseason poll by the league's coaches after an 0-7 campaign the previous year, first-year head coach Jim Knowles '87 breathes new life into the program. Cornell goes 4-3 in Ivy play, becoming the second Ancient Eight team to go from a winless league record to a winning mark in the span of one year.

2005

The Big Red went 4-1 at Schoellkopf Field and finished the season with a 6-4 overall mark. Three-time first-team All-Ivy pick Kevin Boothe was chosen in the sixth round of the NFL Draft by the Oakland Raiders and earned first-team All-America honors.

2006

Cornell posts five consecutive home victories to finish the season 5-5 overall, including triumphs over No. 23 Albany and No. 15 Princeton. The win over the Tigers handed the Ivy champion their only defeat of the year, and it also proved to be the highest ranked team Cornell had ever defeated since moving to Division I-AA.

Cornell Football Legends

Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner • Gridiron's Greatest Strategist

Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner was a colorful individual during his playing days at Cornell and then during an illustrious, uninterrupted 45-year coaching career.

Warner was born in Springville, N.Y., on April 5, 1871, only two days after the first college football game between Princeton and Rutgers. Not only was he one of Cornell's outstanding football players, but he also excelled in track and field, and was its heavyweight boxing champion in 1893.

Upon graduation from Cornell Law School in 1895, Warner began his coaching career at Georgia. He returned to his alma mater for the 1897-98 seasons, then went to Carlisle from 1899-1903. "Pop" came back to Ithaca for a second stint coaching the Big Red from 1904-06, before heading back to Carlisle, where he coached legendary Jim Thorpe.

After leaving Carlisle in 1914, Warner later coached at Pittsburgh (1915-23), Stanford (1924-32) and Temple (1933-38). At the age of 67, he returned to his permanent residence of Palo Alto, Calif., and served as an advisory coach at San Jose State from 1939-40.

After coaching 44 All-Americans and introducing so many of the football practices that we still use today, Warner returned to his oil and water paints, and to his work bench. His imaginative mind produced the screen pass, the rolling block, the naked reverse, series plays and the unbalanced line. He also introduced the numbering of players, huddle, wearing of headgear, spiral punt and the blocking dummy. Warner was the only coach ever to actually invent a system of offense. "Pop" died on Sept. 7, 1954, at age 83, 25 years after founding the Pop Warner Youth Football League, which is still a mainstay for nearly all young football players.

Thirty-nine years after his death, Warner passed the late Amos Alonzo Stagg and became the second winningest coach in major college football. In 1993, Warner was credited by the NCAA with six more victories, increasing his total to 319, with Stagg having 314. His overall 44-year coaching record was 319-106-29. On July 25, 1997, the U.S. Postal Service issued four stamps commemorating Warner, Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers, George Halas of the Chicago Bears and Paul "Bear" Bryant of the University of Alabama.

Pete Gogolak • Just For Kicks

A football innovator, Pete Gogolak introduced soccer-style kicking to American football. He was the first player to kick soccer-style in the college and professional ranks.

While at Cornell, Gogolak set a major college record by connecting on 44 consecutive kick conversions from 1961 to 1963 and still holds the Cornell record for consecutive conversions and career conversion percentage (.982, 54-of-55). His 50-yard field goal vs. Lehigh in 1963 was the nation's longest in a major college game. He booted nine career field goals, including eight of 40 yards or more.

After Cornell, Gogolak signed with the Buffalo Bills after being drafted in the 12th round of the AFL Draft. He played two seasons with the Bills, including kicking for the 1965 AFL champion team. He was named kicker of the AFL all-pro team and in 1984, was named to the Silver Anniversary all-time team. After playing out his option with Buffalo, Gogolak signed with the New York Giants and played 10 seasons, becoming the franchise's all-time leading scorer and kicking the longest field goal in team history (54 yards). As of 2006, he is still the leading scorer in Giants history.

Gogolak's family came to the United States from Hungary in 1956. His brother, Charlie, is the all-time top place-kicker in the history of Princeton football. The family's story was featured in Life Magazine in 1963.

Gary Wood • The No. 1 Option

In a game where quarterbacks beat teams with both their arms and legs, Gary Wood was a pioneer. Wood remains one of the great all-around players in Ivy League history more than 40 years after he last dressed for the Big Red.

A three-time AP All-Ivy first-team and two-time Coaches All-Ivy first-team pick, Wood was named to the AP's All-East squad as a senior. He set Ivy League records for career total offense (3,457 yards) and rushing (2,156 yards) as well as single-season total offense (1,612 yards in 1962) and rushing (813 yards in '62). He also held the record for total offense in a game (387 yards vs. Penn., 1962). An explosive player, Wood scored on plays of 40 yards or more six times in his three seasons, including an 89-yard kickoff return and an 80-yard run in 1963. He was named one of four "Most Spectacular Players" of the 1962 season and was named national "Back of the Week" by the AP and Sports Illustrated for his 1962 performance in a win over Princeton. He remains the only player in Ivy League history to rush for 2,000 yards and pass for 1,000 more. That doesn't even take into account his 1,326 yards on 50 returns (26.5 yard average).

After graduating from Cornell, Wood joined the New York Giants. Standing just 5-11 and weighing 185 pounds, many said he was too small to play quarterback in the NFL. Wood proved his naysayers wrong, playing five years with the Giants and another with the New Orleans Saints. He later played with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League.

Ed Marinaro • An Era to Remember

In his three seasons as Cornell's tailback (1969-70-71), Ed Marinaro set rushing and scoring records wholesale and won every major honor with the exception of the Heisman Trophy, for which he placed a close second to quarterback Pat Sullivan of Auburn University.

In the 24th game of his 27-game career, against Columbia at Ithaca, he broke Steve Owens' all-time NCAA career rushing record of 3,867 yards, set in 1969, by gaining 272 yards for a total of 4,132—the first player to go over the 4,000 mark in three seasons. He finished up with 4,715.

During his three years at Cornell, he set an NCAA season record of 1,881 yards and a season per-game average of 209.0. His career average of 174.6 is also an NCAA record.

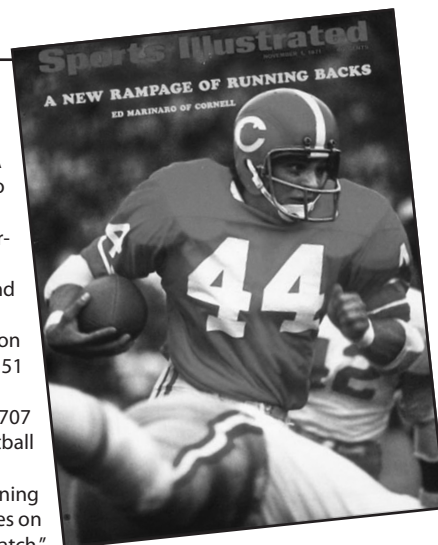

Overall he established eight NCAA career records and tied another, six NCAA single-season records and three other NCAA records.

Marinaro won the national triple-crown in 1971—rushing, all-purpose running and scoring, each based on game-average. All-purpose running includes pass receiving and kick returns. He averaged 214.7 yards with 51 on pass receptions.

He still holds 11 Ivy League records, including career and season rushing yardage (3,391 and 1,375), carries (707 and 275), touchdowns (36 and 16) and points scored (224 and 100). He was inducted into the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame in 1991.

Marinaro played professionally for the Minnesota Vikings, New York Jets and Seattle Seahawks before beginning an acting career that saw him, most notably, play Officer Joe Coffey on "Hill Street Blues" and Sonny St. Jacques on "Laverne & Shirley." He has also been seen on "Dynasty," "The Twilight Zone," "Touched By An Angel," "Third Watch," "Eight Simple Rules For Dating My Teenage Daughter," and "Monk" among others.

Derrick Harmon

From the Ivies to the Super Bowl

Tailback Derrick Harmon excelled on both the playing field and in the classroom. He was a two-time Academic All-American and made the Associated Press Division I-AA All-America second team as a senior.

In his final season, Derrick won the Asa Bushnell Award as the Ivy League's Player of the Year, after being named the league's Sophomore of the Year in 1981. He became only the fourth person in the history of the league to go over 1,000 yards in one season when he ran for 1,056 markers in seven Ivy games in 1983.

A two-time All-Ivy first-team selection, Harmon rushed for 3,074 yards on 546 carries in three years and ranks third on Cornell's all-time rushing list and in career rushes. He set the school's single season record for yards per carry (5.9 in 1983) and the career record for yards per carry (5.6, 1981-83).

During his three years, he had 14 games of over 100 yards rushing. He also ranks third in career all-purpose running with 3,800 yards.

An engineering physics major from New York City, Harmon was the recipient of an NCAA postgraduate scholarship. He was drafted in the ninth round by the San Francisco 49ers and earned a Super Bowl ring in 1985 against the Miami Dolphins.

Seth Payne • Development Leads to NFL Success

From scrawny freshman to three-time All-Ivy selection, defensive end Seth Payne '96 remains the school's career leader in sacks with 19 and has gone on to make a name for himself with the NFL's Houston Texans.

As a member of the Big Red, Payne was named first-team All-Ivy as a senior after leading the team with a career-best nine sacks and ranking among the top five on the team in tackles with 84. During his career he earned the defense's Big Play Award, Most Improved Player, the Sid Roth Award twice (designated for the team's most valuable down lineman), and the Red Helmet Award for the outstanding varsity player on defense. The four-year letter winner capped off his career by being selected by the Jacksonville Jaguars in the fourth round of the 1997 NFL Draft.

After five productive seasons with the Jaguars, including 51 starts, Payne was selected by the Texans in the league's expansion draft and made an immediate impact. He started all 16 games in 2002, leading the Texans defensive line with 147 tackles to rank third on the team. His only sack of the season was a safety late in the fourth quarter that led Houston to its first win in franchise history, a triumph over the storied Dallas Cowboys.

Payne was voted by teammates as the recipient of NFL Player's Association 2002 Unsung Hero Award, and was selected to USA Today's 11th annual "All-Joe Team" as one of the most underrated players in the NFL who makes a difference with their work ethic and demeanor. He opened earned the team's Ed Block Courage Award in 2004 and is coming off a career-high four sack, 98-tackle season in 2005.

The 6-4, 303-pounder has made a home for himself in Houston, where he is well known for his work with many charitable organizations, including Teach For America and both the Children's and Shriner's hospitals. He retired after the 2006-07 season.

Chad Levitt

Running With The Best

During his four-year career in a Big Red uniform, tailback Chad Levitt rushed for 4,657 yards, coming just 59 yards shy of breaking the all-time Cornell and Ivy League rushing records. A freak elbow injury in the ninth game of the '96 season kept him from shattering the mark. Levitt led the Ivy League in rushing, scoring and all-purpose running per game for three straight years.

During the 1996 season, he rushed for 1,435 yards on 267 carries for the second-best season ever at Cornell. The three-time All-Ivy first-team back was named ECAC Division I-AA Player of the Year, the Asa S. Bushnell Cup Player of the Year in the Ivy League, and The Football News named him Ivy League Player of the Year for the third consecutive time. He set a school and league career record for most rushing attempts (922), established a school-best mark for 100-yard rushing games in a career (24) and broke the school's all-purpose running standard with 5,036 yards. He ranks second on the all-time scoring list with 292 points.

The 6-2, 240-pounder was a two-time ECAC first-team selection and was named to the Associated Press Division I-AA All-America second team following his senior year. He was invited to play in the East-West Shrine and the Blue-Gray all-star games.

A graduate of Cheltenham High

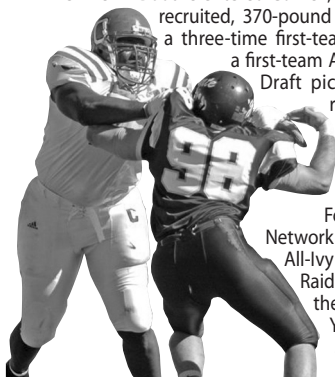

School and a Melrose Park, Pa., native, Levitt was a fourth-round draft pick by the Oakland Raiders in the 1997 NFL Draft and started two games as a rookie. He also appeared on rosters for the St. Louis Rams and the Chicago Bears.

Kevin Boothe

Walking The O-Line

When Kevin Boothe entered Cornell, he came as a lightly recruited, 370-pound lineman. He left as a three-time first-team All-Ivy selection, a first-team All-American, an NFL Draft pick, and is generally regarded as one of the top offensive linemen ever to suit up for an Ancient Eight school.

Boothe was named to the All-America first team by the American Football Coaches Association and to the second team by the The Sports Network and the Associated Press as a senior. Boothe was a unanimous first-team All-Ivy pick in each of his final two years. He was then picked by the Oakland Raiders in the sixth round of the 2006 NFL Draft and ended up starting 14 of the team's 16 games as a rookie. Boothe is now in his third year with the New York Giants. He earned a Super Bowl ring as a reserve offensive lineman and special teams player who helped the squad defeat the New England Patriots in Super Bowl XLII.

Tom McHale • Sack Artist

Tom McHale parlayed his love of football into a longtime NFL career. After excelling as one of the finest defensive linemen in Big Red history, he was called upon to play several positions in the pros, even settling in as a starting offensive guard during his seven-year NFL career.

The 6-4, 260-pound defensive end was named to the Kodak Division I-AA All-America team by the American Football Coaches Association in 1986 to join his awards as an Associated Press Division I-AA first-team and All-Ivy first-team selection. He was the runner-up for Ivy League Player of the Year after setting Cornell records for season (12) and career quarterback sacks (14). He was chosen to play for the East team in the East-West Shrine Game.

McHale transferred to Cornell from Maryland, where he was a starting defensive tackle and played on two bowl teams. In 1987 he signed as a free agent with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and moved to the offensive line, eventually playing seven seasons in the NFL at guard for the Bucs, the Philadelphia Eagles and the Miami Dolphins. After retirement, McHale served as president of the Tampa chapter of the NFL Players Association's Retired Players division. He also put his degree in hotel administration to good use, opening several restaurants in the Tampa area. McHale passed away on May 25, 2008.

Ricky Rahne • Passing Fancy

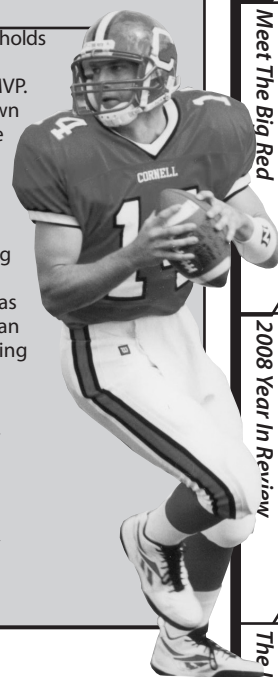

One of the great quarterbacks in the history of the Ivy League, Ricky Rahne holds nearly every career passing record for the Big Red.

Rahne finished his career as a three-year starter and three-time team MVP. He remains the all-time leader in completions (678), yards (7,710), touchdown passes (54) and 200-yard games (25). He took over the top spot in total offense with 7,994 yards (7,710 passing, 284 rushing) and finished his career ranked as the Ivy League's third all-time career passing leader.

Rahne also garnered awards, being named honorable mention All-America by Don Hansen's Football Gazette in 2000 as well as honorable mention All-Ivy as a sophomore and junior. He also had a penchant for unbelievable comebacks, helping the 2000 team to the nickname "The Comeback Kids."

After working as an intern in the National Football League and at Cintas Corporation, Rahne joined the coaching ranks, spending the 2004 season as an assistant at Holy Cross and 2005 at his alma mater. He is currently the running backs coach at Kansas State

Pete Larson • All-Purpose Runner

An excellent halfback from 1964-66, Pete Larson led the team in rushing as a senior and pass receiving as a sophomore. In three years, he rushed for 1,751 yards on 354 carries, caught 34 passes for 430 yards and scored 22 touchdowns. In 1966, Larson ranked among the top 10 nationally in rushing with 979 yards, leading the Ivy League. He also set league records for both rushing and scoring in a season en route to first-team All-Ivy honors. In addition, Larson was named AP honorable mention All-America, to the All-East second team and the ECAC all-star first-team. As a junior he was an AP All-East and All-Ivy honorable mention selection.

After college, Larson played for two seasons for the Washington Redskins, scoring three touchdowns.

Academic All-America Hall of Fame • Joe Holland '78

Joe Holland '78, one of the great players in Cornell football history, was inducted into the CoSIDA Academic All-America Hall of Fame in 1991. The two-time academic All-American ran for nearly 1,400 yards as a senior. At that time, only legendary Cornellian Ed Marinaro had rushed for more. The College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) had Holland give the keynote address at the 2003 convention in Cleveland. The son of fellow Cornell Athletic Hall of Famer Jerome "Brud" Holland, Joe Holland was a third team All-American in 1978.
